RECTIFIED JUDGMENT ON THE AMENDED MOTION FOR THE ISSUANCE OF A PLAN FILING AND MEETINGS ORDER (#642)

OVERVIEW

[1] The CCAA Parties seek the issuance of a Plan Filing and Meetings Order (the “Meetings Order”) which would, inter alia, authorize the CCAA Parties to (1) file the Joint Plan of Compromise and Arrangement dated April 16, 2018 (the “Plan”) and (2) convene meetings of their creditors for the purpose of considering and voting on the Plan.

[2] The creditors of the CCAA Parties are, for the most part, in agreement that the proposed Meetings Order should be issued.

[3] The Representative Employees and the Union ask the Court to amend the proposed Meetings Order to give their counsel a deemed proxy to vote in counsel’s discretion the claims of the salaried employees and retirees and the unionized employees and retirees respectively, unless the employee or retiree opts out by advising the Monitor that he or she will attend the meeting in person or appoints a different person to act as proxy.

CONTEXT

[4] The CCAA Parties¹ sought and received Court protection under the *Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act*² on January 27, 2015 (for the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties) and May 20, 2015 (for the Wabush CCAA Parties). That protection has been extended by the Court on a number of occasions. FTI Consulting Canada Inc. was appointed as Monitor.

[5] While under Court protection, the CCAA Parties have liquidated all or virtually all of their assets with the result that the Monitor holds substantial funds. The major remaining assets are (1) the potential preference claim by Cliffs Québec Iron Mining ULC (“CQIM”) against various non-filed affiliates (“NFA”) arising from the reorganization of CQIM in December 2014 that included a $142 million cash payment by CQIM and the transfer of the Australian subsidiaries of CQIM, and (2) potential preference claims by other CCAA Parties against NFA arising from certain payments in an aggregate amount of approximately US$30.6 million.

* The Court rectifies its judgment dated April 20, 2018 (1) to correct in paragraph 16 that the Attorney-General of Canada on behalf of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions did not take any position on the amendment proposed by the Representative Employees and the Union and (2) to make incidental changes to paragraphs 5, 6 and 8 of the Plan Filing and Meetings Order annexed to the judgment to make the Order consistent with the judgment.

[6] In March 2018, the Monitor negotiated a settlement of these potential claims. Essentially, the NFA agreed to forego the benefit of any distributions or payments they may otherwise be entitled to receive as secured and unsecured creditors of the CCAA Parties³ and to make an additional cash contribution of $5 million, in exchange for releases. The Monitor estimates that the overall increase in the aggregate amounts that would be distributed to the third party unsecured creditors of the CCAA Parties as a result of the proposed settlement and the Plan would likely be in the range of approximately $62 million to approximately $100 million.⁴

[7] The Monitor consulted with Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway Company Inc. (“QNS&L”), the largest single third party unsecured creditor of CQIM, which supports the settlement. The Monitor did not consult with any other creditor. The employees and retirees are not creditors of CQIM.

[8] Based on this settlement, the CCAA Parties prepared the Plan. It is a joint plan on behalf of all of the CCAA Parties.⁵ Essentially, the Plan distributes the liquidation proceeds and the settlement proceeds allocated to each CCAA Party amongst its third party unsecured creditors on a pro rata basis. The Plan proposes the limited substantive consolidation of certain CCAA Parties for the purposes of voting and distributions under the Plan, such that there are five classes of creditors:

- a) Unsecured creditors of CQIM and Quinto Mining Corporation;
- b) Unsecured creditors of Bloom Lake General Partner Limited (“BLGP”) and The Bloom Lake Iron Ore Mine Limited Partnership (“BLLP”);
- c) Unsecured creditors of Wabush Iron Co. Limited, Wabush Resources Inc. and Wabush Mines;
- d) Unsecured creditors of Arnaud Railway Company;
- e) Unsecured creditors of Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited.

[9] The Plan also provides for broad releases in favour of the NFA, the Monitor and the directors, officer, employees, advisors, legal counsel and agents of the CCAA Parties, the Monitor and the NFA. The Plan does not release the NFA and their directors from class actions instituted in Newfoundland and Labrador on behalf of the employees and retirees.

[10] The CCAA Parties seek the issuance of the Meetings Order, which provides, inter alia, for:

- a) authorizing the filing of the Plan;

³ The NFA filed secured and unsecured claims in excess of $1 billion against the CCAA Parties.

⁵ 8568391 Canada Limited and Bloom Lake Railway Company Limited (“BLRC”), have no pre-filing creditors and will be dissolved.

- b) authorizing the CCAA Parties to convene meetings of the third party unsecured creditors;
- c) approval of (i) the notice and documentation to be sent to the third party unsecured creditors in respect of the meetings; and (ii) and the procedure for the conduct of the meetings;
- d) the scheduling of a hearing for the sanctioning of the Plan on June 29, 2018;
- e) approval of the exclusion of 8568391 and BLRC, which have no pre-filing creditors, and limited substantive consolidation of (i) CQIM and Quinto, (ii) BLGP and BLLP, and (iii) Wabush Iron, Wabush Resources and Wabush Mines for the purposes of voting and distributions under the Plan;
- f) approval of the classification of the third party unsecured creditors of each CCAA Party; and
- g) other ancillary orders and declarations.

[11] The Monitor has recommended that the Motion should be granted and that the proposed Meetings Order should be issued.⁶ The third party creditors of the CCAA Parties are, for the most part, in agreement.

[12] The issue relates to the voting rights of the 2,400 employees and retirees of the Wabush CCAA parties.⁷ On June 22, 2015, Michael Keeper, Terence Watt, Damien Lebel and Neil Johnson (the “Representative Employees”) were appointed as representatives for the non-unionized employees and retirees of the Wabush CCAA Parties. The order provided from an opt-out right, but the Court is advised that no non-unionized employee or retiree opted out of representation by the Representative Employees. The Union has acted on behalf of the unionized employees and retirees since the beginning of the CCAA proceedings pursuant to its right and duty to represent its members. There is no express order of the Court appointing it as representative, but the Court did authorize the Union to file proofs of claim on behalf of its members.

[13] The employees and retirees are significant creditors of the Wabush CCAA Parties. The employees and retirees have filed 1,089 claims totalling $103.8 million against Wabush Iron, Wabush Resources and Wabush Mines, 449 claims totalling $27.9 million against Arnaud Railway and 393 claims totalling $50.5 million against Wabush Lake Railway, with respect to other post-employment benefits (“OPEBs”), including life insurance and health care.⁸ In addition, four claims in the aggregate amount of approximately $3.3 million relate to employee grievances, were filed jointly and severally against Arnaud Railway and Wabush Iron, Wabush Resources and Wabush Mines. 2,376 employees and retirees are members of the Wabush pension plans. The Plan Administrator has filed claims of approximately $56 million in the aggregate against Wabush Iron, Wabush Resources and Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway and Wabush Lake Railway with respect to the amounts owing to the Wabush pension plans, including the deficit in the plans. The issue of whether those claims are unsecured or benefit from a deemed trust is currently before the Québec Court of Appeal, with a hearing starting June 11, 2018.

POSITION OF THE PARTIES

[14] As described above, the Representative Employees and the Union ask the Court to amend the proposed Meetings Order to give their counsel a deemed proxy to vote in counsel's discretion the claims of the salaried employees and retirees and the unionized employees and retirees respectively, unless the employee or retiree opts out by advising the Monitor that he or she will attend the meeting in person or appoints a different person to act as proxy.

[15] The Union also argues that it has the right to vote on behalf of its members and retirees pursuant to its "monopole de représentation".

[16] The Pension Plan Administrator [...] and the Superintendent of Pensions of Newfoundland [...] support the amendment.

[17] The CCAA Parties, the Monitor and QNS&L, the largest third party unsecured creditor, oppose the amendment.

ISSUES IN DISPUTE

[18] The issues that the Court must decide can be summarized as follows:

1. Should it issue the Meetings Order?
2. Does the Union have the right to vote on behalf of its members and retirees?
3. Should the Court give counsel for the Representative Employees and counsel for the Union a discretionary deemed proxy to vote the claims of the employees and retirees, subject only to an opt-out right?

ANALYSIS

1. Issuance of the Meetings Order

[19] The standard for issuing a meeting order is low. The Court can refuse to summon a meeting of the creditors if it determines that the plan is contrary to the creditors' interests, lacks economic reality, is unworkable and unrealistic in the circumstances, or is doomed to failure due to a lack of creditor support.⁹

⁹ Unique Broadband Systems (Re), 2013 ONSC 676, par. 52 and 95; Kerr Interior Systems Ltd. (Re), 2011 ABQB 214, par. 29; ScoZinc Ltd. (Re), 2009 NSSC 163, par. 7-9; Re Fracmaster Ltd., 1999 ABQB 379, par. 24; Canadian Red Cross Society/la Société canadienne de la Croix-Rouge, Re, 1998 CanLII 14907 (ON SC), par. 37.

[20] The Monitor has reviewed the Plan and the Meetings Order and it recommends that the proposed Meetings Order be issued, based on the following considerations:¹⁰

- The filing of a joint plan significantly simplifies matters and creates no apparent material prejudice to any creditor;
- The limited substantive consolidation is reasonable and appropriate;
- The Plan provides significant incremental recoveries for the creditors and is in the best interests of all stakeholders;
- The granting of the Meetings Order would provide the forum for the creditors to consider and vote on the Plan;
- There is nothing about the Plan that would render it incapable of being approved by the creditors or sanctioned by the Court;
- The classification of creditors is reasonable and appropriate;
- The Meetings Order provides for reasonable and sufficient notice;
- The deadline for filing proxies is reasonable in the circumstances;
- The provisions of the Meetings Order governing the conduct of the meetings are reasonable and appropriate in the circumstances.

[21] Save for the issue of the voting rights of the employees and retirees, the creditors all agree that the Meetings Order should be issued.

[22] The Court concludes that there should be meetings of creditors to consider and vote on the Plan. It will grant the Meetings Order.

2. Union's right to vote

[23] The Union pleads that it has the right to vote on behalf of the unionized employees and retirees pursuant to its monopoly on representation of its members.

[24] The Union points to Section 69 of the Québec Labour Code:¹¹

69. A certified association may exercise all the recourses which the collective agreement grants to each employee whom it represents without being required to prove that the interested party has assigned his claim.

[25] The Supreme Court refers to this as the principle of exclusive representation or the monopoly of representation:

41 One of the fundamental principles we find in Quebec labour law, and one which it has in common with federal law and the law of the other provinces, is the monopoly that the union is granted over representation. This principle applies in respect of a defined group of employees or bargaining unit, in relation to a specific employer or company, at the end of a procedure of certification by an administrative tribunal or agency. Once certification is granted, it imposes significant obligations on the employer, imposing on it a duty to recognize the certified union and bargain with it in good faith with the aim of concluding a collective agreement (s. 53 L.C.). Once the collective agreement is concluded, it is binding on both the employees and the employer (ss. 67 and 68 L.C.). For the purposes of administering the collective agreement, the certified association exercises all the recourses of the employees whom it represents without being required to prove that the interested party has assigned his or her claim (s. 69 L.C.).¹²

[Emphasis added]

[26] The Union also points to the Newfoundland and Labrador Labour Relations Act,¹³ which is very relevant given that more than half of the employees reported for work in Labrador. Section 50 provides:

50. Where a trade union or a council of trade unions is certified, under this Act, as the bargaining agent of a unit,

(a) the bargaining agent so certified immediately replaces another bargaining agent of the unit and has exclusive authority to conduct collective bargaining on behalf of employees in the unit and to bind them by a collective agreement until its certification in respect of employees in the unit is revoked;

[Emphasis added]

[27] Even though the language in the Newfoundland and Labrador statute relates only to the negotiation and conclusion of the collective agreement, the Court will assume that the principle of exclusive representation exists and is just as broad under the laws of Newfoundland and Labrador as it is in Québec.

[28] It is clear that the principle of exclusive representation means that an individual employee or retiree does not have the right to file and to pursue a grievance with respect to a breach of the collective agreement.¹⁴

[29] The Court is not satisfied, however, that the principle of exclusive representation gives the Union the right to vote the employees' and retirees' claims in the CCAA.

[30] First, the principle of exclusive representation relates to claims under the collective agreement. It does not give the Union the right to vote for the employees and retirees in all circumstances. For example, employees retain the right to vote individually on such important issues as the acceptance of a collective agreement or the decision to strike. The vote on a plan under the CCAA is not the exercise of a claim under the collective agreement. In some cases (although not in the present matter), the vote may determine whether the employer continues its operations and whether the employees keep their jobs.

[31] Further, the Union was not able to point to any authority extending the principle of exclusive representation to voting on a proof of claim with the result that the union had the right to vote on behalf of its members without any court authorization. There are a few examples of CCAA proceedings where the court has authorized the union to vote the claims of its members,¹⁵ but no example was given to the Court of any case where the court concluded that the union had the right to vote on behalf of its members without such authorization.

[32] Finally, the Court notes that if the right to vote on behalf of the members belongs to the Union pursuant to the principle of exclusive representation, then the proposed opt-out would be a breach of that monopoly and would be invalid.

[33] These arguments lead the Court to dismiss the Union's argument that it has the right to vote on behalf of the unionized employees and retirees pursuant to the principle of exclusive representation.

3. Discretionary deemed proxy

[34] The Court will analyze the appropriateness of a discretionary deemed proxy by asking several questions.

3.1 Is a deemed proxy appropriate?

[35] First, before giving a deemed proxy to anyone, the Court must be satisfied that there is a valid reason to do so.

[36] The Representative Employees and the Union plead that the deemed proxy is necessary to ensure that all of the employees and retirees exercise their right to vote. In his affidavit, Michael Keeper, one of the Representative Employees, states the following:

24. Individual voting by the 690 Salaried Members, as advocated by the Monitor and CCAA Parties, is completely inappropriate for our large, vulnerable creditor group who are not sophisticated commercial creditors. The Salaried Members are spread across Canada, many in the remote regions. This will make it impossible to reach many of them with the Proposed Plan, all the related documents, and the associated ballot in time to allow them to cast their vote. Many Salaried Members are old and infirmed, living in nursing home facilities, do not have internet access or fax machines, and many cannot understand complex legal documents, such as the Proposed Plan, the court orders, and the Monitor's Reports. For many, they will not understand the nature or consequences of the Proposed Plan and how it affects them, and it is not practical for Representative Counsel nor the Representatives to contact every one of them to provide advice and answer their questions in time to ensure that they are able to make an informed decision as to their rights and how the Proposed Plan impacts them.

[37] Nicolas Lapierre, the Union representative responsible for this matter, makes similar comments in his sworn declaration:

16. En effet, j'ai lu le Plan et l'ensemble des documents qui l'accompagnent, que je trouve compliqués et difficiles à comprendre;

17. En raison de cette complexité, plusieurs Membres ne seront pas en mesure de comprendre ce qu'ils doivent faire avec ces documents ou ce qu'ils signifient, d'autant plus que certains de ces travailleurs sont partiellement ou totalement analphabètes, alors que d'autres sont âgés et malades à un point tel où ils ne sont plus en mesure de s'occuper de leurs affaires par eux-mêmes;

18. Il y a ainsi de réelles possibilités que les Membres ne soient pas en mesure de voter ou de désigner quelqu'un pour le faire en leur nom, ce qui équivaldrait à les priver de leur droit de vote.

[38] The Court considers these concerns to be somewhat overstated. There is nothing exceptional about the Wabush employees and retirees as compared to the employees and retirees of other companies. It should be possible to reach the great majority of them. While some of them may not have access to the internet or a fax machine, the Court doubts that the number is large. While some may not have the capacity to make a decision, there is likely someone who can make a decision on their behalf. The Plan itself is a complicated legal document that uses language which is difficult to understand, but the Monitor's reports are much easier to understand and the parties have the opportunity to include in the package that goes to the creditors a letter explaining matters in even simpler terms. The decision that the employees and retirees have to take is a fairly simple yes or no decision and the consequences of each decision can be explained.

[39] Nevertheless, it remains clear that a number of votes will be lost. Each employee and retiree has the right to vote on the Plan and every vote is important. One of the Court's objectives in this matter is to ensure that each employee and retiree is given the opportunity to vote and the Court's hope is that all will vote. The deemed proxy is a way to achieve that result.

[40] In addition to the cases where a deemed proxy was given to the union,¹⁶ the parties point to only three examples of cases where deemed proxies were given to vote on behalf of non-unionized employees and retirees.¹⁷ The CCAA Parties and the Monitor distinguish those cases on the basis that the deemed proxies were to vote in favour of the plan.

[41] These examples of deemed proxies confirm that the Court has jurisdiction to give deemed proxies in the present matter. That jurisdiction is not affected by whether the vote is in favour of the plan or against it.

¹⁷ See the Nortel, Hollinger and U.S. Steel meeting orders.

[42] The CCAA Parties and the monitor also argue that a deemed proxy gives the proxy holder too much leverage.

[43] The Court does not agree. The deemed proxy simply ensures that the employees and retirees exercise the leverage that they should have, based on their numbers and the value of their claims.

[44] For all of these reasons, the Court concludes that it is appropriate to give a deemed proxy.

3.2 Who should exercise the deemed proxy?

[45] The Representative Employees and the Union argue that their counsel should exercise the deemed proxy.

[46] The Court agrees.

[47] The Representative Employees were appointed by the Court for the purpose of representing the non-unionized employees and retirees. The Union is given that role by statute. They are the appropriate representatives to exercise the deemed proxies.

[48] The Court adopts the following reasoning of Justice Wilton-Siegel in the U.S. Steel CCAA proceedings:

[15] Further, I am satisfied that it is appropriate that Representative Counsel act as the deemed proxy for the administrator for the non-unionized pension plans and for the current and former non-unionized employees having OPEB claims, given the active involvement of Representative Counsel in these proceedings to date on behalf of, and the commonality of interest of, the current and former non-unionized employees. I note as well that a procedure exists for individuals who have opted to represent themselves, and for individuals who have been represented by Representative Counsel but who choose to participate directly at the creditors meetings, to appoint an alternative proxy or to attend and vote in person at the creditors meetings.¹⁸

[49] The CCAA Parties and the Monitor argue that there is no commonality of interest in the present matter in that not all of the employees and retirees have both a pension claim and an OPEB claim. They argue that some employees and retirees may want the pension issues pursued rather than the OPEB claims while others may want the opposite, because of their personal circumstances.

[50] Those considerations may be relevant in assessing whether it is appropriate for the Representative Employees and the Union to pursue the deemed trust for the pension claims. However, that matter is not before the Court today and that issue was not raised when the matter was before the Court.

[51] Moreover, these considerations are of no relevance on the deemed proxy issue: the pension issues are excluded from the Plan and the only issue being raised is whether the settlement with the NFA should have generated more for the unsecured creditors. No employee or retiree has a divergent interest on this issue.

[52] The Court therefore concludes that counsel for the Representative Employees and for the Union are the appropriate persons to hold the deemed proxies.

3.3 Should the deemed proxy be discretionary?

[53] The Representative Employees and the Union say that they have not yet taken a position on whether they will vote for or against the Plan. They have concerns as to whether the settlement with the NFA is the best deal that could be achieved, but they have not had any discussions with the Monitor or with anyone else. They anticipate, as do the CCAA Parties and the Monitor, that there will be further discussions and negotiations right up until the vote. In that context, the Representative Employees and the Union ask that the proxy holder be allowed to vote the claims in his or her discretion. They argue that an employee or retiree who wants to vote for or against the Plan can opt out of the deemed proxy by attending the meeting, by appointing a different proxy, or by indicating his or her vote on the proxy form.

[54] The discretionary deemed proxy is fundamentally undemocratic. The deemed proxy is intended to ensure that all of the employee and retiree claims are voted. But making it discretionary has the effect of taking away the individuals' right to vote or even to know how his or her claim is being voted and giving it to someone else. This is not a good outcome.

[55] The opt-out right suggested by counsel for the Representative Employees and the Union does not solve these problems. If negotiations and discussions continue right up to the vote, as the parties seem to anticipate, the employees and retirees will have to decide whether to opt out on the basis of a Plan that may not be the final version and without knowing the final recommendation of the Representative Employees and the Union or the position the proxy holder will take on their behalf if they do not opt out.

[56] The CCAA Parties and the Monitor argue that there is no precedent for such a discretionary deemed proxy. They argue that the few examples of deemed proxies all provide that the proxy holder will vote in favour of the plan. They found no examples of deemed proxies to vote against the plan or to vote in the discretion of the proxy holder. The Representative Employees and the Union did not submit any examples either.

[57] The Representative Employees and the Union plead that there is no difference between a deemed proxy to vote in favour of the plan and a deemed proxy to vote against it. The Court agrees in principle. In the three examples of deemed proxies to vote in favour of the plan, it appears from the materials that the representatives of the employees participated or were consulted in the preparation of the plan and were prepared to support it. The practical reality is that there are no deemed proxies to vote against a plan because if the employees representatives are consulted before the plan is filed and they are opposed to the plan, the plan will likely be modified before it is filed in order to gain their support.

[58] The problem in the present matter is that there were no negotiations or discussions prior to the filing of the Plan and there have been no discussions in the three weeks since the filing of the Plan. Everyone is waiting for this order before they begin serious discussions.

[59] That is unfortunate. The negotiations anticipated by the parties will have the effect of depriving the employees and retirees of any real participation in the process. There will be a meeting to explain the Plan to them, but subsequent negotiations will mean that the Plan as explained to them is not the final version of the Plan. If negotiations continue up until the meeting, there will be no time to explain the final version of the Plan to the employees and retirees.

[60] In other words, the justification for the discretionary deemed proxy is that the Representative Employees and the Union cannot take a final position on the Plan today and that the Plan may be amended up until the vote. The solution is to give them more time to take a final position and to ensure that the Plan is not amended after they take that final position, not to give them the right to vote the individuals' claims in their discretion.

[61] For these reasons, the Court will not authorize a discretionary deemed proxy. The deemed proxy must be either a deemed proxy to vote for the Plan or a deemed proxy to vote against it. The Court will delay the mailing of the Meeting Materials to allow the parties to have the discussions and negotiations that should have taken place before now so that the Representative Employees and the Union can take a final position for or against the Plan.

CONCLUSIONS

[62] As a result, the Court will order the following.

[63] The date of the meetings will remain June 18, 2018. That is two months from now. There is time for the parties to discuss the current version of the Plan and either satisfy themselves that it is reasonable or negotiate changes to it. The Court will give them one month to do so.

[64] The date for mailing the Meeting Materials to the creditors will be pushed back to May 21, 2018 to allow for this month of negotiations. The Meeting Materials will include the final version of the Plan as well as letters from counsel for the Representative Employees and the Union in which they must take a position for or against the Plan. The deemed proxy will be to vote in accordance with that recommendation. That way, the employees and retirees will have the opportunity to make a real choice, based on the final version of the Plan and in full knowledge of how their claim will be voted if they do not execute a proxy.

[65] It follows that there can be no amendments to the Plan after May 18, 2018 without the authorization of the Court. Moreover, any amendment authorized after that date will likely involve the postponement of the creditors' meetings scheduled for June 18, 2018.

FOR THESE REASONS, THE COURT:

[66] GRANTS the Plan Filing and Meetings Order as amended by the Court and annexed to this judgment;

[67] ORDERS the parties not to amend the Plan after May 18, 2018 without the authorization of the Court;

[68] RESERVES the right of the parties to make further representations to the Court with respect to the documents to be mailed to the creditors on May 21, 2018;

[69] THE WHOLE, WITHOUT COSTS.

Dear Sirs/Mesdames:

Proposed Joint Plan of Compromise and Arrangement of the Participating CCAA Parties

Please find attached a Joint Plan of Compromise and Arrangement (as amended, restated or supplemented from time to time in accordance with the provisions thereof, the “Plan”) under the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act (Canada) (the “CCAA”) as filed by the Participating CCAA Parties (as defined above) with the Quebec Superior Court on April 16, 2018. Capitalized terms used in this letter not otherwise defined are as defined in Schedule “A” to the Plan.

The Plan seeks to implement the principal terms of a proposed settlement (the “Settlement”) between the Participating CCAA Parties and Cleveland-Cliffs Inc. (the “Parent”) and its former and current direct and indirect subsidiaries and affiliates (collectively with the Parent, the “Non-Filed Affiliates”) as negotiated by FTI Consulting Canada Inc., in its capacity as the independent court-appointed Monitor in the CCAA proceedings (the “Monitor”) and to distribute remaining assets of the Participating CCAA Parties to their creditors.

If the Plan is approved by the required majorities of creditors and sanctioned by the Court, the Plan will:

- resolve potential claims (collectively, the “Potential Recovery Claims”) against certain of the Non-Filed Affiliates, without the significant time and expense of litigation and of obtaining payment from defendants in multiple foreign jurisdictions, the whole with an uncertain outcome;
- resolve significant intercompany claims between the CCAA Parties and between the CCAA Parties and certain Non-Filed Affiliates without the significant time and expense that would otherwise be incurred;
- provide significant additional monetary recoveries to third-party creditors which would not be available absent successful litigation in respect of the Potential Recovery Claims; and
- accelerate the payment of interim distributions to third-party creditors.

Pursuant to the Settlement, the Non-Filed Affiliates have agreed to sponsor the Plan by contributing the following to the Participating CCAA Parties' estates for the benefit of Third Party Affected Unsecured Creditors with Proven Claims:

- (a) a cash contribution of CDN$5 million, of which CDN$4 million will be allocated to the CQIM/Quinto Unsecured Creditor Class and CDN$1 million will be allocated amongst unsecured creditors of the other Participating CCAA Parties pro-rata based upon the amount of third party Proven Claims against such other CCAA Parties; and
- (b) all of the secured and unsecured distributions to which certain Non-Filed Affiliates would otherwise be entitled, which will be contributed to the CQIM/Quinto Parties (such Non-Filed Affiliates, being the "Designated Non-Filed Affiliates").

While the value of the distributions to be contributed by the Designated Non-Filed Affiliates cannot be calculated with certainty at this time because of various outstanding issues in the CCAA Proceedings, the Monitor estimates that the total incremental amount available to third-party creditors in the event that the Plan is implemented would be in the range of approximately CDN$62 million to CDN$100 million.

The Plan is a single joint Plan that will be subject to approval by each of the Unsecured Creditor Classes, which are:

- (a) CQIM/Quinto Unsecured Creditor Class: Affected Unsecured Creditors of CQIM or Quinto;
- (b) BL Parties Unsecured Creditor Class: Affected Unsecured Creditors of BLGP or BLLP;
- (c) Wabush Mines Parties Unsecured Creditor Class: Affected Unsecured Creditors of WICL, WRI or Wabush Mines;
- (d) Arnaud Unsecured Creditor Class: Affected Unsecured Creditors of Arnaud; and
- (e) Wabush Railway Unsecured Creditor Class: Affected Unsecured Creditors of Wabush Railway.

Third Party Affected Unsecured Creditors in each as class will be entitled to vote the amount of their Claim proven in accordance with the Claims Procedure Order. To the extent that a Claim or any part of a Claim remains unresolved, the Affected Unsecured Creditor will also be able to vote its Unresolved Claim and such vote shall be tabulated separately from the votes of Affected Unsecured Creditors with Proven Claims.

Distributions on account of Proven Claims of Affected Unsecured Creditors in each Unsecured Creditor Class will be based on the pro-rata share of the net amounts available in each estate from realizations as determined pursuant to the Allocation Methodology approved by the Court by an Order granted July 25, 2017, as supplemented by the amounts being contributed by the Designated Non-Filed Affiliates. The methodology for calculating the distribution entitlement of individual Affected Unsecured Creditors is the same for each Unsecured Creditor Class.

The Plan provides for customary releases for the Participating CCAA Parties and their respective Directors, Officers, Employees, advisors, legal counsel and agents, the Monitor, FTI and their respective current and former affiliates, directors, officers and employees and all of their respective advisors, legal counsel and agents, and the Non-Filed Affiliates and their respective current and former members, shareholders, directors, officers and employees, advisors, legal counsel and agents. The defendants named in class action proceedings filed in the Supreme Court of Newfoundland and Labrador on behalf of former salaried and union employees are not released from the claims asserted in those class action proceedings. Accordingly, those class action proceedings are not impacted by the Plan.

The Plan does not affect the determination of the Pension Priority Proceedings, which matters are the subject of dispute and must be resolved prior to any distributions to Affected Unsecured Creditors of the Wabush CCAA Parties.

The information provided in this letter is intended to give a high-level overview to help you understand the Plan. You should note, however, that the governing document is the Plan. Accompanying this letter are the following important documents:

- The Plan;
- The Meetings Order, granted April 20, 2018;
- A Notice of Creditors' Meetings and Sanction Hearing;
- A form of Proxy and instructions for its completion;
- The Monitor's Report on the Plan;
- A Letter from Salaried Members Representative Counsel; and
- A Letter from USW Counsel.

You should read each of these documents carefully and in their entirety. You may wish to consult financial, tax or other professional advisors regarding the Plan and should not construe the contents of this letter as investment, legal or tax advice.

The Creditors' Meetings will be held on June 18, 2018 in Montreal, Quebec. Details of the Creditors' Meetings and the Sanction Hearing are contained in the Notice of Creditors' Meetings and Sanction Hearing.

Creditors that are corporations, partnerships or trusts wishing to vote on the Plan must submit a properly completed Proxy by no later than 5:00 p.m. (Eastern time) June 14, 2018 (the "Proxy Deadline") appointing a proxy holder to attend and vote at the Creditors' Meeting.

Creditors that are individuals wishing to vote on the Plan may (i) appoint a proxy holder to attend and vote at the Creditor's Meeting by submitting a properly completed Proxy by no later than the Proxy Deadline; or (ii) vote in person at the Creditors' Meeting.

As stated in the Monitor's Report on the Plan, and for the reasons set out therein, the Monitor recommends that creditors vote FOR the Plan.

The Salaried Members Representative Counsel (the lawyers representing the salaried/non-Union Employees and retirees of the Wabush CCAA Parties in these proceedings, the “Salaried Members”) and the USW Counsel (the lawyers representing the Employees and retirees of the Wabush CCAA Parties that are or were members of United Steelworkers locals 6254, 6285 or 9996, including any successor of such Employees and retirees, the “USW Members”) recommend that you vote FOR/AGAINST the Plan. You will find enclosed letters from the Salaried Members Representative Counsel and the USW Counsel explaining their reasons.

If you are a Salaried Member and you AGREE with the recommendation of the Salaried Members Representative Counsel, you do NOT have to fill out, sign or return any Proxy or any other form to the Monitor since the Salaried Members Representative Counsel have been authorized by the CCAA Court to attend at the Creditors’ Meeting and to vote your employee claims on your behalf according to that recommendation (the "Salaried Members Deemed Proxy"). If however, you DISAGREE with the recommendation, you have the right to opt out of the Salaried Members Deemed Proxy by advising the Monitor in writing of your desire to do so and you may vote in person at the Creditors’ Meeting in Montreal or you may appoint a different Proxy holder by using the Proxy form.

If you are a USW Member and you AGREE with the recommendation of the USW Counsel, you do NOT have to fill out, sign or return any Proxy or any other form to the Monitor since the USW Counsel have been authorized by the CCAA Court to attend at the Creditors’ Meeting and to vote your employee claims on your behalf according to that recommendation (the "USW Deemed Proxy"). If however, you DISAGREE with the recommendation, you have the right to opt out of the USW Deemed Proxy by advising the Monitor in writing of your desire to do so and you may vote in person at the Creditors’ Meeting in Montreal or you may appoint a different Proxy holder by using the Proxy form.

If you have any questions regarding the Plan, the vote, or matters with respect to the Creditors’ Meetings or Sanction Hearing, please contact the Monitor by email at bloomlake@fticonsulting.com or by telephone at 1-844-669-6338 or 416-649-8126.

PEPALL J.

REASONS FOR DECISION

Introduction

[1] Canwest Global Communications Corp. (“Canwest Global”) is a leading Canadian media company with interests in (i) newspaper publishing and digital media; and (ii) free-to-air television stations and subscription based specialty television channels. Canwest Global, the entities in its Canadian television business (excluding CW Investments Co. and its subsidiaries) and the National Post Company (which prior to October 30, 2009 owned and published the National Post) (collectively, the “CMI Entities”), obtained protection from their creditors in a

*Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act*¹ ("CCAA") proceeding on October 6, 2009.² Now, the Canwest Global Canadian newspaper entities with the exception of National Post Inc. seek similar protection. Specifically, Canwest Publishing Inc./Publications Canwest Inc. ("CPI"), Canwest Books Inc. ("CBI"), and Canwest (Canada) Inc. ("CCI") apply for an order pursuant to the CCAA. They also seek to have the stay of proceedings and the other benefits of the order extend to Canwest Limited Partnership/Canwest Société en Commandite (the "Limited Partnership"). The Applicants and the Limited Partnership are referred to as the "LP Entities" throughout these reasons. The term "Canwest" will be used to refer to the Canwest enterprise as a whole. It includes the LP Entities and Canwest Global's other subsidiaries which are not applicants in this proceeding.

[2] All appearing on this application supported the relief requested with the exception of the Ad Hoc Committee of 9.25% Senior Subordinated Noteholders. That Committee represents certain unsecured creditors whom I will discuss more fully later.

[3] I granted the order requested with reasons to follow. These are my reasons.

[4] I start with three observations. Firstly, Canwest Global, through its ownership interests in the LP Entities, is the largest publisher of daily English language newspapers in Canada. The LP Entities own and operate 12 daily newspapers across Canada. These newspapers are part of the Canadian heritage and landscape. The oldest, The Gazette, was established in Montreal in 1778. The others are the Vancouver Sun, The Province, the Ottawa Citizen, the Edmonton Journal, the Calgary Herald, The Windsor Star, the Times Colonist, The Star Phoenix, the Leader-Post, the Nanaimo Daily News and the Alberni Valley Times. These newspapers have an estimated average weekly readership that exceeds 4 million. The LP Entities also publish 23 non-daily newspapers and own and operate a number of digital media and online operations. The community served by the LP Entities is huge. In addition, based on August 31, 2009 figures, the LP Entities employ approximately 5,300 employees in Canada with approximately 1,300 of those employees working in Ontario. The granting of the order requested is premised on an anticipated going concern sale of the newspaper business of the LP Entities. This serves not just the interests of the LP Entities and their stakeholders but the Canadian community at large.

[5] Secondly, the order requested may contain some shortcomings; it may not be perfect. That said, insolvency proceedings typically involve what is feasible, not what is flawless.

[6] Lastly, although the builders of this insolvent business are no doubt unhappy with its fate, gratitude is not misplaced by acknowledging their role in its construction.

Background Facts

(i) Financial Difficulties

[7] The LP Entities generate the majority of their revenues through the sale of advertising. In the fiscal year ended August 31, 2009, approximately 72% of the LP Entities' consolidated revenue derived from advertising. The LP Entities have been seriously affected by the economic downturn in Canada and their consolidated advertising revenues declined substantially in the latter half of 2008 and in 2009. In addition, they experienced increases in certain of their operating costs.

[8] On May 29, 2009 the Limited Partnership failed, for the first time, to make certain interest and principal reduction payments and related interest and cross currency swap payments totaling approximately $10 million in respect of its senior secured credit facilities. On the same day, the Limited Partnership announced that, as of May 31, 2009, it would be in breach of certain financial covenants set out in the credit agreement dated as of July 10, 2007 between its predecessor, Canwest Media Works Limited Partnership, The Bank of Nova Scotia as administrative agent, a syndicate of secured lenders ("the LP Secured Lenders"), and the predecessors of CCI, CPI and CBI as guarantors. The Limited Partnership also failed to make principal, interest and fee payments due pursuant to this credit agreement on June 21, June 22, July 21, July 22 and August 21, 2009.

[9] The May 29, 2009, defaults under the senior secured credit facilities triggered defaults in respect of related foreign currency and interest rate swaps. The swap counterparties (the “Hedging Secured Creditors”) demanded payment of $68.9 million. These unpaid amounts rank pari passu with amounts owing under the LP Secured Lenders’ credit facilities.

[10] On or around August 31, 2009, the Limited Partnership and certain of the LP Secured Lenders entered into a forbearance agreement in order to allow the LP Entities and the LP Secured Lenders the opportunity to negotiate a pre-packaged restructuring or reorganization of the affairs of the LP Entities. On November 9, 2009, the forbearance agreement expired and since then, the LP Secured Lenders have been in a position to demand payment of approximately $953.4 million, the amount outstanding as at August 31, 2009. Nonetheless, they continued negotiations with the LP Entities. The culmination of this process is that the LP Entities are now seeking a stay of proceedings under the CCAA in order to provide them with the necessary “breathing space” to restructure and reorganize their businesses and to preserve their enterprise value for the ultimate benefit of their broader stakeholder community.

[11] The Limited Partnership released its annual consolidated financial statements for the twelve months ended August 31, 2009 and 2008 on November 26, 2009. As at August 31, 2009, the Limited Partnership had total consolidated assets with a net book value of approximately $644.9 million. This included consolidated current assets of $182.7 million and consolidated non-current assets of approximately $462.2 million. As at that date, the Limited Partnership had total consolidated liabilities of approximately $1.719 billion (increased from $1.656 billion as at August 31, 2008). These liabilities consisted of consolidated current liabilities of $1.612 billion and consolidated non-current liabilities of $107 million.

[12] The Limited Partnership had been experiencing deteriorating financial results over the past year. For the year ended August 31, 2009, the Limited Partnership’s consolidated revenues decreased by $181.7 million or 15% to $1.021 billion as compared to $1.203 billion for the year ended August 31, 2008. For the year ended August 31, 2009, the Limited Partnership reported a consolidated net loss of $66 million compared to consolidated net earnings of $143.5 million for fiscal 2008.

(ii) Indebtedness under the Credit Facilities

[13] The indebtedness under the credit facilities of the LP Entities consists of the following.

- (a) The LP senior secured credit facilities are the subject matter of the July 10, 2007 credit agreement already mentioned. They are guaranteed by CCI, CPI and CBI. The security held by the LP Secured Lenders has been reviewed by the solicitors for the proposed Monitor, FTI Consulting Canada Inc. and considered to be valid and enforceable.³ As at August 31, 2009, the amounts owing by the LP Entities totaled $953.4 million exclusive of interest.⁴
- (b) The Limited Partnership is a party to the aforementioned foreign currency and interest rate swaps with the Hedging Secured Creditors. Defaults under the LP senior secured credit facilities have triggered defaults in respect of these swap arrangements. Demand for repayment of amounts totaling $68.9 million (exclusive of unpaid interest) has been made. These obligations are secured.
- (c) Pursuant to a senior subordinated credit agreement dated as of July 10, 2007, between the Limited Partnership, The Bank of Nova Scotia as administrative agent for a syndicate of lenders, and others, certain subordinated lenders agreed to provide the Limited Partnership with access to a term credit facility of up to $75 million. CCI, CPI, and CBI are guarantors. This facility is unsecured, guaranteed on an unsecured basis and currently fully drawn. On June 20, 2009, the Limited Partnership failed to make an interest payment resulting in an event of default under the credit agreement. In addition, the defaults under the senior secured credit facilities resulted in a default under this facility. The senior subordinated lenders are in a position to take steps to demand payment.

- (d) Pursuant to a note indenture between the Limited Partnership, The Bank of New York Trust Company of Canada as trustee, and others, the Limited Partnership issued 9.5% per annum senior subordinated unsecured notes due 2015 in the aggregate principal amount of US $400 million. CPI and CBI are guarantors. The notes are unsecured and guaranteed on an unsecured basis. The noteholders are in a position to take steps to demand immediate payment of all amounts outstanding under the notes as a result of events of default.

[14] The LP Entities use a centralized cash management system at the Bank of Nova Scotia which they propose to continue. Obligations owed pursuant to the existing cash management arrangements are secured (the “Cash Management Creditor”).

(iii) LP Entities’ Response to Financial Difficulties

[15] The LP Entities took a number of steps to address their circumstances with a view to improving cash flow and strengthening their balance sheet. Nonetheless, they began to experience significant tightening of credit from critical suppliers and other trade creditors. The LP Entities’ debt totals approximately $1.45 billion and they do not have the liquidity required to make payment in respect of this indebtedness. They are clearly insolvent.

[16] The board of directors of Canwest Global struck a special committee of directors (the “Special Committee”) with a mandate to explore and consider strategic alternatives. The Special Committee has appointed Thomas Strike, the President, Corporate Development & Strategy Implementation, as Recapitalization Officer and has retained Gary Colter of CRS Inc. as Restructuring Advisor for the LP Entities (the “CRA”). The President of CPI, Dennis Skulsky, will report directly to the Special Committee.

[17] Given their problems, throughout the summer and fall of 2009, the LP Entities have participated in difficult and complex negotiations with their lenders and other stakeholders to obtain forbearance and to work towards a consensual restructuring or recapitalization.

[18] An ad hoc committee of the holders of the senior subordinated unsecured notes (the “Ad Hoc Committee”) was formed in July, 2009 and retained Davies Ward Phillips & Vineberg as counsel. Among other things, the Limited Partnership agreed to pay the Committee’s legal fees up to a maximum of $250,000. Representatives of the Limited Partnership and their advisors have had ongoing discussions with representatives of the Ad Hoc Committee and their counsel was granted access to certain confidential information following execution of a confidentiality agreement. The Ad Hoc Committee has also engaged a financial advisor who has been granted access to the LP Entities’ virtual data room which contains confidential information regarding the business and affairs of the LP Entities. There is no evidence of any satisfactory proposal having been made by the noteholders. They have been in a position to demand payment since August, 2009, but they have not done so.

[19] In the meantime and in order to permit the businesses of the LP Entities to continue to operate as going concerns and in an effort to preserve the greatest number of jobs and maximize value for the stakeholders of the LP Entities, the LP Entities have been engaged in negotiations with the LP Senior Lenders, the result of which is this CCAA application.

(iv) The Support Agreement, the Secured Creditors’ Plan and the Solicitation Process

[20] Since August 31, 2009, the LP Entities and the LP administrative agent for the LP Secured Lenders have worked together to negotiate terms for a consensual, prearranged restructuring, recapitalization or reorganization of the business and affairs of the LP Entities as a going concern. This is referred to by the parties as the Support Transaction.

[21] As part of this Support Transaction, the LP Entities are seeking approval of a Support Agreement entered into by them and the administrative agent for the LP Secured Lenders. 48% of the LP Secured Lenders, the Hedging Secured Creditors, and the Cash Management Creditor (the “Secured Creditors”) are party to the Support Agreement.

[22] Three interrelated elements are contemplated by the Support Agreement and the Support Transaction: the credit acquisition, the Secured Creditors’ plan (the “Plan”), and the sale and investor solicitation process which the parties refer to as SISP.

[23] The Support Agreement contains various milestones with which the LP Entities are to comply and, subject to a successful bid arising from the solicitation process (an important caveat in my view), commits them to support a credit acquisition. The credit acquisition involves an acquisition by an entity capitalized by the Secured Creditors and described as AcquireCo. AcquireCo. would acquire substantially all of the assets of the LP Entities (including the shares in National Post Inc.) and assume certain of the liabilities of the LP Entities. It is contemplated that AcquireCo. would offer employment to all or substantially all of the employees of the LP Entities and would assume all of the LP Entities’ existing pension plans and existing post-retirement and post-employment benefit plans subject to a right by AcquireCo., acting commercially reasonably and after consultation with the operational management of the LP Entities, to exclude certain specified liabilities. The credit acquisition would be the subject matter of a Plan to be voted on by the Secured Creditors on or before January 31, 2010. There would only be one class. The Plan would only compromise the LP Entities’ secured claims and would not affect or compromise any other claims against any of the LP Entities (“unaffected claims”). No holders of the unaffected claims would be entitled to vote on or receive any distributions of their claims. The Secured Creditors would exchange their outstanding secured claims against the LP Entities under the LP credit agreement and the swap obligations respectively for their pro rata shares of the debt and equity to be issued by AcquireCo. All of the LP Entities’ obligations under the LP secured claims calculated as of the date of closing less $25 million would be deemed to be satisfied following the closing of the Acquisition Agreement.

LP secured claims in the amount of $25 million would continue to be held by AcquireCo. and constitute an outstanding unsecured claim against the LP Entities.

[24] The Support Agreement contemplates that the Financial Advisor, namely RBC Dominion Securities Inc., under the supervision of the Monitor, will conduct the solicitation process. Completion of the credit acquisition process is subject to a successful bid arising from the solicitation process. In general terms, the objective of the solicitation process is to obtain a better offer (with some limitations described below) than that reflected in the credit acquisition. If none is obtained in that process, the LP Entities intend for the credit acquisition to proceed assuming approval of the Plan. Court sanction would also be required.

[25] In more detailed terms, Phase I of the solicitation process is expected to last approximately 7 weeks and qualified interested parties may submit non-binding proposals to the Financial Advisor on or before February 26, 2010. Thereafter, the Monitor will assess the proposals to determine whether there is a reasonable prospect of obtaining a Superior Offer. This is in essence a cash offer that is equal to or higher than that represented by the credit acquisition. If there is such a prospect, the Monitor will recommend that the process continue into Phase II. If there is no such prospect, the Monitor will then determine whether there is a Superior Alternative Offer, that is, an offer that is not a Superior Offer but which might nonetheless receive approval from the Secured Creditors. If so, to proceed into Phase II, the Superior Alternative Offer must be supported by Secured Creditors holding more than at least 33.3% of the secured claims. If it is not so supported, the process would be terminated and the LP Entities would then apply for court sanction of the Plan.

[26] Phase II is expected to last approximately 7 weeks as well. This period allows for due diligence and the submission of final binding proposals. The Monitor will then conduct an assessment akin to the Phase 1 process with somewhat similar attendant outcomes if there are no Superior Offers and no acceptable Alternative Superior Offers. If there were a Superior Offer or an acceptable Alternative Superior Offer, an agreement would be negotiated and the requisite approvals sought.

[27] The solicitation process is designed to allow the LP Entities to test the market. One concern is that a Superior Offer that benefits the secured lenders might operate to preclude a Superior Alternative Offer that could provide a better result for the unsecured creditors. That said, the LP Entities are of the view that the solicitation process and the support transaction present the best opportunity for the businesses of the LP Entities to continue as going concerns, thereby preserving jobs as well as the economic and social benefits of their continued operation. At this stage, the alternative is a bankruptcy or liquidation which would result in significant detriment not only to the creditors and employees of the LP Entities but to the broader community that benefits from the continued operation of the LP Entities' business. I also take some comfort from the position of the Monitor which is best captured in an excerpt from its preliminary Report:

The terms of the Support Agreement and SISP were the subject of lengthy and intense arm's length negotiations between the LP Entities and the LP Administrative Agent. The Proposed Monitor supports approval of the process contemplated therein and of the approval of those documents, but without in any way fettering the various powers and discretions of the Monitor.

[28] It goes without saying that the Monitor, being a court appointed officer, may apply to the court for advice and directions and also owes reporting obligations to the court.

[29] As to the objection of the Ad Hoc Committee, I make the following observations. Firstly, they represent unsecured subordinated debt. They have been in a position to take action since August, 2009. Furthermore, the LP Entities have provided up to $250,000 for them to retain legal counsel. Meanwhile, the LP Secured Lenders have been in a position to enforce their rights through a non-consensual court proceeding and have advised the LP Entities of their abilities in that regard in the event that the LP Entities did not move forward as contemplated by the Support Agreement. With the Support Agreement and the solicitation process, there is an enhanced likelihood of the continuation of going concern operations, the preservation of jobs and the maximization of value for stakeholders of the LP Entities. It seemed to me that in the face of these facts and given that the Support Agreement expired on January 8, 2010, adjourning the proceeding was not merited in the circumstances. The Committee did receive very short notice. Without being taken as encouraging or discouraging the use of the comeback clause in the order, I disagree with the submission of counsel to the Ad Hoc Committee to the effect that it is very difficult if not impossible to stop a process relying on that provision. That provision in the order is a meaningful one as is clear from the decision in *Muscletech Research & Development Inc.*⁵. On a come back motion, although the positions of parties who have relied bona fide on an Initial Order should not be prejudiced, the onus is on the applicants for an Initial Order to satisfy the court that the existing terms should be upheld.

Proposed Monitor

[30] The Applicants propose that FTI Consulting Canada Inc. serve as the Monitor. It currently serves as the Monitor in the CMI Entities' CCAA proceeding. It is desirable for FTI to act; it is qualified to act; and it has consented to act. It has not served in any of the incompatible capacities described in section 11.7(2) of the CCAA. The proposed Monitor has an enhanced role that is reflected in the order and which is acceptable.

Proposed Order

[31] As mentioned, I granted the order requested. It is clear that the LP Entities need protection under the CCAA. The order requested will provide stability and enable the LP Entities to pursue their restructuring and preserve enterprise value for their stakeholders. Without the benefit of a stay, the LP Entities would be required to pay approximately $1.45 billion and would be unable to continue operating their businesses.

(a) Threshold Issues

[32] The chief place of business of the Applicants is Ontario. They qualify as debtor companies under the CCAA. They are affiliated companies with total claims against them that far exceed $5 million. Demand for payment of the swap indebtedness has been made and the Applicants are in default under all of the other facilities outlined in these reasons. They do not have sufficient liquidity to satisfy their obligations. They are clearly insolvent.

(b) Limited Partnership

[33] The Applicants seek to extend the stay of proceedings and the other relief requested to the Limited Partnership. The CCAA definition of a company does not include a partnership or a limited partnership but courts have exercised their inherent jurisdiction to extend the protections of an Initial CCAA Order to partnerships when it was just and convenient to do so. The relief has been held to be appropriate where the operations of the partnership are so intertwined with those of the debtor companies that irreparable harm would ensue if the requested stay were not granted: *Re Canwest Global Communications Corp*⁶ and *Re Lehndorff General Partners Ltd*⁷.

[34] In this case, the Limited Partnership is the administrative backbone of the LP Entities and is integral to and intertwined with the Applicants' ongoing operations. It owns all shared information technology assets; it provides hosting services for all Canwest properties; it holds all software licences used by the LP Entities; it is party to many of the shared services agreements involving other Canwest entities; and employs approximately 390 full-time equivalent employees who work in Canwest's shared services area. The Applicants state that failure to extend the stay to the Limited Partnership would have a profoundly negative impact on the value of the Applicants, the Limited Partnership and the Canwest Global enterprise as a whole. ⁶ 2009 CarswellOnt 6184 at para. 29 (S.C.J.).

addition, exposing the assets of the Limited Partnership to the demands of creditors would make it impossible for the LP Entities to successfully restructure. I am persuaded that under these circumstances it is just and convenient to grant the request.

(c) Filing of the Secured Creditors' Plan

[35] The LP Entities propose to present the Plan only to the Secured Creditors. Claims of unsecured creditors will not be addressed.

[36] The CCAA seems to contemplate a single creditor-class plan. Sections 4 and 5 state:

s.4 Where a compromise or an arrangement is proposed between a debtor company and its unsecured creditors or any class of them, the court may, on the application in a summary way of the company or of any such creditor or of the trustee in bankruptcy or liquidator of the company, order a meeting of the creditors or class of creditors and, if the court so determines, of the shareholders of the company, to be summoned in such manner as the court directs.

s.5 Where a compromise or an arrangement is proposed between a debtor company and its secured creditors or any class of them, the court may, on the application in a summary way of the company or of any such creditor or of the trustee in bankruptcy or liquidator of the company, order a meeting of the creditors or class of creditors and, if the court so determines, of the shareholders of the company, to be summoned in such manner as the court directs.

[37] Case law has interpreted these provisions as authorizing a single creditor-class plan. For instance, Blair J. (as he then was) stated in *Re Philip Services Corp.*⁸ : " There is no doubt that a debtor is at liberty, under the terms of sections 4 and 5 of the CCAA, to make a proposal to secured creditors or to unsecured creditors or to both groups."⁹ Similarly, in *Re Anvil Range Mining Corp.*¹⁰, the Court of Appeal stated: "It may also be noted that s. 5 of the CCAA contemplates a plan which is a compromise between a debtor company and its secured creditors and that by the terms of s. 6 of the Act, applied to the facts of this case, the plan is binding only on the secured creditors and the company and not on the unsecured creditors."¹¹

[38] Based on the foregoing, it is clear that a debtor has the statutory authority to present a plan to a single class of creditors. In Re Anvil Range Mining Corp., the issue was raised in the context of the plan's sanction by the court and a consideration of whether the plan was fair and reasonable as it eliminated the opportunity for unsecured creditors to realize anything. The basis of the argument was that the motions judge had erred in not requiring a more complete and in depth valuation of the company's assets relative to the claims of the secured creditors.

[39] In this case, I am not being asked to sanction the Plan at this stage. Furthermore, the Monitor will supervise a vigorous and lengthy solicitation process to thoroughly canvass the market for alternative transactions. The solicitation should provide a good indication of market value. In addition, as counsel for the LP Entities observed, the noteholders and the LP Entities never had any forbearance agreement. The noteholders have been in a position to take action since last summer but chose not to do so. One would expect some action on their part if they themselves believed that they "were in the money". While the process is not perfect, it is subject to the supervision of the court and the Monitor is obliged to report on its results to the court.

[40] In my view it is appropriate in the circumstances to authorize the LP Entities to file and present a Plan only to the Secured Creditors.

(d) DIP Financing

[41] The Applicants seek approval of a DIP facility in the amount of $25 million which would be secured by a charge over all of the assets of the LP Entities and rank ahead of all other charges except the Administration Charge, and ahead of all other existing security interests except validly perfected purchase money security interests and certain specific statutory encumbrances.

[42] Section 11.2 of the CCAA provides the statutory jurisdiction to grant a DIP charge. In *Re Canwest*¹², I addressed this provision. Firstly, an applicant should address the requirements contained in section 11.2 (1) and then address the enumerated factors found in section 11.2(4) of the CCAA. As that list is not exhaustive, it may be appropriate to consider other factors as well.

[43] Applying these principles to this case and dealing firstly with section 11.2(1) of the CCAA, notice either has been given to secured creditors likely to be affected by the security or charge or alternatively they are not affected by the DIP charge. While funds are not anticipated to be immediately necessary, the cash flow statements project a good likelihood that the LP Entities will require the additional liquidity afforded by the $25 million. The ability to borrow funds that are secured by a charge will help retain the confidence of the LP Entities' trade creditors, employees and suppliers. It is expected that the DIP facility will permit the LP Entities to conduct the solicitation process and consummate a recapitalization transaction of a sale of all or some of its assets. The charge does not secure any amounts that were owing prior to the filing. As such, there has been compliance with the provisions of section 11.2 (1).

[44] Turning then to a consideration of the factors found in section 11.2(4) of the Act, the LP Entities are expected to be subject to these CCAA proceedings until July 31, 2010. Their business and financial affairs will be amply managed during the proceedings. This is a consensual filing which is reflective of the confidence of the major creditors in the current management configuration. All of these factors favour the granting of the charge. The DIP loan would enhance the prospects of a viable compromise or arrangement and would ensure the necessary stability during the CCAA process. I have already touched upon the issue of value. That said, in relative terms, the quantum of the DIP financing is not large and there is no readily apparent material prejudice to any creditor arising from the granting of the charge and approval of the financing. I also note that it is endorsed by the proposed Monitor in its report.

[45] Other factors to consider in assessing whether to approve a DIP charge include the reasonableness of the financing terms and more particularly the associated fees. Ideally there should be some evidence on this issue. Prior to entering into the forbearance agreement, the LP Entities sought proposals from other third party lenders for a DIP facility. In this case, some but not all of the Secured Creditors are participating in the financing of the DIP loan. Therefore, only some would benefit from the DIP while others could bear the burden of it. While they may have opted not to participate in the DIP financing for various reasons, the concurrence of the non participating Secured Creditors is some market indicator of the appropriateness of the terms of the DIP financing.

[46] Lastly, I note that the DIP lenders have indicated that they would not provide a DIP facility if the charge was not approved. In all of these circumstances, I was prepared to approve the DIP facility and grant the DIP charge.

(e) Critical Suppliers

[47] The LP Entities ask that they be authorized but not required to pay pre-filing amounts owing in arrears to certain suppliers if the supplier is critical to the business and ongoing operations of the LP Entities or the potential future benefit of the payments is considerable and of value to the LP Entities as a whole. Such payments could only be made with the consent of the proposed Monitor. At present, it is contemplated that such suppliers would consist of certain newspaper suppliers, newspaper distributors, logistic suppliers and the Amex Bank of Canada. The LP Entities do not seek a charge to secure payments to any of its critical suppliers.

[48] Section 11.4 of the CCAA addresses critical suppliers. It states:

11.4(1) On application by a debtor company and on notice to the secured creditors who are likely to be affected by the security or charge, the court may make an order declaring a person to be a critical supplier to the company if the court is satisfied that the person is a supplier of goods and services to the company and that the goods or services that are supplied are critical to the company's continued operation.

(2) If the court declares the person to be a critical supplier, the court may make an order requiring the person to supply any goods or services specified by the court to the company on any terms and conditions that are consistent with the supply relationship or that the court considers appropriate.

(3) If the court makes an order under subsection (2), the court shall, in the order, declare that all or part of the property of the company is subject to a security or charge in favour of the person declared to be a critical supplier, in an amount equal to the value of the goods or services supplied upon the terms of the order.

(4) The court may order that the security or charge rank in priority over the claim of any secured creditor of the company.

[49] Mr. Byers, who is counsel for the Monitor, submits that the court has always had discretion to authorize the payment of critical suppliers and that section 11.4 is not intended to address that issue. Rather, it is intended to respond to a post-filing situation where a debtor company wishes to compel a supplier to supply. In those circumstances, the court may declare a person to be a critical supplier and require the person to supply. If the court chooses to compel a person to supply, it must authorize a charge as security for the supplier. Mr. Barnes, who is counsel for the LP Entities, submits that section 11.4 is not so limited. Section 11.4 (1) gives the court general jurisdiction to declare a supplier to be a "critical supplier" where the supplier provides goods or services that are essential to the ongoing business of the debtor company. The permissive as opposed to mandatory language of section 11.4 (2) supports this interpretation.

[50] Section 11.4 is not very clear. As a matter of principle, one would expect the purpose of section 11.4 to be twofold: (i) to codify the authority to permit suppliers who are critical to the continued operation of the company to be paid and (ii) to require the granting of a charge in circumstances where the court is compelling a person to supply. If no charge is proposed to be granted, there is no need to give notice to the secured creditors. I am not certain that the distinction between Mr. Byers and Mr. Barnes' interpretation is of any real significance for the purposes of this case. Either section 11.4(1) does not oust the court's inherent jurisdiction to make provision for the payment of critical suppliers where no charge is requested or it provides authority to the court to declare persons to be critical suppliers. Section 11.4(1) requires the person to be a supplier of goods and services that are critical to the companies' operation but does not impose any additional conditions or limitations.

[51] The LP Entities do not seek a charge but ask that they be authorized but not required to make payments for the pre-filing provision of goods and services to certain third parties who are critical and integral to their businesses. This includes newsprint and ink suppliers. The LP Entities are dependent upon a continuous and uninterrupted supply of newsprint and ink and they have insufficient inventory on hand to meet their needs. It also includes newspaper distributors who are required to distribute the newspapers of the LP Entities; American Express whose corporate card programme and accounts are used by LP Entities employees for business related expenses; and royalty fees accrued and owing to content providers for the subscription-based on-line service provided by FPinfomart.ca, one of the businesses of the LP Entities. The LP Entities believe that it would be damaging to both their ongoing operations and their ability to restructure if they are unable to pay their critical suppliers. I am satisfied that the LP Entities may treat these parties and those described in Mr. Strike's affidavit as critical suppliers but none will be paid without the consent of the Monitor.

(f) Administration Charge and Financial Advisor Charge

[52] The Applicants also seek a charge in the amount of $3 million to secure the fees of the Monitor, its counsel, the LP Entities' counsel, the Special Committee's financial advisor and counsel to the Special Committee, the CRA and counsel to the CRA. These are professionals whose services are critical to the successful restructuring of the LP Entities' business. This charge is to rank in priority to all other security interests in the LP Entities' assets, with the exception of purchase money security interests and specific statutory encumbrances as provided for in the proposed order.¹³ The LP Entities also request a $10 million charge in favour of the Financial Advisor, RBC Dominion Securities Inc. The Financial Advisor is providing investment banking services to the LP Entities and is essential to the solicitation process. This charge would rank in third place, subsequent to the administration charge and the DIP charge.

[53] In the past, an administration charge was granted pursuant to the inherent jurisdiction of the court. Section 11.52 of the amended CCAA now provides statutory jurisdiction to grant an administration charge. Section 11.52 states:

On notice to the secured creditors who are likely to be affected by the security or charge, the court may make an order declaring that all or part of the property of the debtor company is subject to a security or charge – in an amount that the court considers appropriate – in respect of the fees and expenses of

- (a) the monitor, including the fees and expenses of any financial, legal or other experts engaged by the monitor in the performance of the monitor's duties;
- (b) any financial, legal or other experts engaged by the company for the purpose of proceedings under this Act; and
- (c) any financial, legal or other experts engaged by any other interested person if the court is satisfied that the security or charge is necessary for their effective participation in proceedings under this Act.

¹³ This exception also applies to the other charges granted.

(2) The court may order that the security or charge rank in priority over the claim of any secured creditor of the company.

[54] I am satisfied that the issue of notice has been appropriately addressed by the LP Entities. As to whether the amounts are appropriate and whether the charges should extend to the proposed beneficiaries, the section does not contain any specific criteria for a court to consider in its assessment. It seems to me that factors that might be considered would include:

- (a) the size and complexity of the businesses being restructured;
- (b) the proposed role of the beneficiaries of the charge;
- (c) whether there is an unwarranted duplication of roles;
- (d) whether the quantum of the proposed charge appears to be fair and reasonable;
- (e) the position of the secured creditors likely to be affected by the charge; and
- (f) the position of the Monitor.

This is not an exhaustive list and no doubt other relevant factors will be developed in the jurisprudence.

[55] There is no question that the restructuring of the LP Entities is large and highly complex and it is reasonable to expect extensive involvement by professional advisors. Each of the professionals whose fees are to be secured has played a critical role in the LP Entities restructuring activities to date and each will continue to be integral to the solicitation and restructuring process. Furthermore, there is no unwarranted duplication of roles. As to quantum of both proposed charges, I accept the Applicants' submissions that the business of the LP Entities and the tasks associated with their restructuring are of a magnitude and complexity that justify the amounts. I also take some comfort from the fact that the administrative agent for the LP Secured Lenders has agreed to them. In addition, the Monitor supports the charges requested. The quantum of the administration charge appears to be fair and reasonable. As to the quantum of the charge in favour of the Financial Advisor, it is more unusual as it involves an incentive payment but I note that the Monitor conducted its own due diligence and, as mentioned, is supportive of the request. The quantum reflects an appropriate incentive to secure a desirable alternative offer. Based on all of these factors, I concluded that the two charges should be approved.

(g) Directors and Officers

[56] The Applicants also seek a directors and officers charge (“D & O charge”) in the amount of $35 million as security for their indemnification obligations for liabilities imposed upon the Applicants’ directors and officers. The D & O charge will rank after the Financial Advisor charge and will rank pari passu with the MIP charge discussed subsequently. Section 11.51 of the CCAA addresses a D & O charge. I have already discussed section 11.51 in *Re Canwest*¹⁴ as it related to the request by the CMI Entities for a D & O charge. Firstly, the charge is essential to the successful restructuring of the LP Entities. The continued participation of the experienced Boards of Directors, management and employees of the LP Entities is critical to the restructuring. Retaining the current officers and directors will also avoid destabilization. Furthermore, a CCAA restructuring creates new risks and potential liabilities for the directors and officers. The amount of the charge appears to be appropriate in light of the obligations and liabilities that may be incurred by the directors and officers. The charge will not cover all of the directors’ and officers’ liabilities in a worse case scenario. While Canwest Global maintains D & O liability insurance, it has only been extended to February 28, 2009 and further extensions are unavailable. As of the date of the Initial Order, Canwest Global had been unable to obtain additional or replacement insurance coverage.

[57] Understandably in my view, the directors have indicated that due to the potential for significant personal liability, they cannot continue their service and involvement in the restructuring absent a D & O charge. The charge also provides assurances to the employees of the LP Entities that obligations for accrued wages and termination and severance pay will be satisfied. All secured creditors have either been given notice or are unaffected by the D & O charge. Lastly, the Monitor supports the charge and I was satisfied that the charge should be granted as requested.

(h) Management Incentive Plan and Special Arrangements

[58] The LP Entities have made amendments to employment agreements with 2 key employees and have developed certain Management Incentive Plans for 24 participants (collectively the “MIPs”). They seek a charge in the amount of $3 million to secure these obligations. It would be subsequent to the D & O charge.

[59] The CCAA is silent on charges in support of Key Employee Retention Plans (“KERPs”) but they have been approved in numerous CCAA proceedings. Most recently, in *Re Canwest*¹⁵, I approved the KERP requested on the basis of the factors enumerated in *Re Grant Forrest*¹⁶ and given that the Monitor had carefully reviewed the charge and was supportive of the request as were the Board of Directors, the Special Committee of the Board of Directors, the Human Resources Committee of Canwest Global and the Adhoc Committee of Noteholders.

[60] The MIPs in this case are designed to facilitate and encourage the continued participation of certain senior executives and other key employees who are required to guide the LP Entities through a successful restructuring. The participants are critical to the successful restructuring of the LP Entities. They are experienced executives and have played critical roles in the restructuring initiatives to date. They are integral to the continued operation of the business during the restructuring and the successful completion of a plan of restructuring, reorganization, compromise or arrangement.

¹⁶ [2009] O.J. No. 3344 (S.C.J.).

[61] In addition, it is probable that they would consider other employment opportunities in the absence of a charge securing their payments. The departure of senior management would distract from and undermine the restructuring process that is underway and it would be extremely difficult to find replacements for these employees. The MIPs provide appropriate incentives for the participants to remain in their current positions and ensures that they are properly compensated for their assistance in the reorganization process.

[62] In this case, the MIPs and the MIP charge have been approved in form and substance by the Board of Directors and the Special Committee of Canwest Global. The proposed Monitor has also expressed its support for the MIPs and the MIP charge in its pre-filing report. In my view, the charge should be granted as requested.

(i) Confidential Information

[63] The LP Entities request that the court seal the confidential supplement which contains individually identifiable information and compensation information including sensitive salary information about the individuals who are covered by the MIPs. It also contains an unredacted copy of the Financial Advisor's agreement. I have discretion pursuant to Section 137(2) of the *Courts of Justice Act*¹⁷ to order that any document filed in a civil proceeding be treated as confidential, sealed and not form part of the public record. That said, public access in an important tenet of our system of justice.

[64] The threshold test for sealing orders is found in the Supreme Court of Canada decision of *Sierra Club of Canada v Canada (Minister of Finance)*¹⁸. In that case, Iacobucci J. stated that an order should only be granted when: (i) it is necessary in order to prevent a serious risk to an important interest, including a commercial interest, in the context of litigation because reasonable alternative measures will not prevent the risk; and (ii) the salutary effects of the confidentiality order, including the effects on the right of civil litigants to a fair trial, outweigh its deleterious effects, including the effects on the right to free expression, which in this context includes the public interest in open and accessible court proceedings.

[65] In *Re Canwest*¹⁹ I applied the Sierra Club test and approved a similar request by the Applicants for the sealing of a confidential supplement containing unredacted copies of KERPs for the employees of the CMI Entities. Here, with respect to the first branch of the Sierra Club test, the confidential supplement contains unredacted copies of the MIPs. Protecting the disclosure of sensitive personal and compensation information of this nature, the disclosure of which would cause harm to both the LP Entities and the MIP participants, is an important commercial interest that should be protected. The information would be of obvious strategic advantage to competitors. Moreover, there are legitimate personal privacy concerns in issue. The MIP participants have a reasonable expectation that their names and their salary information will be kept confidential. With respect to the second branch of the Sierra Club test, keeping the information confidential will not have any deleterious effects. As in the Re Canwest case, the aggregate amount of the MIP charge has been disclosed and the individual personal information adds nothing. The salutary effects of sealing the confidential supplement outweigh any conceivable deleterious effects. In the normal course, outside of the context of a CCAA proceeding, confidential personal and salary information would be kept confidential by an employer and would not find its way into the public domain. With respect to the unredacted Financial Advisor agreement, it contains commercially sensitive information the disclosure of which could be harmful to the solicitation process and the salutary effects of sealing it outweigh any deleterious effects. The confidential supplements should be sealed and not form part of the public record at least at this stage of the proceedings.

Conclusion

[66] For all of these reasons, I was prepared to grant the order requested.

The debtor company commenced proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act ("CCAA"), obtaining a stay of proceedings to allow it time to reorganize its financial affairs. One of the debtor company's outstanding debts at the commencement of the reorganization was an amount of unremitted Goods and Services Tax ("GST") payable to the Crown. Section 222(3) of the Excise Tax Act ("ETA") created a deemed trust over unremitted GST, which operated despite any other enactment of Canada except the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act ("BIA"). However, s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA provided that any statutory deemed trusts in favour of the Crown did not operate under the CCAA, subject to certain exceptions, none of which mentioned GST.

Pursuant to an order of the CCAA chambers judge, a payment not exceeding $5 million was approved to the debtor company's major secured creditor, Century Services. However, the chambers judge also ordered the debtor company to hold back and segregate in the Monitor's trust account an amount equal to the unremitted GST pending the outcome of the reorganization. On concluding that reorganization was not possible, the debtor company sought leave of the court to partially lift the stay of proceedings so it could make an assignment in bankruptcy under the BIA. The Crown moved for immediate payment of unremitted GST to the Receiver General. The chambers judge denied the Crown's motion, and allowed the assignment in bankruptcy. The Court of Appeal allowed the appeal on two grounds. First, it reasoned that once reorganization efforts had failed, the chambers judge was bound under the priority scheme provided by the ETA to allow payment of unremitted GST to the Crown and had no discretion under s. 11 of the CCAA to continue the stay against the Crown's claim. Second, the Court of Appeal concluded that by ordering the GST funds segregated in the Monitor's trust account, the chambers judge had created an express trust in favour of the Crown.

Held (Abella J. dissenting): The appeal should be allowed.

Per McLachlin C.J. and Binnie, LeBel, Deschamps, Charron, Rothstein and Cromwell JJ.: The apparent conflict between s. 222(3) of the ETA and s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA can be resolved through an interpretation that properly recognizes the history of the CCAA, its function amidst the body of insolvency legislation enacted by La compagnie débitrice a déposé une requête sous le régime de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies (« LACC ») et obtenu la suspension des procédures dans le but de réorganiser ses finances. Parmi les dettes de la compagnie débitrice au début de la réorganisation figurait une somme due à la Couronne, mais non versée encore, au titre de la taxe sur les produits et services (« TPS »). Le paragraphe 222(3) de la Loi sur la taxe d'accise (« LTA ») crée une fiducie réputée visant les sommes de TPS non versées. Cette fiducie s'applique malgré tout autre texte législatif du Canada sauf la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité (« LFI »). Toutefois, le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC prévoyait que, sous réserve de certaines exceptions, dont aucune ne concerne la TPS, les fiducies réputées établies par la loi en faveur de la Couronne ne s'appliquaient pas sous son régime.

Le juge siégeant en son cabinet chargé d'appliquer la LACC a approuvé par ordonnance le paiement à Century Services, le principal créancier garanti du débiteur, d'une somme d'au plus cinq millions de dollars. Toutefois, il a également ordonné à la compagnie débitrice de retenir un montant égal aux sommes de TPS non versées et de le déposer séparément dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur jusqu'à l'issue de la réorganisation. Ayant conclu que la réorganisation n'était pas possible, la compagnie débitrice a demandé au tribunal de lever partiellement la suspension des procédures pour lui permettre de faire cession de ses biens en vertu de la LFI. La Couronne a demandé par requête le paiement immédiat au receveur général des sommes de TPS non versées. Le juge siégeant en son cabinet a rejeté la requête de la Couronne et autorisé la cession des biens. La Cour d'appel a accueilli l'appel pour deux raisons. Premièrement, elle a conclu que, après que la tentative de réorganisation eut échoué, le juge siégeant en son cabinet était tenu, en raison de la priorité établie par la LTA, d'autoriser le paiement à la Couronne des sommes qui lui étaient dues au titre de la TPS, et que l'art. 11 de la LACC ne lui conférait pas le pouvoir discrétionnaire de maintenir la suspension de la demande de la Couronne. Deuxièmement, la Cour d'appel a conclu que, en ordonnant la ségrégation des sommes de TPS dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur, le juge siégeant en son cabinet avait créé une fiducie expresse en faveur de la Couronne.

La juge en chef McLachlin et les juges Binnie, LeBel, Deschamps, Charron, Rothstein et Cromwell : Il est possible de résoudre le conflit apparent entre le par. 222(3) de la LTA et le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC en les interprétant d'une manière qui tienne compte adéquatement de l'historique de la LACC, de la fonction de cette loi parmi

Parliament and the principles for interpreting the CCAA that have been recognized in the jurisprudence. The history of the CCAA distinguishes it from the BIA because although these statutes share the same remedial purpose of avoiding the social and economic costs of liquidating a debtor's assets, the CCAA offers more flexibility and greater judicial discretion than the rules-based mechanism under the BIA, making the former more responsive to complex reorganizations. Because the CCAA is silent on what happens if reorganization fails, the BIA scheme of liquidation and distribution necessarily provides the backdrop against which creditors assess their priority in the event of bankruptcy. The contemporary thrust of legislative reform has been towards harmonizing aspects of insolvency law common to the CCAA and the BIA, and one of its important features has been a cutback in Crown priorities. Accordingly, the CCAA and the BIA both contain provisions nullifying statutory deemed trusts in favour of the Crown, and both contain explicit exceptions exempting source deductions deemed trusts from this general rule. Meanwhile, both Acts are harmonious in treating other Crown claims as unsecured. No such clear and express language exists in those Acts carving out an exception for GST claims.

When faced with the apparent conflict between s. 222(3) of the ETA and s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA, courts have been inclined to follow Ottawa Senators Hockey Club Corp. (Re) and resolve the conflict in favour of the ETA. Ottawa Senators should not be followed. Rather, the CCAA provides the rule. Section 222(3) of the ETA evinces no explicit intention of Parliament to repeal CCAA s. 18.3. Where Parliament has sought to protect certain Crown claims through statutory deemed trusts and intended that these deemed trusts continue in insolvency, it has legislated so expressly and elaborately. Meanwhile, there is no express statutory basis for concluding that GST claims enjoy a preferred treatment under the CCAA or the BIA. The internal logic of the CCAA appears to subject a GST deemed trust to the waiver by Parliament of its priority. A strange asymmetry would result if differing treatments of GST deemed trusts under the CCAA and the BIA were found to exist, as this would encourage statute shopping, undermine the CCAA's remedial purpose and invite the very social ills that the statute was enacted to avert. The later in time enactment of the more general s. 222(3) of the ETA does not require application of the doctrine of implied repeal to the earlier and more specific s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA in the circumstances of this case. In any event, l'ensemble des textes adoptés par le législateur fédéral en matière d'insolvabilité et des principes d'interprétation de la LACC reconnus dans la jurisprudence. L'historique de la LACC permet de distinguer celle-ci de la LFI en ce sens que, bien que ces lois aient pour objet d'éviter les coûts sociaux et économiques liés à la liquidation de l'actif d'un débiteur, la LACC offre plus de souplesse et accorde aux tribunaux un plus grand pouvoir discrétionnaire que le mécanisme fondé sur des règles de la LFI, ce qui rend la première mieux adaptée aux réorganisations complexes. Comme la LACC ne précise pas ce qui arrive en cas d'échec de la réorganisation, la LFI fournit la norme de référence permettant aux créanciers de savoir s'ils ont la priorité dans l'éventualité d'une faillite. Le travail de réforme législative contemporain a principalement visé à harmoniser les aspects communs à la LACC et à la LFI, et l'une des caractéristiques importantes de cette réforme est la réduction des priorités dont jouit la Couronne. Par conséquent, la LACC et la LFI contiennent toutes deux des dispositions neutralisant les fiducies réputées établies en vertu d'un texte législatif en faveur de la Couronne, et toutes deux comportent des exceptions expresses à la règle générale qui concernent les fiducies réputées établies à l'égard des retenues à la source. Par ailleurs, ces deux lois considèrent les autres créances de la Couronne comme des créances non garanties. Ces lois ne comportent pas de dispositions claires et expresses établissant une exception pour les créances relatives à la TPS.

Les tribunaux appelés à résoudre le conflit apparent entre le par. 222(3) de la LTA et le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC ont été enclins à appliquer l'arrêt Ottawa Senators Hockey Club Corp. (Re) et à trancher en faveur de la LTA. Il ne convient pas de suivre cet arrêt. C'est plutôt la LACC qui énonce la règle applicable. Le paragraphe 222(3) de la LTA ne révèle aucune intention explicite du législateur d'abroger l'art. 18.3 de la LACC. Quand le législateur a voulu protéger certaines créances de la Couronne au moyen de fiducies réputées et voulu que celles-ci continuent de s'appliquer en situation d'insolvabilité, il l'a indiqué de manière explicite et minutieuse. En revanche, il n'existe aucune disposition législative expresse permettant de conclure que les créances relatives à la TPS bénéficient d'un traitement préférentiel sous le régime de la LACC ou de la LFI. Il semble découler de la logique interne de la LACC que la fiducie réputée établie à l'égard de la TPS est visée par la renonciation du législateur à sa priorité. Il y aurait une étrange asymétrie si l'on concluait que la LACC ne traite pas les fiducies réputées à l'égard de la TPS de la même manière que la LFI, car cela encouragerait les créanciers à recourir à la loi la plus favorable, minerait les objectifs réparateurs de la LACC et risquerait de favoriser les maux sociaux que l'édition de ce texte législatif visait justement à recent amendments to the CCAA in 2005 resulted in s. 18.3 of the Act being renumbered and reformulated, making it the later in time provision. This confirms that Parliament's intent with respect to GST deemed trusts is to be found in the CCAA. The conflict between the ETA and the CCAA is more apparent than real.

The exercise of judicial discretion has allowed the CCAA to adapt and evolve to meet contemporary business and social needs. As reorganizations become increasingly complex, CCAA courts have been called upon to innovate. In determining their jurisdiction to sanction measures in a CCAA proceeding, courts should first interpret the provisions of the CCAA before turning to their inherent or equitable jurisdiction. Noteworthy in this regard is the expansive interpretation the language of the CCAA is capable of supporting. The general language of the CCAA should not be read as being restricted by the availability of more specific orders. The requirements of appropriateness, good faith and due diligence are baseline considerations that a court should always bear in mind when exercising CCAA authority. The question is whether the order will usefully further efforts to avoid the social and economic losses resulting from liquidation of an insolvent company, which extends to both the purpose of the order and the means it employs. Here, the chambers judge's order staying the Crown's GST claim was in furtherance of the CCAA's objectives because it blunted the impulse of creditors to interfere in an orderly liquidation and fostered a harmonious transition from the CCAA to the BIA, meeting the objective of a single proceeding that is common to both statutes. The transition from the CCAA to the BIA may require the partial lifting of a stay of proceedings under the CCAA to allow commencement of BIA proceedings, but no gap exists between the two statutes because they operate in tandem and creditors in both cases look to the BIA scheme of distribution to foreshadow how they will fare if the reorganization is unsuccessful. The breadth of the court's discretion under the CCAA is sufficient to construct a bridge to liquidation under the BIA. Hence, the chambers judge's order was authorized.

prévenir. Le paragraphe 222(3) de la LTA, une disposition plus récente et générale que le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC, n'exige pas l'application de la doctrine de l'abrogation implicite dans les circonstances de la présente affaire. En tout état de cause, par suite des modifications apportées récemment à la LACC en 2005, l'art. 18.3 a été reformulé et renuméroté, ce qui en fait la disposition postérieure. Cette constatation confirme que c'est dans la LACC qu'est exprimée l'intention du législateur en ce qui a trait aux fiducies réputées visant la TPS. Le conflit entre la LTA et la LACC est plus apparent que réel.

L'exercice par les tribunaux de leurs pouvoirs discrétionnaires a fait en sorte que la LACC a évolué et s'est adaptée aux besoins commerciaux et sociaux contemporains. Comme les réorganisations deviennent très complexes, les tribunaux chargés d'appliquer la LACC ont été appelés à innover. Les tribunaux doivent d'abord interpréter les dispositions de la LACC avant d'invoquer leur compétence inhérente ou leur compétence en equity pour établir leur pouvoir de prendre des mesures dans le cadre d'une procédure fondée sur la LACC. À cet égard, il faut souligner que le texte de la LACC peut être interprété très largement. La possibilité pour le tribunal de rendre des ordonnances plus spécifiques n'a pas pour effet de restreindre la portée des termes généraux utilisés dans la LACC. L'opportunité, la bonne foi et la diligence sont des considérations de base que le tribunal devrait toujours garder à l'esprit lorsqu'il exerce les pouvoirs conférés par la LACC. Il s'agit de savoir si l'ordonnance contribuera utilement à la réalisation de l'objectif d'éviter les pertes sociales et économiques résultant de la liquidation d'une compagnie insolvable. Ce critère s'applique non seulement à l'objectif de l'ordonnance, mais aussi aux moyens utilisés. En l'espèce, l'ordonnance du juge siégeant en son cabinet qui a suspendu l'exécution des mesures de recouvrement de la Couronne à l'égard de la TPS contribuait à la réalisation des objectifs de la LACC, parce qu'elle avait pour effet de dissuader les créanciers d'entraver une liquidation ordonnée et favorisait une transition harmonieuse entre la LACC et la LFI, répondant ainsi à l'objectif — commun aux deux lois — qui consiste à avoir une seule procédure. Le passage de la LACC à la LFI peut exiger la levée partielle d'une suspension de procédures ordonnée en vertu de la LACC, de façon à permettre l'engagement des procédures fondées sur la LFI, mais il n'existe aucun hiatus entre ces lois étant donné qu'elles s'appliquent de concert et que, dans les deux cas, les créanciers examinent le régime de distribution prévu par la LFI pour connaître la situation qui serait la leur en cas d'échec de la réorganisation. L'ampleur du pouvoir discrétionnaire conféré au tribunal par la LACC suffit pour établir une passerelle vers une liquidation opérée sous le régime de la LFI. Le juge siégeant en son cabinet pouvait donc rendre l'ordonnance qu'il a prononcée.

No express trust was created by the chambers judge's order in this case because there is no certainty of object inferable from his order. Creation of an express trust requires certainty of intention, subject matter and object. At the time the chambers judge accepted the proposal to segregate the monies in the Monitor's trust account there was no certainty that the Crown would be the beneficiary, or object, of the trust because exactly who might take the money in the final result was in doubt. In any event, no dispute over the money would even arise under the interpretation of s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA established above, because the Crown's deemed trust priority over GST claims would be lost under the CCAA and the Crown would rank as an unsecured creditor for this amount.

Per Fish J.: The GST monies collected by the debtor are not subject to a deemed trust or priority in favour of the Crown. In recent years, Parliament has given detailed consideration to the Canadian insolvency scheme but has declined to amend the provisions at issue in this case, a deliberate exercise of legislative discretion. On the other hand, in upholding deemed trusts created by the ETA notwithstanding insolvency proceedings, courts have been unduly protective of Crown interests which Parliament itself has chosen to subordinate to competing prioritized claims. In the context of the Canadian insolvency regime, deemed trusts exist only where there is a statutory provision creating the trust and a CCAA or BIA provision explicitly confirming its effective operation. The Income Tax Act, the Canada Pension Plan and the Employment Insurance Act all contain deemed trust provisions that are strikingly similar to that in s. 222 of the ETA but they are all also confirmed in s. 37 of the CCAA and in s. 67(3) of the BIA in clear and unmistakable terms. The same is not true of the deemed trust created under the ETA. Although Parliament created a deemed trust in favour of the Crown to hold unremitted GST monies, and although it purports to maintain this trust notwithstanding any contrary federal or provincial legislation, it did not confirm the continued operation of the trust in either the BIA or the CCAA, reflecting Parliament's intention to allow the deemed trust to lapse with the commencement of insolvency proceedings.

L'ordonnance du juge siégeant en son cabinet n'a pas créé de fiducie expresse en l'espèce, car aucune certitude d'objet ne peut être inférée de cette ordonnance. La création d'une fiducie expresse exige la présence de certitudes quant à l'intention, à la matière et à l'objet. Lorsque le juge siégeant en son cabinet a accepté la proposition que les sommes soient détenues séparément dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur, il n'existait aucune certitude que la Couronne serait le bénéficiaire ou l'objet de la fiducie, car il y avait un doute quant à la question de savoir qui au juste pourrait toucher l'argent en fin de compte. De toute façon, suivant l'interprétation du par. 18.3(1) de la LACC dérogée précédemment, aucun différend ne saurait même exister quant à l'argent, étant donné que la priorité accordée aux réclamations de la Couronne fondées sur la fiducie réputée visant la TPS ne s'applique pas sous le régime de la LACC et que la Couronne est reléguée au rang de créancier non garanti à l'égard des sommes en question.

Le juge Fish : Les sommes perçues par la débitrice au titre de la TPS ne font l'objet d'aucune fiducie réputée ou priorité en faveur de la Couronne. Au cours des dernières années, le législateur fédéral a procédé à un examen approfondi du régime canadien d'insolvabilité, mais il a refusé de modifier les dispositions qui sont en cause dans la présente affaire. Il s'agit d'un exercice délibéré du pouvoir discrétionnaire de légiférer. Par contre, en maintenant, malgré l'existence des procédures d'insolvabilité, la validité de fiducies réputées créées en vertu de la LTA, les tribunaux ont protégé indûment des droits de la Couronne que le Parlement avait lui-même choisi de subordonner à d'autres créances prioritaires. Dans le contexte du régime canadien d'insolvabilité, il existe une fiducie réputée uniquement lorsqu'une disposition législative crée la fiducie et qu'une disposition de la LACC ou de la LFI confirme explicitement l'existence de la fiducie. La Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu, le Régime de pensions du Canada et la Loi sur l'assurance-emploi renferment toutes des dispositions relatives aux fiducies réputées dont le libellé offre une ressemblance frappante avec celui de l'art. 222 de la LTA, mais le maintien en vigueur des fiducies réputées créées en vertu de ces dispositions est confirmé à l'art. 37 de la LACC et au par. 67(3) de la LFI en termes clairs et explicites. La situation est différente dans le cas de la fiducie réputée créée par la LTA. Bien que le législateur crée en faveur de la Couronne une fiducie réputée dans laquelle seront conservées les sommes recueillies au titre de la TPS mais non encore versées, et bien qu'il prétende maintenir cette fiducie en vigueur malgré les dispositions à l'effet contraire de toute loi fédérale ou provinciale, il ne confirme pas l'existence de la fiducie dans la LFI ou la LACC, ce qui témoigne de son intention de laisser la fiducie réputée devenir caduque au moment de l'introduction de la procédure d'insolvabilité.

Per Abella J. (dissenting): Section 222(3) of the ETA gives priority during CCAA proceedings to the Crown's deemed trust in unremitted GST. This provision unequivocally defines its boundaries in the clearest possible terms and excludes only the BIA from its legislative grasp. The language used reflects a clear legislative intention that s. 222(3) would prevail if in conflict with any other law except the BIA. This is borne out by the fact that following the enactment of s. 222(3), amendments to the CCAA were introduced, and despite requests from various constituencies, s. 18.3(1) was not amended to make the priorities in the CCAA consistent with those in the BIA. This indicates a deliberate legislative choice to protect the deemed trust in s. 222(3) from the reach of s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA.

The application of other principles of interpretation reinforces this conclusion. An earlier, specific provision may be overruled by a subsequent general statute if the legislature indicates, through its language, an intention that the general provision prevails. Section 222(3) achieves this through the use of language stating that it prevails despite any law of Canada, of a province, or "any other law" other than the BIA. Section 18.3(1) of the CCAA is thereby rendered inoperative for purposes of s. 222(3). By operation of s. 44(f) of the Interpretation Act, the transformation of s. 18.3(1) into s. 37(1) after the enactment of s. 222(3) of the ETA has no effect on the interpretive queue, and s. 222(3) of the ETA remains the "later in time" provision. This means that the deemed trust provision in s. 222(3) of the ETA takes precedence over s. 18.3(1) during CCAA proceedings. While s. 11 gives a court discretion to make orders notwithstanding the BIA and the Winding-up Act, that discretion is not liberated from the operation of any other federal statute. Any exercise of discretion is therefore circumscribed by whatever limits are imposed by statutes other than the BIA and the Winding-up Act. That includes the ETA. The chambers judge in this case was, therefore, required to respect the priority regime set out in s. 222(3) of the ETA. Neither s. 18.3(1) nor s. 11 of the CCAA gave him the authority to ignore it. He could not, as a result, deny the Crown's request for payment of the GST funds during the CCAA proceedings.

La juge Abella (dissidente) : Le paragraphe 222(3) de la LTA donne préséance, dans le cadre d'une procédure relevant de la LACC, à la fiducie réputée qui est établie en faveur de la Couronne à l'égard de la TPS non versée. Cette disposition définit sans équivoque sa portée dans des termes on ne peut plus clairs et n'exclut que la LFI de son champ d'application. Les termes employés révèlent l'intention claire du législateur que le par. 222(3) l'emporte en cas de conflit avec toute autre loi sauf la LFI. Cette opinion est confortée par le fait que des modifications ont été apportées à la LACC après l'édition du par. 222(3) et que, malgré les demandes répétées de divers groupes, le par. 18.3(1) n'a pas été modifié pour aligner l'ordre de priorité établi par la LACC sur celui de la LFI. Cela indique que le législateur a délibérément choisi de soustraire la fiducie réputée établie au par. 222(3) à l'application du par. 18.3(1) de la LACC.

Cette conclusion est renforcée par l'application d'autres principes d'interprétation. Une disposition spécifique antérieure peut être supplantée par une loi ultérieure de portée générale si le législateur, par les mots qu'il a employés, a exprimé l'intention de faire prévaloir la loi générale. Le paragraphe 222(3) accomplit cela de par son libellé, lequel précise que la disposition l'emporte sur tout autre texte législatif fédéral, tout texte législatif provincial ou « toute autre règle de droit » sauf la LFI. Le paragraphe 18.3(1) de la LACC est par conséquent rendu inopérant aux fins d'application du par. 222(3). Selon l'alinéa 44f) de la Loi d'interprétation, le fait que le par. 18.3(1) soit devenu le par. 37(1) à la suite de l'édition du par. 222(3) de la LTA n'a aucune incidence sur l'ordre chronologique du point de vue de l'interprétation, et le par. 222(3) de la LTA demeure la disposition « postérieure ». Il s'ensuit que la disposition créant une fiducie réputée que l'on trouve au par. 222(3) de la LTA l'emporte sur le par. 18.3(1) dans le cadre d'une procédure fondée sur la LACC. Bien que l'art. 11 accorde au tribunal le pouvoir discrétionnaire de rendre des ordonnances malgré les dispositions de la LFI et de la Loi sur les liquidations, ce pouvoir discrétionnaire demeure assujéti à l'application de toute autre loi fédérale. L'exercice de ce pouvoir discrétionnaire est donc circonscrit par les limites imposées par toute loi autre que la LFI et la Loi sur les liquidations, et donc par la LTA. En l'espèce, le juge siégeant en son cabinet était donc tenu de respecter le régime de priorités établi au par. 222(3) de la LTA. Ni le par. 18.3(1), ni l'art. 11 de la LACC ne l'autorisaient à en faire abstraction. Par conséquent, il ne pouvait pas refuser la demande présentée par la Couronne en vue de se faire payer la TPS dans le cadre de la procédure introduite en vertu de la LACC.

[1] DESCHAMPS J. — For the first time this Court is called upon to directly interpret the provisions of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (“CCAA”). In that respect, two questions are raised. The first requires reconciliation of provisions of the CCAA and the Excise Tax Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. E-15 (“ETA”), which lower courts have held to be in conflict with one another. The second concerns the scope of a court’s discretion when supervising reorganization. The relevant statutory provisions are reproduced in the Appendix. On the first question, having considered the evolution of Crown priorities in the context of insolvency and the wording of the various statutes creating Crown priorities, I conclude that it is the CCAA and not the ETA that provides the rule. On the second question, I conclude that the broad discretionary jurisdiction conferred on the supervising judge must be interpreted having regard to the remedial nature of the CCAA and insolvency legislation generally. Consequently, the court had the discretion to partially lift a stay of proceedings to allow the debtor to make an assignment under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency POURVOI contre un arrêt de la Cour d’appel de la Colombie-Britannique (les juges Newbury, Tysoe et Smith), 2009 BCCA 205, 98 B.C.L.R. (4th) 242, 270 B.C.A.C. 167, 454 W.A.C. 167, [2009] 12 W.W.R. 684, [2009] G.S.T.C. 79, [2009] B.C.J. No. 2611 (QL), 2008 CarswellBC 2895, qui a rejeté la demande de la Couronne sollicitant le paiement de la TPS. Pourvoi accueilli, la juge Abella est dissidente.

Version française du jugement de la juge en chef McLachlin et des juges Binnie, LeBel, Deschamps, Charron, Rothstein et Cromwell rendu par

[1] LA JUGE DESCHAMPS — C’est la première fois que la Cour est appelée à interpréter directement les dispositions de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies, L.R.C. 1985, ch. C-36 (« LACC »). À cet égard, deux questions sont soulevées. La première requiert la conciliation d’une disposition de la LACC et d’une disposition de la Loi sur la taxe d’accise, L.R.C. 1985, ch. E-15 (« LTA »), qui, selon des juridictions inférieures, sont en conflit l’une avec l’autre. La deuxième concerne la portée du pouvoir discrétionnaire du tribunal qui surveille une réorganisation. Les dispositions législatives pertinentes sont reproduites en annexe. Pour ce qui est de la première question, après avoir examiné l’évolution des priorités de la Couronne en matière d’insolvabilité et le libellé des diverses lois qui établissent ces priorités, j’arrive à la conclusion que c’est la LACC, et non la LTA, qui énonce la règle applicable. Pour ce qui est de la seconde question, je conclus qu’il faut interpréter les larges pouvoirs discrétionnaires conférés au juge en tenant compte de la nature réparatrice de la LACC et de la législation sur l’insolvabilité en général. Par conséquent, le tribunal avait le pouvoir

Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-3 (“BIA”). I would allow the appeal.

1. Facts and Decisions of the Courts Below

[2] Ted LeRoy Trucking Ltd. (“LeRoy Trucking”) commenced proceedings under the CCAA in the Supreme Court of British Columbia on December 13, 2007, obtaining a stay of proceedings with a view to reorganizing its financial affairs. LeRoy Trucking sold certain redundant assets as authorized by the order.

[3] Amongst the debts owed by LeRoy Trucking was an amount for Goods and Services Tax (“GST”) collected but unremitted to the Crown. The ETA creates a deemed trust in favour of the Crown for amounts collected in respect of GST. The deemed trust extends to any property or proceeds held by the person collecting GST and any property of that person held by a secured creditor, requiring that property to be paid to the Crown in priority to all security interests. The ETA provides that the deemed trust operates despite any other enactment of Canada except the BIA. However, the CCAA also provides that subject to certain exceptions, none of which mentions GST, deemed trusts in favour of the Crown do not operate under the CCAA. Accordingly, under the CCAA the Crown ranks as an unsecured creditor in respect of GST. Nonetheless, at the time LeRoy Trucking commenced CCAA proceedings the leading line of jurisprudence held that the ETA took precedence over the CCAA such that the Crown enjoyed priority for GST claims under the CCAA, even though it would have lost that same priority under the BIA. The CCAA underwent substantial amendments in 2005 in which some of the provisions at issue in this appeal were renumbered and reformulated (S.C. 2005, c. 47). However, these amendments only came into force on September 18, 2009. I will refer to the amended provisions only where relevant.

discrétionnaire de lever partiellement la suspension des procédures pour permettre au débiteur de faire cession de ses biens en vertu de la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité, L.R.C. 1985, ch. B-3 (« LFI »). Je suis d’avis d’accueillir le pourvoi.

1. Faits et décisions des juridictions inférieures

[2] Le 13 décembre 2007, Ted LeRoy Trucking Ltd. (« LeRoy Trucking ») a déposé une requête sous le régime de la LACC devant la Cour suprême de la Colombie-Britannique et obtenu la suspension des procédures dans le but de réorganiser ses finances. L’entreprise a vendu certains éléments d’actif excédentaires, comme l’y autorisait l’ordonnance.

[3] Parmi les dettes de LeRoy Trucking figurait une somme perçue par celle-ci au titre de la taxe sur les produits et services (« TPS ») mais non versée à la Couronne. La LTA crée en faveur de la Couronne une fiducie réputée visant les sommes perçues au titre de la TPS. Cette fiducie réputée s’applique à tout bien ou toute recette détenue par la personne qui perçoit la TPS et à tout bien de cette personne détenu par un créancier garanti, et le produit découlant de ces biens doit être payé à la Couronne par priorité sur tout droit en garantie. Aux termes de la LTA, la fiducie réputée s’applique malgré tout autre texte législatif du Canada sauf la LFI. Cependant, la LACC prévoit également que, sous réserve de certaines exceptions, dont aucune ne concerne la TPS, ne s’appliquent pas sous son régime les fiducies réputées qui existent en faveur de la Couronne. Par conséquent, pour ce qui est de la TPS, la Couronne est un créancier non garanti dans le cadre de cette loi. Néanmoins, à l’époque où LeRoy Trucking a débuté ses procédures en vertu de la LACC, la jurisprudence dominante indiquait que la LTA l’emportait sur la LACC, la Couronne jouissant ainsi d’un droit prioritaire à l’égard des créances relatives à la TPS dans le cadre de la LACC, malgré le fait qu’elle aurait perdu cette priorité en vertu de la LFI. La LACC a fait l’objet de modifications substantielles en 2005, et certaines des dispositions en cause dans le présent pourvoi ont alors été renumérotées et reformulées (L.C. 2005, ch. 47). Mais ces modifications ne sont entrées en vigueur que le 18 septembre 2009. Je ne me reporterai aux dispositions modifiées que lorsqu’il sera utile de le faire.

[4] On April 29, 2008, Brenner C.J.S.C., in the context of the CCAA proceedings, approved a payment not exceeding $5 million, the proceeds of redundant asset sales, to Century Services, the debtor's major secured creditor. LeRoy Trucking proposed to hold back an amount equal to the GST monies collected but unremitted to the Crown and place it in the Monitor's trust account until the outcome of the reorganization was known. In order to maintain the status quo while the success of the reorganization was uncertain, Brenner C.J.S.C. agreed to the proposal and ordered that an amount of $305,202.30 be held by the Monitor in its trust account.

[5] On September 3, 2008, having concluded that reorganization was not possible, LeRoy Trucking sought leave to make an assignment in bankruptcy under the BIA. The Crown sought an order that the GST monies held by the Monitor be paid to the Receiver General of Canada. Brenner C.J.S.C. dismissed the latter application. Reasoning that the purpose of segregating the funds with the Monitor was "to facilitate an ultimate payment of the GST monies which were owed pre-filing, but only if a viable plan emerged", the failure of such a reorganization, followed by an assignment in bankruptcy, meant the Crown would lose priority under the BIA (2008 BCSC 1805, [2008] G.S.T.C. 221).

[6] The Crown's appeal was allowed by the British Columbia Court of Appeal (2009 BCCA 205, 270 B.C.A.C. 167). Tysoe J.A. for a unanimous court found two independent bases for allowing the Crown's appeal.

[7] First, the court's authority under s. 11 of the CCAA was held not to extend to staying the Crown's application for immediate payment of the GST funds subject to the deemed trust after it was clear that reorganization efforts had failed and

[4] Le 29 avril 2008, le juge en chef Brenner de la Cour suprême de la Colombie-Britannique, dans le contexte des procédures intentées en vertu de la LACC, a approuvé le paiement à Century Services, le principal créancier garanti du débiteur, d'une somme d'au plus cinq millions de dollars, soit le produit de la vente d'éléments d'actif excédentaires. LeRoy Trucking a proposé de retenir un montant égal aux sommes perçues au titre de la TPS mais non versées à la Couronne et de le déposer dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur jusqu'à ce que l'issue de la réorganisation soit connue. Afin de maintenir le statu quo, en raison du succès incertain de la réorganisation, le juge en chef Brenner a accepté la proposition et ordonné qu'une somme de 305 202,30 $ soit détenue par le contrôleur dans son compte en fiducie.

[5] Le 3 septembre 2008, ayant conclu que la réorganisation n'était pas possible, LeRoy Trucking a demandé à la Cour suprême de la Colombie-Britannique l'autorisation de faire cession de ses biens en vertu de la LFI. Pour sa part, la Couronne a demandé au tribunal d'ordonner le paiement au receveur général du Canada de la somme détenue par le contrôleur au titre de la TPS. Le juge en chef Brenner a rejeté cette dernière demande. Selon lui, comme la détention des fonds dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur visait à [TRADUCTION] « faciliter le paiement final des sommes de TPS qui étaient dues avant que l'entreprise ne débute les procédures, mais seulement si un plan viable était proposé », l'impossibilité de procéder à une telle réorganisation, suivie d'une cession de biens, signifiait que la Couronne perdrait sa priorité sous le régime de la LFI (2008 BCSC 1805, [2008] G.S.T.C. 221).

[6] La Cour d'appel de la Colombie-Britannique a accueilli l'appel interjeté par la Couronne (2009 BCCA 205, 270 B.C.A.C. 167). Rédigeant l'arrêt unanime de la cour, le juge Tysoe a invoqué deux raisons distinctes pour y faire droit.

[7] Premièrement, le juge d'appel Tysoe a conclu que le pouvoir conféré au tribunal par l'art. 11 de la LACC n'autorisait pas ce dernier à rejeter la demande de la Couronne sollicitant le paiement immédiat des sommes de TPS faisant l'objet de la fiducie réputée, that bankruptcy was inevitable. As restructuring was no longer a possibility, staying the Crown's claim to the GST funds no longer served a purpose under the CCAA and the court was bound under the priority scheme provided by the ETA to allow payment to the Crown. In so holding, Tysoe J.A. adopted the reasoning in Ottawa Senators Hockey Club Corp. (Re) (2005), 73 O.R. (3d) 737 (C.A.), which found that the ETA deemed trust for GST established Crown priority over secured creditors under the CCAA.

[8] Second, Tysoe J.A. concluded that by ordering the GST funds segregated in the Monitor's trust account on April 29, 2008, the judge had created an express trust in favour of the Crown from which the monies in question could not be diverted for any other purposes. The Court of Appeal therefore ordered that the money held by the Monitor in trust be paid to the Receiver General.

2. Issues

[9] This appeal raises three broad issues which are addressed in turn:

- (1) Did s. 222(3) of the ETA displace s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA and give priority to the Crown's ETA deemed trust during CCAA proceedings as held in Ottawa Senators?
- (2) Did the court exceed its CCAA authority by lifting the stay to allow the debtor to make an assignment in bankruptcy?
- (3) Did the court's order of April 29, 2008 requiring segregation of the Crown's GST claim in the Monitor's trust account create an express trust in favour of the Crown in respect of those funds?

après qu'il fut devenu clair que la tentative de réorganisation avait échoué et que la faillite était inévitable. Comme la restructuration n'était plus une possibilité, il ne servait plus à rien, dans le cadre de la LACC, de suspendre le paiement à la Couronne des sommes de TPS et le tribunal était tenu, en raison de la priorité établie par la LTA, d'en autoriser le versement à la Couronne. Ce faisant, le juge Tysoe a adopté le raisonnement énoncé dans l'arrêt Ottawa Senators Hockey Club Corp. (Re) (2005), 73 O.R. (3d) 737 (C.A.), suivant lequel la fiducie réputée que crée la LTA à l'égard des sommes dues au titre de la TPS établissait la priorité de la Couronne sur les créanciers garantis dans le cadre de la LACC.

[8] Deuxièmement, le juge Tysoe a conclu que, en ordonnant la ségrégation des sommes de TPS dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur le 29 avril 2008, le tribunal avait créé une fiducie expresse en faveur de la Couronne, et que les sommes visées ne pouvaient être utilisées à quelque autre fin que ce soit. En conséquence, la Cour d'appel a ordonné que les sommes détenues par le contrôleur en fiducie pour la Couronne soient versées au receveur général.

2. Questions en litige

[9] Le pourvoi soulève trois grandes questions que j'examinerai à tour de rôle :

- (1) Le paragraphe 222(3) de la LTA l'emporte-t-il sur le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC et donne-t-il priorité à la fiducie réputée qui est établie par la LTA en faveur de la Couronne pendant des procédures régies par la LACC, comme il a été décidé dans l'arrêt Ottawa Senators?
- (2) Le tribunal a-t-il outrepassé les pouvoirs qui lui étaient conférés par la LACC en levant la suspension des procédures dans le but de permettre au débiteur de faire cession de ses biens?
- (3) L'ordonnance du tribunal datée du 29 avril 2008 exigeant que le montant de TPS réclamé par la Couronne soit détenu séparément dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur a-t-elle créé une fiducie expresse en faveur de la Couronne à l'égard des fonds en question?

3. Analysis

[10] The first issue concerns Crown priorities in the context of insolvency. As will be seen, the ETA provides for a deemed trust in favour of the Crown in respect of GST owed by a debtor “[d]espite . . . any other enactment of Canada (except the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act)” (s. 222(3)), while the CCAA stated at the relevant time that “notwithstanding any provision in federal or provincial legislation that has the effect of deeming property to be held in trust for Her Majesty, property of a debtor company shall not be [so] regarded” (s. 18.3(1)). It is difficult to imagine two statutory provisions more apparently in conflict. However, as is often the case, the apparent conflict can be resolved through interpretation.

[11] In order to properly interpret the provisions, it is necessary to examine the history of the CCAA, its function amidst the body of insolvency legislation enacted by Parliament, and the principles that have been recognized in the jurisprudence. It will be seen that Crown priorities in the insolvency context have been significantly pared down. The resolution of the second issue is also rooted in the context of the CCAA, but its purpose and the manner in which it has been interpreted in the case law are also key. After examining the first two issues in this case, I will address Tysoe J.A.’s conclusion that an express trust in favour of the Crown was created by the court’s order of April 29, 2008.

3.1 Purpose and Scope of Insolvency Law

[12] Insolvency is the factual situation that arises when a debtor is unable to pay creditors (see generally, R. J. Wood, Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law (2009), at p. 16). Certain legal proceedings become available upon insolvency, which typically allow a debtor to obtain a court order staying its creditors’ enforcement actions and attempt to obtain

3. Analyse

[10] La première question porte sur les priorités de la Couronne dans le contexte de l’insolvabilité. Comme nous le verrons, la LTA crée en faveur de la Couronne une fiducie réputée à l’égard de la TPS due par un débiteur « [m]algré [. . .] tout autre texte législatif fédéral (sauf la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité) » (par. 222(3)), alors que selon la disposition de la LACC en vigueur à l’époque, « par dérogation à toute disposition législative fédérale ou provinciale ayant pour effet d’assimiler certains biens à des biens détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, aucun des biens de la compagnie débitrice ne peut être considéré comme [tel] » (par. 18.3(1)). Il est difficile d’imaginer deux dispositions législatives plus contradictoires en apparence. Cependant, comme c’est souvent le cas, le conflit apparent peut être résolu au moyen des principes d’interprétation législative.

[11] Pour interpréter correctement ces dispositions, il faut examiner l’historique de la LACC, la fonction de cette loi parmi l’ensemble des textes adoptés par le législateur fédéral en matière d’insolvabilité et les principes reconnus dans la jurisprudence. Nous verrons que les priorités de la Couronne en matière d’insolvabilité ont été restreintes de façon appréciable. La réponse à la deuxième question repose aussi sur le contexte de la LACC, mais l’objectif de cette loi et l’interprétation qu’en a donnée la jurisprudence jouent également un rôle essentiel. Après avoir examiné les deux premières questions soulevées en l’espèce, j’aborderai la conclusion du juge Tysoe selon laquelle l’ordonnance rendue par le tribunal le 29 avril 2008 a eu pour effet de créer une fiducie expresse en faveur de la Couronne.

3.1 Objectif et portée du droit relatif à l’insolvabilité

[12] L’insolvabilité est la situation de fait qui se présente quand un débiteur n’est pas en mesure de payer ses créanciers (voir, généralement, R. J. Wood, Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law (2009), p. 16). Certaines procédures judiciaires peuvent être intentées en cas d’insolvabilité. Ainsi, le débiteur peut généralement obtenir une ordonnance judiciaire a binding compromise with creditors to adjust the payment conditions to something more realistic. Alternatively, the debtor's assets may be liquidated and debts paid from the proceeds according to statutory priority rules. The former is usually referred to as reorganization or restructuring while the latter is termed liquidation.

[13] Canadian commercial insolvency law is not codified in one exhaustive statute. Instead, Parliament has enacted multiple insolvency statutes, the main one being the BIA. The BIA offers a self-contained legal regime providing for both reorganization and liquidation. Although bankruptcy legislation has a long history, the BIA itself is a fairly recent statute — it was enacted in 1992. It is characterized by a rules-based approach to proceedings. The BIA is available to insolvent debtors owing $1000 or more, regardless of whether they are natural or legal persons. It contains mechanisms for debtors to make proposals to their creditors for the adjustment of debts. If a proposal fails, the BIA contains a bridge to bankruptcy whereby the debtor's assets are liquidated and the proceeds paid to creditors in accordance with the statutory scheme of distribution.

[14] Access to the CCAA is more restrictive. A debtor must be a company with liabilities in excess of $5 million. Unlike the BIA, the CCAA contains no provisions for liquidation of a debtor's assets if reorganization fails. There are three ways of exiting CCAA proceedings. The best outcome is achieved when the stay of proceedings provides the debtor with some breathing space during which solvency is restored and the CCAA process terminates without reorganization being needed. The second most desirable outcome occurs when the debtor's compromise or arrangement is accepted by its creditors and the reorganized company emerges from the CCAA proceedings as a going concern. Lastly, if the compromise or arrangement fails, either ayant pour effet de suspendre les mesures d'exécution de ses créanciers, puis tenter de conclure avec eux une transaction à caractère exécutoire contenant des conditions de paiement plus réalistes. Ou alors, les biens du débiteur sont liquidés et ses dettes sont remboursées sur le produit de cette liquidation, selon les règles de priorité établies par la loi. Dans le premier cas, on emploie habituellement les termes de réorganisation ou de restructuration, alors que dans le second, on parle de liquidation.

[13] Le droit canadien en matière d'insolvabilité commerciale n'est pas codifié dans une seule loi exhaustive. En effet, le législateur a plutôt adopté plusieurs lois sur l'insolvabilité, la principale étant la LFI. Cette dernière établit un régime juridique autonome qui concerne à la fois la réorganisation et la liquidation. Bien qu'il existe depuis longtemps des mesures législatives relatives à la faillite, la LFI elle-même est une loi assez récente — elle a été adoptée en 1992. Ses procédures se caractérisent par une approche fondée sur des règles préétablies. Les débiteurs insolubles — personnes physiques ou personnes morales — qui doivent 1 000 $ ou plus peuvent recourir à la LFI. Celle-ci comporte des mécanismes permettant au débiteur de présenter à ses créanciers une proposition de rajustement des dettes. Si la proposition est rejetée, la LFI établit la démarche aboutissant à la faillite : les biens du débiteur sont liquidés et le produit de cette liquidation est versé aux créanciers conformément à la répartition prévue par la loi.

[14] La possibilité de recourir à la LACC est plus restreinte. Le débiteur doit être une compagnie dont les dettes dépassent cinq millions de dollars. Contrairement à la LFI, la LACC ne contient aucune disposition relative à la liquidation de l'actif d'un débiteur en cas d'échec de la réorganisation. Une procédure engagée sous le régime de la LACC peut se terminer de trois façons différentes. Le scénario idéal survient dans les cas où la suspension des recours donne au débiteur un répit lui permettant de rétablir sa solvabilité et où le processus régi par la LACC prend fin sans qu'une réorganisation soit nécessaire. Le deuxième scénario le plus souhaitable est le cas où la transaction ou l'arrangement proposé par le débiteur est the company or its creditors usually seek to have the debtor's assets liquidated under the applicable provisions of the BIA or to place the debtor into receivership. As discussed in greater detail below, the key difference between the reorganization regimes under the BIA and the CCAA is that the latter offers a more flexible mechanism with greater judicial discretion, making it more responsive to complex reorganizations.

[15] As I will discuss at greater length below, the purpose of the CCAA — Canada's first reorganization statute — is to permit the debtor to continue to carry on business and, where possible, avoid the social and economic costs of liquidating its assets. Proposals to creditors under the BIA serve the same remedial purpose, though this is achieved through a rules-based mechanism that offers less flexibility. Where reorganization is impossible, the BIA may be employed to provide an orderly mechanism for the distribution of a debtor's assets to satisfy creditor claims according to predetermined priority rules.

[16] Prior to the enactment of the CCAA in 1933 (S.C. 1932-33, c. 36), practice under existing commercial insolvency legislation tended heavily towards the liquidation of a debtor company (J. Sarra, Creditor Rights and the Public Interest: Restructuring Insolvent Corporations (2003), at p. 12). The battering visited upon Canadian businesses by the Great Depression and the absence of an effective mechanism for reaching a compromise between debtors and creditors to avoid liquidation required a legislative response. The CCAA was innovative as it allowed the insolvent debtor to attempt reorganization under judicial supervision outside the existing insolvency legislation which, once engaged, almost invariably resulted in liquidation (Reference re Companies' Creditors

accepté par ses créanciers et où la compagnie réorganisée poursuit ses activités au terme de la procédure engagée en vertu de la LACC. Enfin, dans le dernier scénario, la transaction ou l'arrangement échoue et la compagnie ou ses créanciers cherchent habituellement à obtenir la liquidation des biens en vertu des dispositions applicables de la LFI ou la mise sous séquestre du débiteur. Comme nous le verrons, la principale différence entre les régimes de réorganisation prévus par la LFI et la LACC est que le second établit un mécanisme plus souple, dans lequel les tribunaux disposent d'un plus grand pouvoir discrétionnaire, ce qui rend le mécanisme mieux adapté aux réorganisations complexes.

[17] Parliament understood when adopting the CCAA that liquidation of an insolvent company was harmful for most of those it affected — notably creditors and employees — and that a workout which allowed the company to survive was optimal (Sarra, Creditor Rights, at pp. 13-15).

[18] Early commentary and jurisprudence also endorsed the CCAA's remedial objectives. It recognized that companies retain more value as going concerns while underscoring that intangible losses, such as the evaporation of the companies' goodwill, result from liquidation (S. E. Edwards, "Reorganizations Under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act" (1947), 25 Can. Bar Rev. 587, at p. 592). Reorganization serves the public interest by facilitating the survival of companies supplying goods or services crucial to the health of the economy or saving large numbers of jobs (ibid., at p. 593). Insolvency could be so widely felt as to impact stakeholders other than creditors and employees. Variants of these views resonate today, with reorganization justified in terms of rehabilitating companies that are key elements in a complex web of interdependent economic relationships in order to avoid the negative consequences of liquidation.

[19] The CCAA fell into disuse during the next several decades, likely because amendments to the Act in 1953 restricted its use to companies issuing bonds (S.C. 1952-53, c. 3). During the economic downturn of the early 1980s, insolvency lawyers and courts adapting to the resulting wave of insolvencies resurrected the statute and deployed it in response to new economic challenges. Participants in insolvency proceedings grew to recognize and appreciate the statute's distinguishing feature: a grant of broad and flexible authority to the supervising court to make aboutissait presque invariablement à la liquidation (Reference re Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, [1934] R.C.S. 659, p. 660-661; Sarra, Creditor Rights, p. 12-13).

[17] Le législateur comprenait, lorsqu'il a adopté la LACC, que la liquidation d'une compagnie insolvable causait préjudice à la plupart des personnes touchées — notamment les créanciers et les employés — et que la meilleure solution consistait dans un arrangement permettant à la compagnie de survivre (Sarra, Creditor Rights, p. 13-15).

[18] Les premières analyses et décisions judiciaires à cet égard ont également entériné les objectifs réparateurs de la LACC. On y reconnaissait que la valeur de la compagnie demeurait plus grande lorsque celle-ci pouvait poursuivre ses activités, tout en soulignant les pertes intangibles découlant d'une liquidation, par exemple la disparition de la clientèle (S. E. Edwards, « Reorganizations Under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act » (1947), 25 R. du B. can. 587, p. 592). La réorganisation sert l'intérêt public en permettant la survie de compagnies qui fournissent des biens ou des services essentiels à la santé de l'économie ou en préservant un grand nombre d'emplois (ibid., p. 593). Les effets de l'insolvabilité pouvaient même toucher d'autres intéressés que les seuls créanciers et employés. Ces arguments se font entendre encore aujourd'hui sous une forme un peu différente, lorsqu'on justifie la réorganisation par la nécessité de remettre sur pied des compagnies qui constituent des volets essentiels d'un réseau complexe de rapports économiques interdépendants, dans le but d'éviter les effets négatifs de la liquidation.

[19] La LACC est tombée en désuétude au cours des décennies qui ont suivi, vraisemblablement parce que des modifications apportées en 1953 ont restreint son application aux compagnies émettant des obligations (S.C. 1952-53, ch. 3). Pendant la récession du début des années 1980, obligés de s'adapter au nombre grandissant d'entreprises en difficulté, les avocats travaillant dans le domaine de l'insolvabilité ainsi que les tribunaux ont redécouvert cette loi et s'en sont servis pour relever les nouveaux défis de l'économie. Les participants aux the orders necessary to facilitate the reorganization of the debtor and achieve the CCAA's objectives. The manner in which courts have used CCAA jurisdiction in increasingly creative and flexible ways is explored in greater detail below.

[20] Efforts to evolve insolvency law were not restricted to the courts during this period. In 1970, a government-commissioned panel produced an extensive study recommending sweeping reform but Parliament failed to act (see Bankruptcy and Insolvency: Report of the Study Committee on Bankruptcy and Insolvency Legislation (1970)). Another panel of experts produced more limited recommendations in 1986 which eventually resulted in enactment of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act of 1992 (S.C. 1992, c. 27) (see Proposed Bankruptcy Act Amendments: Report of the Advisory Committee on Bankruptcy and Insolvency (1986)). Broader provisions for reorganizing insolvent debtors were then included in Canada's bankruptcy statute. Although the 1970 and 1986 reports made no specific recommendations with respect to the CCAA, the House of Commons committee studying the BIA's predecessor bill, C-22, seemed to accept expert testimony that the BIA's new reorganization scheme would shortly supplant the CCAA, which could then be repealed, with commercial insolvency and bankruptcy being governed by a single statute (Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence of the Standing Committee on Consumer and Corporate Affairs and Government Operations, Issue No. 15, 3rd Sess., 34th Parl., October 3, 1991, at 15:15-15:16).

[21] In retrospect, this conclusion by the House of Commons committee was out of step with reality. It overlooked the renewed vitality the CCAA enjoyed in contemporary practice and the advantage that a procédures en sont peu à peu venus à reconnaître et à apprécier la caractéristique propre de la loi : l'attribution, au tribunal chargé de surveiller le processus, d'une grande latitude lui permettant de rendre les ordonnances nécessaires pour faciliter la réorganisation du débiteur et réaliser les objectifs de la LACC. Nous verrons plus loin comment les tribunaux ont utilisé de façon de plus en plus souple et créative les pouvoirs qui leur sont conférés par la LACC.

[20] Ce ne sont pas seulement les tribunaux qui se sont employés à faire évoluer le droit de l'insolvabilité pendant cette période. En 1970, un comité constitué par le gouvernement a mené une étude approfondie au terme de laquelle il a recommandé une réforme majeure, mais le législateur n'a rien fait (voir Faillite et insolvabilité : Rapport du comité d'étude sur la législation en matière de faillite et d'insolvabilité (1970)). En 1986, un autre comité d'experts a formulé des recommandations de portée plus restreinte, qui ont finalement conduit à l'adoption de la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité de 1992 (L.C. 1992, ch. 27) (voir Propositions d'amendements à la Loi sur la faillite : Rapport du Comité consultatif en matière de faillite et d'insolvabilité (1986)). Des dispositions à caractère plus général concernant la réorganisation des débiteurs insolvable ont alors été ajoutées à la loi canadienne relative à la faillite. Malgré l'absence de recommandations spécifiques au sujet de la LACC dans les rapports de 1970 et 1986, le comité de la Chambre des communes qui s'est penché sur le projet de loi C-22 à l'origine de la LFI a semblé accepter le témoignage d'un expert selon lequel le nouveau régime de réorganisation de la LFI supplanterait rapidement la LACC, laquelle pourrait alors être abrogée et l'insolvabilité commerciale et la faillite seraient ainsi régies par un seul texte législatif (Procès-verbaux et témoignages du Comité permanent des Consommateurs et Sociétés et Administration gouvernementale, fascicule n° 15, 3^e sess., 34^e lég., 3 octobre 1991, 15:15-15:16).

[21] En rétrospective, cette conclusion du comité de la Chambre des communes ne correspondait pas à la réalité. Elle ne tenait pas compte de la nouvelle vitalité de la LACC dans la pratique contemporaine, flexible judicially supervised reorganization process presented in the face of increasingly complex reorganizations, when compared to the stricter rules-based scheme contained in the BIA. The “flexibility of the CCAA [was seen as] a great benefit, allowing for creative and effective decisions” (Industry Canada, Marketplace Framework Policy Branch, Report on the Operation and Administration of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act (2002), at p. 41). Over the past three decades, resurrection of the CCAA has thus been the mainspring of a process through which, one author concludes, “the legal setting for Canadian insolvency restructuring has evolved from a rather blunt instrument to one of the most sophisticated systems in the developed world” (R. B. Jones, “The Evolution of Canadian Restructuring: Challenges for the Rule of Law”, in J. P. Sarra, ed., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2005 (2006), 481, at p. 481).

[22] While insolvency proceedings may be governed by different statutory schemes, they share some commonalities. The most prominent of these is the single proceeding model. The nature and purpose of the single proceeding model are described by Professor Wood in Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law:

They all provide a collective proceeding that supersedes the usual civil process available to creditors to enforce their claims. The creditors’ remedies are collectivized in order to prevent the free-for-all that would otherwise prevail if creditors were permitted to exercise their remedies. In the absence of a collective process, each creditor is armed with the knowledge that if they do not strike hard and swift to seize the debtor’s assets, they will be beat out by other creditors. [pp. 2-3]

The single proceeding model avoids the inefficiency and chaos that would attend insolvency if each creditor initiated proceedings to recover its debt. Grouping all possible actions against the debtor into a single proceeding controlled in a single forum facilitates negotiation with creditors because it places them all on an equal footing, ni des avantages qu’offrait, en présence de réorganisations de plus en plus complexes, un processus souple de réorganisation sous surveillance judiciaire par rapport au régime plus rigide de la LFI, fondé sur des règles préétablies. La « souplesse de la LACC [était considérée comme offrant] de grands avantages car elle permet de prendre des décisions créatives et efficaces » (Industrie Canada, Direction générale des politiques-cadres du marché, Rapport sur la mise en application de la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité et de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies (2002), p. 50). Au cours des trois dernières décennies, la résurrection de la LACC a donc été le moteur d’un processus grâce auquel, selon un auteur, [TRADUCTION] « le régime juridique canadien de restructuration en cas d’insolvabilité — qui était au départ un instrument plutôt rudimentaire — a évolué pour devenir un des systèmes les plus sophistiqués du monde développé » (R. B. Jones, « The Evolution of Canadian Restructuring : Challenges for the Rule of Law », dans J. P. Sarra, dir., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2005 (2006), 481, p. 481).

[22] Si les instances en matière d’insolvabilité peuvent être régies par des régimes législatifs différents, elles n’en présentent pas moins certains points communs, dont le plus frappant réside dans le modèle de la procédure unique. Le professeur Wood a décrit ainsi la nature et l’objectif de ce modèle dans Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law :

[TRADUCTION] Elles prévoient toutes une procédure collective qui remplace la procédure civile habituelle dont peuvent se prévaloir les créanciers pour faire valoir leurs droits. Les recours des créanciers sont collectivisés afin d’éviter l’anarchie qui régnerait si ceux-ci pouvaient exercer leurs recours individuellement. En l’absence d’un processus collectif, chaque créancier sait que faute d’agir de façon rapide et déterminée pour saisir les biens du débiteur, il sera devancé par les autres créanciers. [p. 2-3]

Le modèle de la procédure unique vise à faire échec à l’inefficacité et au chaos qui résulteraient de l’insolvabilité si chaque créancier engageait sa propre procédure dans le but de recouvrer sa créance. La réunion — en une seule instance relevant d’un même tribunal — de toutes les actions possibles contre le débiteur a pour effet de faciliter la négociation avec rather than exposing them to the risk that a more aggressive creditor will realize its claims against the debtor's limited assets while the other creditors attempt a compromise. With a view to achieving that purpose, both the CCAA and the BIA allow a court to order all actions against a debtor to be stayed while a compromise is sought.

[23] Another point of convergence of the CCAA and the BIA relates to priorities. Because the CCAA is silent about what happens if reorganization fails, the BIA scheme of liquidation and distribution necessarily supplies the backdrop for what will happen if a CCAA reorganization is ultimately unsuccessful. In addition, one of the important features of legislative reform of both statutes since the enactment of the BIA in 1992 has been a cutback in Crown priorities (S.C. 1992, c. 27, s. 39; S.C. 1997, c. 12, ss. 73 and 125; S.C. 2000, c. 30, s. 148; S.C. 2005, c. 47, ss. 69 and 131; S.C. 2009, c. 33, s. 25; see also Quebec (Revenu) v. Caisse populaire Desjardins de Montmagny, 2009 SCC 49, [2009] 3 S.C.R. 286; Deputy Minister of Revenue v. Rainville, [1980] 1 S.C.R. 35; Proposed Bankruptcy Act Amendments: Report of the Advisory Committee on Bankruptcy and Insolvency).

[24] With parallel CCAA and BIA restructuring schemes now an accepted feature of the insolvency law landscape, the contemporary thrust of legislative reform has been towards harmonizing aspects of insolvency law common to the two statutory schemes to the extent possible and encouraging reorganization over liquidation (see An Act to establish the Wage Earner Protection Program Act, to amend the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act and to make consequential amendments to other Acts, S.C. 2005, c. 47; Gauntlet Energy Corp., Re, 2003 ABQB 894, 30 Alta. L.R. (4th) 192, at para. 19).

[25] Mindful of the historical background of the CCAA and BIA, I now turn to the first question at issue.

les créanciers en les mettant tous sur le même pied. Cela évite le risque de voir un créancier plus combatif obtenir le paiement de ses créances sur l'actif limité du débiteur pendant que les autres créanciers tentent d'arriver à une transaction. La LACC et la LFI autorisent toutes deux pour cette raison le tribunal à ordonner la suspension de toutes les actions intentées contre le débiteur pendant qu'on cherche à conclure une transaction.

[23] Un autre point de convergence entre la LACC et la LFI concerne les priorités. Comme la LACC ne précise pas ce qui arrive en cas d'échec de la réorganisation, la LFI fournit la norme de référence pour ce qui se produira dans une telle situation. De plus, l'une des caractéristiques importantes de la réforme dont ces deux lois ont fait l'objet depuis 1992 est la réduction des priorités de la Couronne (L.C. 1992, ch. 27, art. 39; L.C. 1997, ch. 12, art. 73 et 125; L.C. 2000, ch. 30, art. 148; L.C. 2005, ch. 47, art. 69 et 131; L.C. 2009, ch. 33, art. 25; voir aussi Québec (Revenu) c. Caisse populaire Desjardins de Montmagny, 2009 CSC 49, [2009] 3 R.C.S. 286; Sous-ministre du Revenu c. Rainville, [1980] 1 R.C.S. 35; Propositions d'amendements à la Loi sur la faillite : Rapport du Comité consultatif en matière de faillite et d'insolvabilité).

[25] Ayant à l'esprit le contexte historique de la LACC et de la LFI, je vais maintenant aborder la première question en litige.

3.2 GST Deemed Trust Under the CCAA

[26] The Court of Appeal proceeded on the basis that the ETA precluded the court from staying the Crown's enforcement of the GST deemed trust when partially lifting the stay to allow the debtor to enter bankruptcy. In so doing, it adopted the reasoning in a line of cases culminating in Ottawa Senators, which held that an ETA deemed trust remains enforceable during CCAA reorganization despite language in the CCAA that suggests otherwise.

[27] The Crown relies heavily on the decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal in Ottawa Senators and argues that the later in time provision of the ETA creating the GST deemed trust trumps the provision of the CCAA purporting to nullify most statutory deemed trusts. The Court of Appeal in this case accepted this reasoning but not all provincial courts follow it (see, e.g., Komunik Corp. (Arrangement relatif à), 2009 QCCS 6332 (CanLII), leave to appeal granted, 2010 QCCA 183 (CanLII)). Century Services relied, in its written submissions to this Court, on the argument that the court had authority under the CCAA to continue the stay against the Crown's claim for unremitted GST. In oral argument, the question of whether Ottawa Senators was correctly decided nonetheless arose. After the hearing, the parties were asked to make further written submissions on this point. As appears evident from the reasons of my colleague Abella J., this issue has become prominent before this Court. In those circumstances, this Court needs to determine the correctness of the reasoning in Ottawa Senators.

[28] The policy backdrop to this question involves the Crown's priority as a creditor in insolvency situations which, as I mentioned above, has evolved considerably. Prior to the 1990s, Crown claims

3.2 Fiducie réputée se rapportant à la TPS dans le cadre de la LACC

[26] La Cour d'appel a estimé que la LTA empêchait le tribunal de suspendre les mesures prises par la Couronne pour bénéficier de la fiducie réputée se rapportant à la TPS, lorsqu'il a partiellement levé la suspension des procédures engagées contre le débiteur afin de permettre à celui-ci de faire cession de ses biens. Ce faisant, la cour a adopté un raisonnement qui s'insère dans un courant jurisprudentiel dominé par l'arrêt Ottawa Senators, suivant lequel il demeure possible de demander le bénéfice d'une fiducie réputée établie par la LTA pendant une réorganisation opérée en vertu de la LACC, et ce, malgré les dispositions de la LACC qui semblent dire le contraire.

[27] S'appuyant largement sur l'arrêt Ottawa Senators de la Cour d'appel de l'Ontario, la Couronne plaide que la disposition postérieure de la LTA créant la fiducie réputée visant la TPS l'emporte sur la disposition de la LACC censée neutraliser la plupart des fiducies réputées qui sont créées par des dispositions législatives. Si la Cour d'appel a accepté ce raisonnement dans la présente affaire, les tribunaux provinciaux ne l'ont pas tous adopté (voir, p. ex., Komunik Corp. (Arrangement relatif à), 2009 QCCS 6332 (CanLII), autorisation d'appel accordée, 2010 QCCA 183 (CanLII)). Dans ses observations écrites adressées à la Cour, Century Services s'est fondée sur l'argument suivant lequel le tribunal pouvait, en vertu de la LACC, maintenir la suspension de la demande de la Couronne visant le paiement de la TPS non versée. Au cours des plaidoiries, la question de savoir si l'arrêt Ottawa Senators était bien fondé a néanmoins été soulevée. Après l'audience, la Cour a demandé aux parties de présenter des observations écrites supplémentaires à ce sujet. Comme il ressort clairement des motifs de ma collègue la juge Abella, cette question a pris une grande importance devant notre Cour. Dans ces circonstances, la Cour doit statuer sur le bien-fondé du raisonnement adopté dans l'arrêt Ottawa Senators.

[28] Le contexte général dans lequel s'inscrit cette question concerne l'évolution considérable, signalée plus haut, de la priorité dont jouit la Couronne en tant que créancier en cas d'insolvabilité. Avant les largely enjoyed priority in insolvency. This was widely seen as unsatisfactory as shown by both the 1970 and 1986 insolvency reform proposals, which recommended that Crown claims receive no preferential treatment. A closely related matter was whether the CCAA was binding at all upon the Crown. Amendments to the CCAA in 1997 confirmed that it did indeed bind the Crown (see CCAA, s. 21, as added by S.C. 1997, c. 12, s. 126).

[29] Claims of priority by the state in insolvency situations receive different treatment across jurisdictions worldwide. For example, in Germany and Australia, the state is given no priority at all, while the state enjoys wide priority in the United States and France (see B. K. Morgan, “Should the Sovereign be Paid First? A Comparative International Analysis of the Priority for Tax Claims in Bankruptcy” (2000), 74 Am. Bankr. L.J. 461, at p. 500). Canada adopted a middle course through legislative reform of Crown priority initiated in 1992. The Crown retained priority for source deductions of income tax, Employment Insurance (“EI”) and Canada Pension Plan (“CPP”) premiums, but ranks as an ordinary unsecured creditor for most other claims.

[30] Parliament has frequently enacted statutory mechanisms to secure Crown claims and permit their enforcement. The two most common are statutory deemed trusts and powers to garnish funds third parties owe the debtor (see F. L. Lamer, Priority of Crown Claims in Insolvency (loose-leaf), at §2).

[31] With respect to GST collected, Parliament has enacted a deemed trust. The ETA states that every person who collects an amount on account of GST is deemed to hold that amount in trust for the Crown (s. 222(1)). The deemed trust extends to other property of the person collecting the tax equal in value to the amount deemed to be in trust if that amount has not been remitted in accordance with the ETA. The deemed trust also extends to property années 1990, les créances de la Couronne bénéficiaient dans une large mesure d’une priorité en cas d’insolvabilité. Cette situation avantageuse suscitait une grande controverse. Les propositions de réforme du droit de l’insolvabilité de 1970 et de 1986 en témoignent — elles recommandaient que les créances de la Couronne ne fassent l’objet d’aucun traitement préférentiel. Une question connexe se posait : celle de savoir si la Couronne était même assujettie à la LACC. Les modifications apportées à la LACC en 1997 ont confirmé qu’elle l’était bel et bien (voir LACC, art. 21, ajouté par L.C. 1997, ch. 12, art. 126).

[29] Les revendications de priorité par l’État en cas d’insolvabilité sont abordées de différentes façons selon les pays. Par exemple, en Allemagne et en Australie, l’État ne bénéficie d’aucune priorité, alors qu’aux États-Unis et en France il jouit au contraire d’une large priorité (voir B. K. Morgan, « Should the Sovereign be Paid First? A Comparative International Analysis of the Priority for Tax Claims in Bankruptcy » (2000), 74 Am. Bankr. L.J. 461, p. 500). Le Canada a choisi une voie intermédiaire dans le cadre d’une réforme législative amorcée en 1992 : la Couronne a conservé sa priorité pour les sommes retenues à la source au titre de l’impôt sur le revenu et des cotisations à l’assurance-emploi (« AE ») et au Régime de pensions du Canada (« RPC »), mais elle est un créancier ordinaire non garanti pour la plupart des autres sommes qui lui sont dues.

[30] Le législateur a fréquemment adopté des mécanismes visant à protéger les créances de la Couronne et à permettre leur exécution. Les deux plus courants sont les fiducies présumées et les pouvoirs de saisie-arrêt (voir F. L. Lamer, Priority of Crown Claims in Insolvency (feuilles mobiles), §2).

[31] Pour ce qui est des sommes de TPS perçues, le législateur a établi une fiducie réputée. La LTA précise que la personne qui perçoit une somme au titre de la TPS est réputée la détenir en fiducie pour la Couronne (par. 222(1)). La fiducie réputée s’applique aux autres biens de la personne qui perçoit la taxe, pour une valeur égale à la somme réputée détenue en fiducie, si la somme en question n’a pas été versée en conformité avec la LTA. La fiducie réputée vise held by a secured creditor that, but for the security interest, would be property of the person collecting the tax (s. 222(3)).

[32] Parliament has created similar deemed trusts using almost identical language in respect of source deductions of income tax, EI premiums and CPP premiums (see s. 227(4) of the Income Tax Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (“ITA”), ss. 86(2) and (2.1) of the Employment Insurance Act, S.C. 1996, c. 23, and ss. 23(3) and (4) of the Canada Pension Plan, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-8). I will refer to income tax, EI and CPP deductions as “source deductions”.

[33] In Royal Bank of Canada v. Sparrow Electric Corp., [1997] 1 S.C.R. 411, this Court addressed a priority dispute between a deemed trust for source deductions under the ITA and security interests taken under both the Bank Act, S.C. 1991, c. 46, and the Alberta Personal Property Security Act, S.A. 1988, c. P-4.05 (“PPSA”). As then worded, an ITA deemed trust over the debtor’s property equivalent to the amount owing in respect of income tax became effective at the time of liquidation, receivership, or assignment in bankruptcy. Sparrow Electric held that the ITA deemed trust could not prevail over the security interests because, being fixed charges, the latter attached as soon as the debtor acquired rights in the property such that the ITA deemed trust had no property on which to attach when it subsequently arose. Later, in First Vancouver Finance v. M.N.R., 2002 SCC 49, [2002] 2 S.C.R. 720, this Court observed that Parliament had legislated to strengthen the statutory deemed trust in the ITA by deeming it to operate from the moment the deductions were not paid to the Crown as required by the ITA, and by granting the Crown priority over all security interests (paras. 27-29) (the “Sparrow Electric amendment”).

également les biens détenus par un créancier garanti qui, si ce n’était de la sûreté, seraient les biens de la personne qui perçoit la taxe (par. 222(3)).

[33] Dans Banque Royale du Canada c. Sparrow Electric Corp., [1997] 1 R.C.S. 411, la Cour était saisie d’un litige portant sur la priorité de rang entre, d’une part, une fiducie réputée établie en vertu de la LIR à l’égard des retenues à la source, et, d’autre part, des sûretés constituées en vertu de la Loi sur les banques, L.C. 1991, ch. 46, et de la loi de l’Alberta intitulée Personal Property Security Act, S.A. 1988, ch. P-4.05 (« PPSA »). D’après les dispositions alors en vigueur, une fiducie réputée — établie en vertu de la LIR à l’égard des biens du débiteur pour une valeur égale à la somme due au titre de l’impôt sur le revenu — commençait à s’appliquer au moment de la liquidation, de la mise sous séquestre ou de la cession de biens. Dans Sparrow Electric, la Cour a conclu que la fiducie réputée de la LIR ne pouvait pas l’emporter sur les sûretés, au motif que, comme celles-ci constituaient des privilèges fixes grevant les biens dès que le débiteur acquérait des droits sur eux, il n’existait pas de biens susceptibles d’être visés par la fiducie réputée de la LIR lorsqu’elle prenait naissance par la suite. Ultérieurement, dans First Vancouver Finance c. M.R.N., 2002 CSC 49, [2002] 2 R.C.S. 720, la Cour a souligné que le législateur était intervenu pour renforcer la fiducie réputée de la LIR en précisant qu’elle est réputée s’appliquer dès le moment où les retenues ne sont pas versées à la Couronne conformément aux exigences de la LIR, et en donnant à la Couronne la priorité sur toute autre garantie (par. 27-29) (la « modification découlant de l’arrêt Sparrow Electric »).

[34] The amended text of s. 227(4.1) of the ITA and concordant source deductions deemed trusts in the Canada Pension Plan and the Employment Insurance Act state that the deemed trust operates notwithstanding any other enactment of Canada, except ss. 81.1 and 81.2 of the BIA. The ETA deemed trust at issue in this case is similarly worded, but it excepts the BIA in its entirety. The provision reads as follows:

222. . . .

(3) Despite any other provision of this Act (except subsection (4)), any other enactment of Canada (except the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act), any enactment of a province or any other law, if at any time an amount deemed by subsection (1) to be held by a person in trust for Her Majesty is not remitted to the Receiver General or withdrawn in the manner and at the time provided under this Part, property of the person and property held by any secured creditor of the person that, but for a security interest, would be property of the person, equal in value to the amount so deemed to be held in trust, is deemed [35] The Crown submits that the Sparrow Electric amendment, added by Parliament to the ETA in 2000, was intended to preserve the Crown's priority over collected GST under the CCAA while subordinating the Crown to the status of an unsecured creditor in respect of GST only under the BIA. This is because the ETA provides that the GST deemed trust is effective "despite" any other enactment except the BIA.

[36] The language used in the ETA for the GST deemed trust creates an apparent conflict with the CCAA, which provides that subject to certain exceptions, property deemed by statute to be held in trust for the Crown shall not be so regarded.

[37] Through a 1997 amendment to the CCAA (S.C. 1997, c. 12, s. 125), Parliament appears to have,

222. . . .

(3) Malgré les autres dispositions de la présente loi (sauf le paragraphe (4) du présent article), tout autre texte législatif fédéral (sauf la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité), tout texte législatif provincial ou toute autre règle de droit, lorsqu'un montant qu'une personne est réputée par le paragraphe (1) détenir en fiducie pour Sa Majesté du chef du Canada n'est pas versé au receveur général ni retiré selon les modalités et dans le délai prévus par la présente partie, les biens de la personne — y compris les biens détenus par ses créanciers garantis qui, en l'absence du droit en garantie, seraient ses biens — d'une valeur égale à ce montant sont réputés

[37] Par une modification apportée à la LACC en 1997 (L.C. 1997, ch. 12, art. 125), le législateur subject to specific exceptions, nullified deemed trusts in favour of the Crown once reorganization proceedings are commenced under the Act. The relevant provision reads:

18.3 (1) Subject to subsection (2), notwithstanding any provision in federal or provincial legislation that has the effect of deeming property to be held in trust for Her Majesty, property of a debtor company shall not be regarded as held in trust for Her Majesty unless it would be so regarded in the absence of that statutory provision.

This nullification of deemed trusts was continued in further amendments to the CCAA (S.C. 2005, c. 47), where s. 18.3(1) was renumbered and reformulated as s. 37(1):

37. (1) Subject to subsection (2), despite any provision in federal or provincial legislation that has the effect of deeming property to be held in trust for Her Majesty, property of a debtor company shall not be regarded as being held in trust for Her Majesty unless it would be so regarded in the absence of that statutory provision.

[38] An analogous provision exists in the BIA, which, subject to the same specific exceptions, nullifies statutory deemed trusts and makes property of the bankrupt that would otherwise be subject to a deemed trust part of the debtor's estate and available to creditors (S.C. 1992, c. 27, s. 39; S.C. 1997, c. 12, s. 73; BIA, s. 67(2)). It is noteworthy that in both the CCAA and the BIA, the exceptions concern source deductions (CCAA, s. 18.3(2); BIA, s. 67(3)). The relevant provision of the CCAA reads:

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply in respect of amounts deemed to be held in trust under subsection 227(4) or (4.1) of the Income Tax Act, subsection 23(3) or (4) of the Canada Pension Plan or subsection 86(2) or (2.1) of the Employment Insurance Act

Thus, the Crown's deemed trust and corresponding priority in source deductions remain effective both in reorganization and in bankruptcy.

semble, sous réserve d'exceptions spécifiques, avoir neutralisé les fiducies réputées créées en faveur de la Couronne lorsque des procédures de réorganisation sont engagées sous le régime de cette loi. La disposition pertinente, à l'époque le par. 18.3(1), était libellée ainsi :

18.3 (1) Sous réserve du paragraphe (2) et par dérogation à toute disposition législative fédérale ou provinciale ayant pour effet d'assimiler certains biens à des biens détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, aucun des biens de la compagnie débitrice ne peut être considéré comme détenu en fiducie pour Sa Majesté si, en l'absence de la disposition législative en question, il ne le serait pas.

Cette neutralisation des fiducies réputées a été maintenue dans des modifications apportées à la LACC en 2005 (L.C. 2005, ch. 47), où le par. 18.3(1) a été reformulé et renuméroté, devenant le par. 37(1) :

37. (1) Sous réserve du paragraphe (2) et par dérogation à toute disposition législative fédérale ou provinciale ayant pour effet d'assimiler certains biens à des biens détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, aucun des biens de la compagnie débitrice ne peut être considéré comme tel par le seul effet d'une telle disposition.

(2) Le paragraphe (1) ne s'applique pas à l'égard des montants réputés détenus en fiducie aux termes des paragraphes 227(4) ou (4.1) de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu, des paragraphes 23(3) ou (4) du Régime de pensions du Canada ou des paragraphes 86(2) ou (2.1) de la Loi sur l'assurance-emploi

Par conséquent, la fiducie réputée établie en faveur de la Couronne et la priorité dont celle-ci jouit de ce fait sur les retenues à la source continuent de s'appliquer autant pendant la réorganisation que pendant la faillite.

[39] Meanwhile, in both s. 18.4(1) of the CCAA and s. 86(1) of the BIA, other Crown claims are treated as unsecured. These provisions, establishing the Crown's status as an unsecured creditor, explicitly exempt statutory deemed trusts in source deductions (CCAA, s. 18.4(3); BIA, s. 86(3)). The CCAA provision reads as follows:

18.4 . . .

(3) Subsection (1) [Crown ranking as unsecured creditor] does not affect the operation of

(a) subsections 224(1.2) and (1.3) of the Income Tax Act,

(b) any provision of the Canada Pension Plan or of the Employment Insurance Act that refers to subsection 224(1.2) of the Income Tax Act and provides for the collection of a contribution

Therefore, not only does the CCAA provide that Crown claims do not enjoy priority over the claims of other creditors (s. 18.3(1)), but the exceptions to this rule (i.e., that Crown priority is maintained for source deductions) are repeatedly stated in the statute.

[40] The apparent conflict in this case is whether the rule in the CCAA first enacted as s. 18.3 in 1997, which provides that subject to certain explicit exceptions, statutory deemed trusts are ineffective under the CCAA, is overridden by the one in the ETA enacted in 2000 stating that GST deemed trusts operate despite any enactment of Canada except the BIA. With respect for my colleague Fish J., I do not think the apparent conflict can be resolved by denying it and creating a rule requiring both a statutory provision enacting the deemed trust, and a second statutory provision confirming it. Such a rule is unknown to the law. Courts must recognize

[39] Par ailleurs, les autres créances de la Couronne sont considérées par la LACC et la LFI comme des créances non garanties (LACC, par. 18.4(1); LFI, par. 86(1)). Ces dispositions faisant de la Couronne un créancier non garanti comportent une exception expresse concernant les fiducies réputées établies par un texte législatif à l'égard des retenues à la source (LACC, par. 18.4(3); LFI, par. 86(3)). Voici la disposition de la LACC :

18.4 . . .

(3) Le paragraphe (1) [suivant lequel la Couronne a le rang de créancier non garanti] n'a pas pour effet de porter atteinte à l'application des dispositions suivantes :

a) les paragraphes 224(1.2) et (1.3) de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu;

b) toute disposition du Régime de pensions du Canada ou de la Loi sur l'assurance-emploi qui renvoie au paragraphe 224(1.2) de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu et qui prévoit la perception d'une cotisation

Par conséquent, non seulement la LACC précise que les créances de la Couronne ne bénéficient pas d'une priorité par rapport à celles des autres créanciers (par. 18.3(1)), mais les exceptions à cette règle (maintien de la priorité de la Couronne dans le cas des retenues à la source) sont mentionnées à plusieurs reprises dans la Loi.

[40] Le conflit apparent qui existe dans la présente affaire fait qu'on doit se demander si la règle de la LTA adoptée en 2000, selon laquelle les fiducies réputées visant la TPS s'appliquent malgré tout autre texte législatif fédéral sauf la LFI, l'emporte sur la règle énoncée dans la LACC — qui a d'abord été édictée en 1997 à l'art. 18.3 — suivant laquelle, sous réserve de certaines exceptions explicites, les fiducies réputées établies par une disposition législative sont sans effet dans le cadre de la LACC. Avec égards pour l'opinion contraire exprimée par mon collègue le juge Fish, je ne crois pas qu'on puisse résoudre ce conflit apparent conflicts, apparent or real, and resolve them when possible.

[41] A line of jurisprudence across Canada has resolved the apparent conflict in favour of the ETA, thereby maintaining GST deemed trusts under the CCAA. Ottawa Senators, the leading case, decided the matter by invoking the doctrine of implied repeal to hold that the later in time provision of the ETA should take precedence over the CCAA (see also Solid Resources Ltd., Re (2002), 40 C.B.R. (4th) 219 (Alta. Q.B.); Gauntlet).

[42] The Ontario Court of Appeal in Ottawa Senators rested its conclusion on two considerations. First, it was persuaded that by explicitly mentioning the BIA in ETA s. 222(3), but not the CCAA, Parliament made a deliberate choice. In the words of MacPherson J.A.:

The BIA and the CCAA are closely related federal statutes. I cannot conceive that Parliament would specifically identify the BIA as an exception, but accidentally fail to consider the CCAA as a possible second exception. In my view, the omission of the CCAA from s. 222(3) of the ETA was almost certainly a considered omission. [para. 43]

[43] Second, the Ontario Court of Appeal compared the conflict between the ETA and the CCAA to that before this Court in Doré v. Verdun (City), [1997] 2 S.C.R. 862, and found them to be “identical” (para. 46). It therefore considered Doré binding (para. 49). In Doré, a limitations provision in the more general and recently enacted Civil Code of Québec, S.Q. 1991, c. 64 (“C.C.Q.”), was held to have repealed a more specific provision of the earlier Quebec Cities and Towns Act, R.S.Q., c. C-19, with which it conflicted. By analogy, en niant son existence et en créant une règle qui exige à la fois une disposition législative établissant la fiducie présumée et une autre la confirmant. Une telle règle est inconnue en droit. Les tribunaux doivent reconnaître les conflits, apparents ou réels, et les résoudre lorsque la chose est possible.

[41] Un courant jurisprudentiel pancanadien a résolu le conflit apparent en faveur de la LTA, confirmant ainsi la validité des fiducies réputées à l’égard de la TPS dans le cadre de la LACC. Dans l’arrêt déterminant à ce sujet, Ottawa Senators, la Cour d’appel de l’Ontario a invoqué la doctrine de l’abrogation implicite et conclu que la disposition postérieure de la LTA devait avoir préséance sur la LACC (voir aussi Solid Resources Ltd., Re (2002), 40 C.B.R. (4th) 219 (B.R. Alb.); Gauntlet).

[42] Dans Ottawa Senators, la Cour d’appel de l’Ontario a fondé sa conclusion sur deux considérations. Premièrement, elle était convaincue qu’en mentionnant explicitement la LFI — mais pas la LACC — au par. 222(3) de la LTA, le législateur a fait un choix délibéré. Je cite le juge MacPherson :

[TRADUCTION] La LFI et la LACC sont des lois fédérales étroitement liées entre elles. Je ne puis concevoir que le législateur ait pu mentionner expressément la LFI à titre d’exception, mais ait involontairement omis de considérer la LACC comme une deuxième exception possible. À mon avis, le fait que la LACC ne soit pas mentionnée au par. 222(3) de la LTA était presque assurément une omission mûrement réfléchie de la part du législateur. [par. 43]

[43] Deuxièmement, la Cour d’appel de l’Ontario a comparé le conflit entre la LTA et la LACC à celui dont a été saisie la Cour dans Doré c. Verdun (Ville), [1997] 2 R.C.S. 862, et les a jugés [TRADUCTION] « identiques » (par. 46). Elle s’estimait donc tenue de suivre l’arrêt Doré (par. 49). Dans cet arrêt, la Cour a conclu qu’une disposition d’une loi de nature plus générale et récemment adoptée établissant un délai de prescription — le Code civil du Québec, L.Q. 1991, ch. 64 (« C.c.Q. ») — avait eu pour effet d’abroger une disposition plus spécifique the Ontario Court of Appeal held that the later in time and more general provision, s. 222(3) of the ETA, impliedly repealed the more specific and earlier in time provision, s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA (paras. 47-49).

[44] Viewing this issue in its entire context, several considerations lead me to conclude that neither the reasoning nor the result in Ottawa Senators can stand. While a conflict may exist at the level of the statutes' wording, a purposive and contextual analysis to determine Parliament's true intent yields the conclusion that Parliament could not have intended to restore the Crown's deemed trust priority in GST claims under the CCAA when it amended the ETA in 2000 with the Sparrow Electric amendment.

[45] I begin by recalling that Parliament has shown its willingness to move away from asserting priority for Crown claims in insolvency law. Section 18.3(1) of the CCAA (subject to the s. 18.3(2) exceptions) provides that the Crown's deemed trusts have no effect under the CCAA. Where Parliament has sought to protect certain Crown claims through statutory deemed trusts and intended that these deemed trusts continue in insolvency, it has legislated so explicitly and elaborately. For example, s. 18.3(2) of the CCAA and s. 67(3) of the BIA expressly provide that deemed trusts for source deductions remain effective in insolvency. Parliament has, therefore, clearly carved out exceptions from the general rule that deemed trusts are ineffective in insolvency. The CCAA and BIA are in harmony, preserving deemed trusts and asserting Crown priority only in respect of source deductions. Meanwhile, there is no express statutory basis for concluding that GST claims enjoy a preferred treatment under the CCAA or the BIA. Unlike source deductions, which are clearly and expressly dealt with under both these insolvency statutes, no such clear and express language exists d'un texte de loi antérieur, la Loi sur les cités et villes du Québec, L.R.Q., ch. C-19, avec laquelle elle entrait en conflit. Par analogie, la Cour d'appel de l'Ontario a conclu que le par. 222(3) de la LTA, une disposition plus récente et plus générale, abrogeait implicitement la disposition antérieure plus spécifique, à savoir le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC (par. 47-49).

[44] En examinant la question dans tout son contexte, je suis amenée à conclure, pour plusieurs raisons, que ni le raisonnement ni le résultat de l'arrêt Ottawa Senators ne peuvent être adoptés. Bien qu'il puisse exister un conflit entre le libellé des textes de loi, une analyse téléologique et contextuelle visant à déterminer la véritable intention du législateur conduit à la conclusion que ce dernier ne saurait avoir eu l'intention de redonner la priorité, dans le cadre de la LACC, à la fiducie réputée de la Couronne à l'égard de ses créances relatives à la TPS quand il a apporté à la LTA, en 2000, la modification découlant de l'arrêt Sparrow Electric.

[45] Je rappelle d'abord que le législateur a manifesté sa volonté de mettre un terme à la priorité accordée aux créances de la Couronne dans le cadre du droit de l'insolvabilité. Selon le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC (sous réserve des exceptions prévues au par. 18.3(2)), les fiducies réputées de la Couronne n'ont aucun effet sous le régime de cette loi. Quand le législateur a voulu protéger certaines créances de la Couronne au moyen de fiducies réputées et voulu que celles-ci continuent de s'appliquer en situation d'insolvabilité, il l'a indiqué de manière explicite et minutieuse. Par exemple, le par. 18.3(2) de la LACC et le par. 67(3) de la LFI énoncent expressément que les fiducies réputées visant les retenues à la source continuent de produire leurs effets en cas d'insolvabilité. Le législateur a donc clairement établi des exceptions à la règle générale selon laquelle les fiducies réputées n'ont plus d'effet dans un contexte d'insolvabilité. La LACC et la LFI sont en harmonie : elles préservent les fiducies réputées et établissent la priorité de la Couronne seulement à l'égard des retenues à la source. En revanche, il n'existe aucune disposition législative expresse permettant de conclure que les créances relatives à la in those Acts carving out an exception for GST claims.

[46] The internal logic of the CCAA also militates against upholding the ETA deemed trust for GST. The CCAA imposes limits on a suspension by the court of the Crown's rights in respect of source deductions but does not mention the ETA (s. 11.4). Since source deductions deemed trusts are granted explicit protection under the CCAA, it would be inconsistent to afford a better protection to the ETA deemed trust absent explicit language in the CCAA. Thus, the logic of the CCAA appears to subject the ETA deemed trust to the waiver by Parliament of its priority (s. 18.4).

[47] Moreover, a strange asymmetry would arise if the interpretation giving the ETA priority over the CCAA urged by the Crown is adopted here: the Crown would retain priority over GST claims during CCAA proceedings but not in bankruptcy. As courts have reflected, this can only encourage statute shopping by secured creditors in cases such as this one where the debtor's assets cannot satisfy both the secured creditors' and the Crown's claims (Gauntlet, at para. 21). If creditors' claims were better protected by liquidation under the BIA, creditors' incentives would lie overwhelmingly with avoiding proceedings under the CCAA and not risking a failed reorganization. Giving a key player in any insolvency such skewed incentives against reorganizing under the CCAA can only undermine that statute's remedial objectives and risk inviting the very social ills that it was enacted to avert.

TPS bénéficient d'un traitement préférentiel sous le régime de la LACC ou de la LFI. Alors que les retenues à la source font l'objet de dispositions explicites dans ces deux lois concernant l'insolvabilité, celles-ci ne comportent pas de dispositions claires et expresses analogues établissant une exception pour les créances relatives à la TPS.

[46] La logique interne de la LACC va également à l'encontre du maintien de la fiducie réputée établie dans la LTA à l'égard de la TPS. En effet, la LACC impose certaines limites à la suspension par les tribunaux des droits de la Couronne à l'égard des retenues à la source, mais elle ne fait pas mention de la LTA (art. 11.4). Comme les fiducies réputées visant les retenues à la source sont explicitement protégées par la LACC, il serait incohérent d'accorder une meilleure protection à la fiducie réputée établie par la LTA en l'absence de dispositions explicites en ce sens dans la LACC. Par conséquent, il semble découler de la logique de la LACC que la fiducie réputée établie par la LTA est visée par la renonciation du législateur à sa priorité (art. 18.4).

[47] De plus, il y aurait une étrange asymétrie si l'interprétation faisant primer la LTA sur la LACC préconisée par la Couronne était retenue en l'espèce : les créances de la Couronne relatives à la TPS conserveraient leur priorité de rang pendant les procédures fondées sur la LACC, mais pas en cas de faillite. Comme certains tribunaux l'ont bien vu, cela ne pourrait qu'encourager les créanciers à recourir à la loi la plus favorable dans les cas où, comme en l'espèce, l'actif du débiteur n'est pas suffisant pour permettre à la fois le paiement des créanciers garantis et le paiement des créances de la Couronne (Gauntlet, par. 21). Or, si les réclamations des créanciers étaient mieux protégées par la liquidation sous le régime de la LFI, les créanciers seraient très fortement incités à éviter les procédures prévues par la LACC et les risques d'échec d'une réorganisation. Le fait de donner à un acteur clé de telles raisons de s'opposer aux procédures de réorganisation fondées sur la LACC dans toute situation d'insolvabilité ne peut que miner les objectifs réparateurs de ce texte législatif et risque au contraire de favoriser les maux sociaux que son édicton visait justement à prévenir.

[48] Arguably, the effect of Ottawa Senators is mitigated if restructuring is attempted under the BIA instead of the CCAA, but it is not cured. If Ottawa Senators were to be followed, Crown priority over GST would differ depending on whether restructuring took place under the CCAA or the BIA. The anomaly of this result is made manifest by the fact that it would deprive companies of the option to restructure under the more flexible and responsive CCAA regime, which has been the statute of choice for complex reorganizations.

[49] Evidence that Parliament intended different treatments for GST claims in reorganization and bankruptcy is scant, if it exists at all. Section 222(3) of the ETA was enacted as part of a wide-ranging budget implementation bill in 2000. The summary accompanying that bill does not indicate that Parliament intended to elevate Crown priority over GST claims under the CCAA to the same or a higher level than source deductions claims. Indeed, the summary for deemed trusts states only that amendments to existing provisions are aimed at “ensuring that employment insurance premiums and Canada Pension Plan contributions that are required to be remitted by an employer are fully recoverable by the Crown in the case of the bankruptcy of the employer” (Summary to S.C. 2000, c. 30, at p. 4a). The wording of GST deemed trusts resembles that of statutory deemed trusts for source deductions and incorporates the same overriding language and reference to the BIA. However, as noted above, Parliament’s express intent is that only source deductions deemed trusts remain operative. An exception for the BIA in the statutory language establishing the source deductions deemed trusts accomplishes very little, because the explicit language of the BIA itself (and the CCAA) carves out these source deductions deemed trusts and maintains their effect. It is however noteworthy that no equivalent language maintaining GST deemed trusts exists under either the BIA or the CCAA.

[48] Peut-être l’effet de l’arrêt Ottawa Senators est-il atténué si la restructuration est tentée en vertu de la LFI au lieu de la LACC, mais il subsiste néanmoins. Si l’on suivait cet arrêt, la priorité de la créance de la Couronne relative à la TPS différerait selon le régime — LACC ou LFI — sous lequel la restructuration a lieu. L’anomalie de ce résultat ressort clairement du fait que les compagnies seraient ainsi privées de la possibilité de se restructurer sous le régime plus souple et mieux adapté de la LACC, régime privilégié en cas de réorganisations complexes.

[49] Les indications selon lesquelles le législateur voulait que les créances relatives à la TPS soient traitées différemment dans les cas de réorganisations et de faillites sont rares, voire inexistantes. Le paragraphe 222(3) de la LTA a été adopté dans le cadre d’un projet de loi d’exécution du budget de nature générale en 2000. Le sommaire accompagnant ce projet de loi n’indique pas que, dans le cadre de la LACC, le législateur entendait élever la priorité de la créance de la Couronne à l’égard de la TPS au même rang que les créances relatives aux retenues à la source ou encore à un rang supérieur à celles-ci. En fait, le sommaire mentionne simplement, en ce qui concerne les fiducies réputées, que les modifications apportées aux dispositions existantes visent à « faire en sorte que les cotisations à l’assurance-emploi et au Régime de pensions du Canada qu’un employeur est tenu de verser soient pleinement recouvrables par la Couronne en cas de faillite de l’employeur » (Sommaire de la L.C. 2000, ch. 30, p. 4a). Le libellé de la disposition créant une fiducie réputée à l’égard de la TPS ressemble à celui des dispositions créant de telles fiducies relatives aux retenues à la source et il comporte la même formule dérogatoire et la même mention de la LFI. Cependant, comme il a été souligné précédemment, le législateur a expressément précisé que seules les fiducies réputées visant les retenues à la source demeurent en vigueur. Une exception concernant la LFI dans la disposition créant les fiducies réputées à l’égard des retenues à la source est sans grande conséquence, car le texte explicite de la LFI elle-même (et celui de la LACC) établit ces fiducies et maintient leur effet. Il convient toutefois de souligner que ni la LFI ni la LACC ne comportent de disposition équivalente assurant le maintien en vigueur des fiducies réputées visant la TPS.

[50] It seems more likely that by adopting the same language for creating GST deemed trusts in the ETA as it did for deemed trusts for source deductions, and by overlooking the inclusion of an exception for the CCAA alongside the BIA in s. 222(3) of the ETA, Parliament may have inadvertently succumbed to a drafting anomaly. Because of a statutory lacuna in the ETA, the GST deemed trust could be seen as remaining effective in the CCAA, while ceasing to have any effect under the BIA, thus creating an apparent conflict with the wording of the CCAA. However, it should be seen for what it is: a facial conflict only, capable of resolution by looking at the broader approach taken to Crown priorities and by giving precedence to the statutory language of s. 18.3 of the CCAA in a manner that does not produce an anomalous outcome.

[51] Section 222(3) of the ETA evinces no explicit intention of Parliament to repeal CCAA s. 18.3. It merely creates an apparent conflict that must be resolved by statutory interpretation. Parliament's intent when it enacted ETA s. 222(3) was therefore far from unambiguous. Had it sought to give the Crown a priority for GST claims, it could have done so explicitly as it did for source deductions. Instead, one is left to infer from the language of ETA s. 222(3) that the GST deemed trust was intended to be effective under the CCAA.

[52] I am not persuaded that the reasoning in Doré requires the application of the doctrine of implied repeal in the circumstances of this case. The main issue in Doré concerned the impact of the adoption of the C.C.Q. on the administrative law rules with respect to municipalities. While Gonthier J. concluded in that case that the limitation provision in art. 2930 C.C.Q. had repealed by implication a limitation provision in the Cities and Towns Act, he did so on the basis of more than a textual analysis. The conclusion in Doré was reached after thorough

[50] Il semble plus probable qu'en adoptant, pour créer dans la LTA les fiducies réputées visant la TPS, le même libellé que celui utilisé pour les fiducies réputées visant les retenues à la source, et en omettant d'inclure au par. 222(3) de la LTA une exception à l'égard de la LACC en plus de celle établie pour la LFI, le législateur ait par inadvertance commis une anomalie rédactionnelle. En raison d'une lacune législative dans la LTA, il serait possible de considérer que la fiducie réputée visant la TPS continue de produire ses effets dans le cadre de la LACC, tout en cessant de le faire dans le cas de la LFI, ce qui entraînerait un conflit apparent avec le libellé de la LACC. Il faut cependant voir ce conflit comme il est : un conflit apparent seulement, que l'on peut résoudre en considérant l'approche générale adoptée envers les créances prioritaires de la Couronne et en donnant préséance au texte de l'art. 18.3 de la LACC d'une manière qui ne produit pas un résultat insolite.

[51] Le paragraphe 222(3) de la LTA ne révèle aucune intention explicite du législateur d'abroger l'art. 18.3 de la LACC. Il crée simplement un conflit apparent qui doit être résolu par voie d'interprétation législative. L'intention du législateur était donc loin d'être dépourvue d'ambiguïté quand il a adopté le par. 222(3) de la LTA. S'il avait voulu donner priorité aux créances de la Couronne relatives à la TPS dans le cadre de la LACC, il aurait pu le faire de manière aussi explicite qu'il l'a fait pour les retenues à la source. Or, au lieu de cela, on se trouve réduit à inférer du texte du par. 222(3) de la LTA que le législateur entendait que la fiducie réputée visant la TPS produise ses effets dans les procédures fondées sur la LACC.

[52] Je ne suis pas convaincue que le raisonnement adopté dans Doré exige l'application de la doctrine de l'abrogation implicite dans les circonstances de la présente affaire. La question principale dans Doré était celle de l'impact de l'adoption du C.c.Q. sur les règles de droit administratif relatives aux municipalités. Bien que le juge Gonthier ait conclu, dans cet arrêt, que le délai de prescription établi à l'art. 2930 du C.c.Q. avait eu pour effet d'abroger implicitement une disposition de la Loi sur les cités et villes portant sur la prescription, sa conclusion n'était pas contextual analysis of both pieces of legislation, including an extensive review of the relevant legislative history (paras. 31-41). Consequently, the circumstances before this Court in Doré are far from “identical” to those in the present case, in terms of text, context and legislative history. Accordingly, Doré cannot be said to require the automatic application of the rule of repeal by implication.

[53] A noteworthy indicator of Parliament’s overall intent is the fact that in subsequent amendments it has not displaced the rule set out in the CCAA. Indeed, as indicated above, the recent amendments to the CCAA in 2005 resulted in the rule previously found in s. 18.3 being renumbered and reformulated as s. 37. Thus, to the extent the interpretation allowing the GST deemed trust to remain effective under the CCAA depends on ETA s. 222(3) having impliedly repealed CCAA s. 18.3(1) because it is later in time, we have come full circle. Parliament has renumbered and reformulated the provision of the CCAA stating that, subject to exceptions for source deductions, deemed trusts do not survive the CCAA proceedings and thus the CCAA is now the later in time statute. This confirms that Parliament’s intent with respect to GST deemed trusts is to be found in the CCAA.

[54] I do not agree with my colleague Abella J. that s. 44(f) of the Interpretation Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. I-21, can be used to interpret the 2005 amendments as having no effect. The new statute can hardly be said to be a mere re-enactment of the former statute. Indeed, the CCAA underwent a substantial review in 2005. Notably, acting consistently with its goal of treating both the BIA and the CCAA as sharing the same approach to insolvency, Parliament made parallel amendments to both statutes with respect to corporate proposals. In addition, new provisions were introduced regarding fondée seulement sur une analyse textuelle. Il a en effet procédé à une analyse contextuelle approfondie des deux textes, y compris de l’historique législatif pertinent (par. 31-41). Par conséquent, les circonstances du cas dont était saisie la Cour dans Doré sont loin d’être « identiques » à celles du présent pourvoi, tant sur le plan du texte que sur celui du contexte et de l’historique législatif. On ne peut donc pas dire que l’arrêt Doré commande l’application automatique d’une règle d’abrogation implicite.

[53] Un bon indice de l’intention générale du législateur peut être tiré du fait qu’il n’a pas, dans les modifications subséquentes, écarté la règle énoncée dans la LACC. D’ailleurs, par suite des modifications apportées à cette loi en 2005, la règle figurant initialement à l’art. 18.3 a, comme nous l’avons vu plus tôt, été reprise sous une formulation différente à l’art. 37. Par conséquent, dans la mesure où l’interprétation selon laquelle la fiducie réputée visant la TPS demeurerait en vigueur dans le contexte de procédures en vertu de la LACC repose sur le fait que le par. 222(3) de la LTA constitue la disposition postérieure et a eu pour effet d’abroger implicitement le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC, nous revenons au point de départ. Comme le législateur a reformulé et renuméroté la disposition de la LACC précisant que, sous réserve des exceptions relatives aux retenues à la source, les fiducies réputées ne survivent pas à l’engagement de procédures fondées sur la LACC, c’est cette loi qui se trouve maintenant à être le texte postérieur. Cette constatation confirme que c’est dans la LACC qu’est exprimée l’intention du législateur en ce qui a trait aux fiducies réputées visant la TPS.

[54] Je ne suis pas d’accord avec ma collègue la juge Abella pour dire que l’al. 44f) de la Loi d’interprétation, L.R.C. 1985, ch. I-21, permet d’interpréter les modifications de 2005 comme n’ayant aucun effet. La nouvelle loi peut difficilement être considérée comme une simple refonte de la loi antérieure. De fait, la LACC a fait l’objet d’un examen approfondi en 2005. En particulier, conformément à son objectif qui consiste à faire concorder l’approche de la LFI et celle de la LACC à l’égard de l’insolvabilité, le législateur a apporté aux deux textes des modifications allant dans le même sens en ce qui concerne les the treatment of contracts, collective agreements, interim financing and governance agreements. The appointment and role of the Monitor was also clarified. Noteworthy are the limits imposed by CCAA s. 11.09 on the court's discretion to make an order staying the Crown's source deductions deemed trusts, which were formerly found in s. 11.4. No mention whatsoever is made of GST deemed trusts (see Summary to S.C. 2005, c. 47). The review went as far as looking at the very expression used to describe the statutory override of deemed trusts. The comments cited by my colleague only emphasize the clear intent of Parliament to maintain its policy that only source deductions deemed trusts survive in CCAA proceedings.

[55] In the case at bar, the legislative context informs the determination of Parliament's legislative intent and supports the conclusion that ETA s. 222(3) was not intended to narrow the scope of the CCAA's override provision. Viewed in its entire context, the conflict between the ETA and the CCAA is more apparent than real. I would therefore not follow the reasoning in Ottawa Senators and affirm that CCAA s. 18.3 remained effective.

[56] My conclusion is reinforced by the purpose of the CCAA as part of Canadian remedial insolvency legislation. As this aspect is particularly relevant to the second issue, I will now discuss how courts have interpreted the scope of their discretionary powers in supervising a CCAA reorganization and how Parliament has largely endorsed this interpretation. Indeed, the interpretation courts have given to the CCAA helps in understanding how the CCAA grew to occupy such a prominent role in Canadian insolvency law.

propositions présentées par les entreprises. De plus, de nouvelles dispositions ont été ajoutées au sujet des contrats, des conventions collectives, du financement temporaire et des accords de gouvernance. Des clarifications ont aussi été apportées quant à la nomination et au rôle du contrôleur. Il convient par ailleurs de souligner les limites imposées par l'art. 11.09 de la LACC au pouvoir discrétionnaire du tribunal d'ordonner la suspension de l'effet des fiducies réputées créées en faveur de la Couronne relativement aux retenues à la source, limites qui étaient auparavant énoncées à l'art. 11.4. Il n'est fait aucune mention des fiducies réputées visant la TPS (voir le Sommaire de la L.C. 2005, ch. 47). Dans le cadre de cet examen, le législateur est allé jusqu'à se pencher sur les termes mêmes utilisés dans la loi pour écarter l'application des fiducies réputées. Les commentaires cités par ma collègue ne font que souligner l'intention manifeste du législateur de maintenir sa politique générale suivant laquelle seules les fiducies réputées visant les retenues à la source survivent en cas de procédures fondées sur la LACC.

[55] En l'espèce, le contexte législatif aide à déterminer l'intention du législateur et conforte la conclusion selon laquelle le par. 222(3) de la LTA ne visait pas à restreindre la portée de la disposition de la LACC écartant l'application des fiducies réputées. Eu égard au contexte dans son ensemble, le conflit entre la LTA et la LACC est plus apparent que réel. Je n'adopterais donc pas le raisonnement de l'arrêt Ottawa Senators et je confirmerais que l'art. 18.3 de la LACC a continué de produire ses effets.

[56] Ma conclusion est renforcée par l'objectif de la LACC en tant que composante du régime réparateur instauré la législation canadienne en matière d'insolvabilité. Comme cet aspect est particulièrement pertinent à propos de la deuxième question, je vais maintenant examiner la façon dont les tribunaux ont interprété l'étendue des pouvoirs discrétionnaires dont ils disposent lorsqu'ils surveillent une réorganisation fondée sur la LACC, ainsi que la façon dont le législateur a dans une large mesure entériné cette interprétation. L'interprétation de la LACC par les tribunaux aide en fait à comprendre comment celle-ci en est venue à jouer un rôle si important dans le droit canadien de l'insolvabilité.

3.3 Discretionary Power of a Court Supervising a CCAA Reorganization

[57] Courts frequently observe that “[t]he CCAA is skeletal in nature” and does not “contain a comprehensive code that lays out all that is permitted or barred” (Metcalfe & Mansfield Alternative Investments II Corp. (Re), 2008 ONCA 587, 92 O.R. (3d) 513, at para. 44, per Blair J.A.). Accordingly, “[t]he history of CCAA law has been an evolution of judicial interpretation” (Dylex Ltd., Re (1995), 31 C.B.R. (3d) 106 (Ont. Ct. (Gen. Div.)), at para. 10, per Farley J.).

[58] CCAA decisions are often based on discretionary grants of jurisdiction. The incremental exercise of judicial discretion in commercial courts under conditions one practitioner aptly describes as “the hothouse of real-time litigation” has been the primary method by which the CCAA has been adapted and has evolved to meet contemporary business and social needs (see Jones, at p. 484).

[59] Judicial discretion must of course be exercised in furtherance of the CCAA’s purposes. The remedial purpose I referred to in the historical overview of the Act is recognized over and over again in the jurisprudence. To cite one early example:

The legislation is remedial in the purest sense in that it provides a means whereby the devastating social and economic effects of bankruptcy or creditor initiated termination of ongoing business operations can be avoided while a court-supervised attempt to reorganize the financial affairs of the debtor company is made.

(Elan Corp. v. Comiskey (1990), 41 O.A.C. 282, at para. 57, per Doherty J.A., dissenting)

[60] Judicial decision making under the CCAA takes many forms. A court must first of all provide the conditions under which the debtor can attempt to reorganize. This can be achieved by

[57] Les tribunaux font souvent remarquer que [TRADUCTION] « [l]a LACC est par nature schématique » et ne « contient pas un code complet énonçant tout ce qui est permis et tout ce qui est interdit » (Metcalfe & Mansfield Alternative Investments II Corp. (Re), 2008 ONCA 587, 92 O.R. (3d) 513, par. 44, le juge Blair). Par conséquent, [TRADUCTION] « [l]’histoire du droit relatif à la LACC correspond à l’évolution de ce droit au fil de son interprétation par les tribunaux » (Dylex Ltd., Re (1995), 31 C.B.R. (3d) 106 (C. Ont. (Div. gén.)), par. 10, le juge Farley).

[58] Les décisions prises en vertu de la LACC découlent souvent de l’exercice discrétionnaire de certains pouvoirs. C’est principalement au fil de l’exercice par les juridictions commerciales de leurs pouvoirs discrétionnaires, et ce, dans des conditions décrites avec justesse par un praticien comme constituant [TRADUCTION] « la pépinière du contentieux en temps réel », que la LACC a évolué de façon graduelle et s’est adaptée aux besoins commerciaux et sociaux contemporains (voir Jones, p. 484).

[59] L’exercice par les tribunaux de leurs pouvoirs discrétionnaires doit évidemment tendre à la réalisation des objectifs de la LACC. Le caractère réparateur dont j’ai fait état dans mon aperçu historique de la Loi a à maintes reprises été reconnu dans la jurisprudence. Voici l’un des premiers exemples :

(Elan Corp. c. Comiskey (1990), 41 O.A.C. 282, par. 57, le juge Doherty, dissident) staying enforcement actions by creditors to allow the debtor's business to continue, preserving the status quo while the debtor plans the compromise or arrangement to be presented to creditors, and supervising the process and advancing it to the point where it can be determined whether it will succeed (see, e.g., Chef Ready Foods Ltd. v. Hongkong Bank of Can. (1990), 51 B.C.L.R. (2d) 84 (C.A.), at pp. 88-89; Pacific National Lease Holding Corp., Re (1992), 19 B.C.A.C. 134, at para. 27). In doing so, the court must often be cognizant of the various interests at stake in the reorganization, which can extend beyond those of the debtor and creditors to include employees, directors, shareholders, and even other parties doing business with the insolvent company (see, e.g., Canadian Airlines Corp., Re, 2000 ABQB 442, 84 Alta. L.R. (3d) 9, at para. 144, per Paperny J. (as she then was); Air Canada, Re (2003), 42 C.B.R. (4th) 173 (Ont. S.C.J.), at para. 3; Air Canada, Re, 2003 CanLII 49366 (Ont. S.C.J.), at para. 13, per Farley J.; Sarra, Creditor Rights, at pp. 181-92 and 217-26). In addition, courts must recognize that on occasion the broader public interest will be engaged by aspects of the reorganization and may be a factor against which the decision of whether to allow a particular action will be weighed (see, e.g., Canadian Red Cross Society/Société Canadienne de la Croix Rouge, Re (2000), 19 C.B.R. (4th) 158 (Ont. S.C.J.), at para. 2, per Blair J. (as he then was); Sarra, Creditor Rights, at pp. 195-214).

[61] When large companies encounter difficulty, reorganizations become increasingly complex. CCAA courts have been called upon to innovate accordingly in exercising their jurisdiction beyond merely staying proceedings against the debtor to allow breathing room for reorganization. They have been asked to sanction measures for which there is no explicit authority in the CCAA. Without exhaustively cataloguing the various measures taken under the authority of the CCAA, it is useful to refer briefly to a few examples to illustrate the flexibility the statute affords supervising courts.

Il peut à cette fin suspendre les mesures d'exécution prises par les créanciers afin que le débiteur puisse continuer d'exploiter son entreprise, préserver le statu quo pendant que le débiteur prépare la transaction ou l'arrangement qu'il présentera aux créanciers et surveiller le processus et le mener jusqu'au point où il sera possible de dire s'il aboutira (voir, p. ex., Chef Ready Foods Ltd. c. Hongkong Bank of Can. (1990), 51 B.C.L.R. (2d) 84 (C.A.), p. 88-89; Pacific National Lease Holding Corp., Re (1992), 19 B.C.A.C. 134, par. 27). Ce faisant, le tribunal doit souvent déterminer les divers intérêts en jeu dans la réorganisation, lesquels peuvent fort bien ne pas se limiter aux seuls intérêts du débiteur et des créanciers, mais englober aussi ceux des employés, des administrateurs, des actionnaires et même de tiers qui font affaire avec la compagnie insolvable (voir, p. ex., Canadian Airlines Corp., Re, 2000 ABQB 442, 84 Alta. L.R. (3d) 9, par. 144, la juge Paperny (maintenant juge de la Cour d'appel); Air Canada, Re (2003), 42 C.B.R. (4th) 173 (C.S.J. Ont.), par. 3; Air Canada, Re, 2003 CanLII 49366 (C.S.J. Ont.), par. 13, le juge Farley; Sarra, Creditor Rights, p. 181-192 et 217-226). En outre, les tribunaux doivent reconnaître que, à l'occasion, certains aspects de la réorganisation concernent l'intérêt public et qu'il pourrait s'agir d'un facteur devant être pris en compte afin de décider s'il y a lieu d'autoriser une mesure donnée (voir, p. ex., Canadian Red Cross Society/Société Canadienne de la Croix Rouge, Re (2000), 19 C.B.R. (4th) 158 (C.S.J. Ont.), par. 2, le juge Blair (maintenant juge de la Cour d'appel); Sarra, Creditor Rights, p. 195-214).

[61] Quand de grandes entreprises éprouvent des difficultés, les réorganisations deviennent très complexes. Les tribunaux chargés d'appliquer la LACC ont ainsi été appelés à innover dans l'exercice de leur compétence et ne se sont pas limités à suspendre les procédures engagées contre le débiteur afin de lui permettre de procéder à une réorganisation. On leur a demandé de sanctionner des mesures non expressément prévues par la LACC. Sans dresser la liste complète des diverses mesures qui ont été prises par des tribunaux en vertu de la LACC, il est néanmoins utile d'en donner brièvement quelques exemples, pour bien illustrer la marge de manœuvre que la loi accorde à ceux-ci.

[62] Perhaps the most creative use of CCAA authority has been the increasing willingness of courts to authorize post-filing security for debtor in possession financing or super-priority charges on the debtor's assets when necessary for the continuation of the debtor's business during the reorganization (see, e.g., Skydome Corp., Re (1998), 16 C.B.R. (4th) 118 (Ont. Ct. (Gen. Div.)); United Used Auto & Truck Parts Ltd., Re, 2000 BCCA 146, 135 B.C.A.C. 96, aff'g (1999), 12 C.B.R. (4th) 144 (S.C.); and generally, J. P. Sarra, Rescue! The Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (2007), at pp. 93-115). The CCAA has also been used to release claims against third parties as part of approving a comprehensive plan of arrangement and compromise, even over the objections of some dissenting creditors (see Metcalfe & Mansfield). As well, the appointment of a Monitor to oversee the reorganization was originally a measure taken pursuant to the CCAA's supervisory authority; Parliament responded, making the mechanism mandatory by legislative amendment.

[63] Judicial innovation during CCAA proceedings has not been without controversy. At least two questions it raises are directly relevant to the case at bar: (1) What are the sources of a court's authority during CCAA proceedings? (2) What are the limits of this authority?

[64] The first question concerns the boundary between a court's statutory authority under the CCAA and a court's residual authority under its inherent and equitable jurisdiction when supervising a reorganization. In authorizing measures during CCAA proceedings, courts have on occasion purported to rely upon their equitable jurisdiction to advance the purposes of the Act or their inherent jurisdiction to fill gaps in the statute. Recent appellate decisions have counselled against [62] L'utilisation la plus créative des pouvoirs conférés par la LACC est sans doute le fait que les tribunaux se montrent de plus en plus disposés à autoriser, après le dépôt des procédures, la constitution de sûretés pour financer le débiteur demeuré en possession des biens ou encore la constitution de charges super-prioritaires grevant l'actif du débiteur lorsque cela est nécessaire pour que ce dernier puisse continuer d'exploiter son entreprise pendant la réorganisation (voir, p. ex., Skydome Corp., Re (1998), 16 C.B.R. (4th) 118 (C. Ont. (Div. gén.)); United Used Auto & Truck Parts Ltd., Re, 2000 BCCA 146, 135 B.C.A.C. 96, conf. (1999), 12 C.B.R. (4th) 144 (C.S.); et, d'une manière générale, J. P. Sarra, Rescue! The Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (2007), p. 93-115). La LACC a aussi été utilisée pour libérer des tiers des actions susceptibles d'être intentées contre eux, dans le cadre de l'approbation d'un plan global d'arrangement et de transaction, malgré les objections de certains créanciers dissidents (voir Metcalfe & Mansfield). Au départ, la nomination d'un contrôleur chargé de surveiller la réorganisation était elle aussi une mesure prise en vertu du pouvoir de surveillance conféré par la LACC, mais le législateur est intervenu et a modifié la loi pour rendre cette mesure obligatoire.

[64] La première question porte sur la frontière entre les pouvoirs d'origine législative dont dispose le tribunal en vertu de la LACC et les pouvoirs résiduels dont jouit un tribunal en raison de sa compétence inhérente et de sa compétence en equity, lorsqu'il est question de surveiller une réorganisation. Pour justifier certaines mesures autorisées à l'occasion de procédures engagées sous le régime de la LACC, les tribunaux ont parfois prétendu se fonder sur leur compétence en equity dans le but purporting to rely on inherent jurisdiction, holding that the better view is that courts are in most cases simply construing the authority supplied by the CCAA itself (see, e.g., Skeena Cellulose Inc., Re, 2003 BCCA 344, 13 B.C.L.R. (4th) 236, at paras. 45-47, per Newbury J.A.; Stelco Inc. (Re) (2005), 75 O.R. (3d) 5 (C.A.), at paras. 31-33, per Blair J.A.).

[65] I agree with Justice Georgina R. Jackson and Professor Janis Sarra that the most appropriate approach is a hierarchical one in which courts rely first on an interpretation of the provisions of the CCAA text before turning to inherent or equitable jurisdiction to anchor measures taken in a CCAA proceeding (see G. R. Jackson and J. Sarra, “Selecting the Judicial Tool to get the Job Done: An Examination of Statutory Interpretation, Discretionary Power and Inherent Jurisdiction in Insolvency Matters”, in J. P. Sarra, ed., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2007 (2008), 41, at p. 42). The authors conclude that when given an appropriately purposive and liberal interpretation, the CCAA will be sufficient in most instances to ground measures necessary to achieve its objectives (p. 94).

[66] Having examined the pertinent parts of the CCAA and the recent history of the legislation, I accept that in most instances the issuance of an order during CCAA proceedings should be considered an exercise in statutory interpretation. Particularly noteworthy in this regard is the expansive interpretation the language of the statute at issue is capable of supporting.

[67] The initial grant of authority under the CCAA empowered a court “where an application is made under this Act in respect of a company . . . on the application of any person interested in the de réaliser les objectifs de la Loi ou sur leur compétence inhérente afin de combler les lacunes de celle-ci. Or, dans de récentes décisions, des cours d’appel ont déconseillé aux tribunaux d’invoquer leur compétence inhérente, concluant qu’il est plus juste de dire que, dans la plupart des cas, les tribunaux ne font simplement qu’interpréter les pouvoirs se trouvant dans la LACC elle-même (voir, p. ex., Skeena Cellulose Inc., Re, 2003 BCCA 344, 13 B.C.L.R. (4th) 236, par. 45-47, la juge Newbury; Stelco Inc. (Re) (2005), 75 O.R. (3d) 5 (C.A.), par. 31-33, le juge Blair).

[65] Je suis d’accord avec la juge Georgina R. Jackson et la professeure Janis Sarra pour dire que la méthode la plus appropriée est une approche hiérarchisée. Suivant cette approche, les tribunaux procèdent d’abord à une interprétation des dispositions de la LACC avant d’invoquer leur compétence inhérente ou leur compétence en equity pour justifier des mesures prises dans le cadre d’une procédure fondée sur la LACC (voir G. R. Jackson et J. Sarra, « Selecting the Judicial Tool to get the Job Done : An Examination of Statutory Interpretation, Discretionary Power and Inherent Jurisdiction in Insolvency Matters », dans J. P. Sarra, dir., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2007 (2008), 41, p. 42). Selon ces auteures, pourvu qu’on lui donne l’interprétation téléologique et large qui s’impose, la LACC permettra dans la plupart des cas de justifier les mesures nécessaires à la réalisation de ses objectifs (p. 94).

[66] L’examen des parties pertinentes de la LACC et de l’évolution récente de la législation me font adhérer à ce point de vue jurisprudentiel et doctrinal : dans la plupart des cas, la décision de rendre une ordonnance durant une procédure fondée sur la LACC relève de l’interprétation législative. D’ailleurs, à cet égard, il faut souligner d’une façon particulière que le texte de loi dont il est question en l’espèce peut être interprété très largement.

[67] En vertu du pouvoir conféré initialement par la LACC, le tribunal pouvait, « chaque fois qu’une demande [était] faite sous le régime de la présente loi à l’égard d’une compagnie, [. . .] sur demande matter, . . . subject to this Act, [to] make an order under this section” (CCAA, s. 11(1)). The plain language of the statute was very broad.

[68] In this regard, though not strictly applicable to the case at bar, I note that Parliament has in recent amendments changed the wording contained in s. 11(1), making explicit the discretionary authority of the court under the CCAA. Thus, in s. 11 of the CCAA as currently enacted, a court may, “subject to the restrictions set out in this Act, . . . make any order that it considers appropriate in the circumstances” (S.C. 2005, c. 47, s. 128). Parliament appears to have endorsed the broad reading of CCAA authority developed by the jurisprudence.

[69] The CCAA also explicitly provides for certain orders. Both an order made on an initial application and an order on subsequent applications may stay, restrain, or prohibit existing or new proceedings against the debtor. The burden is on the applicant to satisfy the court that the order is appropriate in the circumstances and that the applicant has been acting in good faith and with due diligence (CCAA, ss. 11(3), (4) and (6)).

[70] The general language of the CCAA should not be read as being restricted by the availability of more specific orders. However, the requirements of appropriateness, good faith, and due diligence are baseline considerations that a court should always bear in mind when exercising CCAA authority. Appropriateness under the CCAA is assessed by inquiring whether the order sought advances the policy objectives underlying the CCAA. The question is whether the order will usefully further efforts to achieve the remedial purpose of the CCAA — avoiding the social and economic losses resulting from liquidation of an insolvent company. I would add that appropriateness extends not only to the purpose of the order, but also to the means it employs. Courts should be mindful that chances for successful reorganizations are enhanced where participants achieve common ground and all d’un intéressé, [. . .] sous réserve des autres dispositions de la présente loi [. . .] rendre l’ordonnance prévue au présent article » (LACC, par. 11(1)). Cette formulation claire était très générale.

[68] Bien que ces dispositions ne soient pas strictement applicables en l’espèce, je signale à ce propos que le législateur a, dans des modifications récentes, apporté au texte du par. 11(1) un changement qui rend plus explicite le pouvoir discrétionnaire conféré au tribunal par la LACC. Ainsi, aux termes de l’art. 11 actuel de la LACC, le tribunal peut « rendre [. . .] sous réserve des restrictions prévues par la présente loi [. . .] toute ordonnance qu’il estime indiquée » (L.C. 2005, ch. 47, art. 128). Le législateur semble ainsi avoir jugé opportun de sanctionner l’interprétation large du pouvoir conféré par la LACC qui a été élaborée par la jurisprudence.

[70] La possibilité pour le tribunal de rendre des ordonnances plus spécifiques n’a pas pour effet de restreindre la portée des termes généraux utilisés dans la LACC. Toutefois, l’opportunité, la bonne foi et la diligence sont des considérations de base que le tribunal devrait toujours garder à l’esprit lorsqu’il exerce les pouvoirs conférés par la LACC. Sous le régime de la LACC, le tribunal évalue l’opportunité de l’ordonnance demandée en déterminant si elle favorisera la réalisation des objectifs de politique générale qui sous-tendent la Loi. Il s’agit donc de savoir si cette ordonnance contribuera utilement à la réalisation de l’objectif réparateur de la LACC — à savoir éviter les pertes sociales et économiques résultant de la liquidation d’une compagnie insolvable. J’ajouterais que le critère de l’opportunité s’applique non seulement à l’objectif de l’ordonnance, mais aussi aux moyens utilisés. Les tribunaux stakeholders are treated as advantageously and fairly as the circumstances permit.

[71] It is well established that efforts to reorganize under the CCAA can be terminated and the stay of proceedings against the debtor lifted if the reorganization is “doomed to failure” (see Chef Ready, at p. 88; Philip’s Manufacturing Ltd., Re (1992), 9 C.B.R. (3d) 25 (B.C.C.A.), at paras. 6-7). However, when an order is sought that does realistically advance the CCAA’s purposes, the ability to make it is within the discretion of a CCAA court.

[72] The preceding discussion assists in determining whether the court had authority under the CCAA to continue the stay of proceedings against the Crown once it was apparent that reorganization would fail and bankruptcy was the inevitable next step.

[73] In the Court of Appeal, Tysoe J.A. held that no authority existed under the CCAA to continue staying the Crown’s enforcement of the GST deemed trust once efforts at reorganization had come to an end. The appellant submits that in so holding, Tysoe J.A. failed to consider the underlying purpose of the CCAA and give the statute an appropriately purposive and liberal interpretation under which the order was permissible. The Crown submits that Tysoe J.A. correctly held that the mandatory language of the ETA gave the court no option but to permit enforcement of the GST deemed trust when lifting the CCAA stay to permit the debtor to make an assignment under the BIA. Whether the ETA has a mandatory effect in the context of a CCAA proceeding has already been discussed. I will now address the question of whether the order was authorized by the CCAA.

doivent se rappeler que les chances de succès d’une réorganisation sont meilleures lorsque les participants arrivent à s’entendre et que tous les intéressés sont traités de la façon la plus avantageuse et juste possible dans les circonstances.

[71] Il est bien établi qu’il est possible de mettre fin aux efforts déployés pour procéder à une réorganisation fondée sur la LACC et de lever la suspension des procédures contre le débiteur si la réorganisation est [TRADUCTION] « vouée à l’échec » (voir Chef Ready, p. 88; Philip’s Manufacturing Ltd., Re (1992), 9 C.B.R. (3d) 25 (C.A.C.-B.), par. 6-7). Cependant, quand l’ordonnance demandée contribue vraiment à la réalisation des objectifs de la LACC, le pouvoir discrétionnaire dont dispose le tribunal en vertu de cette loi l’habilite à rendre à cette ordonnance.

[72] L’analyse qui précède est utile pour répondre à la question de savoir si le tribunal avait, en vertu de la LACC, le pouvoir de maintenir la suspension des procédures à l’encontre de la Couronne, une fois qu’il est devenu évident que la réorganisation échouerait et que la faillite était inévitable.

[73] En Cour d’appel, le juge Tysoe a conclu que la LACC n’habilitait pas le tribunal à maintenir la suspension des mesures d’exécution de la Couronne à l’égard de la fiducie réputée visant la TPS après l’arrêt des efforts de réorganisation. Selon l’appelante, en tirant cette conclusion, le juge Tysoe a omis de tenir compte de l’objectif fondamental de la LACC et n’a pas donné à ce texte l’interprétation téléologique et large qu’il convient de lui donner et qui autorise le prononcé d’une telle ordonnance. La Couronne soutient que le juge Tysoe a conclu à bon droit que les termes impératifs de la LTA ne laissaient au tribunal d’autre choix que d’autoriser les mesures d’exécution à l’endroit de la fiducie réputée visant la TPS lorsqu’il a levé la suspension de procédures qui avait été ordonnée en application de la LACC afin de permettre au débiteur de faire cession de ses biens en vertu de la LFI. J’ai déjà traité de la question de savoir si la LTA a un effet contraignant dans une procédure fondée sur la LACC. Je vais maintenant traiter de la question de savoir si l’ordonnance était autorisée par la LACC.

[74] It is beyond dispute that the CCAA imposes no explicit temporal limitations upon proceedings commenced under the Act that would prohibit ordering a continuation of the stay of the Crown's GST claims while lifting the general stay of proceedings temporarily to allow the debtor to make an assignment in bankruptcy.

[75] The question remains whether the order advanced the underlying purpose of the CCAA. The Court of Appeal held that it did not because the reorganization efforts had come to an end and the CCAA was accordingly spent. I disagree.

[76] There is no doubt that had reorganization been commenced under the BIA instead of the CCAA, the Crown's deemed trust priority for the GST funds would have been lost. Similarly, the Crown does not dispute that under the scheme of distribution in bankruptcy under the BIA the deemed trust for GST ceases to have effect. Thus, after reorganization under the CCAA failed, creditors would have had a strong incentive to seek immediate bankruptcy and distribution of the debtor's assets under the BIA. In order to conclude that the discretion does not extend to partially lifting the stay in order to allow for an assignment in bankruptcy, one would have to assume a gap between the CCAA and the BIA proceedings. Brenner C.J.S.C.'s order staying Crown enforcement of the GST claim ensured that creditors would not be disadvantaged by the attempted reorganization under the CCAA. The effect of his order was to blunt any impulse of creditors to interfere in an orderly liquidation. His order was thus in furtherance of the CCAA's objectives to the extent that it allowed a bridge between the CCAA and BIA proceedings. This interpretation of the tribunal's discretionary power is buttressed by s. 20 of the CCAA. That section provides that the CCAA "may be applied together with the provisions of any Act of Parliament . . . that authorizes or makes provision for the sanction of compromises or arrangements between a company and its shareholders or any class of them", such as [74] Il n'est pas contesté que la LACC n'assujettit les procédures engagées sous son régime à aucune limite temporelle explicite qui interdirait au tribunal d'ordonner le maintien de la suspension des procédures engagées par la Couronne pour recouvrer la TPS, tout en levant temporairement la suspension générale des procédures prononcée pour permettre au débiteur de faire cession de ses biens.

[75] Il reste à se demander si l'ordonnance contribuait à la réalisation de l'objectif fondamental de la LACC. La Cour d'appel a conclu que non, parce que les efforts de réorganisation avaient pris fin et que, par conséquent, la LACC n'était plus d'aucune utilité. Je ne partage pas cette conclusion.

[76] Il ne fait aucun doute que si la réorganisation avait été entreprise sous le régime de la LFI plutôt qu'en vertu de la LACC, la Couronne aurait perdu la priorité que lui confère la fiducie réputée visant la TPS. De même, la Couronne ne conteste pas que, selon le plan de répartition prévu par la LFI en cas de faillite, cette fiducie réputée cesse de produire ses effets. Par conséquent, après l'échec de la réorganisation tentée sous le régime de la LACC, les créanciers auraient eu toutes les raisons de solliciter la mise en faillite immédiate du débiteur et la répartition de ses biens en vertu de la LFI. Pour pouvoir conclure que le pouvoir discrétionnaire dont dispose le tribunal ne l'autorise pas à lever partiellement la suspension des procédures afin de permettre la cession des biens, il faudrait présumer l'existence d'un hiatus entre la procédure fondée sur la LACC et celle fondée sur la LFI. L'ordonnance du juge en chef Brenner suspendant l'exécution des mesures de recouvrement de la Couronne à l'égard de la TPS faisait en sorte que les créanciers ne soient pas désavantagés par la tentative de réorganisation fondée sur la LACC. Cette ordonnance avait pour effet de dissuader les créanciers d'entraver une liquidation ordonnée et, de ce fait, elle contribuait à la réalisation des objectifs de la LACC, dans la mesure où elle établit une passerelle entre les procédures régies par la LACC d'une part et celles régies par la LFI d'autre part. Cette interprétation du pouvoir discrétionnaire du tribunal se trouve renforcée par the BIA. Section 20 clearly indicates the intention of Parliament for the CCAA to operate in tandem with other insolvency legislation, such as the BIA.

[77] The CCAA creates conditions for preserving the status quo while attempts are made to find common ground amongst stakeholders for a reorganization that is fair to all. Because the alternative to reorganization is often bankruptcy, participants will measure the impact of a reorganization against the position they would enjoy in liquidation. In the case at bar, the order fostered a harmonious transition between reorganization and liquidation while meeting the objective of a single collective proceeding that is common to both statutes.

[78] Tysoe J.A. therefore erred in my view by treating the CCAA and the BIA as distinct regimes subject to a temporal gap between the two, rather than as forming part of an integrated body of insolvency law. Parliament's decision to maintain two statutory schemes for reorganization, the BIA and the CCAA, reflects the reality that reorganizations of differing complexity require different legal mechanisms. By contrast, only one statutory scheme has been found to be needed to liquidate a bankrupt debtor's estate. The transition from the CCAA to the BIA may require the partial lifting of a stay of proceedings under the CCAA to allow commencement of the BIA proceedings. However, as Laskin J.A. for the Ontario Court of Appeal noted in a similar competition between secured creditors and the Ontario Superintendent of Financial Services seeking to enforce a deemed trust, "[t]he two statutes are related" and no "gap" exists between the two statutes which would allow the enforcement of property interests at the conclusion of CCAA proceedings that would be l'art. 20 de la LACC, qui précise que les dispositions de la Loi « peuvent être appliquées conjointement avec celles de toute loi fédérale [. . .] autorisant ou prévoyant l'homologation de transactions ou arrangements entre une compagnie et ses actionnaires ou une catégorie de ces derniers », par exemple la LFI. L'article 20 indique clairement que le législateur entend voir la LACC être appliquée de concert avec les autres lois concernant l'insolvabilité, telle la LFI.

lost in bankruptcy (Ivaco Inc. (Re) (2006), 83 O.R. (3d) 108, at paras. 62-63).

[79] The Crown's priority in claims pursuant to source deductions deemed trusts does not undermine this conclusion. Source deductions deemed trusts survive under both the CCAA and the BIA. Accordingly, creditors' incentives to prefer one Act over another will not be affected. While a court has a broad discretion to stay source deductions deemed trusts in the CCAA context, this discretion is nevertheless subject to specific limitations applicable only to source deductions deemed trusts (CCAA, s. 11.4). Thus, if CCAA reorganization fails (e.g., either the creditors or the court refuse a proposed reorganization), the Crown can immediately assert its claim in unremitted source deductions. But this should not be understood to affect a seamless transition into bankruptcy or create any "gap" between the CCAA and the BIA for the simple reason that, regardless of what statute the reorganization had been commenced under, creditors' claims in both instances would have been subject to the priority of the Crown's source deductions deemed trust.

[80] Source deductions deemed trusts aside, the comprehensive and exhaustive mechanism under the BIA must control the distribution of the debtor's assets once liquidation is inevitable. Indeed, an orderly transition to liquidation is mandatory under the BIA where a proposal is rejected by creditors. The CCAA is silent on the transition into liquidation but the breadth of the court's discretion under the Act is sufficient to construct a bridge to liquidation under the BIA. The court must do so in a manner that does not subvert the scheme of distribution under the BIA. Transition liées » et il n'existe entre elles aucun « hiatus » qui permettrait d'obtenir l'exécution, à l'issue de procédures engagées sous le régime de la LACC, de droits de propriété qui seraient perdus en cas de faillite (Ivaco Inc. (Re) (2006), 83 O.R. (3d) 108, par. 62-63).

[79] La priorité accordée aux réclamations de la Couronne fondées sur une fiducie réputée visant des retenues à la source n'affaiblit en rien cette conclusion. Comme ces fiducies réputées survivent tant sous le régime de la LACC que sous celui de la LFI, ce facteur n'a aucune incidence sur l'intérêt que pourraient avoir les créanciers à préférer une loi plutôt que l'autre. S'il est vrai que le tribunal agissant en vertu de la LACC dispose d'une grande latitude pour suspendre les réclamations fondée sur des fiducies réputées visant des retenues à la source, cette latitude n'en demeure pas moins soumise à des limitations particulières, applicables uniquement à ces fiducies réputées (LACC, art. 11.4). Par conséquent, si la réorganisation tentée sous le régime de la LACC échoue (p. ex. parce que le tribunal ou les créanciers refusent une proposition de réorganisation), la Couronne peut immédiatement présenter sa réclamation à l'égard des retenues à la source non versées. Mais il ne faut pas en conclure que cela compromet le passage harmonieux au régime de faillite ou crée le moindre « hiatus » entre la LACC et la LFI, car le fait est que, peu importe la loi en vertu de laquelle la réorganisation a été amorcée, les réclamations des créanciers auraient dans les deux cas été subordonnées à la priorité de la fiducie réputée de la Couronne à l'égard des retenues à la source.

[80] Abstraction faite des fiducies réputées visant les retenues à la source, c'est le mécanisme complet et exhaustif prévu par la LFI qui doit régir la répartition des biens du débiteur une fois que la liquidation est devenue inévitable. De fait, une transition ordonnée aux procédures de liquidation est obligatoire sous le régime de la LFI lorsqu'une proposition est rejetée par les créanciers. La LACC est muette à l'égard de cette transition, mais l'ampleur du pouvoir discrétionnaire conféré au tribunal par cette loi est suffisante pour établir une passerelle vers une liquidation opérée sous le régime to liquidation requires partially lifting the CCAA stay to commence proceedings under the BIA. This necessary partial lifting of the stay should not trigger a race to the courthouse in an effort to obtain priority unavailable under the BIA.

[81] I therefore conclude that Brenner C.J.S.C. had the authority under the CCAA to lift the stay to allow entry into liquidation.

3.4 Express Trust

[82] The last issue in this case is whether Brenner C.J.S.C. created an express trust in favour of the Crown when he ordered on April 29, 2008, that proceeds from the sale of LeRoy Trucking's assets equal to the amount of unremitted GST be held back in the Monitor's trust account until the results of the reorganization were known. Tysoe J.A. in the Court of Appeal concluded as an alternative ground for allowing the Crown's appeal that it was the beneficiary of an express trust. I disagree.

[83] Creation of an express trust requires the presence of three certainties: intention, subject matter, and object. Express or "true trusts" arise from the acts and intentions of the settlor and are distinguishable from other trusts arising by operation of law (see D. W. M. Waters, M. R. Gillen and L. D. Smith, eds., Waters' Law of Trusts in Canada (3rd ed. 2005), at pp. 28-29, especially fn. 42).

[84] Here, there is no certainty to the object (i.e. the beneficiary) inferable from the court's order of April 29, 2008 sufficient to support an express trust.

de la LFI. Ce faisant, le tribunal doit veiller à ne pas perturber le plan de répartition établi par la LFI. La transition au régime de liquidation nécessite la levée partielle de la suspension des procédures ordonnée en vertu de la LACC, afin de permettre l'introduction de procédures en vertu de la LFI. Il ne faudrait pas que cette indispensable levée partielle de la suspension des procédures provoque une ruée des créanciers vers le palais de justice pour l'obtention d'une priorité inexistante sous le régime de la LFI.

[81] Je conclus donc que le juge en chef Brenner avait, en vertu de la LACC, le pouvoir de lever la suspension des procédures afin de permettre la transition au régime de liquidation.

3.4 Fiducie expresse

[82] La dernière question à trancher en l'espèce est celle de savoir si le juge en chef Brenner a créé une fiducie expresse en faveur de la Couronne quand il a ordonné, le 29 avril 2008, que le produit de la vente des biens de LeRoy Trucking — jusqu'à concurrence des sommes de TPS non remises — soit détenu dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur jusqu'à ce que l'issue de la réorganisation soit connue. Un autre motif invoqué par le juge Tysoe de la Cour d'appel pour accueillir l'appel interjeté par la Couronne était que, selon lui, celle-ci était effectivement la bénéficiaire d'une fiducie expresse. Je ne peux souscrire à cette conclusion.

[83] La création d'une fiducie expresse exige la présence de trois certitudes : certitude d'intention, certitude de matière et certitude d'objet. Les fiducies expresses ou « fiducies au sens strict » découlent des actes et des intentions du constituant et se distinguent des autres fiducies découlant de l'effet de la loi (voir D. W. M. Waters, M. R. Gillen et L. D. Smith, dir., Waters' Law of Trusts in Canada (3^e éd. 2005), p. 28-29, particulièrement la note en bas de page 42).

[84] En l'espèce, il n'existe aucune certitude d'objet (c.-à-d. relative au bénéficiaire) pouvant être inférée de l'ordonnance prononcée le 29 avril 2008 par le tribunal et suffisante pour donner naissance à une fiducie expresse.

[85] At the time of the order, there was a dispute between Century Services and the Crown over part of the proceeds from the sale of the debtor's assets. The court's solution was to accept LeRoy Trucking's proposal to segregate those monies until that dispute could be resolved. Thus, there was no certainty that the Crown would actually be the beneficiary, or object, of the trust.

[86] The fact that the location chosen to segregate those monies was the Monitor's trust account has no independent effect such that it would overcome the lack of a clear beneficiary. In any event, under the interpretation of CCAA s. 18.3(1) established above, no such priority dispute would even arise because the Crown's deemed trust priority over GST claims would be lost under the CCAA and the Crown would rank as an unsecured creditor for this amount. However, Brenner C.J.S.C. may well have been proceeding on the basis that, in accordance with Ottawa Senators, the Crown's GST claim would remain effective if reorganization was successful, which would not be the case if transition to the liquidation process of the BIA was allowed. An amount equivalent to that claim would accordingly be set aside pending the outcome of reorganization.

[87] Thus, uncertainty surrounding the outcome of the CCAA restructuring eliminates the existence of any certainty to permanently vest in the Crown a beneficial interest in the funds. That much is clear from the oral reasons of Brenner C.J.S.C. on April 29, 2008, when he said: "Given the fact that [CCAA proceedings] are known to fail and filings in bankruptcy result, it seems to me that maintaining the status quo in the case at bar supports the proposal to have the monitor hold these funds in trust." Exactly who might take the money in the final result was therefore evidently in doubt. Brenner C.J.S.C.'s subsequent order of September 3, 2008 denying the Crown's application to enforce the trust once it was clear [85] Au moment où l'ordonnance a été rendue, il y avait un différend entre Century Services et la Couronne au sujet d'une partie du produit de la vente des biens du débiteur. La solution retenue par le tribunal a consisté à accepter, selon la proposition de LeRoy Trucking, que la somme en question soit détenue séparément jusqu'à ce que le différend puisse être réglé. Par conséquent, il n'existait aucune certitude que la Couronne serait véritablement le bénéficiaire ou l'objet de la fiducie.

[86] Le fait que le compte choisi pour conserver séparément la somme en question était le compte en fiducie du contrôleur n'a pas à lui seul un effet tel qu'il suppléerait à l'absence d'un bénéficiaire certain. De toute façon, suivant l'interprétation du par. 18.3(1) de la LACC dégagée précédemment, aucun différend ne saurait même exister quant à la priorité de rang, étant donné que la priorité accordée aux réclamations de la Couronne fondées sur la fiducie réputée visant la TPS ne s'applique pas sous le régime de la LACC et que la Couronne est reléguée au rang de créancier non garanti à l'égard des sommes en question. Cependant, il se peut fort bien que le juge en chef Brenner ait estimé que, conformément à l'arrêt Ottawa Senators, la créance de la Couronne à l'égard de la TPS demeurerait effective si la réorganisation aboutissait, ce qui ne serait pas le cas si le passage au processus de liquidation régi par la LFI était autorisé. Une somme équivalente à cette créance serait ainsi mise de côté jusqu'à ce que le résultat de la réorganisation soit connu.

[87] Par conséquent, l'incertitude entourant l'issue de la restructuration tentée sous le régime de la LACC exclut l'existence d'une certitude permettant de conférer de manière permanente à la Couronne un intérêt bénéficiaire sur la somme en question. Cela ressort clairement des motifs exposés de vive voix par le juge en chef Brenner le 29 avril 2008, lorsqu'il a dit : [TRADUCTION] « Comme il est notoire que [des procédures fondées sur la LACC] peuvent échouer et que cela entraîne des faillites, le maintien du statu quo en l'espèce me semble militer en faveur de l'acceptation de la proposition d'ordonner au contrôleur de détenir ces fonds en fiducie. » Il y avait donc manifestement un doute quant à la question de savoir qui au juste pourrait toucher l'argent that bankruptcy was inevitable, confirms the absence of a clear beneficiary required to ground an express trust.

4. Conclusion

[88] I conclude that Brenner C.J.S.C. had the discretion under the CCAA to continue the stay of the Crown's claim for enforcement of the GST deemed trust while otherwise lifting it to permit LeRoy Trucking to make an assignment in bankruptcy. My conclusion that s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA nullified the GST deemed trust while proceedings under that Act were pending confirms that the discretionary jurisdiction under s. 11 utilized by the court was not limited by the Crown's asserted GST priority, because there is no such priority under the CCAA.

[89] For these reasons, I would allow the appeal and declare that the $305,202.30 collected by LeRoy Trucking in respect of GST but not yet remitted to the Receiver General of Canada is not subject to deemed trust or priority in favour of the Crown. Nor is this amount subject to an express trust. Costs are awarded for this appeal and the appeal in the court below.

The following are the reasons delivered by

I

[90] I am in general agreement with the reasons of Justice Deschamps and would dispose of the appeal as she suggests.

[91] More particularly, I share my colleague's interpretation of the scope of the judge's discretion under s. 11 of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 ("CCAA").

en fin de compte. L'ordonnance ultérieure du juge en chef Brenner — dans laquelle ce dernier a rejeté, le 3 septembre 2008, la demande de la Couronne sollicitant le bénéfice de la fiducie présumée après qu'il fut devenu évident que la faillite était inévitable — confirme l'absence du bénéficiaire certain sans lequel il ne saurait y avoir de fiducie expresse.

4. Conclusion

[88] Je conclus que le juge en chef Brenner avait, en vertu de la LACC, le pouvoir discrétionnaire de maintenir la suspension de la demande de la Couronne sollicitant le bénéfice de la fiducie réputée visant la TPS, tout en levant par ailleurs la suspension des procédures de manière à permettre à LeRoy Trucking de faire cession de ses biens. Ma conclusion selon laquelle le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC neutralisait la fiducie réputée visant la TPS pendant la durée des procédures fondées sur cette loi confirme que les pouvoirs discrétionnaires exercés par le tribunal en vertu de l'art. 11 n'étaient pas limités par la priorité invoquée par la Couronne au titre de la TPS, puisqu'il n'existe aucune priorité de la sorte sous le régime de la LACC.

[89] Pour ces motifs, je suis d'avis d'accueillir le pourvoi et de déclarer que la somme de 305 202,30 $ perçue par LeRoy Trucking au titre de la TPS mais non encore versée au receveur général du Canada ne fait l'objet d'aucune fiducie réputée ou priorité en faveur de la Couronne. Cette somme ne fait pas non plus l'objet d'une fiducie expresse. Les dépens sont accordés à l'égard du présent pourvoi et de l'appel interjeté devant la juridiction inférieure.

Version française des motifs rendus par

LE JUGE FISH —

I

[90] Je souscris dans l'ensemble aux motifs de la juge Deschamps et je disposerais du pourvoi comme elle le propose.

And I share my colleague's conclusion that Brenner C.J.S.C. did not create an express trust in favour of the Crown when he segregated GST funds into the Monitor's trust account (2008 BCSC 1805, [2008] G.S.T.C. 221).

[92] I nonetheless feel bound to add brief reasons of my own regarding the interaction between the CCAA and the Excise Tax Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. E-15 ("ETA").

[93] In upholding deemed trusts created by the ETA notwithstanding insolvency proceedings, Ottawa Senators Hockey Club Corp. (Re) (2005), 73 O.R. (3d) 737 (C.A.), and its progeny have been unduly protective of Crown interests which Parliament itself has chosen to subordinate to competing prioritized claims. In my respectful view, a clearly marked departure from that jurisprudential approach is warranted in this case.

[94] Justice Deschamps develops important historical and policy reasons in support of this position and I have nothing to add in that regard. I do wish, however, to explain why a comparative analysis of related statutory provisions adds support to our shared conclusion.

[95] Parliament has in recent years given detailed consideration to the Canadian insolvency scheme. It has declined to amend the provisions at issue in this case. Ours is not to wonder why, but rather to treat Parliament's preservation of the relevant provisions as a deliberate exercise of the legislative discretion that is Parliament's alone. With respect, I reject any suggestion that we should instead characterize the apparent conflict between s. 18.3(1) (now s. 37(1)) of the CCAA and s. 222 of the ETA as a drafting anomaly or statutory lacuna properly subject to judicial correction or repair.

1985, ch. C-36 (« LACC »). Je partage en outre sa conclusion suivant laquelle le juge en chef Brenner n'a pas créé de fiducie expresse en faveur de la Couronne en ordonnant que les sommes recueillies au titre de la TPS soient détenues séparément dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur (2008 BCSC 1805, [2008] G.S.T.C. 221).

[93] En maintenant, malgré l'existence des procédures d'insolvabilité, la validité de fiducies réputées créées en vertu de la LTA, l'arrêt Ottawa Senators Hockey Club Corp. (Re) (2005), 73 O.R. (3d) 737 (C.A.), et les décisions rendues dans sa foulée ont eu pour effet de protéger indûment des droits de la Couronne que le Parlement avait lui-même choisi de subordonner à d'autres créances prioritaires. À mon avis, il convient en l'espèce de rompre nettement avec ce courant jurisprudenciel.

[94] La juge Deschamps expose d'importantes raisons d'ordre historique et d'intérêt général à l'appui de cette position et je n'ai rien à ajouter à cet égard. Je tiens toutefois à expliquer pourquoi une analyse comparative de certaines dispositions législatives connexes vient renforcer la conclusion à laquelle ma collègue et moi-même en arrivons.

[95] Au cours des dernières années, le législateur fédéral a procédé à un examen approfondi du régime canadien d'insolvabilité. Il a refusé de modifier les dispositions qui sont en cause dans la présente affaire. Il ne nous appartient pas de nous interroger sur les raisons de ce choix. Nous devons plutôt considérer la décision du législateur de maintenir en vigueur les dispositions en question comme un exercice délibéré du pouvoir discrétionnaire de légiférer, pouvoir qui est exclusivement le sien. Avec égards, je rejette le point de vue suivant lequel nous devrions plutôt qualifier l'apparente contradiction entre le par. 18.3(1) (maintenant le par. 37(1)) de la LACC et l'art. 222 de la LTA d'anomalie rédactionnelle ou de lacune législative susceptible d'être corrigée par un tribunal.

II

[96] In the context of the Canadian insolvency regime, a deemed trust will be found to exist only where two complementary elements co-exist: first, a statutory provision creating the trust; and second, a CCAA or Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-3 (“BIA”) provision confirming — or explicitly preserving — its effective operation.

[97] This interpretation is reflected in three federal statutes. Each contains a deemed trust provision framed in terms strikingly similar to the wording of s. 222 of the ETA.

[98] The first is the Income Tax Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (“ITA”), where s. 227(4) creates a deemed trust:

(4) Every person who deducts or withholds an amount under this Act is deemed, notwithstanding any security interest (as defined in subsection 224(1.3)) in the amount so deducted or withheld, to hold the amount separate and apart from the property of the person and from property held by any secured creditor (as defined in subsection 224(1.3)) of that person that but for the security interest would be property of the person, in trust for Her Majesty and for payment to Her Majesty in the manner and at the time provided under this Act. [Here and below, the emphasis is of course my own.]

[99] In the next subsection, Parliament has taken care to make clear that this trust is unaffected by federal or provincial legislation to the contrary:

(4.1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (except sections 81.1 and 81.2 of that Act), any other enactment of Canada, any enactment of a province or any other law, where at any time an amount deemed by subsection 227(4) to be held by a person in trust for Her Majesty is not paid to Her Majesty in the manner and at the time provided under this Act, property of the person . . . equal in value to the amount so deemed to be held in trust is deemed

(a) to be held, from the time the amount was deducted or withheld by the person, separate and

[98] La première est la Loi de l’impôt sur le revenu, L.R.C. 1985, ch. 1 (5^e suppl.) (« LIR »), dont le par. 227(4) crée une fiducie réputée :

(4) Toute personne qui déduit ou retient un montant en vertu de la présente loi est réputée, malgré toute autre garantie au sens du paragraphe 224(1.3) le concernant, le détenir en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, séparé de ses propres biens et des biens détenus par son créancier garanti au sens de ce paragraphe qui, en l’absence de la garantie, seraient ceux de la personne, et en vue de le verser à Sa Majesté selon les modalités et dans le délai prévus par la présente loi. [Dans la présente citation et dans celles qui suivent, les soulignements sont évidemment de moi.]

(4.1) Malgré les autres dispositions de la présente loi, la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité (sauf ses articles 81.1 et 81.2), tout autre texte législatif fédéral ou provincial ou toute règle de droit, en cas de non-versement à Sa Majesté, selon les modalités et dans le délai prévus par la présente loi, d’un montant qu’une personne est réputée par le paragraphe (4) détenir en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, les biens de la personne [. . .] d’une valeur égale à ce montant sont réputés :

a) être détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, à compter du moment où le montant est déduit ou retenu, apart from the property of the person, in trust for Her Majesty whether or not the property is subject to such a security interest, . . .

séparés des propres biens de la personne, qu'ils soient ou non assujettis à une telle garantie;

. . . and the proceeds of such property shall be paid to the Receiver General in priority to all such security interests.

. . . et le produit découlant de ces biens est payé au receveur général par priorité sur une telle garantie.

[100] The continued operation of this deemed trust is expressly confirmed in s. 18.3 of the CCAA:

[100] Le maintien en vigueur de cette fiducie réputée est expressément confirmé à l'art. 18.3 de la LACC :

18.3 (1) Subject to subsection (2), notwithstanding any provision in federal or provincial legislation that has the effect of deeming property to be held in trust for Her Majesty, property of a debtor company shall not be regarded as held in trust for Her Majesty unless it would be so regarded in the absence of that statutory provision.

18.3(1) Sous réserve du paragraphe (2) et par dérogation à toute disposition législative fédérale ou provinciale ayant pour effet d'assimiler certains biens à des biens détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, aucun des biens de la compagnie débitrice ne peut être considéré comme détenu en fiducie pour Sa Majesté si, en l'absence de la disposition législative en question, il ne le serait pas.

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply in respect of amounts deemed to be held in trust under subsection 227(4) or (4.1) of the Income Tax Act, subsection 23(3) or (4) of the Canada Pension Plan or subsection 86(2) or (2.1) of the Employment Insurance Act

(2) Le paragraphe (1) ne s'applique pas à l'égard des montants réputés détenus en fiducie aux termes des paragraphes 227(4) ou (4.1) de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu, des paragraphes 23(3) ou (4) du Régime de pensions du Canada ou des paragraphes 86(2) ou (2.1) de la Loi sur l'assurance-emploi

[101] The operation of the ITA deemed trust is also confirmed in s. 67 of the BIA:

[101] L'application de la fiducie réputée prévue par la LIR est également confirmée par l'art. 67 de la LFI :

(2) Subject to subsection (3), notwithstanding any provision in federal or provincial legislation that has the effect of deeming property to be held in trust for Her Majesty, property of a bankrupt shall not be regarded as held in trust for Her Majesty for the purpose of paragraph (1)(a) unless it would be so regarded in the absence of that statutory provision.

(2) Sous réserve du paragraphe (3) et par dérogation à toute disposition législative fédérale ou provinciale ayant pour effet d'assimiler certains biens à des biens détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, aucun des biens du failli ne peut, pour l'application de l'alinéa (1)a), être considéré comme détenu en fiducie pour Sa Majesté si, en l'absence de la disposition législative en question, il ne le serait pas.

(3) Subsection (2) does not apply in respect of amounts deemed to be held in trust under subsection 227(4) or (4.1) of the Income Tax Act, subsection 23(3) or (4) of the Canada Pension Plan or subsection 86(2) or (2.1) of the Employment Insurance Act

(3) Le paragraphe (2) ne s'applique pas à l'égard des montants réputés détenus en fiducie aux termes des paragraphes 227(4) ou (4.1) de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu, des paragraphes 23(3) ou (4) du Régime de pensions du Canada ou des paragraphes 86(2) ou (2.1) de la Loi sur l'assurance-emploi

[102] Thus, Parliament has first created and then confirmed the continued operation of the Crown's ITA deemed trust under both the CCAA and the BIA regimes.

[102] Par conséquent, le législateur a créé, puis confirmé le maintien en vigueur de la fiducie réputée établie par la LIR en faveur de Sa Majesté tant sous le régime de la LACC que sous celui de la LFI.

[103] The second federal statute for which this scheme holds true is the Canada Pension Plan, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-8 (“CPP”). At s. 23, Parliament creates a deemed trust in favour of the Crown and specifies that it exists despite all contrary provisions in any other Canadian statute. Finally, and in almost identical terms, the Employment Insurance Act, S.C. 1996, c. 23 (“EIA”), creates a deemed trust in favour of the Crown: see ss. 86(2) and (2.1).

[104] As we have seen, the survival of the deemed trusts created under these provisions of the ITA, the CPP and the EIA is confirmed in s. 18.3(2) of the CCAA and in s. 67(3) of the BIA. In all three cases, Parliament’s intent to enforce the Crown’s deemed trust through insolvency proceedings is expressed in clear and unmistakable terms.

[105] The same is not true with regard to the deemed trust created under the ETA. Although Parliament creates a deemed trust in favour of the Crown to hold unremitted GST monies, and although it purports to maintain this trust notwithstanding any contrary federal or provincial legislation, it does not confirm the trust — or expressly provide for its continued operation — in either the BIA or the CCAA. The second of the two mandatory elements I have mentioned is thus absent reflecting Parliament’s intention to allow the deemed trust to lapse with the commencement of insolvency proceedings.

[106] The language of the relevant ETA provisions is identical in substance to that of the ITA, CPP, and EIA provisions:

222. (1) Subject to subsection (1.1), every person who collects an amount as or on account of tax under Division II is deemed, for all purposes and despite any security interest in the amount, to hold the amount in trust for Her Majesty in right of Canada, separate and apart from the property of the person and from property held by any secured creditor of the person that, but for a

[104] Comme nous l’avons vu, le maintien en vigueur des fiducies réputées créées en vertu de ces dispositions de la LIR, du RPC et de la LAE est confirmé au par. 18.3(2) de la LACC et au par. 67(3) de la LFI. Dans les trois cas, le législateur a exprimé en termes clairs et explicites sa volonté de voir la fiducie réputée établie en faveur de la Couronne produire ses effets pendant le déroulement de la procédure d’insolvabilité.

[105] La situation est différente dans le cas de la fiducie réputée créée par la LTA. Bien que le législateur crée en faveur de la Couronne une fiducie réputée dans laquelle seront conservées les sommes recueillies au titre de la TPS mais non encore versées, et bien qu’il prétende maintenir cette fiducie en vigueur malgré les dispositions à l’effet contraire de toute loi fédérale ou provinciale, il ne confirme pas l’existence de la fiducie — ni ne prévoit expressément le maintien en vigueur de celle-ci — dans la LFI ou dans la LACC. Le second des deux éléments obligatoires que j’ai mentionnés fait donc défaut, ce qui témoigne de l’intention du législateur de laisser la fiducie réputée devenir caduque au moment de l’introduction de la procédure d’insolvabilité.

[106] Le texte des dispositions en cause de la LTA est substantiellement identique à celui des dispositions de la LIR, du RPC et de la LAE :

222. (1) La personne qui perçoit un montant au titre de la taxe prévue à la section II est réputée, à toutes fins utiles et malgré tout droit en garantie le concernant, le détenir en fiducie pour Sa Majesté du chef du Canada, séparé de ses propres biens et des biens détenus par ses créanciers garantis qui, en l’absence du droit en garantie, seraient ceux de la personne, jusqu’à ce qu’il soit security interest, would be property of the person, until the amount is remitted to the Receiver General or withdrawn under subsection (2).

(3) Despite any other provision of this Act (except subsection (4)), any other enactment of Canada (except the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act), any enactment of a province or any other law, if at any time an amount deemed by subsection (1) to be held by a person in trust for Her Majesty is not remitted to the Receiver General or withdrawn in the manner and at the time provided under this Part, property of the person and property held by any secured creditor of the person that, but for a security interest, would be property of the person, equal in value to the amount so deemed to be held in trust, is deemed

(a) to be held, from the time the amount was collected by the person, in trust for Her Majesty, separate and apart from the property of the person, whether or not the property is subject to a security interest, . . .

. . . and the proceeds of the property shall be paid to the Receiver General in priority to all security interests.

[107] Yet no provision of the CCAA provides for the continuation of this deemed trust after the CCAA is brought into play.

[108] In short, Parliament has imposed two explicit conditions, or “building blocks”, for survival under the CCAA of deemed trusts created by the ITA, CPP, and EIA. Had Parliament intended to likewise preserve under the CCAA deemed trusts created by the ETA, it would have included in the CCAA the sort of confirmatory provision that explicitly preserves other deemed trusts.

[109] With respect, unlike Tysoe J.A., I do not find it “inconceivable that Parliament would specifically identify the BIA as an exception when enacting the current version of s. 222(3) of the ETA without considering the CCAA as a possible second exception” (2009 BCCA 205, 98 B.C.L.R. (4th) 242, at para. 37). All of the deemed trust versé au receveur général ou retiré en application du paragraphe (2).

(3) Malgré les autres dispositions de la présente loi (sauf le paragraphe (4) du présent article), tout autre texte législatif fédéral (sauf la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité), tout texte législatif provincial ou toute autre règle de droit, lorsqu'un montant qu'une personne est réputée par le paragraphe (1) détenir en fiducie pour Sa Majesté du chef du Canada n'est pas versé au receveur général ni retiré selon les modalités et dans le délai prévus par la présente partie, les biens de la personne — y compris les biens détenus par ses créanciers garantis qui, en l'absence du droit en garantie, seraient ses biens — d'une valeur égale à ce montant sont réputés :

a) être détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté du chef du Canada, à compter du moment où le montant est perçu par la personne, séparés des propres biens de la personne, qu'ils soient ou non assujettis à un droit en garantie;

. . . et le produit découlant de ces biens est payé au receveur général par priorité sur tout droit en garantie.

[107] Pourtant, aucune disposition de la LACC ne prévoit le maintien en vigueur de la fiducie réputée une fois que la LACC entre en jeu.

[108] En résumé, le législateur a imposé deux conditions explicites — ou « composantes de base » — devant être réunies pour que survivent, sous le régime de la LACC, les fiducies réputées qui ont été établies par la LIR, le RPC et la LAE. S'il avait voulu préserver de la même façon, sous le régime de la LACC, les fiducies réputées qui sont établies par la LTA, il aurait inséré dans la LACC le type de disposition confirmatoire qui maintient explicitement en vigueur d'autres fiducies réputées.

[109] Avec égards pour l'opinion contraire exprimée par le juge Tysoe de la Cour d'appel, je ne trouve pas [TRADUCTION] « inconcevable que le législateur, lorsqu'il a adopté la version actuelle du par. 222(3) de la LTA, ait désigné expressément la LFI comme une exception sans envisager que la LACC puisse constituer une deuxième exception » (2009 BCCA provisions excerpted above make explicit reference to the BIA. Section 222 of the ETA does not break the pattern. Given the near-identical wording of the four deemed trust provisions, it would have been surprising indeed had Parliament not addressed the BIA at all in the ETA.

[110] Parliament's evident intent was to render GST deemed trusts inoperative upon the institution of insolvency proceedings. Accordingly, s. 222 mentions the BIA so as to exclude it from its ambit — rather than to include it, as do the ITA, the CPP, and the EIA.

[111] Conversely, I note that none of these statutes mentions the CCAA expressly. Their specific reference to the BIA has no bearing on their interaction with the CCAA. Again, it is the confirmatory provisions in the insolvency statutes that determine whether a given deemed trust will subsist during insolvency proceedings.

[112] Finally, I believe that chambers judges should not segregate GST monies into the Monitor's trust account during CCAA proceedings, as was done in this case. The result of Justice Deschamps's reasoning is that GST claims become unsecured under the CCAA. Parliament has deliberately chosen to nullify certain Crown super-priorities during insolvency; this is one such instance.

III

[113] For these reasons, like Justice Deschamps, I would allow the appeal with costs in this Court and in the courts below and order that the $305,202.30 collected by LeRoy Trucking in respect of GST but not yet remitted to the Receiver General of Canada

205, 98 B.C.L.R. (4th) 242, par. 37). Toutes les dispositions établissant des fiducies réputées qui sont reproduites ci-dessus font explicitement mention de la LFI. L'article 222 de la LTA ne rompt pas avec ce modèle. Compte tenu du libellé presque identique des quatre dispositions établissant une fiducie réputée, il aurait d'ailleurs été étonnant que le législateur ne fasse aucune mention de la LFI dans la LTA.

[112] Enfin, j'estime que les juges siégeant en leur cabinet ne devraient pas, comme cela s'est produit en l'espèce, ordonner que les sommes perçues au titre de la TPS soient détenues séparément dans le compte en fiducie du contrôleur pendant le déroulement d'une procédure fondée sur la LACC. Il résulte du raisonnement de la juge Deschamps que les réclamations de TPS deviennent des créances non garanties sous le régime de la LACC. Le législateur a délibérément décidé de supprimer certaines superpriorités accordées à la Couronne pendant l'insolvabilité; nous sommes en présence de l'un de ces cas.

III

[113] Pour les motifs qui précèdent, je suis d'avis, à l'instar de la juge Deschamps, d'accueillir le pourvoi avec dépens devant notre Cour et devant les juridictions inférieures, et d'ordonner que la somme de 305 202,30 $ — qui a été perçue par LeRoy Trucking be subject to no deemed trust or priority in favour of the Crown.

The following are the reasons delivered by

[115] Section 11¹ of the CCAA stated:

11. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act or the Winding-up Act, where an application is made under this Act in respect of a company, the court, on the application of any person interested in the matter, may, subject to this Act, on notice to any other person or without notice as it may see fit, make an order under this section.

To decide the scope of the court’s discretion under s. 11, it is necessary to first determine the priority issue. Section 222(3), the provision of the ETA at issue in this case, states:

¹ Section 11 was amended, effective September 18, 2009, and now states:

11. Despite anything in the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act or the Winding-up and Restructuring Act, if an application is made under this Act in respect of a debtor company, the court, on the application of any person interested in the matter, may, subject to the restrictions set out in this Act, on notice to any other person or without notice as it may see fit, make any order that it considers appropriate in the circumstances.

au titre de la TPS mais n’a pas encore été versée au receveur général du Canada — ne fasse l’objet d’aucune fiducie réputée ou priorité en faveur de la Couronne.

Version française des motifs rendus par

[115] L’article 11¹ de la LACC disposait :

11. (1) Malgré toute disposition de la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité ou de la Loi sur les liquidations, chaque fois qu’une demande est faite sous le régime de la présente loi à l’égard d’une compagnie, le tribunal, sur demande d’un intéressé, peut, sous réserve des autres dispositions de la présente loi et avec ou sans avis, rendre l’ordonnance prévue au présent article.

Pour être en mesure de déterminer la portée du pouvoir discrétionnaire conféré au tribunal par l’art. 11, il est nécessaire de trancher d’abord la question de la priorité. Le paragraphe 222(3), la disposition de la LTA en cause en l’espèce, prévoit ce qui suit :

11. Malgré toute disposition de la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité ou de la Loi sur les liquidations et les restructurations, le tribunal peut, dans le cas de toute demande sous le régime de la présente loi à l’égard d’une compagnie débitrice, rendre, sur demande d’un intéressé, mais sous réserve des restrictions prévues par la présente loi et avec ou sans avis, toute ordonnance qu’il estime indiquée.

(3) Despite any other provision of this Act (except subsection (4)), any other enactment of Canada (except the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act), any enactment of a province or any other law, if at any time an amount deemed by subsection (1) to be held by a person in trust for Her Majesty is not remitted to the Receiver General or withdrawn in the manner and at the time provided under this Part, property of the person and property held by any secured creditor of the person that, but for a security interest, would be property of the person, equal in value to the amount so deemed to be held in trust, is deemed

(a) to be held, from the time the amount was collected by the person, in trust for Her Majesty, separate and apart from the property of the person, whether or not the property is subject to a security interest, and

(b) to form no part of the estate or property of the person from the time the amount was collected, whether or not the property has in fact been kept separate and apart from the estate or property of the person and whether or not the property is subject to a security interest and is property beneficially owned by Her Majesty in right of Canada despite any security interest in the property or in the proceeds thereof and the proceeds of the property shall be paid to the Receiver General in priority to all security interests.

[116] Century Services argued that the CCAA's general override provision, s. 18.3(1), prevailed, and that the deeming provisions in s. 222 of the ETA were, accordingly, inapplicable during CCAA proceedings. Section 18.3(1) states:

18.3 (1) . . . [N]otwithstanding any provision in federal or provincial legislation that has the effect of deeming property to be held in trust for Her Majesty, property of a debtor company shall not be regarded as held in trust for Her Majesty unless it would be so regarded in the absence of that statutory provision.

[117] As MacPherson J.A. correctly observed in Ottawa Senators Hockey Club Corp. (Re) (2005), 73 O.R. (3d) 737 (C.A.), s. 222(3) of the ETA is in “clear conflict” with s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA (para. 31). Resolving the conflict between the two provisions is, essentially, what seems to me to be a relatively uncomplicated exercise in statutory

(3) Malgré les autres dispositions de la présente loi (sauf le paragraphe (4) du présent article), tout autre texte législatif fédéral (sauf la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité), tout texte législatif provincial ou toute autre règle de droit, lorsqu'un montant qu'une personne est réputée par le paragraphe (1) détenir en fiducie pour Sa Majesté du chef du Canada n'est pas versé au receveur général ni retiré selon les modalités et dans le délai prévus par la présente partie, les biens de la personne — y compris les biens détenus par ses créanciers garantis qui, en l'absence du droit en garantie, seraient ses biens — d'une valeur égale à ce montant sont réputés :

a) être détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté du chef du Canada, à compter du moment où le montant est perçu par la personne, séparés des propres biens de la personne, qu'ils soient ou non assujettis à un droit en garantie;

b) ne pas faire partie du patrimoine ou des biens de la personne à compter du moment où le montant est perçu, que ces biens aient été ou non tenus séparés de ses propres biens ou de son patrimoine et qu'ils soient ou non assujettis à un droit en garantie.

Ces biens sont des biens dans lesquels Sa Majesté du chef du Canada a un droit de bénéficiaire malgré tout autre droit en garantie sur ces biens ou sur le produit en découlant, et le produit découlant de ces biens est payé au receveur général par priorité sur tout droit en garantie.

[116] Selon Century Services, la disposition dérogatoire générale de la LACC, le par. 18.3(1), l'emportait, et les dispositions déterminatives à l'art. 222 de la LTA étaient par conséquent inapplicables dans le cadre d'une procédure fondée sur la LACC. Le paragraphe 18.3(1) dispose :

18.3 (1) . . . [P]ar dérogation à toute disposition législative fédérale ou provinciale ayant pour effet d'assimiler certains biens à des biens détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, aucun des biens de la compagnie débitrice ne peut être considéré comme détenu en fiducie pour Sa Majesté si, en l'absence de la disposition législative en question, il ne le serait pas.

[117] Ainsi que l'a fait observer le juge d'appel MacPherson, dans l'arrêt Ottawa Senators Hockey Club Corp. (Re) (2005), 73 O.R. (3d) 737 (C.A.), le par. 222(3) de la LTA [TRADUCTION] « entre nettement en conflit » avec le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC (para. 31). Essentiellement, la résolution du conflit entre ces deux dispositions requiert à mon sens une interpretation: Does the language reflect a clear legislative intention? In my view it does. The deemed trust provision, s. 222(3) of the ETA, has unambiguous language stating that it operates notwithstanding any law except the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-3 (“BIA”).

[118] By expressly excluding only one statute from its legislative grasp, and by unequivocally stating that it applies despite any other law anywhere in Canada except the BIA, s. 222(3) has defined its boundaries in the clearest possible terms. I am in complete agreement with the following comments of MacPherson J.A. in Ottawa Senators:

The legislative intent of s. 222(3) of the ETA is clear. If there is a conflict with “any other enactment of Canada (except the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act)”, s. 222(3) prevails. In these words Parliament did two things: it decided that s. 222(3) should trump all other federal laws and, importantly, it addressed the topic of exceptions to its trumping decision and identified a single exception, the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act The BIA and the CCAA are closely related federal statutes. I cannot conceive that Parliament would specifically identify the BIA as an exception, but accidentally fail to consider the CCAA as a possible second exception. In my view, the omission of the CCAA from s. 222(3) of the ETA was almost certainly a considered omission. [para. 43]

[119] MacPherson J.A.’s view that the failure to exempt the CCAA from the operation of the ETA is a reflection of a clear legislative intention, is borne out by how the CCAA was subsequently changed after s. 18.3(1) was enacted in 1997. In 2000, when s. 222(3) of the ETA came into force, amendments were also introduced to the CCAA. Section 18.3(1) was not amended.

[120] The failure to amend s. 18.3(1) is notable because its effect was to protect the legislative status quo, notwithstanding repeated requests from opération relativement simple d’interprétation des lois : Est-ce que les termes employés révèlent une intention claire du législateur? À mon avis, c’est le cas. Le texte de la disposition créant une fiducie réputée, soit le par. 222(3) de la LTA, précise sans ambiguïté que cette disposition s’applique malgré toute autre règle de droit sauf la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité, L.R.C. 1985, ch. B-3 (« LFI »).

[118] En excluant explicitement une seule loi du champ d’application du par. 222(3) et en déclarant de façon non équivoque qu’il s’applique malgré toute autre loi ou règle de droit au Canada sauf la LFI, le législateur a défini la portée de cette disposition dans des termes on ne peut plus clairs. Je souscris sans réserve aux propos suivants du juge d’appel MacPherson dans l’arrêt Ottawa Senators :

[TRADUCTION] L’intention du législateur au par. 222(3) de la LTA est claire. En cas de conflit avec « tout autre texte législatif fédéral (sauf la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité) », c’est le par. 222(3) qui l’emporte. En employant ces mots, le législateur fédéral a fait deux choses : il a décidé que le par. 222(3) devait l’emporter sur tout autre texte législatif fédéral et, fait important, il a abordé la question des exceptions à cette préséance en en mentionnant une seule, la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité [. . .] La LFI et la LACC sont des lois fédérales étroitement liées entre elles. Je ne puis concevoir que le législateur ait pu mentionner expressément la LFI à titre d’exception, mais ait involontairement omis de considérer la LACC comme une deuxième exception possible. À mon avis, le fait que la LACC ne soit pas mentionnée au par. 222(3) de la LTA était presque assurément une omission mûrement réfléchie de la part du législateur. [par. 43]

[119] L’opinion du juge d’appel MacPherson suivant laquelle le fait que la LACC n’ait pas été soustraite à l’application de la LTA témoigne d’une intention claire du législateur est confortée par la façon dont la LACC a par la suite été modifiée après l’édiction du par. 18.3(1) en 1997. En 2000, lorsque le par. 222(3) de la LTA est entré en vigueur, des modifications ont également été apportées à la LACC, mais le par. 18.3(1) de cette loi n’a pas été modifié.

[120] L’absence de modification du par. 18.3(1) vaut d’être soulignée, car elle a eu pour effet de maintenir le statu quo législatif, malgré les various constituencies that s. 18.3(1) be amended to make the priorities in the CCAA consistent with those in the BIA. In 2002, for example, when Industry Canada conducted a review of the BIA and the CCAA, the Insolvency Institute of Canada and the Canadian Association of Insolvency and Restructuring Professionals recommended that the priority regime under the BIA be extended to the CCAA (Joint Task Force on Business Insolvency Law Reform, Report (March 15, 2002), Sch. B, proposal 71). The same recommendations were made by the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce in its 2003 report, Debtors and Creditors Sharing the Burden: A Review of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act; by the Legislative Review Task Force (Commercial) of the Insolvency Institute of Canada and the Canadian Association of Insolvency and Restructuring Professionals in its 2005 Report on the Commercial Provisions of Bill C-55; and in 2007 by the Insolvency Institute of Canada in a submission to the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce commenting on reforms then under consideration.

[121] Yet the BIA remains the only exempted statute under s. 222(3) of the ETA. Even after the 2005 decision in Ottawa Senators which confirmed that the ETA took precedence over the CCAA, there was no responsive legislative revision. I see this lack of response as relevant in this case, as it was in Tele-Mobile Co. v. Ontario, 2008 SCC 12, [2008] 1 S.C.R. 305, where this Court stated:

While it cannot be said that legislative silence is necessarily determinative of legislative intention, in this case the silence is Parliament's answer to the consistent urging of Telus and other affected businesses and organizations that there be express language in the legislation to ensure that businesses can be reimbursed for the reasonable costs of complying with evidence-gathering orders. I see the legislative history as reflecting Parliament's intention that compensation not be paid for compliance with production orders. [para. 42] demandes répétées de divers groupes qui souhaitaient que cette disposition soit modifiée pour aligner l'ordre de priorité établi par la LACC sur celui de la LFI. En 2002, par exemple, lorsque Industrie Canada a procédé à l'examen de la LFI et de la LACC, l'Institut d'insolvabilité du Canada et l'Association canadienne des professionnels de l'insolvabilité et de la réorganisation ont recommandé que les règles de la LFI en matière de priorité soient étendues à la LACC (Joint Task Force on Business Insolvency Law Reform, Report (15 mars 2002), ann. B, proposition 71). Ces recommandations ont été reprises en 2003 par le Comité sénatorial permanent des banques et du commerce dans son rapport intitulé Les débiteurs et les créanciers doivent se partager le fardeau : Examen de la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité et de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies, ainsi qu'en 2005 par le Legislative Review Task Force (Commercial) de l'Institut d'insolvabilité du Canada et de l'Association canadienne des professionnels de l'insolvabilité et de la réorganisation dans son Report on the Commercial Provisions of Bill C-55, et en 2007 par l'Institut d'insolvabilité du Canada dans un mémoire soumis au Comité sénatorial permanent des banques et du commerce au sujet de réformes alors envisagées.

[121] La LFI demeure néanmoins la seule loi soustraite à l'application du par. 222(3) de la LTA. Même à la suite de l'arrêt rendu en 2005 dans l'affaire Ottawa Senators, qui a confirmé que la LTA l'emportait sur la LACC, le législateur n'est pas intervenu. Cette absence de réaction de sa part me paraît tout aussi pertinente en l'espèce que dans l'arrêt Société Télé-Mobile c. Ontario, 2008 CSC 12, [2008] 1 R.C.S. 305, où la Cour a déclaré ceci :

Le silence du législateur n'est pas nécessairement déterminant quant à son intention, mais en l'espèce, il répond à la demande pressante de Telus et des autres entreprises et organisations intéressées que la loi prévoie expressément la possibilité d'un remboursement des frais raisonnables engagés pour communiquer des éléments de preuve conformément à une ordonnance. L'historique législatif confirme selon moi que le législateur n'a pas voulu qu'une indemnité soit versée pour l'obtempération à une ordonnance de communication. [par. 42]

[122] All this leads to a clear inference of a deliberate legislative choice to protect the deemed trust in s. 222(3) from the reach of s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA.

[123] Nor do I see any “policy” justification for interfering, through interpretation, with this clarity of legislative intention. I can do no better by way of explaining why I think the policy argument cannot succeed in this case, than to repeat the words of Tysoe J.A. who said:

I do not dispute that there are valid policy reasons for encouraging insolvent companies to attempt to restructure their affairs so that their business can continue with as little disruption to employees and other stakeholders as possible. It is appropriate for the courts to take such policy considerations into account, but only if it is in connection with a matter that has not been considered by Parliament. Here, Parliament must be taken to have weighed policy considerations when it enacted the amendments to the CCAA and ETA described above. As Mr. Justice MacPherson observed at para. 43 of Ottawa Senators, it is inconceivable that Parliament would specifically identify the BIA as an exception when enacting the current version of s. 222(3) of the ETA without considering the CCAA as a possible second exception. I also make the observation that the 1992 set of amendments to the BIA enabled proposals to be binding on secured creditors and, while there is more flexibility under the CCAA, it is possible for an insolvent company to attempt to restructure under the auspices of the BIA. [para. 37]

[124] Despite my view that the clarity of the language in s. 222(3) is dispositive, it is also my view that even the application of other principles of interpretation reinforces this conclusion. In their submissions, the parties raised the following as being particularly relevant: the Crown relied on the principle that the statute which is “later in time” prevails; and Century Services based its argument on the principle that the general provision gives way to the specific (generalia specialibus non derogant).

[122] Tout ce qui précède permet clairement d’inférer que le législateur a délibérément choisi de soustraire la fiducie réputée établie au par. 222(3) à l’application du par. 18.3(1) de la LACC.

[TRADUCTION] Je ne conteste pas qu’il existe des raisons de politique générale valables qui justifient d’inciter les entreprises insolvables à tenter de se restructurer de façon à pouvoir continuer à exercer leurs activités avec le moins de perturbations possibles pour leurs employés et pour les autres intéressés. Les tribunaux peuvent légitimement tenir compte de telles considérations de politique générale, mais seulement si elles ont trait à une question que le législateur n’a pas examinée. Or, dans le cas qui nous occupe, il y a lieu de présumer que le législateur a tenu compte de considérations de politique générale lorsqu’il a adopté les modifications susmentionnées à la LACC et à la LTA. Comme le juge MacPherson le fait observer au par. 43 de l’arrêt Ottawa Senators, il est inconcevable que le législateur, lorsqu’il a adopté la version actuelle du par. 222(3) de la LTA, ait désigné expressément la LFI comme une exception sans envisager que la LACC puisse constituer une deuxième exception. Je signale par ailleurs que les modifications apportées en 1992 à la LFI ont permis de rendre les propositions concordataires opposables aux créanciers garantis et que, malgré la plus grande souplesse de la LACC, il est possible pour une compagnie insolvable de se restructurer sous le régime de la LFI. [par. 37]

[124] Bien que je sois d’avis que la clarté des termes employés au par. 222(3) tranche la question, j’estime également que cette conclusion est même renforcée par l’application d’autres principes d’interprétation. Dans leurs observations, les parties indiquent que les principes suivants étaient, selon elles, particulièrement pertinents : la Couronne a invoqué le principe voulant que la loi « postérieure » l’emporte; Century Services a fondé son argumentation sur le principe de la préséance de la loi spécifique sur la loi générale (generalia specialibus non derogant).

[125] The “later in time” principle gives priority to a more recent statute, based on the theory that the legislature is presumed to be aware of the content of existing legislation. If a new enactment is inconsistent with a prior one, therefore, the legislature is presumed to have intended to derogate from the earlier provisions (Ruth Sullivan, Sullivan on the Construction of Statutes (5th ed. 2008), at pp. 346-47; Pierre-André Côté, The Interpretation of Legislation in Canada (3rd ed. 2000), at p. 358).

[126] The exception to this presumptive displacement of pre-existing inconsistent legislation, is the generalia specialibus non derogant principle that “[a] more recent, general provision will not be construed as affecting an earlier, special provision” (Côté, at p. 359). Like a Russian Doll, there is also an exception within this exception, namely, that an earlier, specific provision may in fact be “overruled” by a subsequent general statute if the legislature indicates, through its language, an intention that the general provision prevails (Doré v. Verdun (City), [1997] 2 S.C.R. 862).

[127] The primary purpose of these interpretive principles is to assist in the performance of the task of determining the intention of the legislature. This was confirmed by MacPherson J.A. in Ottawa Senators, at para. 42:

... the overarching rule of statutory interpretation is that statutory provisions should be interpreted to give effect to the intention of the legislature in enacting the law. This primary rule takes precedence over all maxims or canons or aids relating to statutory interpretation, including the maxim that the specific prevails over the general (generalia specialibus non derogant). As expressed by Hudson J. in Canada v. Williams, [1944] S.C.R. 226, ... at p. 239 ... :

The maxim generalia specialibus non derogant is relied on as a rule which should dispose of the question, but the maxim is not a rule of law but a rule of construction and bows to the intention of the

[TRADUCTION] ... en matière d’interprétation des lois, la règle cardinale est la suivante : les dispositions législatives doivent être interprétées de manière à donner effet à l’intention du législateur lorsqu’il a adopté la loi. Cette règle fondamentale l’emporte sur toutes les maximes, outils ou canons d’interprétation législative, y compris la maxime suivant laquelle le particulier l’emporte sur le général (generalia specialibus non derogant). Comme l’a expliqué le juge Hudson dans l’arrêt Canada c. Williams, [1944] R.C.S. 226, [. . .] à la p. 239 ... :

On invoque la maxime generalia specialibus non derogant comme une règle qui devrait trancher la question. Or cette maxime, qui n’est pas une règle de droit mais un principe d’interprétation, cède le pas legislature, if such intention can reasonably be gathered from all of the relevant legislation.

(See also Côté, at p. 358, and Pierre-Andre Côté, with the collaboration of S. Beaulac and M. Devinat, Interprétation des lois (4th ed. 2009), at para. 1335.)

[128] I accept the Crown’s argument that the “later in time” principle is conclusive in this case. Since s. 222(3) of the ETA was enacted in 2000 and s. 18.3(1) of the CCAA was introduced in 1997, s. 222(3) is, on its face, the later provision. This chronological victory can be displaced, as Century Services argues, if it is shown that the more recent provision, s. 222(3) of the ETA, is a general one, in which case the earlier, specific provision, s. 18.3(1), prevails (generalia specialibus non derogant). But, as previously explained, the prior specific provision does not take precedence if the subsequent general provision appears to “overrule” it. This, it seems to me, is precisely what s. 222(3) achieves through the use of language stating that it prevails despite any law of Canada, of a province, or “any other law” other than the BIA. Section 18.3(1) of the CCAA is thereby rendered inoperative for purposes of s. 222(3).

[129] It is true that when the CCAA was amended in 2005,² s. 18.3(1) was re-enacted as s. 37(1) (S.C. 2005, c. 47, s. 131). Deschamps J. suggests that this makes s. 37(1) the new, “later in time” provision. With respect, her observation is refuted by the operation of s. 44(f) of the Interpretation Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. I-21, which expressly deals with the (non) effect of re-enacting, without significant substantive changes, a repealed provision (see Attorney General of Canada v. Public Service Staff Relations Board, [1977] 2 F.C. 663, dealing with the predecessor provision to s. 44(f)). It directs that new enactments not be construed as

(Voir aussi Côté, p. 358, et Pierre-André Côté, avec la collaboration de S. Beaulac et M. Devinat, Interprétation des lois (4^e éd. 2009), par. 1335.)

[128] J’accepte l’argument de la Couronne suivant lequel le principe de la loi « postérieure » est déterminant en l’espèce. Comme le par. 222(3) de la LTA a été édicté en 2000 et que le par. 18.3(1) de la LACC a été adopté en 1997, le par. 222(3) est, de toute évidence, la disposition postérieure. Cette victoire chronologique peut être neutralisée si, comme le soutient Century Services, on démontre que la disposition la plus récente, le par. 222(3) de la LTA, est une disposition générale, auquel cas c’est la disposition particulière antérieure, le par. 18.3(1), qui l’emporte (generalia specialibus non derogant). Mais, comme nous l’avons vu, la disposition particulière antérieure n’a pas préséance si la disposition générale ultérieure paraît la « supplanter ». C’est précisément, à mon sens, ce qu’accomplit le par. 222(3) de par son libellé, lequel précise que la disposition l’emporte sur tout autre texte législatif fédéral, tout texte législatif provincial ou « toute autre règle de droit » sauf la LFI. Le paragraphe 18.3(1) de la LACC est par conséquent rendu inopérant aux fins d’application du par. 222(3).

“new law” unless they differ in substance from the repealed provision:

44. Where an enactment, in this section called the “former enactment”, is repealed and another enactment, in this section called the “new enactment”, is substituted therefor,

(f) except to the extent that the provisions of the new enactment are not in substance the same as those of the former enactment, the new enactment shall not be held to operate as new law, but shall be construed and have effect as a consolidation and as declaratory of the law as contained in the former enactment;

Section 2 of the Interpretation Act defines an “enactment” as “an Act or regulation or any portion of an Act or regulation”.

[130] Section 37(1) of the current CCAA is almost identical to s. 18.3(1). These provisions are set out for ease of comparison, with the differences between them underlined:

37. (1) Subject to subsection (2), despite any provision in federal or provincial legislation that has the effect of deeming property to be held in trust for Her Majesty, property of a debtor company shall not be regarded as being held in trust for Her Majesty unless it would be so regarded in the absence of that statutory provision.

18.3 (1) Subject to subsection (2), notwithstanding any provision in federal or provincial legislation that has the effect of deeming property to be held in trust for Her Majesty, property of a debtor company shall not be regarded as held in trust for Her Majesty unless it would be so regarded in the absence of that statutory provision.

[131] The application of s. 44(f) of the Interpretation Act simply confirms the government’s clearly expressed intent, found in Industry Canada’s clause-by-clause review of Bill C-55, where s. 37(1) was identified as “a technical amendment to re-order the provisions of this Act”. During second reading, the Hon. Bill Rompkey, then the Deputy Leader of the Government in the la disposition qui a précédé l’al. 44f)). Cet alinéa précise que le nouveau texte ne doit pas être considéré de « droit nouveau », sauf dans la mesure où il diffère au fond du texte abrogé :

44. En cas d’abrogation et de remplacement, les règles suivantes s’appliquent :

f) sauf dans la mesure où les deux textes diffèrent au fond, le nouveau texte n’est pas réputé de droit nouveau, sa teneur étant censée constituer une refonte et une clarification des règles de droit du texte antérieur;

Le mot « texte » est défini ainsi à l’art. 2 de la Loi d’interprétation : « Tout ou partie d’une loi ou d’un règlement. »

[130] Le paragraphe 37(1) de la LACC actuelle est pratiquement identique quant au fond au par. 18.3(1). Pour faciliter la comparaison de ces deux dispositions, je les ai reproduites ci-après :

37. (1) Sous réserve du paragraphe (2) et par dérogation à toute disposition législative fédérale ou provinciale ayant pour effet d’assimiler certains biens à des biens détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, aucun des biens de la compagnie débitrice ne peut être considéré comme tel par le seul effet d’une telle disposition.

18.3 (1) Sous réserve du paragraphe (2) et par dérogation à toute disposition législative fédérale ou provinciale ayant pour effet d’assimiler certains biens à des biens détenus en fiducie pour Sa Majesté, aucun des biens de la compagnie débitrice ne peut être considéré comme détenu en fiducie pour Sa Majesté si, en l’absence de la disposition législative en question, il ne le serait pas.

Senate, confirmed that s. 37(1) represented only a technical change:

On a technical note relating to the treatment of deemed trusts for taxes, the bill [sic] makes no changes to the underlying policy intent, despite the fact that in the case of a restructuring under the CCAA, sections of the act [sic] were repealed and substituted with renumbered versions due to the extensive reworking of the CCAA.

(Debates of the Senate, vol. 142, 1st Sess., 38th Parl., November 23, 2005, at p. 2147)

[132] Had the substance of s. 18.3(1) altered in any material way when it was replaced by s. 37(1), I would share Deschamps J.'s view that it should be considered a new provision. But since s. 18.3(1) and s. 37(1) are the same in substance, the transformation of s. 18.3(1) into s. 37(1) has no effect on the interpretive queue, and s. 222(3) of the ETA remains the "later in time" provision (Sullivan, at p. 347).

[133] This means that the deemed trust provision in s. 222(3) of the ETA takes precedence over s. 18.3(1) during CCAA proceedings. The question then is how that priority affects the discretion of a court under s. 11 of the CCAA.

[134] While s. 11 gives a court discretion to make orders notwithstanding the BIA and the Winding-up Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. W-11, that discretion is not liberated from the operation of any other federal statute. Any exercise of discretion is therefore circumscribed by whatever limits are imposed by statutes other than the BIA and the Winding-up Act. That includes the ETA. The chambers judge in this case was, therefore, required to respect the priority regime set out in s. 222(3) of the ETA. Neither s. 18.3(1) nor s. 11 of the CCAA gave him the authority to ignore it. He could not, as a result, deny the Crown's request au Sénat, l'honorable Bill Rompkey, qui était alors leader adjoint du gouvernement au Sénat, a confirmé que le par. 37(1) représentait seulement une modification d'ordre technique :

Sur une note administrative, je signale que, dans le cas du traitement de fiducies présumées aux fins d'impôt, le projet de loi ne modifie aucunement l'intention qui sous-tend la politique, alors que dans le cas d'une restructuration aux termes de la LACC, des articles de la loi ont été abrogés et remplacés par des versions portant de nouveaux numéros lors de la mise à jour exhaustive de la LACC.

[132] Si le par. 18.3(1) avait fait l'objet de modifications notables sur le fond lorsqu'il a été remplacé par le par. 37(1), je me rangerais à l'avis de la juge Deschamps qu'il doit être considéré comme un texte de droit nouveau. Mais comme les par. 18.3(1) et 37(1) ne diffèrent pas sur le fond, le fait que le par. 18.3(1) soit devenu le par. 37(1) n'a aucune incidence sur l'ordre chronologique du point de vue de l'interprétation, et le par. 222(3) de la LTA demeure la disposition « postérieure » (Sullivan, p. 347).

[133] Il s'ensuit que la disposition créant une fiducie réputée que l'on trouve au par. 222(3) de la LTA l'emporte sur le par. 18.3(1) dans le cadre d'une procédure fondée sur la LACC. La question qui se pose alors est celle de savoir quelle est l'incidence de cette préséance sur le pouvoir discrétionnaire conféré au tribunal par l'art. 11 de la LACC.

for payment of the GST funds during the CCAA proceedings.

[135] Given this conclusion, it is unnecessary to consider whether there was an express trust.

APPENDIX

Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (as at December 13, 2007)

11. (1) [Powers of court] Notwithstanding anything in the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act or the Winding-up Act, where an application is made under this Act in respect of a company, the court, on the application of any person interested in the matter, may, subject to this Act, on notice to any other person or without notice as it may see fit, make an order under this section.

(3) [Initial application court orders] A court may, on an initial application in respect of a company, make an order on such terms as it may impose, effective for such period as the court deems necessary not exceeding thirty days,

(a) staying, until otherwise ordered by the court, all proceedings taken or that might be taken in respect of the company under an Act referred to in subsection (1);

(b) restraining, until otherwise ordered by the court, further proceedings in any action, suit or proceeding against the company; and

(c) prohibiting, until otherwise ordered by the court, the commencement of or proceeding with any other action, suit or proceeding against the company.

(4) [Other than initial application court orders] A court may, on an application in respect of a company other than an initial application, make an order on such terms as it may impose, il ne pouvait pas refuser la demande présentée par la Couronne en vue de se faire payer la TPS dans le cadre de la procédure introduite en vertu de la LACC.

[136] Je rejetterais le présent pourvoi.

Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies, L.R.C. 1985, ch. C-36 (en date du 13 décembre 2007)

11. (1) [Pouvoir du tribunal] Malgré toute disposition de la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité ou de la Loi sur les liquidations, chaque fois qu'une demande est faite sous le régime de la présente loi à l'égard d'une compagnie, le tribunal, sur demande d'un intéressé, peut, sous réserve des autres dispositions de la présente loi et avec ou sans avis, rendre l'ordonnance prévue au présent article.

(3) [Demande initiale — ordonnances] Dans le cas d'une demande initiale visant une compagnie, le tribunal peut, par ordonnance, aux conditions qu'il peut imposer et pour une période maximale de trente jours :

a) suspendre, jusqu'à ce qu'il rende une nouvelle ordonnance à l'effet contraire, les procédures intentées contre la compagnie au titre des lois mentionnées au paragraphe (1), ou qui pourraient l'être;

b) surseoir, jusqu'à ce qu'il rende une nouvelle ordonnance à l'effet contraire, au cours de toute action, poursuite ou autre procédure contre la compagnie;

c) interdire, jusqu'à ce qu'il rende une nouvelle ordonnance à l'effet contraire, d'intenter ou de continuer toute action, poursuite ou autre procédure contre la compagnie.

(4) [Autres demandes — ordonnances] Dans le cas d'une demande, autre qu'une demande initiale, visant une compagnie, le tribunal peut, par ordonnance, aux conditions qu'il peut imposer et pour la période qu'il estime indiquée :

(a) staying, until otherwise ordered by the court, for such period as the court deems necessary, all proceedings taken or that might be taken in respect of the company under an Act referred to in subsection (1);

(b) restraining, until otherwise ordered by the court, further proceedings in any action, suit or proceeding against the company; and

(c) prohibiting, until otherwise ordered by the court, the commencement of or proceeding with any other action, suit or proceeding against the company.

(6) [Burden of proof on application] The court shall not make an order under subsection (3) or (4) unless

(a) the applicant satisfies the court that circumstances exist that make such an order appropriate; and

(b) in the case of an order under subsection (4), the applicant also satisfies the court that the applicant has acted, and is acting, in good faith and with due diligence.

11.4 (1) [Her Majesty affected] An order made under section 11 may provide that

(a) Her Majesty in right of Canada may not exercise rights under subsection 224(1.2) of the Income Tax Act or any provision of the Canada Pension Plan or of the Employment Insurance Act that refers to subsection 224(1.2) of the Income Tax Act and provides for the collection of a contribution, as defined in the Canada Pension Plan, or an employee's premium, or employer's premium, as defined in the Employment Insurance Act, and of any related interest, penalties or other amounts, in respect of the company if the company is a tax debtor under that subsection or provision, for such period as the court considers appropriate but ending not later than

- (i) the expiration of the order,
- (ii) the refusal of a proposed compromise by the creditors or the court,
- (iii) six months following the court sanction of a compromise or arrangement,

a) suspendre, jusqu'à ce qu'il rende une nouvelle ordonnance à l'effet contraire, les procédures intentées contre la compagnie au titre des lois mentionnées au paragraphe (1), ou qui pourraient l'être;

b) surseoir, jusqu'à ce qu'il rende une nouvelle ordonnance à l'effet contraire, au cours de toute action, poursuite ou autre procédure contre la compagnie;

c) interdire, jusqu'à ce qu'il rende une nouvelle ordonnance à l'effet contraire, d'intenter ou de continuer toute action, poursuite ou autre procédure contre la compagnie.

(6) [Preuve] Le tribunal ne rend l'ordonnance visée aux paragraphes (3) ou (4) que si :

a) le demandeur le convainc qu'il serait indiqué de rendre une telle ordonnance;

b) dans le cas de l'ordonnance visée au paragraphe (4), le demandeur le convainc en outre qu'il a agi — et continue d'agir — de bonne foi et avec toute la diligence voulue.

11.4 (1) [Suspension des procédures] Le tribunal peut ordonner :

a) la suspension de l'exercice par Sa Majesté du chef du Canada des droits que lui confère le paragraphe 224(1.2) de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu ou toute disposition du Régime de pensions du Canada ou de la Loi sur l'assurance-emploi qui renvoie à ce paragraphe et qui prévoit la perception d'une cotisation, au sens du Régime de pensions du Canada, ou d'une cotisation ouvrière ou d'une cotisation patronale, au sens de la Loi sur l'assurance-emploi, et des intérêts, pénalités ou autres montants y afférents, à l'égard d'une compagnie lorsque celle-ci est un débiteur fiscal visé à ce paragraphe ou à cette disposition, pour une période se terminant au plus tard :

- (i) à l'expiration de l'ordonnance rendue en application de l'article 11,
- (ii) au moment du rejet, par le tribunal ou les créanciers, de la transaction proposée,
- (iii) six mois après que le tribunal a homologué la transaction ou l'arrangement,

(iv) the default by the company on any term of a compromise or arrangement, or

(v) the performance of a compromise or arrangement in respect of the company; and

(b) Her Majesty in right of a province may not exercise rights under any provision of provincial legislation in respect of the company where the company is a debtor under that legislation and the provision has a similar purpose to subsection 224(1.2) of the Income Tax Act, or refers to that subsection, to the extent that it provides for the collection of a sum, and of any related interest, penalties or other amounts, where the sum

(i) has been withheld or deducted by a person from a payment to another person and is in respect of a tax similar in nature to the income tax imposed on individuals under the Income Tax Act, or

(ii) is of the same nature as a contribution under the Canada Pension Plan if the province is a “province providing a comprehensive pension plan” as defined in subsection 3(1) of the Canada Pension Plan and the provincial legislation establishes a “provincial pension plan” as defined in that subsection, for such period as the court considers appropriate but ending not later than the occurrence or time referred to in whichever of subparagraphs (a)(i) to (v) may apply.

(2) [When order ceases to be in effect] An order referred to in subsection (1) ceases to be in effect if

(a) the company defaults on payment of any amount that becomes due to Her Majesty after the order is made and could be subject to a demand under

(i) subsection 224(1.2) of the Income Tax Act,

(ii) any provision of the Canada Pension Plan or of the Employment Insurance Act that refers to subsection 224(1.2) of the Income Tax Act and provides for the collection of a contribution, as defined in the Canada Pension Plan, or an employee’s premium, or employer’s premium,

(iv) au moment de tout défaut d’exécution de la transaction ou de l’arrangement,

(v) au moment de l’exécution intégrale de la transaction ou de l’arrangement;

b) la suspension de l’exercice par Sa Majesté du chef d’une province, pour une période se terminant au plus tard au moment visé à celui des sous-alinéas a)(i) à (v) qui, le cas échéant, est applicable, des droits que lui confère toute disposition législative de cette province à l’égard d’une compagnie, lorsque celle-ci est un débiteur visé par la loi provinciale et qu’il s’agit d’une disposition dont l’objet est semblable à celui du paragraphe 224(1.2) de la Loi de l’impôt sur le revenu, ou qui renvoie à ce paragraphe, dans la mesure où elle prévoit la perception d’une somme, et des intérêts, pénalités ou autres montants y afférents, qui :

(i) soit a été retenue par une personne sur un paiement effectué à une autre personne, ou déduite d’un tel paiement, et se rapporte à un impôt semblable, de par sa nature, à l’impôt sur le revenu auquel les particuliers sont assujettis en vertu de la Loi de l’impôt sur le revenu,

(ii) soit est de même nature qu’une cotisation prévue par le Régime de pensions du Canada, si la province est « une province instituant un régime général de pensions » au sens du paragraphe 3(1) de cette loi et si la loi provinciale institue un « régime provincial de pensions » au sens de ce paragraphe.

(2) [Cessation] L’ordonnance cesse d’être en vigueur dans les cas suivants :

a) la compagnie manque à ses obligations de paiement pour un montant qui devient dû à Sa Majesté après l’ordonnance et qui pourrait faire l’objet d’une demande aux termes d’une des dispositions suivantes :

(i) le paragraphe 224(1.2) de la Loi de l’impôt sur le revenu,

Redressements normalement nécessaires

2019, ch. 29, art. 136.

11.01 L'ordonnance prévue aux articles 11 ou 11.02 ne peut avoir pour effet :

- a) d'empêcher une personne d'exiger que soient effectués sans délai les paiements relatifs à la fourniture de marchandises ou de services, à l'utilisation de biens loués ou faisant l'objet d'une licence ou à la fourniture de toute autre contrepartie de valeur qui ont lieu après l'ordonnance;
- b) d'exiger le versement de nouvelles avances de fonds ou de nouveaux crédits.

Suspension : demande initiale

11.02 (1) Dans le cas d'une demande initiale visant une compagnie débitrice, le tribunal peut, par ordonnance, aux conditions qu'il peut imposer et pour la période maximale de dix jours qu'il estime nécessaire :

- c) interdire, jusqu'à nouvel ordre, l'introduction de toute action, poursuite ou autre procédure contre la compagnie.

Suspension : demandes autres qu'initiales

(2) Dans le cas d'une demande, autre qu'une demande initiale, visant une compagnie débitrice, le tribunal peut, par ordonnance, aux conditions qu'il peut imposer et pour la période qu'il estime nécessaire :

- a) suspendre, jusqu'à nouvel ordre, toute procédure qui est ou pourrait être intentée contre la compagnie sous le régime des lois mentionnées à l'alinéa (1)a);

(b) restraining, until otherwise ordered by the court, further proceedings in any action, suit or proceeding against the company; and

(c) prohibiting, until otherwise ordered by the court, the commencement of any action, suit or proceeding against the company.

Burden of proof on application

(3) The court shall not make the order unless

(a) the applicant satisfies the court that circumstances exist that make the order appropriate; and

(b) in the case of an order under subsection (2), the applicant also satisfies the court that the applicant has acted, and is acting, in good faith and with due diligence.

Restriction

(4) Orders doing anything referred to in subsection (1) or (2) may only be made under this section.

2005, c. 47, s. 128, 2007, c. 36, s. 62(F); 2019, c. 29, s. 137.

Stays — directors

11.03 (1) An order made under section 11.02 may provide that no person may commence or continue any action against a director of the company on any claim against directors that arose before the commencement of proceedings under this Act and that relates to obligations of the company if directors are under any law liable in their capacity as directors for the payment of those obligations, until a compromise or an arrangement in respect of the company, if one is filed, is sanctioned by the court or is refused by the creditors or the court.

Exception

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply in respect of an action against a director on a guarantee given by the director relating to the company's obligations or an action seeking injunctive relief against a director in relation to the company.

Persons deemed to be directors

(3) If all of the directors have resigned or have been removed by the shareholders without replacement, any person who manages or supervises the management of the business and affairs of the company is deemed to be a director for the purposes of this section.

b) surseoir, jusqu'à nouvel ordre, à la continuation de toute action, poursuite ou autre procédure contre la compagnie;

c) interdire, jusqu'à nouvel ordre, l'introduction de toute action, poursuite ou autre procédure contre la compagnie.

Preuve

(3) Le tribunal ne rend l'ordonnance que si :

a) le demandeur le convainc que la mesure est opportune;

b) dans le cas de l'ordonnance visée au paragraphe (2), le demandeur le convainc en outre qu'il a agi et continue d'agir de bonne foi et avec la diligence voulue.

Restriction

(4) L'ordonnance qui prévoit l'une des mesures visées aux paragraphes (1) ou (2) ne peut être rendue qu'en vertu du présent article.

2005, ch. 47, art. 128, 2007, ch. 36, art. 62(F); 2019, ch. 29, art. 137.

Suspension — administrateurs

Exclusion

(2) La suspension ne s'applique toutefois pas aux actions contre les administrateurs pour les garanties qu'ils ont données relativement aux obligations de la compagnie ni aux mesures de la nature d'une injonction les visant au sujet de celle-ci.

Présomption : administrateurs

2005, ch. 47, art. 128.

under the Winding-up and Restructuring Act or the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, as the case may be, and, in the case of any other company, the amount is to be determined by the court on summary application by the company or the creditor.

Admission of claims

(2) Despite subsection (1), the company may admit the amount of a claim for voting purposes under reserve of the right to contest liability on the claim for other purposes, and nothing in this Act, the Winding-up and Restructuring Act or the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act prevents a secured creditor from voting at a meeting of secured creditors or any class of them in respect of the total amount of a claim as admitted.

R.S., 1985, c. C-36, s. 20; 2005, c. 47, s. 131; 2007, c. 36, s. 70.

Law of set-off or compensation to apply

21 The law of set-off or compensation applies to all claims made against a debtor company and to all actions instituted by it for the recovery of debts due to the company in the same manner and to the same extent as if the company were plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be.

1997, c. 12, s. 126; 2005, c. 47, s. 131.

Classes of Creditors

Company may establish classes

22 (1) A debtor company may divide its creditors into classes for the purpose of a meeting to be held under section 4 or 5 in respect of a compromise or arrangement relating to the company and, if it does so, it is to apply to the court for approval of the division before the meeting is held.

Factors

(2) For the purpose of subsection (1), creditors may be included in the same class if their interests or rights are sufficiently similar to give them a commonality of interest, taking into account

(a) the nature of the debts, liabilities or obligations giving rise to their claims;

(b) the nature and rank of any security in respect of their claims;

(c) the remedies available to the creditors in the absence of the compromise or arrangement being sanctioned, and the extent to which the creditors would recover their claims by exercising those remedies; and la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité, établi par preuve de la même manière qu'une réclamation non garantie sous le régime de l'une ou l'autre de ces lois, selon le cas, et, s'il s'agit de toute autre compagnie, il est déterminé par le tribunal sur demande sommaire de celle-ci ou du créancier.

Admission des réclamations

Compensation

1997, ch. 12, art. 126; 2005, ch. 47, art. 131.

Établissement des catégories de créanciers

Critères

(2) Pour l'application du paragraphe (1), peuvent faire partie de la même catégorie les créanciers ayant des droits ou intérêts à ce point semblables, compte tenu des critères énumérés ci-après, qu'on peut en conclure qu'ils ont un intérêt commun :

a) la nature des créances et obligations donnant lieu à leurs réclamations;

b) la nature et le rang de toute garantie qui s'y rattache;

c) les voies de droit ouvertes aux créanciers, abstraction faite de la transaction ou de l'arrangement, et la mesure dans laquelle il pourrait être satisfait à leurs réclamations s'ils s'en prévalaient;

(d) any further criteria, consistent with those set out in paragraphs (a) to (c), that are prescribed.

Related creditors

(3) A creditor who is related to the company may vote against, but not for, a compromise or arrangement relating to the company.

1997, c. 12, s. 126; 2005, c. 47, s. 131; 2007, c. 36, s. 71.

Class — creditors having equity claims

22.1 Despite subsection 22(1), creditors having equity claims are to be in the same class of creditors in relation to those claims unless the court orders otherwise and may not, as members of that class, vote at any meeting unless the court orders otherwise.

2005, c. 47, s. 131; 2007, c. 36, s. 71.

Monitors

Duties and functions

23 (1) The monitor shall

(a) except as otherwise ordered by the court, when an order is made on the initial application in respect of a debtor company,

(i) publish, without delay after the order is made, once a week for two consecutive weeks, or as otherwise directed by the court, in one or more newspapers in Canada specified by the court, a notice containing the prescribed information, and

(ii) within five days after the day on which the order is made,

(A) make the order publicly available in the prescribed manner,

(B) send, in the prescribed manner, a notice to every known creditor who has a claim against the company of more than $1,000 advising them that the order is publicly available, and

(C) prepare a list, showing the names and addresses of those creditors and the estimated amounts of those claims, and make it publicly available in the prescribed manner;

(b) review the company's cash-flow statement as to its reasonableness and file a report with the court on the monitor's findings;

d) tous autres critères réglementaires compatibles avec ceux énumérés aux alinéas a) à c).

Créancier lié

1997, ch. 12, art. 126; 2005, ch. 47, art. 131; 2007, ch. 36, art. 71.

Catégorie de créanciers ayant des réclamations relatives à des capitaux propres

2005, ch. 47, art. 131; 2007, ch. 36, art. 71.

Contrôleurs

Attributions

23 (1) Le contrôleur est tenu :

a) à moins que le tribunal n'en ordonne autrement, lorsqu'il rend une ordonnance à l'égard de la demande initiale visant une compagnie débitrice :

(i) de publier, sans délai après le prononcé de l'ordonnance, une fois par semaine pendant deux semaines consécutives, ou selon les modalités qui y sont prévues, dans le journal ou les journaux au Canada qui y sont précisés, un avis contenant les renseignements réglementaires,

(ii) dans les cinq jours suivant la date du prononcé de l'ordonnance :

(A) de rendre l'ordonnance publique selon les modalités réglementaires,

(B) d'envoyer un avis, selon les modalités réglementaires, à chaque créancier connu ayant une réclamation supérieure à mille dollars les informant que l'ordonnance a été rendue publique,

(C) d'établir la liste des nom et adresse de chacun de ces créanciers et des montants estimés des réclamations et de la rendre publique selon les modalités réglementaires;

b) de réviser l'état de l'évolution de l'encaisse de la compagnie, en ce qui a trait à sa justification, et de déposer auprès du tribunal un rapport où il présente ses conclusions;

In the Matter of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, RSC 1985, c C-36, as Amended

In the Matter of the Compromise or Arrangement of Delta 9 Cannabis Inc., Delta 9 Logistics Inc., Delta 9 Bio-Tech Inc., Delta 9 Lifestyle Cannabis Clinic Inc., and Delta 9 Cannabis Store Inc.

Reasons for Decision of the Honourable Justice M.A. Marion

I. Introduction and Background

[1] On July 15, 2024, the Court granted an initial order (Initial Order) under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, RSC 1985, c C-36, as amended (CCAA) with respect to the "Delta 9 Group", namely Delta 9 Cannabis Inc (Delta 9 Parent), Delta 9 Logistics Inc (Logistics), Delta 9 Lifestyle Cannabis Clinic Inc (Lifestyle), Delta 9 Cannabis Store Inc (Store) and Delta 9 Bio-Tech Inc (Bio-Tech).

[2] On July 24, 2024, on the "comeback" application with respect to the Initial Order, the Court granted an Amended and Restated Initial Order (ARIO), a Claims Procedure Order and an order approving a sale and investment solicitation process (SISP) with respect to Bio-Tech (Bio-Tech SISP Order). The ARIO approved, among other things, the appointment of a Chief Restructuring Officer (CRO), Delta 9 Group borrowing from 2759054 Ontario Inc operating as Fika Herbal Goods (Fika or Plan Sponsor) subject to an approved an interim financing term sheet (Interim Financing Term Sheet), and a $1,500,000 break-fee in favour of Fika (Break-Fee).

[3] On September 11, 2024, the Court granted an order (Extension Order), among other things, extending the stay period under the ARIO to November 1, 2024 and approving an amendment to the Interim Financing Term Sheet between the Delta 9 Group and Fika.

[4] On October 22, 2024, Fika filed this application (Application). It seeks a creditors' meeting order:

- (a) accepting the filing of a plan of compromise and arrangement of Delta 9 Parent, Logistics, Lifestyle and Store (collectively the Plan Entities) dated October 21, 2024 (Plan);
- (b) authorizing the Plan Entities and Bio-Tech to establish a single class of creditors (Affected Creditors Class) for the purpose of considering and voting on the Plan;
- (c) authorizing the Delta 9 Group to call, hold and conduct a virtual meeting (Creditor Meeting) of the Affected Creditors Class to consider and vote on a resolution to approve the Plan; and
- (d) setting a date for the hearing of an order for the sanctioning of the Plan.

[5] On November 1, 2024, I granted a further extension order extending the stay period and increasing the authorized interim financing, an Amended and Restated Claims Procedure Order (to allow some late claims), and a sealing order. I reserved my decision on the Application.

[6] The Application is opposed by the senior secured creditor, SNDL Inc (SNDL). Effective July 5, 2024, SNDL purchased the senior secured debt (SNDL Senior Debt) from Connect First Credit Union Ltd (CFCU). SNDL argues that the Plan is not capable of sanction and should not be put to a creditor vote. Fika's position is that the concerns raised by SNDL should be dealt with at the Plan sanction hearing (which Fika advised can be scheduled in December 2024).

[7] The Monitor and the largest of the creditors in the Affected Creditors Class both support the Application. Nobody other than SNDL opposes it.

II. Issues

[8] The issue raised in this Application is whether a Creditor Meeting of the Affected Creditors Class should be ordered, together with ancillary relief set out in the Application.

III. Analysis

A. Legal Framework for Court-Ordered Creditor Meetings under the CCAA

[9] Fika relies on sections 4 and 5 of the CCAA as providing the authority for ordering a creditor meeting for the purpose of a creditor vote. Those sections provide:

Compromise with unsecured creditors

4. Where a compromise or an arrangement is proposed between a debtor company and its unsecured creditors or any class of them, the court may, on the application in a summary way of the company, of any such creditor or of the trustee in bankruptcy or liquidator of the company, order a meeting of the creditors or class of creditors, and, if the court so determines, of the shareholders of the company, to be summoned in such manner as the court directs.

Compromise with secured creditors

5. Where a compromise or an arrangement is proposed between a debtor company and its secured creditors or any class of them, the court may, on the application in a summary way of the company or of any such creditor or of the trustee in bankruptcy or liquidator of the company, order a meeting of the creditors or class of creditors, and, if the court so determines, of the shareholders of the company, to be summoned in such manner as the court directs.

[10] These sections are permissive, not mandatory: Fracmaster Ltd (Re), 1999 ABQB 379 at para 24 [Fracmaster QB] affirmed 1999 ABCA 178 [Fracmaster CA]. As such, they engage the Court’s discretion as to whether to order the meeting: 9354-9186 Québec inc v Callidus Capital Corp, 2020 SCC 10 [Callidus] at para 57; Ursel Investments Ltd, Re, 1990 CanLII 7504 (SK KB) at paras 24-25; Kerr Interior Systems Ltd (Re), 2011 ABQB 214 at para 29; Ultracare Management Inc v Gammon (Gen Div), 1990 CanLII 6898 (ON SC), citing Elan Corp v Comiskey (1990), 1990 CanLII 6979 (ON CA). The Court also has broad discretion under section 11 of the CCAA where there is no CCAA provision conferring more specific jurisdiction: Callidus at para 68. Oversight of the plan negotiation, voting and approval process falls squarely within the Court’s purview: Callidus at para 69.

[11] The Court’s discretion must be exercised in furtherance of the CCAA’s remedial purpose: Canada v Canada North Group Inc, 2021 SCC 30 at para 138, citing Century Services Inc v Canada (Attorney General), 2010 SCC 60 at paras 58-61; Callidus at para 49. A modern summary of the CCAA’s remedial purpose is set out in Callidus at paras 40-42:

[40] Together, Canada’s insolvency statutes pursue an array of overarching remedial objectives that reflect the wide ranging and potentially “catastrophic” impacts insolvency can have (Sun Indalex Finance, LLC v. United Steelworkers, 2013 SCC 6, [2013] 1 S.C.R. 271, at para. 1). These objectives include: providing for timely, efficient and impartial resolution of a debtor’s insolvency; preserving and maximizing the value of a debtor’s assets; ensuring fair and equitable treatment of the claims against a debtor; protecting the public interest; and, in the context of a commercial insolvency, balancing the costs and benefits of restructuring or liquidating the company (J. P. Sarra, “The Oscillating Pendulum: Canada’s Sesquicentennial and Finding the Equilibrium for Insolvency Law”, in J. P. Sarra and B. Romaine, eds., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2016 (2017), 9, at pp. 9-10; J. P. Sarra, Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act (2nd ed. 2013), at pp. 4-5 and 14; Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce, Debtors and Creditors Sharing the Burden: A Review of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act (2003), at pp. 9-10; R. J. Wood, Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law (2nd ed. 2015), at pp. 4-5).

[41] Among these objectives, the CCAA generally prioritizes “avoiding the social and economic losses resulting from liquidation of an insolvent company” (Century Services, at para. 70). As a result, the typical CCAA case has historically involved an attempt to facilitate the reorganization and survival of the pre-filing debtor company in an operational state — that is, as a going concern. Where such a reorganization was not possible, the alternative course of action was seen as a liquidation through either a receivership or under the BIA regime. This is precisely the outcome that was sought in Century Services (see para. 14).

[42] That said, the CCAA is fundamentally insolvency legislation, and thus it also “has the simultaneous objectives of maximizing creditor recovery, preservation of going-concern value where possible, preservation of jobs and communities affected by the firm’s financial distress . . . and enhancement of the credit system generally” (Sarra, Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, at p. 14; see also Ernst & Young Inc. v. Essar Global Fund Ltd., 2017 ONCA 1014, 139 O.R. (3d) 1 (“Essar”), at para. 103). In pursuit of those objectives, CCAA proceedings have evolved to permit outcomes that do not result in the emergence of the pre-filing debtor company in a restructured state, but rather involve some form of liquidation of the debtor’s assets under the auspices of the Act itself (Sarra, “The Oscillating Pendulum: Canada’s Sesquicentennial and Finding the Equilibrium for Insolvency Law”, at pp. 19-21). Such scenarios are referred to as “liquidating CCAAs”, and they are now commonplace in the CCAA landscape (see Third Eye Capital Corporation v. Ressources Dianor Inc./Dianor Resources Inc., 2019 ONCA 508, 435 D.L.R. (4th) 416, at para. 70).

[12] The test as to whether a creditor meeting should be ordered is whether it is in the best interests of the debtor and its stakeholders to do so: Unique Broadband Systems (Re), 2013 ONSC 676 at para 52; Re Canadian Red Cross Society, 1998 CanLII 14907 (ON SC) at para 37; Fracmaster QB at para 24. It has been described as a low standard: Arrangement relatif à Bloom Lake, 2018 QCCS 1657 at para 19.

[13] In the majority of CCAA proceedings, an order directing a creditor meeting is an uncontroversial procedural step in the CCAA process and is not usually the time to argue whether the proposed plan is fair and reasonable: Jaguar Mining Inc (Re), 2014 ONSC 494 at para 48; Target Canada Co (Re), 2016 ONSC 316 at para 17; Bloom Lake at para 19; Quest University Canada (Re), 2020 BCSC 1845 at para 32.

[14] However, this procedural step often justified on a low standard may be refused in appropriate circumstances. When the order is objected-to, it is incumbent on the Court to carefully examine the material filed and the issues or concerns raised: Ursel Investments at paras 25 and 37; Unique Broadband at para 69. As part of that, the Court may consider the equities as they relate to the debtor companies and its secured creditor: Elan. When issues raised are significant, they may warrant determination prior to ordering a creditor’s meeting: Target Canada at para 29.

[15] Courts have confirmed that it may be appropriate to refuse to grant a request to direct a creditor meeting where:

- (a) the plan is not in the best interests of the debtor and its stakeholders (including its creditors): Kerr Interior at para 29, citing Re Avery Construction Co Ltd, 1942 CanLII 352 (ON SC); Unique Broadband at para 52; Canadian Red Cross Society at para 37; Fracmaster QB at para 24;

- (b) where there is no reasonable chance the debtor will be able to continue in business: Kerr Interior at para 29; First Treasury Financial Inc v Congo Petroleums Inc, 1991 CanLII 8338 (ON SC);
- (c) where the plan “lacks economic reality”: Fracmaster at paras 24-25; Federal Gypsum Company (Re), 2007 NSSC 384 at para 32; Canadian Red Cross Society at para 37; Bloom Lake at para 19;
- (d) where there is no hope the plan would be approved by creditors: Quest University at para 32; Kerr Interior at para 29; Elan; ScoZinc Ltd (Re), 2009 NSSC 163 at para 7. However, if it is “premature to conclude at this stage that the applicants cannot arrive at a plan or arrangement acceptable to a majority of its creditors”, the court may grant the order: Ultracare. Courts should “not impose a heavy burden on a debtor company to establish the likelihood of ultimate success at the outset” or “second guess the probability of success” unless it is doomed to failure: Target Canada at para 44 citing Elan; ScoZinc at para 7; Quest University at para 32;
- (e) where the plan would not be approved by the Court: ScoZinc at para 7; Quest University at para 32; Target Canada at paras 62, 71 and 85-86 and Re Crystallex International Corporation, 2013 ONSC 823 at para 9. For example, this may be the case if the Court does not have jurisdiction to approve the plan: Elan; Crystallex at para 9; Re, Doman Industries Ltd (Trustee of), 2003 BCSC 376 at para 9; Lemare Holdings Ltd (Re), 2014 BCSC 893 at para 28; CannTrust Holdings Inc, et al (Re), 2021 ONSC 4408 at para 26; and
- (f) where the plan is inconsistent with court orders or the CCAA process did not unfold in a “fair and transparent manner”: Target Canada at paras 78-86.

[16] This is not intended to be an exhaustive list.

[17] SNDL raises several issues with the Plan, including (1) it purports to bind and affect SNDL’s rights without giving SNDL a right to vote, in violation of section 6 of the CCAA; (2) it involves a payment to equity holders in violation of section 6(8) of the CCAA; and (3) it allows holders of equity claims to vote, in violation of section 22.1 and 6(1) of the CCAA. I address these concerns below.

B. Section 6(1) of the CCAA and the Plan’s Effect on SNDL

[18] Section 6(1) of the CCAA provides:

6 (1). If a majority in number representing two thirds in value of the creditors, or the class of creditors, as the case may be — other than, unless the court orders otherwise, a class of creditors having equity claims, — present and voting either in person or by proxy at the meeting or meetings of creditors respectively held under sections 4 and 5, or either of those sections, agree to any compromise or arrangement either as proposed or as altered or modified at the meeting or meetings, the compromise or arrangement may be sanctioned by the court and, if so sanctioned, is binding

- (a) on all the creditors or the class of creditors, as the case may be, and on any trustee for that class of creditors, whether secured or unsecured, as the case may be, and on the company; and
- (b) in the case of a company that has made an authorized assignment or against which a bankruptcy order has been made under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act or is in the course of being wound up under the Winding-up and Restructuring Act, on the trustee in bankruptcy or liquidator and contributories of the company.

[19] “Creditors with a provable claim against the debtor whose interests are affected by a proposed plan are usually entitled to vote on plans of arrangement”, subject to specific provisions that may restrict voting rights or the proper exercise of the Court’s discretion under section 11 of the CCAA to bar a creditor from voting where the creditor is acting for an improper purpose: Callidus at paras 56-58 and 65-76; Fracmaster CA at paras 13-14. There is no assertion in this matter that SNDL acts for an improper purpose.

[20] Consistent with these principles, as noted above, courts have refused to order a creditor meeting where a creditor is affected by a plan but is not given a right to vote under the plan. I highlight two examples.

[21] In Crystallex, certain noteholders applied to have a creditor meeting ordered with respect to their plan. The plan, which was sprung on the debtor and other stakeholders shortly before the motion, “could not be implemented in the present form” because it was contrary to the terms of the DIP facility: Crystallex at paras 9-10. The Court’s view was that the application was “tactical and raised to get a perceived leg up in negotiations”: Crystallex at para 13. The application was dismissed without prejudice to the noteholders bringing it back on later.

[22] In Doman, the Court held that creditors of a debtor company under the CCAA cannot be bound by the provisions of a plan of compromise or arrangement if they have not been given the opportunity to vote on it: Doman at para 9, citing Menegon v Philip Services Inc, 1999 CanLII 15004 (ON SC) at para 38. The Court concluded it would be inappropriate to authorize the calling of a creditor meeting to consider the plan when the Court would later refuse to sanction it “on the basis it purports to bind parties who were not given an opportunity to vote on it”: Doman at para 9. The Court gave the applicant debtor group an opportunity to propose a revised plan.

[23] In this case, SNDL has no right to vote on the Plan because it is expressly excluded from being an Affected Creditor. The issue is whether the Plan affects SNDL’s rights such that it must be given a right to vote, failing which the Plan is doomed to fail for non-compliance with section 6(1) of the CCAA.

[24] Fika argues that SNDL is unaffected, based on its interpretation of the Plan. SNDL argues that the Plan materially affects it by amending the repayment terms or timing of the SNDL Senior Debt, its payor, and the collateral subject to SNDL’s security through the sale of Bio-Tech.

1. Timing of Payment of the SNDL Senior Debt

a. Background Context

[25] Since 2022, SNDL held the second ranking security against some or all of the Delta 9 Group’s assets. On May 21, 2024, SNDL issued a demand and notice of intention to enforce security in respect of these facilities, and demanded immediate payment of the related indebtedness (SNDL Mezzanine Debt)¹ in the amount of over $12.5 million. This demand expired on June 22, 2024.

[26] As noted above, effective July 5, 2024, SNDL acquired the SNDL Senior Debt from CFCU. No challenge to that transaction has been raised in this Application.

[27] On July 10, 2024, SNDL issued a second set of demands and notices of intention to enforce security against some or all of the Delta 9 Group in respect of the SNDL Senior Debt. SNDL demanded “immediate repayment” of all indebtedness, liabilities and other obligations under a February 2, 2022 CFCU commitment letter (Commitment Letter)², which it claimed was $27,868,283.94, plus additional indebtedness (accrued interest, legal fees and expenses or other recoverable amounts). The demand indicated that payment should be made by August 12, 2024.

[28] The Delta 9 Group immediately sought an initial CCAA order. It relied on a July 12, 2024 affidavit of Delta 9 Parent’s Chief Executive Officer, John Arbuthnot IV (Arbuthnot). In that affidavit, Arbuthnot confirmed that SNDL was now the Delta 9 Group’s primary senior secured creditor and that “SNDL is now owed the estimated collective amount of $38,701,617.27 (Estimated Outstanding Indebtedness)”. He described that the Delta 9 Group needed time to implement a restructuring that will “ultimately see SNDL repaid in full for the amounts owed to it under the Estimated Outstanding Indebtedness”.

[29] Arbuthnot further deposed that the Delta 9 Group had entered into a July 12, 2024 “Restructuring Term Sheet” with Fika that “sets out the key steps of the proposed restructuring plan for the Applicants in the context of these CCAA proceedings, as supported by the Plan Sponsor”. The Restructuring Term Sheet contemplated numerous steps, including a SISP process with respect to Bio-Tech. One of the steps of the Restructuring Term Sheet was explained as follows:

... the remaining Estimated Outstanding Indebtedness owing to SNDL will be paid down from the proceeds realized from the SISP, with full payout of any of the remaining Estimated Outstanding Indebtedness to be completed by the Plan Sponsor upon plan implementation.

[30] The Restructuring Term Sheet provided, under “Consideration”, that the “Plan Sponsor shall pay out the outstanding balance of the SNDL Debt on Plan implementation”.

² The Commitment Letter is referred to as the “SNDL Credit Agreement” in the Plan.

[31] On July 15, 2024, the Court granted the Initial Order, with reference to Arbuthnot’s July 12, 2024 affidavit.

[32] On July 18, 2024, Arbuthnot swore another affidavit prior to the comeback application scheduled for July 24, 2024. In that affidavit, Arbuthnot again referred to and relied on the Restructuring Term Sheet. He stated that the significant aspects of the proposed restructuring included Fika providing “payment in full to SNDL in respect of the senior-ranking indebtedness previously held by CFCU ... owing by the Applicants upon plan implementation”. On July 24, 2024, with reference to both Arbuthnot affidavits, the Court granted the ARIO (which approved the Interim Financing Term Sheet, the appointment of the CRO, and the Break-Fee), the Bio-Tech SISP Order and a Claims Procedure Order.

[33] On September 11, 2024, the Court granted the Extension Order. Arbuthnot again relied on his earlier affidavits. No change to the treatment of SNDL or the SNDL Senior Debt appears to have been disclosed to the Court.

[34] On September 12, 2024, Fika paid an undisputed amount of the SNDL Mezzanine Debt (totalling approximately $11.6 million) to SNDL. The Monitor advised that a resolution of the disputed portion of this debt (totalling approximately $3.1 million) is scheduled to be the subject of an application before the Court on December 5, 2024. To be clear, this payment was not with respect to the SNDL Senior Debt.

[35] On October 21, 2024, Fika and the Delta 9 Group filed their materials to support the relief of, among other things, seeking the Creditor Meeting. The Plan is discussed below.

b. The Potential Effect of the Plan on SNDL

[36] Fika argues that the “SNDL Claim”, a defined term under the Plan, is an “Unaffected Claim” under the Plan. An Unaffected Claim is defined to include “Secured Claims” (any Claim of a secured creditor as defined in section 2(1) of the CCAA) and an “Unaffected Creditor” is defined as a creditor who has an Unaffected Claim. Fika says, therefore, that SNDL is properly not entitled to vote on the Plan because its rights are not affected and the Plan complies with section 6(1) of the CCAA.

[37] Of course, it is the substance of the Plan that is important, not its form. It is insufficient that a claim or creditor is defined as unaffected – the question is whether it is in fact unaffected.

[38] “SNDL Claim” is defined in the Plan as “all amounts owing by the Applicants and Bio-Tech to SNDL under the SNDL Credit Agreement³, plus all accrued and outstanding pre-filing fees, costs, interest, or other amounts confirmed to be owing pursuant to the SNDL Credit Agreement pursuant to a Final Order or agreement between the Plan Sponsor and SNDL”.

[39] Section 3.9 of the Plan expressly addresses the SNDL Claim (emphasis added):

Section 3.9 Treatment of SNDL Claim

As a Secured Claim, the SNDL Claim shall constitute an Unaffected Claim under the Plan. Subject to the terms and conditions of the Plan, from and after the Retail Implementation Date, the SNDL Claim shall constitute valid outstanding indebtedness of the Applicants, which shall be serviced in the ordinary course in accordance with the terms of the SNDL Credit Agreement. The SNDL Credit Agreement and the SNDL Security⁴ shall constitute Continuing Contracts which shall remain in place, unaffected by the implementation of the Plan. For certainty:

- (a) The SNDL Security will remain valid and effective as against the Applicants and Bio-Tech, unaffected by the Plan in all respects, and shall be discharged upon the full and final satisfaction of the SNDL Claim.
- (b) From and after the Retail Implementation Date, the Plan Sponsor will service the SNDL Claim in the ordinary course and in accordance with the terms of the SNDL Credit Agreement. The Plan Sponsor will keep the SNDL Credit Agreement in good standing and, if necessary, will provide a guarantee of the outstanding obligations of the Applicants and Bio-Tech under the SNDL Credit Agreement.
- (c) The Plan Sponsor will execute such documents and other agreements as SNDL may reasonably require to acknowledge and confirm the continued validity of the SNDL Security following and notwithstanding the Retail Implementation Date.
- (d) In the event that the Plan Sponsor acquires the assets and/or equity of Bio-Tech in accordance with Section 10 of this Plan, the SNDL Security will remain valid and effective against the assets of Bio-Tech following and notwithstanding the issuance of the Bio-Tech Certificate, and the Plan Sponsor agrees that it shall execute such documents and other agreements as SNDL may reasonably require to confirm the continued validity and enforceability of the SNDL Security.

[40] A “Continuing Contract” is defined as a “contract, arrangement, or other agreement (oral or written) for which a notice of disclaimer pursuant to section 32 of the CCAA has not been sent by any of the Applicants”.

⁴ SNDL Security is defined in the Plan as “any and all security granted by the Applicants and Bio-Tech to secure obligations existing under the SNDL Credit Agreement.” The Monitor’s counsel has provided an opinion, subject to standard qualifications and assumptions, that SNDL’s security is enforceable in accordance with its terms against the Delta 9 Group’s property.

[41] In summary, the Plan does not contemplate “full payout” of SNDL. In doing so, Fika changed a material aspect of the consideration in the Restructuring Term Sheet. This is fairly described at paragraph 70 of the Third Monitor’s Report:

Notwithstanding that the Restructuring Term Sheet ...contemplates in section 1(d) that the Plan Sponsor will pay out the balance of the SNDL Debt upon Plan implementation, the Plan now classifies SNDL’s Senior Debt as unaffected and contemplates survival of the SNDL Senior Debt beyond Plan implementation. Specifically, the Plan proposes that servicing of the SNDL Senior Debt will resume in the ordinary course and, if necessary, Fika will provide a guarantee of the outstanding obligations of the Applicants and Bio-Tech under the SNDL Credit Agreement.

[42] SNDL’s first argument about the Plan’s impact on the repayment of the SNDL Senior Debt is that SNDL is owed the full amount of the indebtedness, which was accelerated and became due and owing upon the delivery of its July 10, 2024 demands. The Commitment Letter provides under “Repayment”: “payable on demand but until demand, interest only is payable monthly in arrears on the first day of each month”. SNDL made a demand on July 10, 2024, before the Initial Order. SNDL argues that there is no question that the debt was validly accelerated. SNDL relies on the principle that the CCAA process cannot be used to undo pre-CCAA transactions: SNV Group Ltd (Re) (Trustee of), 2001 BCSC 1644 at para 18.

[43] In its October 31, 2024 Reply Brief, Fika asserted that there is “currently a dispute between the Applicants and SNDL” as to whether SNDL’s demand letters validly accelerated the SNDL indebtedness. The Reply Brief noted that SNDL’s demands were made only 5 days after SNDL purchased its position from CFCU and that payments since the SNDL demands have been kept current. No further explanation of the basis for Delta 9 Group’s position in the dispute with SNDL about acceleration was articulated by Fika’s counsel, Delta 9 Group’s counsel, Arbuthnot, the CRO or the Monitor. I am not aware whether this dispute was brought to the Court’s attention prior to the Fika Reply Brief being provided. It is unclear to me when it was first raised with SNDL.

[44] Fika and Delta 9 Group argue that the validity of SNDL’s debt payment acceleration can be dealt with in a separate application in December 2024, or thereafter, and should not be an impediment to ordering the Creditor Meeting.

[45] When I asked about what would happen if the indebtedness of the Delta 9 Group to SNDL has been validly accelerated, Fika responded that Fika would either have to pay SNDL out or the matter would have to be dealt with by way of a waiver of default.

[46] SNDL argues that section 7.2(g) of the Plan effectively operates as a waiver of default because it prevents SNDL from enforcing or exercising any right or remedy by reason of “any event which occurred prior to, and is not continuing after, the Retail Implementation Date”. It also points to the definition of “Claim” which includes a “Pre-Filing Claim”, which in turn includes any contractual rights or claims. SNDL argues the Plan is a “back-door” way to effect a waiver of pre-filing defaults, similar to those referenced in Doman at para 9 (section 4.12).

[47] Fika relies on 12178711 Canada Inc v Wilks Brothers, LLC, 2020 ABCA 430 [Wilks Brothers]. In Wilks Brothers, a second lien noteholder argued it was contrary to Canadian law to fail to grant a creditor a voting right and then require a waiver of defaults as part of a restructuring, relying on Doman. Justice Paperny disagreed at para 44:

First, I do not interpret Doman to require that all persons who might have default provisions that exist prior to or arising during restructuring must have a vote. Rather, the court concluded that it ought not to grant an order waiving a future default, not a default that occurred before or during implementation of the plan itself. Second, I agree with the respondents that in these circumstances the absence of the waiver will very likely frustrate the restructuring efforts and is likely to be used by the appellant to attack the arrangement in a different forum.

[48] I agree with SNDL that Wilks Brothers is distinguishable. First, it involved a plan of arrangement under the Canada Business Corporations Act, RSC 1985, c C-44 (CBCA) which has different statutory requirements than the CCAA. In particular, the CBCA plans of arrangement do not involve insolvent corporations, and the CBCA does not have a statutory creditor voting requirement like section 6(1) of the CCAA. To the extent Wilks Brothers can be said to be making a general statement applicable to the CCAA (which I do not believe it was), it is obiter. Further, in Wilks Brothers there were findings that the second lien noteholder was acting for an improper purpose, that the absence of a waiver would “very likely frustrate the restructuring efforts and is likely to be used ... to attack the arrangement in a different forum”, and that the second lien noteholder failed to act in a timely manner because it knew the proposed plan of arrangement process did not give it a voting right but did not complain about that when the CBCA interim order was granted. These are different facts than this case.

[49] I find that, if SNDL’s claim that the Delta 9 Group’s indebtedness under the SNDL Senior Debt was validly accelerated prior to the Initial Order, then the Plan would affect and purport to bind SNDL and its claim without giving it a voting right.

[50] Fika argues that it was not its intention to adversely impact SNDL’s position, that Fika is heavily invested in this process, and that amendments to the Plan could be made even though the Creditor Meeting is ordered. While that may be true based on the proposed Creditor Meeting order and section 7 of the CCAA, this does not seem to me to be an attractive or practical solution but rather one that could involve significant expense and use of court resources that may ultimately be shown to be wasted and unnecessary. In my view, it is preferable, in the circumstances of this case, that the SNDL debt acceleration issue raised in the Reply Brief be resolved (by agreement or court determination) prior to the Court ordering a Creditor Meeting for this proposed Plan.

[51] This is a factor against ordering the proposed Creditor Meeting.

c. Plan Inconsistency With Prior Representations About Timing of Payment

[52] SNDL argues that the Plan is inconsistent with the Restructuring Term Sheet. In argument, Fika’s counsel candidly acknowledged that the Plan is not consistent with the Restructuring Term Sheet’s provision that the “Plan Sponsor shall pay out the outstanding balance of the SNDL Debt on Plan implementation”.

[53] SNDL also argues that the Plan is not consistent with the Court’s approval of the Restructuring Term Sheet in the ARIO. In reply oral argument, Fika’s counsel suggested that the Court did not “approve” the Restructuring Term Sheet. That is a troubling argument for Fika to now make given that, in paragraph 10 of its of its Brief filed October 24, 2024, Fika stated: “This Court approved [the Restructuring Term Sheet] pursuant to the ARIO” (emphasis added).

[54] In any event, whether the Court formally or expressly used the words that the Restructuring Term Sheet was “approved” is not determinative. It is the substance of the Court order that prevails. Like other orders, CCAA orders should be interpreted by reading them as a whole, in the context of the pleadings, the arguments made by the parties, the factual and legal context in which the order was made, and the intention of the court that granted the order: Weinrich Contracting Ltd v Wiebe, 2022 ABCA 176 at para 25 citing Alberta Health Services v Alberta (Information and Privacy Commissioner), 2020 ABQB 263 at paras 29-31; Campbell v Campbell, 2016 SKCA 39 at paras 14-17. Even template orders must be interpreted in the context of the particular litigation in which they are granted: Weinrich Contracting at para 25.

[55] In the ARIO, the Court approved the appointment of the CRO, including on these terms (emphasis added):

Subject to the terms of this Order and authorization from the Applicants, the CRO is hereby authorized to assist the Applicants and to do all things, carry out all actions and perform all duties described in the CRO Agreement, and without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the CRO is hereby empowered to do the following:

- (a) assist the Applicants with the Restructuring (as defined in the CRO Agreement);
- [...]
- (d) assist the Applicants in preparing and evaluating their projected cash flow statements and approving the same, in accordance with the terms of the Interim Financing Term Sheet and the Restructuring Term Sheet (collectively, the “Term Sheets”);
- (e) assist with the proposed plan of arrangement in accordance with the terms of the Term Sheets and the applicable orders of this Court, and any potential sale and investment solicitation process in connection with these proceedings;
- (f) assist the Applicants with any deliverables owed to the Plan Sponsor pursuant to the Term Sheets; [...]

[56] Further, the ARIO approved the Interim Financing Term Sheet, which appears to have also referenced the binding Restructuring Term Sheet. The ARIO also approved Fika’s $1,500,000

Break-Fee “pursuant to the provisions” of the Restructuring Term Sheet, which would be triggered upon certain events, including a condition based on whether the Court’s approval of any plan, compromise or transaction effectively precluded the “Acquisition Transaction” from proceeding. The “Acquisition Transaction” was as defined in the Restructuring Term Sheet.

[57] Further, the Bio-Tech SISP Order approved the Bio-Tech SISP process in Schedule A of that Order. The approved SISP process expressly referenced the Restructuring Term Sheet in its preamble.

[58] I find that while the ARIO and the Bio-Tech SISP Order do not expressly state that the Restructuring Term Sheet is approved, the above-referenced provisions indicate that the Restructuring Term Sheet was effectively endorsed by the Court as the basis upon which these CCAA proceedings were approved to move forward. The Court in granting the Initial Order and the ARIO satisfied itself that the Restructuring Term Sheet sufficiently disclosed a reasonable possibility that the Delta 9 Group would be able to restructure its affairs through “a germ of a reasonable and realistic plan” to allow it to initially engage the CCAA: Alberta Treasury Branches v Tallgrass Energy Corp, 2013 ABQB 432 at para 14. It is unclear if the Delta 9 Group would have been able to meet that hurdle and obtain court protection without the “full payout” of SNDL as had been described to the Court. In any event, the Court relied on or referenced the Restructuring Term Sheet in granting the ARIO, the Bio-Tech SISP Order and the Extension Order.

[59] Further, SNDL asserts it relied on Fika’s proposal to fully pay SNDL out when SNDL did not object to the $1,500,000 Break-Fee in the ARIO, or the terms of the Bio-Tech SISP Order. That does not appear to be disputed.

[60] Then, as noted above, at some point Fika’s proposed plan for dealing with the SNDL Senior Debt significantly changed. Fika has not materially or sufficiently explained why that happened.

[61] The Monitor flagged concerns prior to Fika’s Application being filed. Prior to the Plan being finalized (and, therefore, prior to SNDL being notified of Fika’s new approach), the Monitor, the Monitor’s counsel, and counsel to the Delta 9 Group met with Fika to advise Fika of the Monitor’s concerns regarding the “uncertainty surrounding the position of SNDL”. Fika’s counsel advised that Fika “intended to proceed with its application for the Creditor’s Meeting Order and, if necessary, would seek a determination from this Court confirming whether or not SNDL is affected by the Plan”.

[62] SNDL asserts it first learned about the changed Plan when the materials on this Application were filed, about a week before the Application was heard.

[63] In my view, while the facts are different, this Application has some similarities with Target Canada. In that case, Target Canada obtained an Amended and Restated CCAA order that provided that the claims of Target Canada’s landlords would not be released or affected in any way in any plan filed by Target Canada; those terms were the subject of significant negotiation between the landlords and Target Canada. A Claims Procedure Order, also settled after prolonged negotiations between Target Canada and their creditors (including the landlords), excluded landlord guarantee claims and further provided that nothing in the Claims Procedure Order shall prejudice the landlord guarantee claims. Target Canada then requested the court grant a creditor-meeting order to vote on a plan that varied the protection of the landlord guarantee claims. The landlords asserted that they would not have withdrawn their opposition to the CCAA proceedings without the protection of their guarantee claims.

[64] In dismissing the application for a creditor meeting, Regional Senior Justice Morawetz (as he then was), stated in part as follows:

[72] It is incumbent upon the court, in its supervisory role, to ensure that the CCAA process unfolds in a fair and transparent manner. It is in this area that this Plan falls short. [...]

[81] The CCAA process is one of building blocks. In this proceedings, a stay has been granted and a plan developed. During these proceedings, this court has made [sic] number of orders. It is essential that court orders made during CCAA proceedings be respected. In this case, the Amended Restated Order was an order that was heavily negotiated by sophisticated parties. They knew that they were entering into binding agreements supported by binding orders. Certain parties now wish to restate the terms of the negotiated orders. Such a development would run counter to the building block approach underlying these proceedings since the outset.

[84] In my view, it is clear that this Plan, in its current form, cannot withstand the scrutiny of the test to sanction a Plan. It is, in my view, not appropriate to change the rules to suit the applicant and the Plan Sponsor, in midstream.

[85] It cannot be fair and reasonable to ignore post-filing agreements concerning the CCAA process after they have been relied upon by counter-parties or to rescind consent orders of the court without grounds to do so.

[86] Target Canada submits that the foregoing issues can be the subject of debate at the sanction hearing. In my view, this is not an attractive alternative. It merely postpones the inevitable result, namely the conclusion that this Plan contravenes court orders and cannot be considered to be fair and reasonable in its treatment of the Objecting Landlords. In my view, this Plan is improper (see Crystallex).

[65] This case is different than Target Canada because the Court order is not as express, and I have not been advised of evidence (if there is any) of the negotiation of the previous Court orders. However, for the reasons I set out earlier, I find that these CCAA proceedings have been engaged, continued and approved by the Court to-date on the basis that SNDL would be fully paid out on plan implementation.

[66] In these circumstances, I find that the Plan has not been proposed in a fair and transparent manner. The Delta 9 Group and Fika obtained the benefit of the Court's orders on the premise and proposal that the SNDL Senior Debt would be fully paid out by Fika upon plan implementation.

To allow Fika and Delta 9 Group to materially change their proposal without addressing the impacts on SNDL, without consulting with or giving SNDL prior notice of or obtaining SNDL's consent to the changes, without addressing SNDL's debt acceleration position, and without providing SNDL a voting right at the creditor's meeting, "would run counter to the building block approach underlying these proceedings since the outset": Target Canada at para 81. It is not appropriate to change the approach to "suit the applicant and the Plan Sponsor, in midstream": Target Canada at para 84.

[67] I find that the Plan, in its current form, cannot withstand the scrutiny of the test to sanction a plan, namely (i) strict compliance with all statutory requirements; (ii) all materials filed and procedures carried out authorized by the CCAA; and (iii) a fair and reasonable plan: Target Canada at para 70; Re Northland Properties Ltd, 1988 CanLII 3250 aff'd 1989 CanLII 2672 (BC CA); Canadian Airlines Corp (Re), 2000 ABQB 442 at para 60 leave to appeal refused 2000 ABCA 238; Lutheran Church Canada (Re), 2016 ABQB 419 at para 114; Laurentian University of Sudbury, 2022 ONSC 5645 at para 23.

[68] This is a factor against ordering the proposed Creditor Meeting.

2. Other Asserted Impacts on SNDL

[69] SNDL argues that the Plan impacts it in other ways even if SNDL's claim is not accelerated.

[70] First, SNDL argues that section 3.9(b) of the Plan effectively seeks a novation of Fika into the SNDL Credit Agreement because it states that Fika "will service the SNDL Claim in the ordinary course and in accordance with the terms of the SNDL Credit Agreement. The Plan Sponsor will keep the SNDL Credit Agreement in good standing and, if necessary, will provide a guarantee of the outstanding obligations of the Applicants and Bio-Tech under the SNDL Credit Agreement". I am not prepared to find that this provision purports to effect a novation of Fika into the SNDL Credit Agreement. I note that it is not clear what is meant by "if necessary" Fika will provide a guarantee of the outstanding obligations of the Applicants. There is no evidence before me about how that condition might be triggered, or about Fika's assets to support that potential guarantee.

[71] Second, SNDL argues that its collateral is impacted by the way the Bio-Tech sale is treated under the Plan. It points to section 10.5(c) of the Plan and asserts that the sale of Bio-Tech alters the assets over which SNDL has security, and fundamentally changes the SNDL Senior Debt. SNDL also points to the margining conditions in the SNDL Credit Agreement which are to be supported by Bio-Tech's accounts receivables.

[72] Fika argues that SNDL is not affected because a bid to acquire Bio-Tech cannot be designated a bid as the "Successful Bid" unless SNDL approves or, if Fika overrules SNDL, Fika must "pay all amounts owing" by the Delta 9 Group to SNDL in full.

[73] Based on the record before me, I agree with Fika that SNDL's position is not affected in the way SNDL asserts because SNDL has the ability to approve the sale of Bio-Tech or, if Fika overrules SNDL's lack of approval, then the sale cannot proceed unless Fika completely pays out all amounts owing to SNDL (whether accelerated or not).

[74] In isolation, these issues raised by SNDL would have presented matters that could be likely have been addressed with language amendments and would not have been sufficient to refuse to order the proposed Creditor Meeting.

C. Section 6(8) of the CCAA – Consideration Paid to Shareholders

[75] SNDL argues that the Plan also violates section 6(8) of the CCAA and is not capable of sanction. Its concern is with the Plan’s creation of a “Shareholder Equity Pool” of 135,135 Class “A” voting common shares of Fika which are to be distributed to some of the Delta 9 Parent shareholders. The Shareholder Equity Pool is described as having aggregate value of $2,000,000. I note that the concept of the Shareholder Equity Pool was expressly referenced in the Restructuring Term Sheet, and I am not aware of any complaint being made about it previously.

[76] SNDL argues that Delta 9 Parent shareholders cannot receive any value for their equity interest until the company’s creditors are repaid in full, relying on Canadian Airlines at para 143 and Bul River Mineral Corporation (Re), 2014 BCSC 1732 at para 65.

[77] It is trite that creditors generally have priority over shareholders in the insolvency context. However, SNDL’s argument that the plan is not sanctionable is specifically based on the Plan’s alleged non-compliance with section 6(8) of the CCAA, which must be interpreted in accordance with ordinary terms of statutory interpretation. The provisions of the CCAA and the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, RSC 1985, c B-3 (BIA) “should be interpreted in their entire context and in their grammatical and ordinary sense harmoniously with the scheme of the statutes, the object of the statutes, and the intention of Parliament”: DGDP-BC Holdings Ltd v Third Eye Capital Corporation, 2021 ABCA 226 at para 18.

[78] Section 6(8) of the CCAA provides:

(8) No compromise or arrangement that provides for the payment of an equity claim is to be sanctioned by the court unless it provides that all claims that are not equity claims are to be paid in full before the equity claim is to be paid.

[79] Fika argues that the Delta 9 Parent shareholders are not making a claim so there is no equity claim being paid through the Plan and, therefore, the Plan does not offend section 6(8) of the CCAA. The argument goes like this:

- (a) section 6(8) of the CCAA only prohibits court sanction of a compromise or arrangement that provides for the payment of “equity claim” (unless it provides non-equity claims to be paid first);
- (b) an “equity claim” is defined in the CCAA as a claim “in respect of an equity interest,⁵ including a claim for, among others (a) a divided or similar payment; (b) a return of capital; (c) a redemption or retraction obligation; (d) a monetary loss resulting from ownership, purchase or sale of an equity interest or from the rescission, or, in Quebec, the annulment, of a purchase or sale of an equity interest, or (e) contribution or indemnity in respect of a claim referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (d);

- (c) a “claim” means any “indebtedness, liability or obligation of any kind that would be a claim provable within the meaning of section 2 of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act”: CCAA, section 2(1); and
- (d) section 2 of the BIA defines “claim provable” as “any claim or liability provable in proceedings under the [BIA] by a creditor”. Section 121 of the BIA provides further context on what are provable claims under the BIA.

[80] All of these provisions involve a “claim” made by a claimant against the debtor. The cases the parties referenced in this Application addressing section 6(8) of the CCAA involved claims being made and the issue was whether the claim could be characterized as an equity claim: Bul River at paras 3-4; Sino-Forest Corporation (Re), 2012 ONCA 816; Nelson Financial Group Ltd, 2010 ONSC 6229 at para 33. See also: Return on Innovation v Gandi Innovations, 2011 ONSC 5018; All Canadian Investment Corporation (Re), 2020 BCSC 855 at para 45.

[81] In this case, there is no indication that Delta 9 Parent shareholders have made any claim to any payment from the Delta 9 Group. On the assumption that Fika’s submission is correct, and that no equity claim is being made, the Plan might not technically offend section 6(8) of the CCAA because the Plan does not contemplate payment of an “equity claim”. Accordingly, in that instance, there is not a basis to refuse to order a Creditor Meeting on the ground that the Plan is unsanctionable based on non-compliance with section 6(8).

[82] Even so, if there has been no equity claim by shareholders, the Plan structure begs the question of why the Plan “offers value”⁶, provides “consideration”⁷, or provides “equity recovery”⁸ to some Delta 9 Parent shareholders? That is, if Fika is willing to contribute Fika common shares as part of the Plan, why are they not all distributed to creditors? The rationale, purpose or necessity of transferring value to Delta 9 Parent shareholders in the Plan is not explained.

[83] What appears, on the record before me, to be an unexplained ex gratia or extra-contractual transfer of something of value to Delta 9 Parent shareholders, when creditors are not likely being fully paid as part of the Plan, raises a concern that the Plan has been structured to avoid the policy behind section 6(8) of the CCAA or the well-established principle of equitable subordination, which is used to “keep shareholders away from the table while the claims of other creditors are being sorted out”: US Steel Canada Inc (Re), 2016 ONCA 662 at para 96.

[84] Fika argues that creditors are unaffected by the transfer of Fika shares to Delta 9 Parent shareholders. It focusses on the fact that the Shareholder Equity Pool does not come from the Delta 9 Group assets or diminish the debtor’s assets, relying on Sino-Forest at para 56 (emphasis added):

⁷ Fika Reply Brief para 13.

⁸ Third Monitor’s Report para 67.

In our view, in enacting s. 6(8) of the CCAA, Parliament intended that a monetary loss suffered by a shareholder (or other holder of an equity interest) in respect of his or her equity interest not diminish the assets of the debtor available to general creditors in a restructuring. If a shareholder sues auditors and underwriters in respect of his or her loss, in addition to the debtor, and the auditors or underwriters assert claims of contribution or indemnity against the debtor, the assets of the debtor available to general creditors would be diminished by the amount of the claims for contribution and indemnity.

[85] See also SFC Litigation Trust v Chan, 2019 ONCA 525 at para 129.

[86] Even if it is true that the Plan does not diminish the assets of the debtors available to creditors, Fika is willing to contribute the value of its shares in the Shareholder Pool to the Plan. By providing some of that contributed value to shareholders instead of creditors, the Plan arguably reduces the total value that otherwise appears to potentially be available for distribution to creditors as part of the Plan. If this aspect of the Plan is ultimately considered in a plan sanctioning hearing, the Court will have to carefully consider whether a plan that includes a transfer of value to shareholders, in all the circumstances, is “fair and reasonable”. I make no further comments at this stage.

D. Section 22.1 and 6(1) of the CCAA - Equity Voting

[87] Finally, SNDL argues that the Plan permits shareholders to vote on the Plan in breach of section 6(1) and 22.1 of the CCAA. Section 22.1 of the CCAA provides:

22.1 Despite subsection 22(1), creditors having equity claims are to be in the same class of creditors in relation to those claims unless the court orders otherwise and may not, as members of that class, vote at any meeting unless the court orders otherwise.

[88] Section 22.1 means that creditors having equity claims are put into an equity class in relation to those claims and are not entitled to vote unless the court orders otherwise.

[89] SNDL’s argument is based on section 3.4(b) of the Plan, which provides that each “Affected Creditor” with an “Allowed Affected Claim” is entitled to vote on the Plan, and on the interconnecting definitions in the Plan, namely: “Allowed Affected Claim” includes an “Affected Claim”, which includes a “Claim” that is not an Unaffected Claim, which includes “Pre-Filing Claims”, which includes any “Equity Claim”, which includes any Claim that meets the definition of “equity claim” in section 2(1) of the CCAA (noted above). “Equity Claimant” is a person with an Equity Claim or holding “Existing Equity”, in such capacity. SNDL argues that these provisions together allow creditors that are “Equity Claimants” having equity claims the right to vote, in breach of section 22.1 of the CCAA.

[90] Fika points to section 2.4 of the Plan which provides that “Equity Claimants, including the Existing Common Shareholders, shall not be entitled to vote on the Plan in respect of their Equity Claims or Existing Equity or attend the Meeting”.

[91] I agree with Fika on this point. Section 3.4(b) of the Plan and its definitional sections are general sections which must be read in light of the more specific prohibition of section 2.4 of the Plan, which prohibits Equity Claimants from voting on the Plan in respect of any Equity Claim.

[92] SNDL has not established that section 3.4(b) of the Plan violates section 22.1 of the CCAA or renders it incapable of sanction. This is not a factor supporting refusal to order a Creditor Meeting.

E. Other Considerations

[93] While sanctioning the Plan is not before me, some of the submissions about the Plans overall effects on the restructuring are relevant to the exercise of my discretion in the Application.

[94] The Monitor supports the Court ordering the proposed Creditor Meeting. It is of the opinion that the Plan is a good result for Affected Creditors. The CRO believes the Plan preserves the value of the Plan Entities and is in the best interests of the Delta 9 Group's stakeholders.

[95] No Affected Creditors objected to the Creditor Meeting. The largest unsecured creditor supports the application and voiced its concerns for the interests of Delta 9 Group employees. Canada Revenue Agency raised some concerns about its inability to receive payments by way of shares, noted that there have been constructive discussions on that issue, and counsel advised he did not have instructions to oppose the application.

[96] The Monitor's analysis shows that if this matter proceeds to liquidation, the senior secured debt is greater than the estimated net proceeds of liquidation. The CRO believes that the Plan will enable substantially greater recoveries for creditors than bankruptcy or a liquidation. On the current record, I find that the Affected Creditors being unsecured will likely receive a greater recovery under the Plan than liquidation, in part because the Plan contemplates business continuing as a going concern.

[97] However, on the record before me, I am not satisfied at this stage that there is currently a toggled choice between either the Plan or liquidation / bankruptcy, based on whether the Creditor Meeting is ordered for the specific Plan proposed. As was the case in Crystallex, the evidence and argument suggest that the parties appear willing to continue negotiations to find a resolution that can permit Delta 9 Group's restructuring without liquidation. The Monitor indicates that it has been in discussions with both Fika and SNDL, and appears ready and willing to continue to facilitate discussions. In argument, Fika noted its heavy investment in the process. It suggested additional terms to the order and the Plan that could help address some of SNDL's concerns. Fika reassured the Court that it was never intended that the Plan affect SNDL.

[98] Based on Fika's response to the Monitor's concerns as reflected in paragraph 71 of the Third Monitor's Report, I am concerned that Fika pushed through this Application notwithstanding the concerns raised by the Monitor and when Fika knew (or should have known) SNDL would object to the changed approach. Parties are encouraged to resolve issues with a CCAA plan prior to court approval of the meetings order if possible: CannTrust at para 26.

[99] Rather than attempting to hastily patch together material revisions to the proposed form of Creditor Meeting order or the Plan, which may have unintended consequences or may not address all issues, in my view it is appropriate that the parties are given an opportunity to negotiate resolution of the uncertainties and disputes in this matter before a creditor meeting is ordered.

F. Summary

[100] In summary, in the unique circumstances of this case, I am not satisfied it is appropriate to exercise my discretion to order a Creditor Meeting as proposed for the Plan at this time.

[101] The resolution of the dispute about whether SNDL's secured debt validly accelerated may have a significant effect on SNDL's interests and the viability of the Plan in these proceedings. I disagree that the resolution of the acceleration issue can or should be dealt with in parallel or immediately before a plan sanction hearing. In my view, given its potential impact on these proceedings, it is appropriate for that issue to be resolved before the Plan is proposed to creditors to save a potentially wasteful process.

[102] Further, and in any event, the Plan is currently inconsistent with the Court's orders and the Restructuring Term Sheet upon which the Court and SNDL relied on. It would be inappropriate to allow Fika and Delta 9 Group to materially change SNDL's treatment under the Plan midstream without one or more of resolving or addressing the status of SNDL's claim, attempting to address SNDL's concerns, obtaining SNDL's consent, or providing SNDL a vote.

IV. Conclusion

[103] Fika's Application is dismissed, without prejudice to its right to re-apply again. The parties are encouraged, if possible, to resolve issues with any plan before it is brought back before the Court for a creditor meeting order.

[104] If the parties cannot agree on costs, they may address costs of the Application in writing to me within 30 days of these Reasons.

DECISION

I. INTRODUCTION

[1] Great Western Forestry Ltd. (“GWF”) filed a notice of intention to make a proposal to creditors (the “Proposal”) pursuant to the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, Chapter B-3 (the “BIA”). Matthew Munro of Grant Thornton Poirier Limited (“Grant Thornton”) was named the proposal administrator/trustee (the “Proposal Trustee”). Nalcor Energy (“Nalcor”) submitted a proof of claim to the Proposal Trustee. At a meeting of creditors held on July 11, 2014, Mr. Munro, acting in the capacity as chair of the meeting, rejected Nalcor’s proof of claim for purposes of voting on the Proposal pursuant to section 108(1) of the BIA. The chair rejected Nalcor’s Proof of Claim on the basis that it was contingent and unliquidated.

[2] This is an application by Nalcor for an order reversing the chair’s ruling rejecting Nalcor’s Proof of Claim for purposes of voting on the Proposal. This is an appeal pursuant to section 108 of the BIA.

II. FACTS

- [3] The following summary of the facts is a compilation of the facts outlined in the various briefs submitted by the parties. I have borrowed extensively from the briefs and I have largely reproduced them verbatim. The essential facts are not in dispute. Where there are factual controversies I have specifically identified them.
- [4] Nalcor is the proponent of an undertaking known as the Muskrat Falls Project, a project being developed to exploit the hydroelectric potential of Muskrat Falls on the Churchill River in the Labrador portion of the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador at a reported capital cost of $7.4 billion. On March 11, 2013, Nalcor and GWF, which engages in the business of harvesting and clearing timber, entered into a contract which provides that GWF will supply the personnel, equipment and services necessary to clear a right-of-way from the site of the Muskrat Falls Project to the site of existing hydroelectric generation facilities located at Churchill Falls, Labrador (the “Contract”). The projected value of the Contract is $33,283,323.00.
- [5] On November 15, 2013, Nalcor issued a Notice of Termination to GWF under the Contract. Among other things, the Notice of Termination cited GWF’s failure to meet the Contract schedule as the basis for termination. That same day, Nalcor entered into a letter agreement with a different company to complete GWF’s work under the Contract.

- [6] On February 10, 2014 GWF filed a Notice of Intention to Make a Proposal pursuant to subsection 50.4(1) of the BIA. The respondent was retained to act as the Proposal Trustee.
- [7] On February 11, 2014 GWF filed a Statement of Claim in the Supreme Court of Newfoundland and Labrador Trial Division (General) claiming against Nalcor, amongst other damages to be later valued, special damages in excess of eleven million dollars ($11,000,000.00) and a mechanics lien in excess of nine million dollars ($9,000,000.00) (the "Litigation"). On March 2, 2014 a copy of the Statement of Claim was served on Nalcor.
- [8] On May 27, 2014 Nalcor presented a Proof of Claim to the Proposal Trustee listing an unsecured claim in the amount of $20,100,000.00. which was superseded by a Re-stated Proof of Claim filed on July 8, 2014 (the "Proof of Claim") setting out a claim in the amount of $18,672,151.64.
- [9] On June 3, 2014, Nalcor filed a Defence in the Litigation.
- [10] On June 6, 2014 GWF submitted its Proposal indicating that unsecured creditors were to be paid out of the "Net proceeds of Settlement or Final Judgment" in the Litigation.

- [11] On June 13, 2014 the Proposal Trustee recommended acceptance of the Proposal.
- [12] On June 30, 2014 the Proposal Trustee also advised Nalcor that in order to assess its claim further it would be required to provide more substantive evidence to support the claim.
- [13] On July 7, 2014 Nalcor submitted to the Proposal Trustee various documents including Change Orders, Payment Certificates, the Contract, an Executive Summary and a copy of its Defence filed in the Litigation in support of its claim of $18,672,151.64.
- [14] On July 8, 2014 the Proposal Trustee received Nalcor's Re-stated Proof of Claim and the applicant's Proxy/Voting Letter indicating it would be voting against the acceptance of the Proposal.
- [15] On July 10, 2014 there was a telephone conversation between Nalcor's legal counsel and the Chair. Nalcor's legal counsel asserts that in that conversation he was advised by the Chair that he intended to proceed under section 108(3) of the BIA. The substance of the conversation was confirmed in an email from Nalcor's counsel to the Chair on the same date (Record, pages 32 and 483). There was no response to the email. In his affidavit, the Chair denies there was any understanding or assurances made that he would proceed under section 108(3) only that he was considering certain sections of the BIA (Record, page 511).

[16] On July 11, 2014, the first meeting of GWF's creditors (the "Creditors' Meeting") was held in Fredericton. Matthew Munro of Grant Thornton served as the Chair of the meeting. At the meeting, the Chair rejected Nalcor's Proof of Claim for the purpose of voting at the meeting pursuant to section 108(1) of the BIA.

[17] The Chair provided oral reasons for his decision to disallow Nalcor's Proof of Claim, as evidenced in the minutes of the meeting. Later that day, the Chair also provided Nalcor with written reasons for his decision. In his reasons, the Chair explained that the Proof of Claim was disallowed because:

- i. The claim is contingent upon the outcome of an action as to whether the Termination of the Contract between Nalcor Energy and Great Western Forestry Ltd. was proper and legal for which no final decision has been rendered by a Court of Law, and
- ii. The amount of the claim has not been adjudicated in a Court of Law and is therefore unliquidated.

[18] It is common ground that had Nalcor been permitted to vote at the Creditors' Meeting the Proposal would have been defeated and GWF automatically placed into bankruptcy.

III. PRELIMINARY ISSUE

[19] At the outset of the hearing counsel sought a determination whether this application would proceed by way of trial de novo or on the existing record. Nalcor argued that the matter should proceed as a rehearing (trial de novo). Grant Thornton argued that appeals under section 108 of the BIA should be based on the record.

[20] There are conflicting lines of authority on this issue. In Alberta Permit Pro Inc. (Re) 2011 ABQB 141 the Court concluded that appeals pursuant to section 108 of the BIA should proceed by way of “appeal de novo” rather than an “appeal on the record”. In Trans Global Communications Group Inc. (Re) [2009] A.J. No. 352 the Court acknowledged and reviewed the two lines of authority on the issue and concluded that, except in circumstances where restricting the hearing to the record would result in injustice, appeals of this nature should not be heard de novo.

[21] In this case, I could see no compelling reason to open the matter up to issues which were not before the Chair at the time of his rejection of Nalcor’s Proof of Claim and which did not form part of his reasons for rejection. Accordingly, I ruled that the hearing would proceed as an appeal on the record.

IV. STANDARD OF REVIEW

[22] All of the parties, except Grant Thornton, agree that the applicable standard of review is that of correctness. In Re Galaxy Sports Inc. 2004 BCCA 284 the Court concluded that a Chair's decision rejecting a proof of claim under section 108 attracts a correctness standard on appeal:

On a consideration of all the “contextual” factors mandated by the “pragmatic and functional” approach, I see no reason to disagree with the long-standing principle enunciated in Re McCoubrey, supra, which requires the application of a “correctness” standard where compliance with a “mandatory” provision (which I would equate to a question of law or statutory compliance) is involved, and the application of a “reasonableness” standard where the determination of a factual matter or an exercise of true discretion is called for. In the former category, I would place the chair's decision under s. 108 rejecting a proof of claim for voting purposes and the trustee's decision disallowing a proof of claim under ss. 124 and 135(2). In the latter category, I would place the trustee's role in valuing contingent and unliquidated claims under s. 135(1.1). This general approach conforms with the objective, which I see as implicit in the BIA, of enabling debtors to have their proposals voted upon expeditiously and permitting creditors to have their rights and claims determined in a business-like manner, while at the same time providing a meaningful appeal to a court of law on questions that clearly affect legal rights, engage the relative expertise of judges, and set precedents for other cases.

[23] The standard of review in this matter is that of correctness.

V. ANALYSIS AND DECISION

[24] At the outset I will deal with the factual controversy identified in paragraph 15 above. It is difficult to make findings with respect to controverted facts based solely on affidavits.

However, the Chair's affidavit evidence seems to me to be more plausible. In my view, it is likely that Nalcor's counsel misunderstood his conversation with the Chair. In any event, nothing turns on it. Nalcor did not alter its conduct in reliance on the conversation and therefore suffered no prejudice. Furthermore, the conversation had no bearing or influence on the outcome of the Creditors' Meeting.

[25] It is common ground that the Proposal Trustee did not determine whether Nalcor's claim is a provable claim pursuant to section 135(1.1) of the BIA. Nalcor argues that if the Proposal Trustee believed that its claim was of a contingent and/or unliquidated nature he should have valued the claim pursuant to section 135(1.1). Failing that, the Chair was obligated to proceed under section 108(3) and mark the Nalcor Proof of Claim as "objected to" and allow Nalcor to vote on the Proposal. Nalcor further argues that, even if the Chair had the discretion to proceed under section 108(1), his ruling that Nalcor's claim is contingent and/or unliquidated is wrong and must be overturned for failing to meet the correctness standard.

A. Was the Chair obligated to proceed under section 108(3)?

[26] Section 108 of the BIA provides as follows:

108.(1) Chair may admit or reject proof – The chair of any meeting of creditors has power to admit or reject a proof of claim for the purpose of voting but his decision is subject to appeal to the court.

(2) Accept as proof – Notwithstanding anything in this Act, the chair may, for the purpose of voting, accept any letter or printed matter transmitted by any form or mode of telecommunication as proof of the claim of a creditor.

(3) In case of doubt – Where the chair is in doubt as to whether a proof of claim should be admitted or rejected, he shall mark the proof as objected to and allow the creditor to vote subject to the vote being declared invalid in the event of the objection being sustained.

[27] Nalcor urges me to follow the approach advocated by Veit, J. in Alberta Permit Pro, supra. In that case the chair of a meeting of creditors denied a claimant, Wood Buffalo, the right to vote on a proposal because its proxy and claim were deficient and also because the Chair ruled the claim to be contingent and unliquidated. Wood Buffalo argued that its vote be marked as “objected” but be allowed under section 108(3) of the BIA. The Chair refused to proceed under section 108(3). The Court concluded that the Chair should have marked the claim “objected” and allowed Wood Buffalo to vote. Veit, J. stated at paragraph 64:

However, where claims are relatively complicated, it stands to reason that the Trustee would come to the conclusion that it does not have the time, or the means, to assess the claim and that it should resort to the provisions of s. 108(3). It appears to me that a potentially useful guide to a Trustee is the case law which has developed around the issue of summary judgments: a Trustee is, in effect, called upon to make a summary judgment in respect of the claims advanced. In circumstances where it is not possible to make a summary judgment, the Trustee should take advantage of the statutory mechanism offered, mark a claim “objected”, but allow the putative creditor to vote. In the circumstances here, it is difficult to credit that the Trustee would have had sufficient information to categorically state that Wood Buffalo’s claim was denied; Wood Buffalo should have been allowed to vote, and the vote should have been marked “objected”.

[28] In my view, the plain reading of section 108 provides the Chair with several options as to how to proceed with proofs of claim at a meeting of creditors. One of those options is section 108(1). As counsel for TCE Capital Corporation succinctly stated in argument:

I did not have time to make this complicated. I submit that the Chair was able to use section 108(1) and therefore the only issue is whether he was correct.

I agree.

[29] In any event, there is persuasive authority that the Chair's use of section 108(1) over the "mark and park" provisions of section 108(3) is the appropriate course of action in the circumstances of this case. Counsel for the respondent referred me to two decisions, the circumstances and issues of which are similar to the present case: Re Port Chevrolet Oldsmobile Ltd., 2002 BCSC 1874 (affirmed 2004 BCCA 37) and Re 2713250 Canada Inc., 2011 QCCS 6119.

[30] In Port Chevrolet the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency ("CCRA") submitted a claim for $15,864,279.83 based on an assessment against the debtor which was under appeal. The debtor had negotiated a proposal with its other creditors which was approved by the Trustee. At the creditors' meeting the Trustee disallowed CCRA's claim on the ground that it was contingent being based on an unresolved assessment currently under appeal and disallowed CCRA's vote on the proposal. CCRA appealed. In upholding the Trustee's decision Neilson, J. stated at paragraph 41:

41 I find the circumstances here quite different. The debtor is not yet bankrupt. It was a profitable business with over 50 employees before the assessment and is now diligently pursuing a proposal under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, which is the only course left open to it to avoid a bankruptcy and continue to operate, in the face of an assessment that it claims is invalid. Neither the debtor nor the trustee are seeking to avoid the appeal procedures outlined in the Excise Tax Act. Instead, the debtor is vigorously pursuing them. The problem is that those procedures could not be completed before the first creditors' meeting. Port has evidently convinced the trustee that there is merit to its objection. Even CCRA's representative, Mr. O'Connell, has conceded to the trustee that one possible outcome of Port's challenge may be a nil value to CCRA's claim.

[31] And at paragraphs 45 and 46:

45 In the circumstances I have described, I am satisfied that the trustee had the power to classify CCRA's claim as contingent. As Port's counsel points out, to hold otherwise could permit CCRA to issue a substantial but erroneous assessment against an innocent and profitable debtor and put it into bankruptcy and out of business before the validity of the assessment can be determined under the appropriate process provided by the Excise Tax Act. That cannot be the intent of either the Excise Tax Act or the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act.

46 There is no evidence of prejudice to CCRA in permitting Port to continue to operate pending resolution of the appeal process under the Excise Tax Act, which I am told may take up to a year. CCRA, during that period, is entitled to receive the lion's share of the profits set aside for unsecured creditors under the proposal. On the other hand, there is substantial prejudice to Port, its employees and its other creditors if it is prematurely forced into bankruptcy on the strength of an assessment that may be successfully challenged.

[32] The case of 2713250 Canada is another involving an unresolved tax dispute. In that case Revenue Quebec issued two Notices of Assessment against the debtor totaling $30,652,071.00 which the debtor contested. Under the applicable law the tax assessments were presumed valid and the amounts claimed were immediately payable. As a result, the debtor became insolvent and filed a notice of intention to file a proposal under the BIA. The trustee concluded that Revenue Quebec's claim was contingent. At the first meeting of creditors the Chair declared the Revenue Quebec claim as being inadmissible for the purposes of voting pursuant to section 108(1) of the BIA. The evidence was clear that Revenue Quebec would have voted against the proposal if permitted resulting in the automatic bankruptcy of the debtor. On the issue of the applicability of section 108(1) of the BIA Gascon, J. (now of the Supreme Court of Canada) stated at paragraphs 50 and 51:

50 Similarly, this is not a case where the chair doubted that the proof of claim should be admitted or rejected under section 108(3) BIA. As the Trustee expressed at the hearing, in its opinion, it is clear that RQ's proof of claim is inadmissible for the purposes of voting due to its contingent and unliquidated character and the impossibility of assessing it in the circumstances which prevailed at the time of the meeting.

51 In other words, the Trustee has neither accepted, nor rejected RQ's proof of claim. It has simply not recognized it for the purposes of voting at the meeting. The relevant meeting minutes and the Trustee's testimony at hearing are unequivocal. (emphasis added)

[33] And at paragraph 75:

75 In making the decision contested by RQ, the Trustee exercised a power conferred by section 108(1) *BIA, in its role as chair of the meeting of creditors. This being said, the Court should only intervene in the presence of an error of law or a palpable and overriding error of fact. (emphasis added)

[34] And at paragraphs 79 and 80:

79 These parameters set out, we note that section 108(1) BIA allows the chair to declare a claim as being inadmissible for the purposes of voting. The wording of the section explicitly states this.

80 In this case, the Trustee, in its capacity as chair of the meeting of creditors, has correctly exercised this power. It gave reasons for its decision. Its report on the proposal and the minutes of the meetings held October 4, 2010 and February 17, 2011 makes proof of this. (emphasis added)

[35] A compelling argument for applying the approach used in 2713250 Canada and Port Chevrolet is found at paragraphs 41 and 42 of the Pre-Hearing Brief filed on behalf of Western Surety Company:

41. There are several similarities between the case at bar and the two cases summarized above. In all three scenarios:

- i. the debtor is not yet bankrupt;
- ii. the proposal has the overwhelming support of almost all creditors;
- iii. the claim in question has been challenged (in good faith) in a court of law;
- iv. the debtor is actively pursuing the court challenge and the proposal;
- v. the contested claim is larger than the claim of any other creditor;
- vi. the contested claim is impossible to evaluate at the time of the first meeting of creditors;
- vii. the creditor in question was the only creditor (or one of the only creditors) who intended to vote against the proposal;
- viii. allowing the creditor in question to vote would have triggered an automatic bankruptcy; and
- ix. the creditor in question was the only creditor who stood to benefit from the failure of the proposal.

42. Because the similarities are so stark, the Chair's decision to disallow Nalcor's claim for the purpose of voting pursuant to s. 108(1) should be upheld, as it was in Port Chevrolet and Re 2713250 Canada Inc.

[36] The cases of 2713250 Canada and Port Chevrolet on the one hand, and Alberta Permit Pro on the other, reveal a stark contrast in approaches. I am not bound by any of these decisions. However, and with the greatest respect, I find the reasoning in 2713250 Canada more compelling than that in Alberta Permit Pro. Furthermore, the persuasiveness of the 2713250 Canada decision is enhanced due to the striking factual similarities to the present case. Adopting the reasoning in that case, I conclude that it was appropriate for the Chair to proceed under section 108(1) of the BIA.

B. Did the Chair err in rejecting Nalcor's Proof of Claim on the basis of it being contingent and/or unliquidated?

[37] At the meeting of creditors the Chair rejected Nalcor's Proof of Claim for the purposes of voting at the meeting for the following reasons:

- i. The claim is contingent upon the outcome of an action as to whether the Termination of the Contract between Nalcor Energy and Great Western Forestry Ltd. was proper and legal for which no final decision has been rendered by a Court of Law, and
- ii. The amount of the claim has not been adjudicated in a Court of Law and is therefore unliquidated.

[38] The question becomes whether the Chair was correct in his characterization of Nalcor's claim as contingent and/or unliquidated.

(i) Contingent

[39] In Houlden, Morawetz & Sarra, 2014 Annotated Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (Toronto: Carswell, 2014) at G-37(2) a contingent claim is described as follows:

A contingent claim is a claim that may or may not ever ripen into a debt, according as some future event does or does not happen: Gardner v. Newton (1916), 29 D.L.R. 276, 10 W.W.R. 51, 26 Man. R. 251 (K.B.).

[40] In Vanderpol v. The Queen (2002), 31 C.B.R. (4th) 118 at paragraph 10 it states:

...In Wawang Forest Products Ltd. v. The Queen, the Court observed:

The generally accepted test for determining whether a liability is contingent comes from Winter and Others (Executors of Sir Arthur Munro Sutherland (deceased)) v. Inland Revenue Commissioners, [1963] A.C. 235 (H.L.), in which Lord Guest said this (at page 262):

I should define a contingency as an event which may or may not occur and a contingent liability as a liability which depends for its existence upon an event which may or may not happen.

Returning to the Winter test, the correct question to ask, in determining whether a legal obligation is contingent at a particular point in time, is whether the legal obligation has come into existence at that time, or whether no obligation will come into existence until the occurrence of an event that may not occur.

The fact is that the assessment created a legal obligation which was in existence at the point of time the proof of claim was filed.

[41] Earlier cases indicate that there must be an element of probability of liability otherwise the claim will be considered contingent. However, Nalcor's counsel referred to several authorities that suggest the claimant need not establish that success is probable (Re Air Canada (2004) 2 C.B.R. (5th) 23; Oil Lift Technology Inc. v. Deloitte & Touche Inc. [2012] A.J. No. 548). The mere fact that the claim is founded on pending litigation is not, in itself, determinative of the issue (Re Wiebe 1995, 30 C.B.R. (3rd) 109; Oil Lift Technology Inc. v. Deloitte & Touche Inc., supra). However, the authorities are consistent and clear that the claimant must establish that the claim is not “too speculative or remote”.

[42] Nalcor’s counsel relies on Newfoundland and Labrador v. AbitibiBowater Inc. 2012 S.C.C. 67 where the Court stated at paragraph 26:

These provisions highlight three requirements that are relevant to the case at bar. First, there must be a debt, a liability or an obligation to a creditor. Second, the debt, liability or obligation must be incurred before the debtor becomes bankrupt. Third, it must be possible to attach a monetary value to the debt, liability or obligation. I will examine each of these requirements in turn.

[43] In AbitibiBowater the issue before the Court was whether an environmental protection order issued by the Province would ripen into a monetary claim. Under the applicable legislation, if the Province undertook remediation it was entitled to recover the costs of the same from the person against whom the protection order was issued. The Court concluded that the first two elements referenced above were satisfied thus the issue became whether the possibility of a monetary claim arising from the protection order was “too remote or speculative”. If there was sufficient certainty of a monetary claim then it could be included in the insolvency process. The motions judge adjudicating the claim pursuant to the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (“CCAA”) concluded that it was “most likely” that the Province would perform the remediation work and thus have a monetary claim to recover the remediation costs. In affirming the judge’s decision the Supreme Court of Canada stated that the analysis must be grounded on the specific facts of each case. The Court then went on to take exception to the threshold of “likelihood” applied by the motions judge. At paragraph 61 Deschamps, J. (for the majority) stated:

Thus, I prefer to take the approach generally taken for all contingent claims. In my view, the CCAA court is entitled to take all relevant facts into consideration in making the relevant determination. Under the approach, the contingency to be assessed in a case such as this is whether it is sufficiently certain that the regulatory body will perform remediation work and be in a position to assert a monetary claim. (emphasis added)

[44] In my view, the “sufficiently certain” threshold applied in AbitibiBowater is really a restatement of the test applied in the preponderance of authorities: Is the claim too speculative or remote?

[45] Returning to the three elements set out in AbitibiBowater, Nalcor argues that it meets all three elements insofar as:

1. There is a debt, liability or obligation;
2. That the obligation predated the proposal; and
3. It is possible to assign a monetary value to the obligation.

Nalcor argues that all three elements are satisfied. I disagree.

[46] Insofar as Nalcor’s Proof of Claim depends on its success in the Litigation and the Litigation is based on the Contract, I am prepared to accept, for the purposes of argument, that Nalcor's claim predates the Proposal. The remaining two elements (whether there is an existing debt, liability or obligation and whether that obligation is capable of being assigned a value) go to the heart of whether Nalcor's claim is contingent and/or unliquidated. The very issue in the Litigation is whether GWF defaulted under the Contract. Can it be said that Nalcor's success on this issue at trial is not "too speculative or remote" or, put another way, is its success in the Litigation "sufficiently certain"? In my view, the answer to this question is no.

[47] Nalcor maintains that the obligation or debt owing by GWF to Nalcor crystallized upon GWF's default. Nalcor refers to Article 24.6 of the Contract which provides that all costs incurred by Nalcor arising out of "lawful exercise" of its remedies shall constitute a "debt" by GWF to Nalcor. However, whether Nalcor is entitled to the "lawful exercise" of any of its remedies is dependent upon whether GWF breached the terms of the Contract. GWF's debt is not crystallized by the issuance of the notice of default by Nalcor but by a final determination of whether GWF defaulted under the Contract. That is the very issue at the heart of the Litigation. The pleadings reveal a substantial dispute involving a complex commercial contract with hotly contested facts. GWF's obligation to Nalcor will only "crystallize" if GWF fails in the Litigation. If, on the other hand, GWF is successful then it will recover a substantial claim against Nalcor which will be used to fund the Proposal. Put simply, Nalcor's claim is completely contingent upon the outcome of the Litigation. Given the complexity of the legal proceedings, assessing Nalcor's chances of success in the Litigation would be a highly speculative exercise.

[48] In Port Chevrolet the court concluded that the speculative nature of a claim of a tax assessor under appeal rendered the claim contingent. There was a similar result in 2713250 Canada even where the tax assessment was presumed valid and payable immediately. In my view, Nalcor's claim is not sufficiently certain and is too remote and speculative to be considered as anything but contingent. The Chair was correct in rejecting it on the basis that it was contingent.

(ii) Unliquidated

[49] In 2014 Annotated Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, supra, at G-37(4) at page 630 it states:

A liquidated claim is in the nature of a debt, i.e., a specific sum of money due and payable under or by virtue of a contract. Its amount must either be already ascertained or capable of being ascertained as a mere matter of arithmetic. If the ascertainment of a sum of money, even though it be specified or named as a definite figure, requires investigation beyond mere arithmetical calculation, then the claim is an unliquidated claim: Re A Debtor (No. 64 of 1992), [1994] 1 W.L.R. 264 (H.C.).

[50] The essential elements of a liquidated claim are:

- (a) a specific sum ascertained or ascertainable by mere arithmetic;
- (b) payable under a contract.

[51] Nalcor relies upon Article 24 of the Contract. That Article sets out a methodology for calculating the damages for completion of the work in the event that Nalcor elects to do so upon breach by GWF. After issuing its notice of default, Nalcor advised GWF that it was proceeding under Article 24.4(b) and completing the work (Record, page 401). Nalcor's Re-stated Proof of Claim incorporates various schedules, one of which summarizes Nalcor's damages resulting from GWF's alleged default (Table 3, Record, page 406). Nalcor says that the aforesaid damages claimed are computed using the agreed formula set out in Article 24.6 and, as such, were ascertained as a mere matter of arithmetic and thus constitute a liquidated claim. I disagree.

[52] While the lion's share of Nalcor's claim is for completion costs, the validity of the claim as well as the assessment of damages is completely dependent on the outcome of the Litigation. For the same reason, I conclude that it cannot be said that Nalcor's claim is for a sum due and payable under a contract. That too will depend upon the outcome of the Litigation. In my view, Nalcor's claim is unliquidated.

[53] While it is not essential to my decision, I believe it is important that this matter be viewed in context. Nalcor's primary concern is that it be entitled to vote at the meeting of creditors. In the circumstances of this case, Nalcor can never share in the distribution. The Proposal depends on GWF succeeding in the Litigation for that is the only source for funding the Proposal. If GWF loses there are no funds for distribution. If GWF succeeds then Nalcor has no claim. In either case, Nalcor will not participate in the distribution.

Further, Nalcor has made it clear that if it is permitted to vote it will defeat the Proposal resulting in the automatic bankruptcy of GWF. The practical effect of this will be the discontinuance of the Litigation against Nalcor. While theoretically any creditor can continue the litigation, I believe it is improbable that any other creditor will assume the significant cost and risk of pursuing the litigation against Nalcor. In these circumstances the comments of Neilson, J. at para. 45 of Port Chevrolet resonate (see para. 31 above).

[54] Counsel for GWF argues that Nalcor is using the BIA for an improper purpose. Both Grant Thornton and TCE Capital Corporation argue that Nalcor's Proof of Claim does not satisfy the statutory requirements of subsection 124(4) of the BIA. Given my conclusion with respect to the Chair's determination that Nalcor's claim is contingent and unliquidated, it is not necessary for me to address these arguments.

VI. CONCLUSION

[55] Nalcor's application is dismissed and the Chair's decision to disallow Nalcor's claim for purposes of voting pursuant to section 108(1) of the BIA is affirmed.

[56] The respondent has been successful and is entitled to costs. Lengthy affidavits with extensive supporting documentation were filed in this matter and the parties submitted comprehensive legal briefs. A full day was required for argument. In all the circumstances Nalcor shall pay costs to the respondent in the sum of $5,000.00.

Court of Appeal for Ontario
Finlayson, Krever and Doherty JJ.A.
November 2, 1990*

Debtor and creditor -- Companies' Creditors Arrangements Act
-- Creditor appointing receiver-manager of assets of debtors -- Court authorizing receiver's access to debtors' premises to monitor debtors' business and permitting debtors to carry on business in ordinary course -- Debtors precluded from issuing debentures so as to qualify as "debtor company" for purposes of making application under Companies' Creditors Arrangements Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36.

E and N (the companies) were related companies engaged in the manufacture of automobile parts. The Bank of Nova Scotia (the Bank) had a registered first charge on the accounts receivable and inventory of the companies, a second registered charge on the land, buildings and equipment, and security under s. 178 of the Bank Act. The companies had agreed not to encumber their assets without the consent of the Bank.

R was also a secured creditor of the companies. The Ontario

Development Corporation (O.D.C.) guaranteed payment of $500,000 to R for that amount lent by R to E. The O.D.C. held debenture security from E to secure that guarantee. The companies also owed unpaid municipal taxes, and the municipalities involved had a lien on the real property of the companies.

In 1989, the companies suffered an operational loss. In May 1990, the Bank demanded payment of all loans. On August 27, 1990, the Bank appointed a receiver-manager of the assets of the companies; the companies refused to allow the receiver-manager access to their premises, so the Bank brought a motion for an order granting possession of the companies' premises to the receiver. On August 27, 1990, the High Court of Justice made an order adjourning the motion on certain conditions. The receiver was to be given access to the premises to monitor E's business and E was permitted to remain in possession and carry on its business in the ordinary course.

On August 29, 1990, each company issued a debenture for $10,000 to a friend of the principals of the companies. It was admitted that the sole purpose of issuing the debenture was to qualify as "debtor companies" within the meaning of s. 3 of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (the Act). No consent was obtained from the Bank or from the receiver. The companies subsequently issued two other debentures to the wife of the principal of E, again without the consent of the Bank, and applied under s. 5 of the Act for an order directing a meeting of the secured creditors of the companies to consider a plan of arrangement. On September 11, 1990, an order was granted for a meeting of the companies' secured creditors. The order further prohibited the Bank from acting on its security or paying down any of its loans from collected accounts receivable and permitted the companies to spend any accounts receivable collected which had been assigned to the Bank. On September 14, an order was made extending the terms of the September 11 order to remain in effect until a plan of arrangement was presented to the court and continuing the stay against the Bank and the power of the companies to spend accounts receivable. On October 18, 1990, an order was made directing that there be two classes of secured creditors for the purpose of voting at the meeting, the first class consisting of the Bank, R, O.D.C. and the municipalities, the second class consisting of those persons who had acquired debentures to enable the companies to apply under the Act. The Bank appealed those orders.

Held, the appeal should be allowed.

Per Finlayson J.A. (Krever J.A. concurring): The combined effect of the receivership and the August 27 order disentitled the companies to issue the debentures and bring the application under the Act. The effect of the appointment of the receiver-manager was to divest the companies and their boards of directors of their power to deal with the property comprised in the appointment. The companies did not have the power to create further indebtedness and thus to interfere with the ability of the receiver to manage them. The interim August 27 order did not have the effect of stripping the receiver of its management powers. The issue of the debentures did not comply with the August 27 order that the companies carry on business in the ordinary course.

Further, it was improper to create one class of creditors made up of all the secured creditors save the so-called "sham" creditors. There was no true community of interest among them and the motivation of the companies in striving to create a single class was clearly to avoid the classification of the Bank as a separate class.

Per Doherty J.A. (dissenting): The debentures and trust deeds created in August 1990 sufficed to bring the companies within the requirements of s. 3 of the Act even if in issuing those debentures the companies breached a prior agreement with the Bank. Given the terms of the August 27 order, the existence of a receiver-manager installed by the Bank did not preclude the application under the Act. Section 3 of the Act is straightforward and unqualified: it requires only that the debtor company have, at the time an application is made, an outstanding debenture or bond issued under a trust deed. The circumstances surrounding the creation of the debt needed to meet the s. 3 requirement may well have a bearing on how a court exercises its discretion at various stages of the application, but they do not alone interdict resort to the Act.

If the debentures were issued in contravention of a security agreement between the companies and the Bank, that contravention did not affect the status of the debentures for the purposes of s. 3 of the Act. That section does not contemplate an inquiry into the effectiveness or enforceability of the s. 3 debentures as a condition precedent to qualification under the Act.

The August 27 order turned the receiver into a monitor with rights of access but with no authority beyond that. The operation of the business was specifically returned to the companies.

The Bank and R, the two principal creditors, should not have been placed in the same class of secured creditors. Their interests were not only different, but opposed. The orders preventing the Bank from acting on its security and enabling the companies to spend accounts receivable were all within the wide authority granted by s. 11 of the Act.

FINLAYSON J.A. (KREVER J.A. concurring) (orally):-- This is an appeal by the Bank of Nova Scotia (the Bank) from orders made by Mr. Justice Hoolihan as hereinafter described. The Bank of Nova Scotia was the lender to two related companies, namely, Elan Corporation (Elan) and Nova Metal Products Inc. (Nova), which commenced proceedings under the Companies' Creditors

Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (the CCAA) for the purposes of having a plan of arrangement put to a meeting of secured creditors of those companies.

The orders appealed from are:

(i) An order of September 11, 1990 which directed a meeting of the secured creditors of Elan and Nova to consider the plan of arrangement filed, or other suitable plan. The order further provided that for three days until September 14, 1990, the Bank be prevented from acting on any of its security or paying down any of its loans from accounts receivable collected by Elan and Nova and that Elan and Nova could spend the accounts receivable assigned to the Bank that would be received.

(ii) an order dated September 14, 1990 extending the terms of the order of September 11, 1990 to remain in effect until the plan of arrangement was presented to the court no later than October 24, 1990. This order continued the stay against the Bank and the power of Elan and Nova to spend the accounts receivable assigned to the Bank. Further orders dated September 27, 1990 and October 18, 1990 have extended the stay and the power of Elan and Nova to spend the accounts receivable that have been assigned to the Bank. The date of the meetings of creditors has been extended to November 9, 1990. The application to sanction the plan of arrangement must be heard by November 14, 1990.

(iii) An order dated October 18, 1990 directing that there be two classes of secured creditors for the purposes of voting at the meeting of secured creditors. The first class is to be comprised of the Bank, RoyNat Inc. (RoyNat), the Ontario Development Corporation (O.D.C.), the City of Chatham and the Village of Glencoe. The second class is to be comprised of persons related to Elan and Nova that acquired debentures to enable the companies to apply under the CCAA.

There is very little dispute about the facts in this matter, but the chronology of events is important and I am setting it out in some detail.

The Bank has been the banker to Elan and Nova. At the time of the application in August 1990 it was owed approximately $1,900,000. With interest and costs, including receivers' fees, it is now owed in excess of $2,300,000. It has a first registered charge on the accounts receivable and inventory of Elan and Nova and a second registered charge on the land, buildings and equipment. It also has security under s. 178 [am. R.S.C. 1985, c. 25 (3rd Supp.), s. 26] of the Bank Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-1. The terms of credit between the Bank and Elan as set out in a commitment agreement provide that Elan and Nova may not encumber their assets without the consent of the Bank.

RoyNat is also a secured creditor of Elan and Nova and it is owed approximately $12,000,000. It holds a second registered charge on the accounts receivable and inventory of Elan and Nova and a first registered charge on the land, buildings and equipment. The Bank and RoyNat entered into a priority agreement to define with certainty the priority which each holds over the assets of Elan and Nova.

The O.D.C. guaranteed payment of $500,000 to RoyNat for that amount lent by RoyNat to Elan. The O.D.C. holds debenture security from Elan to secure the guarantee which it gave to RoyNat. That security ranks third to the Bank and RoyNat. The O.D.C. has not been called upon by RoyNat to pay under its guarantee. O.D.C. has not lent any money directly to Elan or Nova.

Elan owes approximately $77,000 to the City of Chatham for unpaid municipal taxes. Nova owes approximately $18,000 to the Village of Glencoe for unpaid municipal taxes. Both municipalities have a lien on the real property of the respective companies in priority to every claim except the Crown under s. 369 of the Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1980, c. 302.

On May 8, 1990 the Bank demanded payment of all outstanding loans owing by Elan and Nova to be made by June 1, 1990. Extensions of time were granted and negotiations directed to the settlement of the debt took place thereafter. On August 27, 1990, the Bank appointed Coopers & Lybrand Ltd. as receiver and manager of the assets of Elan and Nova and as agent under the Bank's security to realize upon the security. Elan and Nova refused to allow the receiver and manager to have access to their premises on the basis that insufficient notice had been provided by the Bank before demanding payment.

Later on August 27, 1990 the Bank brought a motion in an action against Elan and Nova (Doc. No. 54033/90) for an order granting possession of the premises of Elan and Nova to Coopers & Lybrand. On the evening of August 27, 1990 at approximately 9:00 p.m., Mr. Justice Saunders made an order adjourning the motion on certain conditions. The order authorized Coopers & Lybrand access to the premises to monitor Elan's business and permitted Elan to remain in possession and carry on its business in the ordinary course. The Bank was restrained in the order, until the motion could be heard, from selling inventory, land, equipment or buildings or from notifying account debtors to collect receivables, but was not restrained from applying accounts receivables that were collected against outstanding bank loans.

On Wednesday, August 29, 1990 Elan and Nova each issued a debenture for $10,000 to a friend of the principals of the companies, Joseph Comiskey, through his brother Michael Comiskey as trustee, pursuant to a trust deed executed the same day. The terms were not commercial and it does not appear that repayment was expected. It is conceded by counsel for Elan that the sole purpose of issuing the debentures was to qualify as a "debtor company" within the meaning of s. 3 of the CCAA. Section 3 reads as follows:

3. This Act does not apply in respect of a debtor company unless

(a) the debtor company has outstanding an issue of secured or unsecured bonds of the debtor company or of a predecessor in title of the debtor company issued under a trust deed or other instrument running in favour of a trustee; and

(b) the compromise or arrangement that is proposed under section 4 or 5 in respect of the debtor company includes a compromise or an arrangement between the debtor company and

the holders of an issue referred to in paragraph (a).

The debentures conveyed the personal property of Elan and Nova as security to Michael Comiskey as trustee. No consent was obtained from the Bank as required by the loan agreements, nor was any consent obtained from the receiver. Cheques for $10,000 each, representing the loans secured in the debentures were given to Elan and Nova on Wednesday, August 29, 1990 but not deposited until six days later on September 4, 1990 after an interim order had been made by Mr. Justice Farley in favour of Elan and Nova staying the Bank from taking proceedings.

On August 30, 1990 Elan and Nova applied under s. 5 of the CCAA for an order directing a meeting of secured creditors to vote on a plan of arrangement. Section 5 provides:

5. Where a compromise or an arrangement is proposed between a debtor company and its secured creditors or any class of them, the court may, on the application in a summary way of the company or of any such creditor or of the trustee in bankruptcy or liquidator of the company, order a meeting of the creditors or class of creditors, and, if the court so determines, of the shareholders of the company, to be summoned in such manner as the court directs.

The application was heard by Farley J. on Friday, August 31, 1990 at 8:00 a.m. Farley J. dismissed the application on the grounds that the CCAA required that there be more than one debenture issued by each company. Later on the same day, August 31, 1990, Elan and Nova each issued two debentures for $500 to the wife of the principal of Elan through her sister as trustee. The debentures provided for payment of interest to commence on August 31, 1992. Cheques for $500 were delivered that day to the companies but not deposited in the bank account until September 4, 1990. These debentures conveyed the personal property in the assets of Elan and Nova to the trustee as security. Once again it is conceded that the debentures were issued for the sole purpose of meeting the requirements of s. 3 of the CCAA. No consent was obtained from the Bank as required by the loan terms, nor was any consent obtained from the receiver.

On August 31, 1990, following the creation of the trust deeds and the issuance of the debentures, Elan and Nova commenced new applications under the CCAA which were heard late in the day by Farley J. He adjourned the applications to September 10, 1990 on certain terms, including a stay preventing the Bank from acting on its security and allowing Elan to spend up to $321,000 from accounts receivable collected by it.

The plan of arrangement filed with the application provided that Elan and Nova would carry on business for three months, that secured creditors would not be paid and could take no action on their security for three months and that the accounts receivable of Elan and Nova assigned to the Bank could be utilized by Elan and Nova for purposes of its day to day operations. No compromise of any sort was proposed.

On September 11, 1990, Hoolihan J. ordered that a meeting of the secured creditors of Elan and Nova be held no later than October 22, 1990 to consider the plan of arrangement that had been filed, or other suitable plan. He ordered that the plan of arrangement be presented to the secured creditors no later than September 27, 1990. He made further orders effective for three days until September 14, 1990, including orders:

(i) that the companies could spend the accounts receivable assigned to the Bank that would be collected in accordance with a cash flow forecast filed with the court providing for $1,387,000 to be spent by September 30, 1990; and

(ii) a stay of proceedings against the Bank acting on any of its security or paying down any of its loans from accounts receivable collected by Elan and Nova.

On September 14, 1990, Hoolihan J. extended the terms of his order of September 11, 1990 to remain in effect until the plan of arrangement was presented to the court no later than October 24, 1990 for final approval. This order continued the power of Elan and Nova to spend up to $1,387,000 of the accounts receivable assigned to the Bank in accordance with the projected cash flow to September 30, 1990, and to spend a further amount to October 24, 1990 in accordance with a cash flow to be approved by Hoolihan J. prior to October 1, 1990. Further orders dated September 27 and October 18 have extended the power to spend the accounts receivable to November 14, 1990.

On September 14, 1990 the Bank requested Hoolihan J. to restrict his order so that Elan and Nova could use the accounts receivable assigned to the Bank only so long as they continued to operate within the borrowing guidelines contained in the terms of the loan agreements with the Bank. These guidelines require a certain ratio to exist between Bank loans and the book value of the accounts receivable and inventory assigned to the Bank and are designed in normal circumstances to ensure that there is sufficient value in the security assigned to the Bank. Hoolihan J. refused to make the order.

On October 18, 1990 Hoolihan J. ordered that the composition of the classes of secured creditors for the purposes of voting at the meeting of secured creditors shall be as follows:

(a) The Bank, RoyNat, O.D.C., the City of Chatham and the Village of Glencoe shall comprise one class.

(b) The parties related to the principal of Elan that acquired their debentures to enable the companies to apply under the CCAA shall comprise a second class.

On October 18, 1990, at the request of counsel for Elan and Nova, Hoolihan J. further ordered that the date for the meeting of creditors of Elan and Nova be extended to November 9, 1990 in order to allow a new plan of arrangement to be sent to all creditors, including unsecured creditors of those companies. Elan and Nova now plan to offer a plan of compromise or arrangement to the unsecured creditors of Elan and Nova as well as to the secured creditors.

There are five issues in this appeal.

(1) Are the debentures issued by Elan and Nova for the purpose of permitting the companies to qualify as applicants under the CCAA, debentures within the meaning of s. 3 of the CCAA?

(2) Did the issue of the debentures contravene the provisions of the loan agreements between Elan and Nova and the Bank? If so, what are the consequences for CCAA purposes?

(3) Did Elan and Nova have the power to issue the debentures and make application under the CCAA after the Bank had appointed a receiver and after the order of Saunders J.?

(4) Did Hoolihan J. have the power under s. 11 of the CCAA to make the interim orders that he made with respect to the accounts receivable?

(5) Was Hoolihan J. correct in ordering that the Bank vote on the proposed plan of arrangement in a class with RoyNat and the other secured creditors?

It is well established that the CCAA is intended to provide a structured environment for the negotiation of compromises between a debtor company and its creditors for the benefit of both. Such a resolution can have significant benefits for the company, its shareholders and employees. For this reason the debtor companies, Elan and Nova, are entitled to a broad and liberal interpretation of the jurisdiction of the court under the CCAA. Having said that, it does not follow that, in exercising its discretion to order a meeting of creditors under s. 5 of the CCAA, the court should not consider the equities in this case as they relate to these companies and to one of its principal secured creditors, the Bank.

The issues before Hoolihan J. and this court were argued on a technical basis. Hoolihan J. did not give effect to the argument that the debentures described above were a "sham" and could not be used for the purposes of asserting jurisdiction. Unfortunately, he did not address any of the other arguments presented to him on the threshold issue of the availability of the CCAA. He appears to have acted on the premise that if the CCAA can be made available, it should be utilized.

If Hoolihan J. did exercise any discretion overall, it is not reflected in his reasons. I believe, therefore, that we are in a position to look at the uncontested chronology of these proceedings and exercise our own discretion. To me, the significant date is August 27, 1990 when the Bank appointed Coopers & Lybrand Ltd. as receiver and manager of the undertaking, property and assets mortgaged and charged under the demand debenture and of the collateral under the general security agreement, both dated June 20, 1979. On the same date it appointed the same company as receiver and manager for Nova under a general security agreement dated December 5, 1988. The effect of this appointment is to divest the companies and their boards of directors of their power to deal with the property comprised in the appointment (Kerr on Receivers, 16th ed. by Raymond Walton (London: Sweet & Maxwell, 1983), p. 292). Neither Elan nor Nova had the power to create further indebtedness and thus to interfere with the ability of the receiver to manage the two companies (Re Hat Development Ltd. (1988), 64 Alta. L.R. (2d) 17, 71 C.B.R. (N.S.) 264 (Q.B.), affd (1989), 65 Alta. L.R. (2d) 374 (C.A.)).

Counsel for the debtor companies submitted that the management powers of the receiver were stripped from the receiver by Saunders J. in his interim order when he allowed the receiver access to the companies' properties but would not permit it to realize on the security of the Bank until further order. He pointed out that the order also provided that the companies were entitled to remain in possession and "to carry on business in the ordinary course" until further order.

I do not agree with counsel's submission covering the effect of the order. It certainly restricted what the receiver could do on an interim basis, but it imposed restrictions on the companies as well. The issue of these disputed debentures in support of an application for relief as insolvent companies under the CCAA does not comply with the order of Saunders J. This is not carrying on business in the ordinary course. The residual power to take all of these initiatives for relief under the CCAA remained with the receiver, and if trust deeds were to be issued, an order of the court in Action 54033/90 was required permitting their issuance and registration.

There is another feature which, in my opinion, affects the exercise of discretion and that is the probability of the meeting achieving some measure of success. Hoolihan J. considered the calling of the meeting at one hearing, as he was asked to do, and determined the respective classes of creditors at another. This latter classification is necessary because of the provisions of s. 6(a) of the CCAA which reads as follows:

6. Where a majority in number representing three-fourths in value of the creditors, or class of creditors, as the case may be, present and voting either in person or by proxy at the meeting or meetings thereof respectively held pursuant to sections 4 and 5, or either of those sections, agree to any compromise or arrangement either as proposed or as altered or modified at the meeting or meetings, the compromise or arrangement may be sanctioned by the court, and if so sanctioned is binding

(a) on all the creditors or the class of creditors, as the case may be, and on any trustee for any such class of creditors, whether secured or unsecured, as the case may be, and on the company ...

If both matters had been considered at the same time, as in my view they should have been, and if what I regard as a proper classification of the creditors had taken place, I think it is obvious that the meeting would not be a productive one. It was improper, in my opinion, to create one class of creditors made up of all the secured creditors save the so-called "sham" creditors. There is no true community of interest among them and the motivation of Elan and Nova in striving to create a single class is clearly designed to avoid the classification of the Bank as a separate class.

It is apparent that the only secured creditors with a significant interest in the proceeding under the CCAA are the Bank and RoyNat. The two municipalities have total claims for arrears of taxes of less than $100,000. They have first priority in the lands of the companies. They are in no jeopardy whatsoever. The O.D.C. has a potential liability in that it can be called upon by RoyNat under its guarantee to a maximum of $500,000 and this will trigger default under its debentures with the companies, but its interests lie with RoyNat.

As to RoyNat, it is the largest creditor with a debt of some $12,000,000. It will dominate any class it is in because under s. 6 of the CCAA the majority in a class must represent three-quarters in value of that class. It will always have a veto by reason of the size of its claim but requires at least one creditor to vote for it to give it a majority in number (I am ignoring the municipalities). It needs the O.D.C.

I do not base my opinion solely on commercial self-interest but also on the differences in legal interest. The Bank has first priority on the receivables referred to as the "quick assets", and RoyNat ranks second in priority. RoyNat has first priority on the buildings and realty, the "fixed assets", and the Bank has second priority.

It is in the commercial interests of the Bank with its smaller claim and more readily realizable assets to collect and retain the accounts receivable. It is in the commercial interests of RoyNat to preserve the cash flow of the business and sell the enterprise as a going concern. It can only do that by overriding the prior claim of the Bank to these receivables. If it can vote with the O.D.C. in the same class as the Bank it can achieve that goal and extinguish the prior claim of the Bank to realize on the receivables. This it can do despite having acknowledged its legal relationship to the Bank in the priority agreement signed by the two. I can think of no reason why the legal interest of the Bank as the holder of the first security on the receivables should be overridden by RoyNat as holder of the second security.

The classic statement on classes of creditors is that of Lord Esher M.R. in Sovereign Life Assurance Co. v. Dodd, [1892] 2 Q.B. 573, [1891-4] All E.R. Rep. 246, 41 W.R. 4 (C.A.), at pp. 579-80 Q.B.:

The Act (Joint Stock Companies Arrangement Act, 1870) says that the persons to be summoned to the meeting (all of whom, be it said in passing, are creditors) are persons who can be divided into different classes -- classes which the Act of Parliament recognises, though it does not define them. This, therefore, must be done: they must be divided into different classes. What is the reason for such a course? It is because the creditors composing the different classes have different interests; and, therefore, if we find a different state of facts existing among different creditors which may differently affect their minds and their judgment, they must be divided into different classes.

The Sovereign Life case was quoted with approval by Kingstone J. in Re Wellington Building Corp. Ltd., [1934] O.R. 653, 16 C.B.R. 48, [1934] 4 D.L.R. 626 (H.C.J.), at p. 659 O.R. He also quoted another English authority [Re Alabama, New Orleans, Texas & Pacific Junction Railway Co., [1891] 1 Ch. 213, [1886-90] All E.R. Rep. Ext. 1143, 60 L.J. Ch. 221 (C.A.)] at p. 658 O.R.:

In In re Alabama, New Orleans, Texas and Pacific Junction Ry. Co., [1891] 1 Ch. 213, a scheme and arrangement under the Joint Stock Companies Arrangement Act (1870), was submitted to the Court for approval. Lord Justice Bowen, at p. 243, says: --

Now, I have no doubt at all that it would be improper for the Court to allow an arrangement to be forced on any class of creditors, if the arrangement cannot reasonably be supposed by sensible business people to be for the benefit of that class as such, otherwise the sanction of the Court would be a sanction to what would be a scheme of confiscation. The object of this section is not confiscation. ... Its object is to enable compromises to be made which are for the common benefit of the creditors as creditors, or for the common benefit of some class of creditors as such.

Kingstone J. set aside a meeting where three classes of creditors were permitted to vote together. He said at p. 660 O.R.:

It is clear that Parliament intended to give the three-fourths majority of any class power to bind that class, but I do not think the Statute should be construed so as to permit holders of subsequent mortgages power to vote and thereby destroy the priority rights and security of a first mortgagee.

We have been referred to more modern cases including two decisions of Trainor J. of the British Columbia Supreme Court, both entitled Re Northland Properties Ltd. One case is reported in (1988), 31 B.C.L.R. (2d) 35, 73 C.B.R. (N.S.) 166, and the other in the same volume [of C.B.R.] at p. 175. Trainor J. was upheld on appeal on both judgments. The first judgment of the British Columbia Court of Appeal is unreported (September 16, 1988) [now reported 32 B.C.L.R. (2d) 309]. The judgment in the second appeal is reported sub nom. Northland Properties Ltd. v. Excelsior Life Insurance Co. of Canada at (1989), 34 B.C.L.R. (2d) 122, 73 C.B.R. (N.S.) 195, [1989] 3 W.W.R. 363.

In the first Northland case, Trainor J. held that the difference in the terms of parties to and priority of different bonds meant that they should be placed in separate classes. He relied upon Re Wellington Building Corp., supra. In the second Northland case he dealt with 15 mortgagees who were equal in priority but held different parcels of land as security. Trainor J. held that their relative security positions were the same notwithstanding that the mortgages were for the most part secured by charges against separate properties. The nature of the debt was the same, the nature of the security was the same, the remedies for default were the same, and in all cases they were corporate loans by sophisticated lenders. In specifically accepting the reasoning of Trainor J., the Court of Appeal held that the concern of the various mortgagees as to the quality of their individual securities was "a variable cause arising not by any difference in legal interests, but rather as a consequence of bad lending, or market values, or both" (p. 203 C.B.R.).

In Re NsC Diesel Power Inc. (1990), 79 C.B.R. (N.S.) 1, 97 N.S.R. (2d) 295, 258 A.P.R. 295 (T.D.) the court stressed that a class should be made up of persons "whose rights are not so dissimilar as to make it impossible for them to consult together with a view to a common interest" (p. 8 C.B.R.).

My assessment of these secured creditors is that the Bank should be in its own class. This being so, it is obvious that no plan of arrangement can succeed without its approval. There is no useful purpose to be served in putting a plan of arrangement to a meeting of creditors if it is known in advance that it cannot succeed. This is another cogent reason for the court declining to exercise its discretion in favour of the debtor companies.

For all the reasons given above, the application under the CCAA should have been dismissed. I do not think that I have to give definitive answers to the individual issues numbered (1) and (2). They can be addressed in a later case where the answers could be dispositive of an application under the CCAA. The answer to (3) is that the combined effect of the receivership and the order of Saunders J. disentitled the companies to issue the debentures and bring the application under the CCAA. It is not necessary to answer issue (4) and the answer to (5) is no.

Accordingly, I would allow the appeal, set aside the three orders of Hoolihan J., and in their place, issue an order dismissing the application under the CCAA. The Bank should receive its costs of this appeal, the applications for leave to appeal, and the proceedings before Farley and Hoolihan JJ., to be paid by Elan, Nova and RoyNat.

Ernst & Young were appointed monitor in the order of Hoolihan J. dated September 14, 1990 to monitor the operations of Elan and Nova and give effect to and supervise the terms and conditions of the stay of proceedings in accordance with Appendix C appended to the order. The monitor should be entitled to be paid for all services performed to date including whatever is necessary to complete its reports for past work as called for in Appendix C.

DOHERTY J.A. (dissenting):--

I. BACKGROUND

On November 2, 1990, this court allowed the appeal brought by the Bank of Nova Scotia (the Bank) and vacated several orders made by Hoolihan J. Finlayson J.A. delivered oral reasons on behalf of the majority. At the same time, I delivered brief oral reasons dissenting in part from the conclusion reached by the majority and undertook to provide further written reasons. These are those reasons.

The events relevant to the disposition of this appeal are set out in some detail in the oral reasons of Finlayson J.A. I will not repeat that chronology but will refer to certain additional background facts before turning to the legal issues.

Elan Corporation (Elan) owns the shares of Nova Metal Products Inc. (Nova Inc.). Both companies have been actively involved in the manufacture of automobile parts for a number of years. As of March 1990, the companies had total annual sales of about $30,000,000 and employed some 220 people in plants located in Chatham and Glencoe, Ontario. The operation of these companies no doubt plays a significant role in the economy of these two small communities.

In the four years prior to 1989, the companies had operated at a profit ranging from $287,000 (1987) to $1,500,000 (1986). In 1989, several factors, including large capital expenditures and a downturn in the market, combined to produce an operational loss of about $1,333,000. It is anticipated that the loss for the year ending June 30, 1990, will be about $2.3 million. As of August 1, 1990, the companies continued in full operation and those in control anticipated that the financial picture would improve significantly later in 1990 when the companies would be busy filling several contracts which had been obtained earlier in 1990.

The Bank has provided credit to the companies for several years. In January of 1989 the Bank extended an operating line of credit to the companies. The line of credit was by way of a demand loan that was secured in the manner described by Finlayson J.A. Beginning in May 1989, and from time to time after that, the companies were in default under the terms of the loan advanced by the Bank. On each occasion the Bank and the companies managed to work out some agreement so that the Bank continued as lender and the companies continued to operate their plants.

Late in 1989, the companies arranged for a $500,000 operating loan from RoyNat Inc. It was hoped that this loan, combined with the operating line of $2.5 million from the Bank, would permit the company to weather its fiscal storm. In March 1990, the Bank took the position that the companies were in breach of certain requirements under their loan agreements and warned that if the difficulties were not rectified the Bank would not continue as the company's lender. Mr. Patrick Johnson, the president of both companies, attempted to respond to these concerns in a detailed letter to the Bank dated March 15, 1990. The response did not placate the Bank. In May 1990, the Bank called its loan and made a demand for immediate payment. Mr. Spencer, for the Bank, wrote: "We consider your financial condition continues to be critical and we are not prepared to delay further making formal demand". He went on to indicate that, subject to further deterioration in the companies' fiscal position, the Bank was prepared to delay acting on its security until June 1, 1990.

As of May 1990, Mr. Johnson, to the Bank's knowledge, was actively seeking alternative funding to replace the Bank. At the same time, he was trying to convince the union which represented the workers employed at both plants to assist in a co-operative effort to keep the plants operational during the hard times. The union had agreed to discuss amendment of the collective bargaining agreement to facilitate the continued operation of the companies.

The June 1, 1990, deadline set by the Bank passed without incident. Mr. Johnson continued to search for new financing. A potential lender was introduced to Mr. Spencer of the Bank on August 13, 1990, and it appeared that the Bank, through Mr. Spencer, was favourably impressed with this potential lender. However, on August 27, 1990, the Bank decided to take action to protect its position. Coopers & Lybrand Ltd. was appointed by the Bank as receiver-manager under the terms of the security agreements with the companies. The companies denied the receiver access to their plants. The Bank then moved before the Honourable Mr. Justice E. Saunders for an order giving the receiver possession of the premises occupied by the companies. On August 27, 1990, after hearing argument from counsel for the Bank and the companies, Mr. Justice Saunders refused to install the receivers and made the following interim order:

1. THIS COURT ORDERS that the receiver be allowed access to the property to monitor the operations of the defendants but shall not take steps to realize on the security of The Bank of Nova Scotia until further Order of the Court.

2. THIS COURT ORDERS that the defendants shall be entitled to remain in possession and to carry on business in the ordinary course until further Order of this Court.

3. THIS COURT ORDERS that until further order the Bank of Nova Scotia shall not take steps to notify account debtors of the defendants for the purpose of collecting outstanding accounts receivable. This Order does not restrict The Bank of Nova Scotia from dealing with accounts receivable of the defendants received by it.

4. THIS COURT ORDERS that the motion is otherwise adjourned to a date to be fixed.

The notice of motion placed before Saunders J. by the Bank referred to "an intended action" by the Bank. It does not appear that the Bank took any further steps in connection with this "intended action".

Having resisted the Bank's efforts to assume control of the affairs of the companies on August 27, 1990, and realizing that their operations could cease within a matter of days, the companies turned to the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (the Act) in an effort to hold the Bank at bay while attempting to reorganize their finances. Finlayson J.A. has described the companies' efforts to qualify under that Act, the two appearances before the Honourable Mr. Justice Farley on August 31, 1990, and the appearances before the Honourable Mr. Justice Hoolihan in September and October 1990, which resulted in the orders challenged on this appeal.

II. THE ISSUES

The dispute between the Bank and the companies when this application came before Hoolihan J. was a straightforward one. The Bank had determined that its best interests would be served by the immediate execution of the rights it had under its various agreements with the companies. The Bank's best interest was not met by the continued operation of the companies as going concerns. The companies and their other two substantial secured creditors considered that their interests required that the companies continue to operate, at least for a period which would enable the companies to place a plan of reorganization before its creditors.

All parties were pursuing what they perceived to be their commercial interests. To the Bank these interests entailed the "death" of the companies as operating entities. To the companies these interests required "life support" for the companies through the provisions of the Act to permit a "last ditch" effort to save the companies and keep them in operation.

The issues raised on this appeal can be summarized as follows:

- (i) Did Hoolihan J. err in holding that the companies were entitled to invoke the Act?
- (ii) Did Hoolihan J. err in exercising his discretion in directing that a meeting of creditors should be held under the Act?
- (iii) Did Hoolihan J. err in directing that the Bank and RoyNat Inc. should be placed in the same class of creditors for the purposes of the Act?
- (iv) Did Hoolihan J. err in the terms of the interim orders he made pending the meeting of creditors and the submission to the court of a plan of reorganization?

III. THE PURPOSE AND SCHEME OF THE ACT

Before turning to these issues, it is necessary to understand the purpose of the Act and the scheme established by the Act for achieving that purpose. The Act first appeared in the midst of the Great Depression (Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, 1933, S.C. 1932-33, c. 36). The Act was intended to provide a means whereby insolvent companies could avoid bankruptcy and continue as ongoing concerns through a reorganization of their financial obligations. The reorganization contemplated required the co-operation of the debtor companies' creditors and shareholders: Re Avery Construction Co. (1942), 24 C.B.R. 17, [1942] 4 D.L.R. 558 (Ont. H.C.J.), Stanley E. Edwards, "Reorganizations under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act" (1947), 25 Can. Bar Rev. 587, at pp. 592-93; David H. Goldman, "Reorganizations Under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (Canada)" (1985), 55 C.B.R. (N.S.) 36, at pp. 37-39.

The legislation is remedial in the purest sense in that it provides a means whereby the devastating social and economic effects of bankruptcy or creditor-initiated termination of ongoing business operations can be avoided while a court-supervised attempt to reorganize the financial affairs of the debtor company is made.

The purpose of the Act was artfully put by Gibbs J.A., speaking for the British Columbia Court of Appeal (Carrothers, Cumming and Gibbs JJ.A.) in Chef Ready Foods Ltd. v. HongKong Bank of Canada, an unreported judgment released October 29, 1990 [summarized 23 A.C.W.S. (3d) Paragraph976], at pp. 11 and 6 of the reasons. In referring to the purpose for which the Act was initially proclaimed, he said:

Almost inevitably liquidation destroyed the shareholders' investment, yielded little by way of recovery to the creditors, and exacerbated the social evil of devastating levels of unemployment. The government of the day sought, through the C.C.A.A. (the Act), to create a regime whereby the principals of the company and the creditors could be brought together under the supervision of the court to attempt a reorganization or compromise or arrangement under which the company could continue in business ...

In an earlier passage His Lordship had said:

The purpose of the C.C.A.A. is to facilitate the making of a compromise or arrangement between an insolvent debtor company and its creditors to the end that the company is able to continue in business.

Gibbs J.A. also observed (at p. 13 of the reasons) that the Act was designed to serve a "broad constituency of investors, creditors and employees". Because of that "broad constituency" the court must, when considering applications brought under the Act, have regard not only to the individuals and organizations directly affected by the application, but also to the wider public interest. That interest is generally, but not always, served by permitting an attempt at reorganization: see Edwards, "Reorganizations under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act", supra, at p. 593.

The Act must be given a wide and liberal construction so as to enable it to effectively serve this remedial purpose: Interpretation Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. I-21, s. 12; Chef Ready Foods Ltd. v. HongKong Bank of Canada, supra, at p. 14 of the reasons.

The Act is available to all insolvent companies, provided the requirements of s. 3 of the Act are met. That section provides:

3. This Act does not apply in respect of a debtor company unless

(a) the debtor company has outstanding an issue of secured or unsecured bonds of the debtor company or of a predecessor in title of the debtor company issued under a trust deed or other instrument running in favour of a trustee; and

the holders of an issue referred to in paragraph (a).

A debtor company, or a creditor of that company, invokes the Act by way of summary application to the court under s. 4 or s. 5 of the Act. For present purposes, s. 5 is the relevant section:

5. Where a compromise or an arrangement is proposed between a debtor company and its secured creditors or any class of them, the court may, on the application in a summary way of the company or of any such creditor or of the trustee in bankruptcy or liquidator of the company, order a meeting of the creditors or class of creditors, and, if the court so determines, of the shareholders of the company, to be summoned in such manner as the court directs.

Section 5 does not require that the court direct a meeting of creditors to consider a proposed plan. The court's power to do so is discretionary. There will no doubt be cases where no order will be made, even though the debtor company qualifies under s. 3 of the Act.

If the court determines that a meeting should be called, the creditors must be placed into classes for the purpose of that meeting. The significance of this classification process is made apparent by s. 6 of the Act.

6. Where a majority in number representing three-fourths in value of the creditors, or class of creditors, as the case may be, present and voting either in person or by proxy at the meeting or meetings thereof respectively held pursuant to sections 4 and 5, or either of those sections, agree to any compromise or arrangement either as proposed or as altered or modified at the meeting or meetings, the compromise or arrangement may be sanctioned by the court, and if so sanctioned is binding

(a) on all the creditors or the class of creditors, as the case may be, and on any trustee for any such class of creditors, whether secured or unsecured, as the case may be, and on the company; and

(b) in the case of a company that has made an authorized assignment or against which a receiving order has been made under the Bankruptcy Act or is in the course of being wound up under the Winding-up Act, on the trustee in bankruptcy or liquidator and contributories of the company.

If the plan of reorganization is approved by the creditors as required by s. 6, it must then be presented to the court. Once again, the court must exercise a discretion and determine whether it will approve the plan of reorganization. In exercising that discretion, the court is concerned not only with whether the appropriate majority has approved the plan at a meeting held in accordance with the Act and the order of the court, but also with whether the plan is a fair and reasonable one: Re Northland Properties Ltd. (1988), 73 C.B.R. (N.S.) 175 (B.C. S.C.) [affd sub nom Northland Properties Ltd. v. Excelsior Life Insurance Co. of Canada (1989), 34 B.C.L.R. (2d) 122, 73 C.B.R. (N.S.) 195, [1989] 3 W.W.R. 363 (C.A.)], at pp. 182-85 C.B.R.

If the court chooses to exercise its discretion in favour of calling a meeting of creditors for the purpose of considering a plan of reorganization, the Act provides that the rights and remedies available to creditors, the debtor company, and others during the period between the making of the initial order and the consideration of the proposed plan may be suspended or otherwise controlled by the court.

Section 11 gives a court wide powers to make any interim orders:

11. Notwithstanding anything in the Bankruptcy Act or the Winding-up Act, whenever an application has been made under this Act in respect of any company, the court, on the application of any person interested in the matter, may, on notice to any other person or without notice as it may see fit,

(a) make an order staying, until such time as the court may prescribe or until any further order, all proceedings taken or that might be taken in respect of the company under the Bankruptcy Act and the Winding-up Act or either of them;

(b) restrain further proceedings in any action, suit or proceeding against the company on such terms as the court sees fit; and

(c) make an order that no suit, action or other proceeding shall be proceeded with or commenced against the company except with the leave of the court and subject to such terms as the court imposes.

Viewed in its totality, the Act gives the court control over the initial decision to put the reorganization plan before the creditors, the classification of creditors for the purpose of considering the plan, conduct affecting the debtor company pending consideration of that plan, and the ultimate acceptability of any plan agreed upon by the creditors. The Act envisions that the rights and remedies of individual creditors, the debtor company, and others may be sacrificed, at least temporarily, in an effort to serve the greater good by arriving at some acceptable reorganization which allows the debtor company to continue in operation: Icor Oil & Gas Co. v. Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce (No. 1) (1989), 102 A.R. 161 (Q.B.), at p. 165.

IV. DID HOOLIHAN J. ERR IN HOLDING THAT THE DEBTOR COMPANIES WERE ENTITLED TO INVOKE THE ACT?

The appellant advances three arguments in support of its contention that Elan and Nova Inc. were not entitled to seek relief under the Act. It argues first that the debentures issued by the companies after August 27, 1990, were "shams" and did not fulfil the requirements of s. 3 of the Act. The appellant next contends that the issuing of the debentures by the companies contravened their agreements with the Bank in which they undertook not to further encumber the assets of the companies without the consent of the Bank. Lastly, the appellant maintains that once the Bank had appointed a receiver-manager over the affairs of the companies on August 27, 1990, the companies had no power to create further indebtedness by way of debentures or to bring an application on behalf of the companies under the Act.

(i) Section 3 and "instant" trust deeds

The debentures issued in August 1990, after the Bank had moved to install a receiver-manager, were issued solely and expressly for the purpose of meeting the requirements of s. 3 of the Act. Indeed, it took the companies two attempts to meet those requirements. The debentures had no commercial purpose. The transactions did, however, involve true loans in the sense that monies were advanced and debt was created. Appropriate and valid trust deeds were also issued.

In my view, it is inappropriate to refer to these transactions as "shams". They are neither false nor counterfeit, but rather are exactly what they appear to be, transactions made to meet jurisdictional requirements of the Act so as to permit an application for reorganization under the Act. Such transactions are apparently well known to the commercial bar: B. O'Leary, "A Review of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act" (1987), 4 National Insolvency Review 38, at p. 39; C. Keith Ham, "'Instant' Trust Deeds Under the CCAA" (1988), 2 Comm. Insol. R. 25; G. Morawetz, "Emerging Trends in the Use of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act" (1990), Proceedings of the First Annual General Meeting and Conference of the Insolvency Institute of Canada.

Mr. Ham, supra, writes at p. 25, continued on p. 30:

Consequently, some companies have recently sought to bring themselves within the ambit of the CCAA by creating "instant" trust deeds, i.e., trust deeds which are created solely for the purpose of enabling them to take advantage of the CCAA.

Applications under the Act involving the use of "instant" trust deeds have been before the courts on a number of occasions. In no case has any court held that a company cannot gain access to the Act by creating a debt which meets the requirements of s. 3 for the express purpose of qualifying under the Act. In most cases, the use of these "instant" trust deeds has been acknowledged without comment.

The decision of Chief Justice Richard in Re United Maritime Fishermen Co-op (1988), 67 C.B.R. (N.S.) 44, 84 N.B.R. (2d) 415, 214 A.P.R. 415 (Q.B.), at pp. 55-56 C.B.R., speaks directly to the use of "instant" trust deeds. The Chief Justice refused to read any words into s. 3 of the Act which would limit the availability of the Act depending on the point at which, or the purpose for which, the debenture or bond and accompanying trust deed were created. He accepted [p. 56 C.B.R.] the debtor company's argument that the Act:

... does not impose any time restraints on the creation of the conditions as set out in s. 3 of the Act, nor does it contain any prohibition against the creation of the conditions set out in s. 3 for the purpose of obtaining jurisdiction.

It should, however, be noted that in Re United Maritime Fishermen Co-op, supra, the debt itself was not created for the purpose of qualifying under the Act. The bond and the trust deed, however, were created for that purpose. The case is therefore factually distinguishable from the case at bar.

The Court of Appeal reversed the ruling of the Chief Justice ((1988), 69 C.B.R. (N.S.) 161, 51 D.L.R. (4th) 618 sub nom. Canadian Co-operative Leasing Services v. United Maritime Fishermen Co-op, 88 N.B.R. (2d) 253, 224 A.P.R. 253) on the basis that the bonds required by s. 3 of the Act had not been issued when the application was made, so that on a precise reading of the words of s. 3 the company did not qualify. The court did not go on to consider whether, had the bonds been properly issued, the company would have been entitled to invoke the Act. Hoyt J.A., for the majority, did, however, observe without comment that the trust deeds had been created specifically for the purpose of bringing an application under the Act.

The judgment of MacKinnon J. in Re Stephanie's Fashions Ltd. and Children's Corner Fashions Ltd., released January 24, 1990 (B.C. S.C.), is factually on all fours with the present case. In that case, as in this one, it was acknowledged that the sole purpose for creating the debt was to effect compliance with s. 3 of the Act. After considering the judgment of Chief Justice Richard in Re United Maritime Fishermen Co-op, supra, MacKinnon J. held, at p. 4 of the reasons:

The reason for creating the trust deed is not for the usual purposes of securing a debt but when one reads it, on its face, it does that. I find that it is a genuine trust deed and not a fraud and that the petitioners have complied with s. 3 of the statute.

Re Metals & Alloys Co. is a recent example of a case in this jurisdiction in which "instant" trust deeds were successfully used to bring a company within the Act. The company issued debentures for the purpose of permitting the company to qualify under the Act so as to provide it with an opportunity to prepare and submit a reorganization plan. The company then applied for an order, seeking inter alia a declaration that the debtor company was a corporation within the meaning of the Act. Houlden J.A., hearing the matter at first instance, granted the declaration requested in an order dated February 16, 1990. No reasons were given. It does not appear that the company's qualifications were challenged before Houlden J.A.; however, the nature of the debentures issued and the purpose for their issue was fully disclosed in the material before him. The requirements of s. 3 of the Act are jurisdictional in nature and the consent of the parties cannot vest a court with jurisdiction it does not have. One must conclude that Houlden J.A. was satisfied that "instant" trust deeds suffice for the purposes of s. 3 of the Act.

A similar conclusion is implicit in the reasons of the British Columbia Court of Appeal in Chef Ready Foods Ltd. and HongKong Bank of Canada, supra. In that case, a debt of $50, with an accompanying debenture and trust deed, was created specifically to enable the company to make application under the Act. The court noted that the debt was created solely for that purpose in an effort to forestall an attempt by the bank to liquidate the assets of the debtor company. The court went on to deal with the merits and to dismiss an appeal from an order granting a stay pending a reorganization meeting. The court could not have reached the merits without first concluding that the $50 debt created by the company met the requirements of s. 3 of the Act.

The weight of authority is against the appellant. Counsel for the appellant attempts to counter that authority by reference to the remarks of the Minister of Justice when s. 3 was introduced as an amendment to the Act in the 1952-53 sittings of Parliament (House of Commons Debates, 1952-53 (1-2 Eliz. 2), vol. II, pp. 1268-69). The interpretation of words found in a statute by reference to speeches made in Parliament at the time legislation is introduced has never found favour in our courts: Re Residential Tenancies Act, 1979, [1981] 1 S.C.R. 714, 123 D.L.R. (3d) 554, 37 N.R. 158, at p. 721 S.C.R., p. 561 D.L.R. Nor, with respect to Mr. Newbould's able argument, do I find the words of the Minister of Justice at the time the present s. 3 was introduced to be particularly illuminating. He indicated that the amendment to the Act left companies with complex financial structures free to resort to the Act, but that it excluded companies which had only unsecured mercantile creditors. The Minister does not comment on the intended effect of the amendment on the myriad situations between those two extremes. This case is one such situation. These debtor companies had complex secured debt structures but those debts were not, prior to the issuing of the debentures in August 1990, in the form contemplated by s. 3 of the Act. Like Richard C.J.Q.B. in Re United Maritime Fishermen Co-op, supra, at pp. 52-53 C.B.R., I am not persuaded that the comments of the Minister of Justice assist in interpreting s. 3 of the Act in this situation.

The words of s. 3 are straightforward. They require that the debtor company have, at the time an application is made, an outstanding debenture or bond issued under a trust deed. No more is needed. Attempts to qualify those words are not only contrary to the wide reading the Act deserves but can raise intractable problems as to what qualifications or modifications should be read into the Act. Where there is a legitimate debt which fits the criteria set out in s. 3, I see no purpose in denying a debtor company resort to the Act because the debt and the accompanying documentation was created for the specific purpose of bringing the application. It must be remembered that qualification under s. 3 entitles the debtor company to nothing more than consideration under the Act. Qualification under s. 3 does not mean that relief under the Act will be granted. The circumstances surrounding the creation of the debt needed to meet the s. 3 requirement may well have a bearing on how a court exercises its discretion at various stages of the application, but they do not alone interdict resort to the Act.

In holding that "instant" trust deeds can satisfy the requirements of s. 3 of the Act, I should not be taken as concluding that debentures or bonds which are truly shams, in that they do not reflect a transaction which actually occurred and do not create a real debt owed by the company, will suffice. Clearly, they will not. I do not, however, equate the two. One is a tactical device used to gain the potential advantages of the Act. The other is a fraud.

Nor does my conclusion that "instant" trust deeds can bring a debtor company within the Act exclude considerations of the good faith of the debtor company in seeking the protection of the Act. A debtor company should not be allowed to use the Act for any purpose other than to attempt a legitimate reorganization. If the purpose of the application is to advantage one creditor over another, to defeat the legitimate interests of creditors, to delay the inevitable failure of the debtor company, or for some other improper purpose, the court has the means available to it, apart entirely from s. 3 of the Act, to prevent misuse of the Act. In cases where the debtor company acts in bad faith, the court may refuse to order a meeting of creditors, it may deny interim protection, it may vary interim protection initially given when the bad faith is shown, or it may refuse to sanction any plan which emanates from the meeting of the creditors: see L. Crozier "Good Faith and the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act" (1989), 15 Can. Bus. L.J. 89.

(ii) Section 3 and the prior agreement with the Bank limiting creation of new debt

The appellant also argues that the debentures did not meet the requirements of s. 3 of the Act because they were issued in contravention of a security agreement made between the companies and the Bank. Assuming that the debentures were issued in contravention of that agreement, I do not understand how that contravention affects the status of the debentures for the purposes of s. 3 of the Act. The Bank may well have an action against the debtor company for issuing the debentures, and it may have remedies against the holders of the debentures if they attempted to collect on their debt or enforce their security. Neither possibility, however, negates the existence of the debentures and the related trust deeds. Section 3 does not contemplate an inquiry into the effectiveness or enforceability of the s. 3 debentures, as against other creditors, as a condition precedent to qualification under the Act. Such inquiries may play a role in a judge's determination as to what orders, if any, should be made under the Act.

(iii) Section 3 and the appointment of a receiver-manager

The third argument made by the Bank relies on its installation of a receiver-manager in both companies prior to the issue of the debentures. I agree with Finlayson J.A. that the placement of a receiver, either by operation of the terms of an agreement or by court order, effectively removes those formerly in control of the company from that position and vests that control in the receiver-manager: Re Hat Development Ltd. (1988), 64 Alta. L.R. (2d) 17, 71 C.B.R. (N.S.) 264 (Q.B.), affirmed without deciding this point (1989), 65 Alta. L.R. (2d) 374 (C.A.). I cannot, however, agree with his interpretation of the order of Saunders J. I read that order as effectively turning the receiver into a monitor with rights of access, but with no authority beyond that. The operation of the business is specifically returned to the companies. The situation created by the order of Saunders J. can usefully be compared to that which existed when the application was made in Re Hat Development Ltd., supra. Forsyth J., at p. 268 C.B.R., states:

The receiver-manager in this case and indeed in almost all cases is charged by the court with the responsibility of managing the affairs of a corporation. It is true that is appointed pursuant, in this case, to the existence of secured indebtedness and at the behest of a secured creditor to realize on its security and retire the indebtedness. Nonetheless, this receiver-manager was court-appointed and not by virtue of an instrument. As a court-appointed receiver it owed the obligation and the duty to the court to account from time to time and to come before the court for the purposes of having some of its decisions ratified or for receiving advice and direction. It is empowered by the court to manage the affairs of the company and it is completely inconsistent with that function to suggest that some residual power lies in the hands of the directors of the company to create further indebtedness of the company and thus interfere however slightly, with the receiver-manager's ability to manage.

(Emphasis added)

After the order of Saunders J., the receiver-manager in this case was not obligated to manage the companies. Indeed, it was forbidden from doing so. The creation of the "instant" trust deeds and the application under the Act did not interfere in any way with any power or authority the receiver-manager had after the order of Saunders J. was made.

I also find it somewhat artificial to suggest that the presence of a receiver-manager served to vitiate the orders of Hoolihan J. Unlike many applications under s. 5 of the Act, the proceedings before Hoolihan J. were not ex parte and he was fully aware of the existence of the receiver-manager, the order of Saunders J., and the arguments based on the presence of the receiver-manager. Clearly, Hoolihan J. considered it appropriate to proceed with a plan of reorganization despite the presence of the receiver-manager and the order of Saunders J. Indeed, in his initial order he provided that the order of Saunders J. "remains extant". Hoolihan J. did not, as I do not, see that order as an impediment to the application for the granting of relief under the Act. Had he considered that the receiver-manager was in control of the affairs of the company he could have varied the order of Saunders J. to permit the applications under the Act to be made by the companies: Re Hat Development Ltd., supra, at pp. 268-69 C.B.R. It is clear to me that he would have done so had he felt it necessary. If the installation of the receiver-manager is to be viewed as a bar to an application under this Act, and if the orders of Hoolihan J. were otherwise appropriate, I would order that the order of Saunders J. should be varied to permit the creation of the debentures and the trust deeds and the bringing of this application by the companies. I take this power to exist by the combined effect of s. 14(2) of the Act and s. 144(1) of the Courts of Justice Act, 1984, S.O. 1984, c. 11.

In my opinion, the debentures and "instant" trust deeds created in August of 1990 sufficed to bring the company within the requirements of s. 3 of the Act, even if in issuing those debentures the companies breached a prior agreement with the Bank. I am also satisfied that given the terms of the order of Saunders J., the existence of a receiver-manager installed by the Bank did not preclude the application under s. 3 of the Act.

V. DID HOOLIHAN J. ERR IN EXERCISING HIS DISCRETION
IN FAVOUR OF DIRECTING THAT A CREDITORS MEETING BE HELD TO CONSIDER THE PROPOSED PLAN OF REORGANIZATION?

As indicated earlier, the Act provides a number of points at which the court must exercise its discretion. I am concerned with the initial exercise of discretion contemplated by s. 5 of the Act by which the court may order a meeting of creditors for purposes of considering a plan of reorganization. Hoolihan J. exercised that discretion in favour of the debtor companies. The factors relevant to the exercise of that discretion are as variable as the fact situations which may give rise to the application. Finlayson J.A. has concentrated on one such factor, the chance that the plan, if put before a properly constituted meeting of the creditors, could gain the required approval. I agree that the feasibility of the plan is a relevant and significant factor to be considered in determining whether to order a meeting of creditors: Edwards, "Reorganizations Under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act", supra, at pp. 594-95. I would not, however, impose a heavy burden on the debtor company to establish the likelihood of ultimate success from the outset. As the Act will often be the last refuge for failing companies, it is to be expected that many of the proposed plans of reorganization will involve variables and contingencies which will make the plan's ultimate acceptability to the creditors and the court very uncertain at the time the initial application is made.

On the facts before Hoolihan J. there were several factors which supported the exercise of his discretion in favour of directing a meeting of the creditors. These included the apparent support of two of the three substantial secured creditors, the companies' continued operation, and the prospect (disputed by the Bank) that the companies' fortunes would take a turn for the better in the near future, the companies' ongoing efforts, that eventually met with some success, to find alternate financing, and the number of people depending on the operation of the company for their livelihood. There were also a number of factors pointing in the other direction, the most significant of which was the likelihood that a plan of reorganization acceptable to the Bank could not be developed.

I see the situation which presented itself to Hoolihan J. as capable of a relatively straightforward risk-benefit analysis. If the s. 5 order had been refused by Hoolihan J., it was virtually certain that the operation of the companies would have ceased immediately. There would have been immediate economic and social damage to those who worked at the plants and those who depended on those who worked at the plants for their well-being. This kind of damage cannot be ignored, especially when it occurs in small communities like those in which these plants are located. A refusal to grant the application would also have put the investments of the various creditors, with the exception of the Bank, at substantial risk. Finally, there would have been obvious financial damage to the owner of the companies. Balanced against these costs inherent in refusing the order would be the benefit to the Bank, which would then have been in a position to realize on its security in accordance with its agreements with the companies.

The granting of the s. 5 order was not without its costs. It has denied the Bank the rights it had bargained for as part of its agreement to lend substantial amounts of money to the companies. Further, according to the Bank, the order has put the Bank at risk of having its loans become under-secured because of the diminishing value of the accounts receivable and inventory which it holds as security and because of the ever increasing size of the companies' debt to the Bank. These costs must be measured against the potential benefit to all concerned if a successful plan of reorganization could be developed and implemented.

As I see it, the key to this analysis rests in the measurement of the risk to the Bank inherent in the granting of the s. 5 order. If there was a real risk that the loan made by the Bank would become undersecured during the operative period of the s. 5 order, I would be inclined to hold that the Bank should not have that risk forced on it by the court. However, I am unable to see that the Bank is in any real jeopardy. The value of the security held by the Bank appears to be well in excess of the size of its loan on the initial application. In his affidavit, Mr. Gibbons of Coopers & Lybrand asserted that the companies had over-stated their cash flow projections, that the value of the inventory could diminish if customers of the companies looked to alternate sources for their product, and that the value of the accounts receivable could decrease if customers began to claim set-offs against those receivables. On the record before me, these appear to be no more than speculative possibilities. The Bank has had access to all of the companies' financial data on an ongoing basis since the order of Hoolihan J. was made almost two months ago. Nothing was placed before this court to suggest that any of the possibilities described above had come to pass.

Even allowing for some over-estimation by the companies of the value of the security held by the Bank, it would appear that the Bank holds security valued at approximately $4 million for a loan that was, as of the hearing of this appeal, about $2.3 million. The order of Hoolihan J. was to terminate no later than November 14, 1990. I am not satisfied that the Bank ran any real risk of having the amount of the loan exceed the value of the security by that date. It is also worth noting that the order under appeal provided that any party could apply to terminate the order at any point prior to November 14. This provision provided further protection for the Bank in the event that it wished to make the case that its loan was at risk because of the deteriorating value of its security.

Even though the chances of a successful reorganization were not good, I am satisfied that the benefits flowing from the making of the s. 5 order exceeded the risk inherent in that order. In my view, Hoolihan J. properly exercised his discretion in directing that a meeting of creditors should be held pursuant to s. 5 of the Act.

VI. DID HOOLIHAN J. ERR IN DIRECTING THAT THE BANK AND ROYNAT INC. SHOULD BE PLACED IN THE SAME CLASS FOR THE PURPOSES OF THE ACT?

I agree with Finlayson J.A. that the Bank and RoyNat Inc., the two principal creditors, should not have been placed in the same class of secured creditors for the purposes of ss. 5 and 6 of the Act. Their interests are not only different, they are opposed. The classification scheme created by Hoolihan J. effectively denied the Bank any control over any plan of reorganization.

To accord with the principles found in the cases cited by Finlayson J.A., the secured creditors should have been grouped as follows:

Class 1 -- The City of Chatham and the Village of Glencoe

Class 2 -- The Bank of Nova Scotia

Class 3 -- RoyNat Inc., Ontario Development Corporation, and those holding debentures issued by the company on August 29 and 31, 1990.

VII. DID HOOLIHAN J. ERR IN MAKING
VII. THE INTERIM ORDERS HE MADE?

Hoolihan J. made a number of orders designed to control the conduct of all of the parties pending the creditors' meeting and the placing of a plan of reorganization before the court. The first order was made on September 11, 1990, and was to expire on or before October 24, 1990. Subsequent orders varied the terms of the initial order somewhat and extended its effective date until November 14, 1990.

These orders imposed the following conditions pending the meeting:

(a) all proceedings with respect to the debtor companies should be stayed, including any action by the Bank to realize on its security;

(b) the Bank could not reduce its loan by applying incoming receipts to those debts;

(c) the Bank was to be the sole banker for the companies;

(d) the companies could carry on business in the normal course, subject to certain very specific restrictions;

(e) a licensed trustee was to be appointed to monitor the business operations of the companies and to report to the creditors on a regular basis; and

(f) any party could apply to terminate the interim orders, and the orders would be terminated automatically if the companies defaulted on any of the obligations imposed on them by the interim orders.

The orders placed significant restrictions on the Bank for a two-month period but balanced those restrictions with provisions limiting the debtor companies' activities and giving the Bank ongoing access to up-to-date financial information concerning the companies. The Bank was also at liberty to return to the court to request any variation in the interim orders which changes in financial circumstances might merit.

These orders were made under the wide authority granted to the court by s. 11 of the Act. L.W. Houlden and C.H. Morawetz in Bankruptcy Law in Canada, 3rd ed. (Toronto: Carswell, looseleaf), at p. 2-103, describe the purpose of the section:

The legislation is intended to have wide scope and allows a judge to make orders which will effectively maintain the status quo for a period while the insolvent company attempts to gain the approval of its creditors for a proposed arrangement which will enable the company to remain in operation for what is, hopefully, the future benefit of both the company and its creditors. This aim is facilitated by s. 11 of the Act which enables the court to restrain further proceedings in any action, suit or proceeding against the company upon such terms as the court sees fit.

A similar sentiment appears in Chef Ready Foods Ltd. v. HongKong Bank of Canada, supra. Gibbs J.A., in discussing the scope of s. 11, said at p. 7 of the reasons:

When a company has recourse to the C.C.A.A. the court is called upon to play a kind of supervisory role to preserve the status quo and to move the process along to the point where a compromise or arrangement is approved or it is evident that the attempt is doomed to failure. Obviously time is critical. Equally obviously, if the attempt at compromise or arrangement is to have any prospect of success there must be a means of holding the creditors at bay, hence the powers vested in the court under s. 11.

Similar views of the scope of the power to make interim orders covering the period when reorganization is being attempted are found in Meridian Developments Inc. v. Toronto-Dominion Bank (1984), 32 Alta. L.R. (2d) 150, 53 A.R. 39, 52 C.B.R. (N.S.) 109, 11 D.L.R. The interim orders made by Hoolihan J. are all within the wide authority created by s. 11 of the Act. The orders were crafted to give the company the opportunity to continue in operation pending its attempt to reorganize while at the same time providing safeguards to the creditors, including the Bank, during that same period. I find no error in the interim relief granted by Hoolihan J.

VIII. CONCLUSION

In the result, I would allow the appeal in part, vacate the order of Hoolihan J. of October 18, 1990, insofar as it purports to settle the class of creditors for the purpose of the Act, and I would substitute an order establishing the three classes referred to in Part VI of these reasons. I would not disturb any of the other orders made by Hoolihan J.

Appeal allowed.

can be compromised in corporate restructuring under CCAA — Whether CCAA is ultra vires or constitutionally inapplicable by permitting court to determine whether environmental order is a monetary claim.

A was involved in industrial activity in Newfoundland and Labrador (the “Province”). In a period of general financial distress, it ended its last operation there, filed for insolvency protection in the United States and obtained a stay of proceedings under the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (“CCAA”). The Province subsequently issued five orders under the Environmental Protection Act, S.N.L. 2002, c. E-14.2, requiring A to submit remediation action plans for five industrial sites it had occupied, three of which had been expropriated by the Province, and to complete the remediation actions. The Province also brought a motion for a declaration that a claims procedure order issued under the CCAA in relation to A’s proposed reorganization did not bar the Province from enforcing the environmental protection orders. The Province argued that the environmental protection orders were not “claims” under the CCAA and therefore could not be stayed and subject to a claims procedure order. It further argued that Parliament lacked the constitutional competence under its power to make laws in relation to bankruptcy and insolvency to stay orders that were validly made in the exercise of a provincial power. A contested the motion, arguing that the orders were monetary in nature and hence fell within the definition of the word “claim” in the claims procedure order. The CCAA court dismissed the Province’s motion. The Court of Appeal denied the Province leave to appeal.

Held (McLachlin C.J. and LeBel J. dissenting): The appeal should be dismissed.

Per Deschamps, Fish, Abella, Rothstein, Cromwell, Moldaver and Karakatsanis JJ.: Not all orders issued by regulatory bodies are monetary in nature and thus provable claims in an insolvency proceeding, but some may be, even if the amounts involved are not quantified ch. C-36 (« LACC »), et qu’elles ne sont pas assujetties à l’ordonnance relative à la procédure de réclamations — Les ordonnances environnementales constituent-elles des réclamations pécuniaires pouvant faire l’objet d’une transaction dans le cadre d’une restructuration sous le régime de la LACC? — La LACC est-elle ultra vires ou constitutionnellement inapplicable en permettant au tribunal de déterminer si une ordonnance environnementale constitue une réclamation pécuniaire?

A a poursuivi des activités industrielles à Terre-Neuve-et-Labrador (la « province »). Dans une période de grandes difficultés financières, elle a mis un terme à ses activités dans la province, elle a présenté une demande de protection contre l’insolvabilité aux États-Unis et elle a obtenu une suspension des procédures en vertu de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies, L.R.C. 1985, ch. C-36 (« LACC »). La province a par la suite prononcé cinq ordonnances environnementales en vertu de l’Environmental Protection Act, S.N.L. 2002, ch. E-14.2, contraignant A à présenter des plans de restauration pour cinq sites industriels qu’elle avait occupés, dont trois avaient été expropriés par la province, et à réaliser les plans de restauration approuvés. La province a également demandé par requête un jugement déclarant qu’une ordonnance relative à la procédure de réclamations rendue aux termes de la LACC dans le cadre de la réorganisation proposée de A n’empêchait pas la province d’exécuter les ordonnances environnementales. La province a plaidé que les ordonnances environnementales ne constituent pas des « réclamations » au sens de la LACC et que leur exécution ne peut donc être suspendue ni être assujettie à une ordonnance relative à la procédure de réclamations. Elle a de plus fait valoir que le pouvoir du Parlement de légiférer en matière de faillite et d’insolvabilité ne lui confère pas la compétence constitutionnelle pour suspendre l’application des ordonnances prononcées dans l’exercice valide de pouvoirs provinciaux. A a contesté la requête et a soutenu que les ordonnances étaient de nature pécuniaire et qu’elles étaient donc visées par la définition du terme « réclamation » utilisé dans l’ordonnance relative à la procédure de réclamations. Le juge chargé d’appliquer la LACC a rejeté la requête de la province et la Cour d’appel a rejeté la demande d’autorisation d’appel de la province.

Arrêt (la juge en chef McLachlin et le juge LeBel sont dissidents) : Le pourvoi est rejeté.

Les juges Deschamps, Fish, Abella, Rothstein, Cromwell, Moldaver et Karakatsanis : Les ordonnances des organismes administratifs ne sont pas toutes de nature pécuniaire, et donc des réclamations prouvables dans le cadre de procédures d’insolvabilité, mais at the outset of the proceedings. In the environmental context, the CCAA court must determine whether there are sufficient facts indicating the existence of an environmental duty that will ripen into a financial liability owed to the regulatory body that issued the order. In such a case, the relevant question is not simply whether the body has formally exercised its power to claim a debt. A CCAA court does not assess claims or orders on the basis of form alone. If the order is not framed in monetary terms, the CCAA court must determine, in light of the factual matrix and the applicable statutory framework, whether it is a claim that will be subject to the claims process.

There are three requirements orders must meet in order to be considered claims that may be subject to the insolvency process in a case such as the one at bar. First, there must be a debt, a liability or an obligation to a creditor. In this case, the first criterion was met because the Province had identified itself as a creditor by resorting to environmental protection enforcement mechanisms. Second, the debt, liability or obligation must be incurred as of a specific time. This requirement was also met since the environmental damage had occurred before the time of the CCAA proceedings. Third, it must be possible to attach a monetary value to the debt, liability or obligation. The present case turns on this third requirement, and the question is whether orders that are not expressed in monetary terms can be translated into such terms.

A claim may be asserted in insolvency proceedings even if it is contingent on an event that has not yet occurred. The criterion used by courts to determine whether a contingent claim will be included in the insolvency process is whether the event that has not yet occurred is too remote or speculative. In the context of an environmental protection order, this means that there must be sufficient indications that the regulatory body that triggered the enforcement mechanism will ultimately perform remediation work and assert a monetary claim. If there is sufficient certainty in this regard, the court will conclude that the order can be subject to the insolvency process.

certaines peuvent l'être en dépit du fait qu'elles ne sont pas quantifiées dès le début des procédures. En matière environnementale, le tribunal chargé de l'application de la LACC doit déterminer s'il y a suffisamment de faits indiquant qu'il existe une obligation environnementale de laquelle résultera une dette envers l'organisme administratif qui a prononcé l'ordonnance. En pareil cas, la question pertinente ne se résume pas à déterminer si l'organisme a formellement exercé son pouvoir de réclamer une dette. Le tribunal qui évalue une réclamation ou une ordonnance ne se limite pas à un examen de sa forme. Si l'ordonnance n'est pas formulée en termes pécuniaires, le tribunal doit déterminer, en fonction des faits en cause et du cadre législatif applicable, si elle constitue une réclamation qui sera assujettie au processus de réclamation.

Pour qu'elles constituent des réclamations pouvant être assujetties au processus applicable en matière d'insolvabilité dans une affaire telle celle en l'espèce, les ordonnances doivent satisfaire à trois conditions. Premièrement, il doit s'agir d'une dette, d'un engagement ou d'une obligation envers un créancier. En l'espèce, il a été satisfait à la première condition puisque la province s'est présentée comme créancière en ayant recours aux mécanismes d'application en matière de protection de l'environnement. Deuxièmement, la dette, l'engagement ou l'obligation doit avoir pris naissance à un moment précis. Il a également été satisfait à cette condition puisque les dommages environnementaux sont survenus avant que les procédures en vertu de la LACC ne soient entamées. Troisièmement, il doit être possible d'attribuer une valeur pécuniaire à cette dette, cet engagement ou cette obligation. La présente affaire est centrée sur cette troisième condition, et la question est de savoir si des ordonnances qui ne sont pas formulées en termes pécuniaires peuvent être formulées en de tels termes.

Il est possible de faire valoir une réclamation dans le cadre de procédures d'insolvabilité même si elle dépend d'un événement non encore survenu. Le critère retenu par les tribunaux pour décider si une réclamation éventuelle sera incluse dans le processus d'insolvabilité est celui qui consiste à déterminer si l'événement non encore survenu est trop éloigné ou conjectural. Dans le contexte d'une ordonnance environnementale, cela signifie qu'il doit y avoir des indications suffisantes permettant de conclure que l'organisme administratif qui a eu recours aux mécanismes d'application de la loi effectuera en fin de compte des travaux de décontamination et présentera une réclamation pécuniaire. Si cela est suffisamment certain, le tribunal conclura que l'ordonnance peut être assujettie au processus d'insolvabilité.

Certain indicators can guide the CCAA court in this assessment, including whether the activities are ongoing, whether the debtor is in control of the property, and whether the debtor has the means to comply with the order. The court may also consider the effect that requiring the debtor to comply with the order would have on the insolvency process. The analysis is grounded in the facts of each case. In this case, the CCAA court's assessment of the facts, particularly its finding that the orders were the first step towards performance of the remediation work by the Province, leads to no conclusion other than that it was sufficiently certain that the Province would perform remediation work and therefore fall within the definition of a creditor with a monetary claim.

Subjecting such orders to the claims process does not extinguish the debtor's environmental obligations any more than subjecting any creditor's claim to that process extinguishes the debtor's obligation to pay a debt. It merely ensures that the Province's claim will be paid in accordance with insolvency legislation. Full compliance with orders that are found to be monetary in nature would shift the costs of remediation to third party creditors and replace the polluter-pay principle with a "third-party-pay" principle. Moreover, to subject environmental protection orders to the claims process is not to invite corporations to restructure in order to rid themselves of their environmental liabilities. Reorganization made necessary by insolvency is hardly ever a deliberate choice, and when the risks corporations engage in materialize, the dire costs are borne by almost all stakeholders.

Because the provisions on the assessment of claims in insolvency matters relate directly to Parliament's jurisdiction, the ancillary powers doctrine is not relevant to this case. The interjurisdictional immunity doctrine is also inapplicable, because a finding that a claim of an environmental creditor is monetary in nature does not interfere in any way with the creditor's activities; its claim is simply subject to the insolvency process.

Per McLachlin C.J. (dissenting): Remediation orders made under a province's environmental protection Certains indicateurs permettent de guider le tribunal dans cette analyse, notamment si les activités se poursuivent, si le débiteur exerce un contrôle sur le bien et s'il dispose des moyens de se conformer à l'ordonnance. Il est également possible pour le tribunal de prendre en compte les conséquences qu'entraînerait sur le processus d'insolvabilité le fait d'exiger du débiteur qu'il se conforme à l'ordonnance. L'analyse est fondée sur les faits propres à chaque cas. En l'espèce, l'appréciation des faits par le tribunal, plus particulièrement sa constatation que les ordonnances constituaient la première étape en vue de la décontamination des sites par la province, ne permet de tirer aucune conclusion autre que celle suivant laquelle il était suffisamment certain que la province exécuterait des travaux de décontamination et qu'elle était par conséquent visée par la définition d'un créancier ayant une réclamation pécuniaire.

Le fait d'assujettir ces ordonnances au processus de réclamations n'éteint pas les obligations environnementales qui incombent au débiteur, pas plus que le fait de soumettre à ce processus les réclamations des créanciers n'éteint l'obligation du débiteur de payer ses dettes. Le fait d'assujettir une ordonnance au processus de réclamation vise simplement à faire en sorte que le paiement au créancier sera fait conformément aux dispositions législatives applicables en matière d'insolvabilité. Le respect intégral des ordonnances dont la nature pécuniaire est reconnue transférerait le coût de la décontamination aux tiers créanciers et substituerait au principe du pollueur-payeur celui du « tiers-payeur ». En outre, l'assujettissement des ordonnances environnementales à la procédure de réclamations n'équivaut pas à convier les sociétés à se réorganiser dans le but d'échapper à leurs obligations environnementales. Une réorganisation rendue nécessaire par l'insolvabilité de la société peut difficilement être assimilée à un choix délibéré, et lorsque les risques auxquels s'exposent les sociétés se concrétisent, la quasi-totalité des personnes ayant des intérêts dans la société en supportent les terribles coûts.

L'application de la doctrine des pouvoirs accessoires n'est pas pertinente en l'espèce car les dispositions régissant l'évaluation des réclamations en matière d'insolvabilité sont directement reliées à la compétence du législateur fédéral. La doctrine de la protection des compétences exclusives ne s'applique pas non plus parce qu'une conclusion selon laquelle un créancier œuvrant dans le domaine de l'environnement détient une réclamation pécuniaire ne modifie en rien les activités de ce créancier; sa réclamation est simplement assujettie au processus d'insolvabilité.

La juge en chef McLachlin (dissidente) : Les ordonnances exigeant la décontamination émises aux termes legislation impose ongoing regulatory obligations on the corporation required to clean up the pollution. They may only be reduced to monetary claims which can be compromised under CCAA proceedings in narrow circumstances where a province has done the remediation work, or where it is “sufficiently certain” that it will do the work. This last situation is regulated by the provisions of the CCAA for contingent or future claims. The test is whether there is a likelihood approaching certainty that the province will do the work. “Likelihood approaching certainty” recognizes that the government’s decision is discretionary and may be influenced by competing political and social considerations, which are not normally subject to judicial consideration. Insofar as this determination touches on the division of powers, I am in substantial agreement with Deschamps J.

Apart from the orders related to the work done or tendered for on the Buchans property, the orders for remediation in this case are not claims that can be compromised. The CCAA maintains the fundamental distinction between regulatory obligations under the general law aimed at the protection of the public and monetary claims that can be compromised in CCAA restructuring or bankruptcy. The CCAA judge never asked himself the critical question of whether it was “sufficiently certain” that the Province would do the work itself. His failure to consider that question requires this Court to answer it in his stead. There is nothing on the record to support the view that the Province will move to remediate the properties. It has not been shown that the contamination poses immediate health risks which must be addressed without delay. It has not been shown that the Province has taken any steps to do any work. And it has not been shown that the Province has set aside or even contemplated setting aside money for this work. The Province retained a number of options, including leaving the sites contaminated, or calling on Abitibi to remediate following its emergence from restructuring. There is nothing in the record that makes it more probable, much less establishes “sufficient certainty”, that the Province will opt to do the work itself.

d’une loi provinciale sur la protection de l’environnement imposent des exigences réglementaires continues à la personne morale requise de remédier à la pollution. Ces ordonnances ne peuvent être converties en réclamations pécuniaires pouvant faire l’objet de transactions dans le cadre de procédures engagées aux termes de la LACC que dans certaines circonstances particulières, lorsqu’une province a exécuté les travaux ou lorsqu’il est « suffisamment certain » qu’elle exécutera les travaux. Cette deuxième situation est prévue par les dispositions de la LACC relatives aux réclamations éventuelles ou futures. Le critère consiste à déterminer s’il existe une probabilité proche de la certitude que la province exécutera les travaux. Une « probabilité proche de la certitude » reconnaît que la décision du gouvernement est discrétionnaire et peut être influencée par des considérations politiques et sociales concurrentes qui sont normalement soustraites à l’examen judiciaire. Dans la mesure où cette décision touche le partage des pouvoirs, je souscris pour l’essentiel à l’opinion exprimée par la juge Deschamps.

À l’exception des ordonnances relatives aux travaux sur le site de Buchans déjà exécutés ou à l’égard desquels des appels d’offres ont été lancés, les ordonnances exigeant la décontamination en l’espèce ne constituent pas des réclamations pouvant faire l’objet de transactions dans le cadre d’une restructuration. La LACC établit une distinction fondamentale entre les exigences réglementaires découlant d’une loi d’application générale visant la protection du public, d’une part, et les réclamations pécuniaires pouvant faire l’objet d’une transaction dans le cadre d’une restructuration engagée sous le régime de la LACC ou en matière de faillite, d’autre part. Le juge de première instance ne s’est jamais posé la question cruciale de savoir s’il était « suffisamment certain » que la province exécuterait elle-même les travaux. Le fait qu’il n’ait pas examiné cette question oblige notre Cour à y répondre à sa place. Aucune preuve au dossier ne laisse croire que la province entreprendra la décontamination des sites. Il n’a pas été démontré que la contamination pose pour la santé des risques immédiats exigeant la prise de mesures dans les plus brefs délais. Il n’a pas été démontré que la province a pris quelque mesure que ce soit pour réaliser des travaux. Et il n’a pas été démontré que la province a prévu des sommes d’argent pour ces travaux ou qu’elle a même songé à en prévoir. La province a conservé un certain nombre de choix, notamment laisser les sites contaminés, ou demander à Abitibi d’exécuter les travaux lorsqu’elle aura complété sa restructuration. Rien au dossier n’indique qu’il est plus probable, et encore moins qu’il est « suffisamment certain », que la province choisira d’exécuter elle-même la décontamination.

Per LeBel J. (dissenting): The test proposed by the Chief Justice according to which the evidence must show that there is a “likelihood approaching certainty” that the Province would remediate the contamination itself is not the established test for determining where and how a contingent claim can be liquidated in bankruptcy and insolvency law. The test of “sufficient certainty” described by Deschamps J. best reflects how both the common law and the civil law view and deal with contingent claims. Applying that test, the appeal should be allowed on the basis that there is no evidence that the Province intends to perform the remedial work itself.

Le juge LeBel (dissident) : Le critère que propose le Juge en chef, selon lequel la preuve doit démontrer une « probabilité proche de la certitude » que la province se chargerait de la décontamination, ne constitue pas le critère établi pour déterminer si, et de quelle façon, une réclamation éventuelle peut être liquidée en droit de la faillite et de l’insolvabilité. Le critère de ce qui est « suffisamment certain » qu’énonce le juge Deschamps reflète mieux la façon dont la common law et le droit civil envisagent et traitent les réclamations éventuelles. En appliquant ce critère, il y aurait lieu d’accueillir le pourvoi puisqu’aucune preuve ne confirme l’intention de la province d’exécuter elle-même les travaux de décontamination.

[1] DESCHAMPS J. — The question in this appeal is whether orders issued by a regulatory body with respect to environmental remediation work can be treated as monetary claims under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (“CCAA”).

[2] Regulatory bodies may become involved in reorganization proceedings when they order the debtor to comply with statutory rules. As a matter of principle, reorganization does not amount to a licence to disregard rules. Yet there are circumstances in which valid and enforceable orders will be subject to an arrangement under the CCAA. One such circumstance is where a regulatory body

[2] Un organisme administratif peut être appelé à intervenir dans le cadre de procédures de réorganisation lorsqu'il prononce une ordonnance intimant au débiteur de se conformer à une règle prescrite par la loi. En principe, une réorganisation ne permet pas à une personne d'ignorer ses obligations légales. Par ailleurs, en certaines circonstances, une ordonnance valable et exécutoire sera assujettie makes an environmental order that explicitly asserts a monetary claim.

[3] In other circumstances, it is less clear whether an order can be treated as a monetary claim. The appellant and a number of interveners posit that an order issued by an environmental body is not a claim under the CCAA if the order does not require the debtor to make a payment. I agree that not all orders issued by regulatory bodies are monetary in nature and thus provable claims in an insolvency proceeding, but some may be, even if the amounts involved are not quantified at the outset of the proceeding. In the environmental context, the CCAA court must determine whether there are sufficient facts indicating the existence of an environmental duty that will ripen into a financial liability owed to the regulatory body that issued the order. In such a case, the relevant question is not simply whether the body has formally exercised its power to claim a debt. A CCAA court does not assess claims — or orders — on the basis of form alone. If the order is not framed in monetary terms, the court must determine, in light of the factual matrix and the applicable statutory framework, whether it is a claim that will be subject to the claims process.

[4] The case at bar concerns contamination that occurred, prior to the CCAA proceedings, on property that is largely no longer under the debtor's possession and control. The CCAA court found on the facts of this case that the orders issued by Her Majesty the Queen in right of the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador (“Province”) were simply a first step towards remediating the contaminated property and asserting a claim for the resulting costs. In the words of the CCAA court, “the intended, practical and realistic effect of the EPA Orders was to establish a basis for the Province to à un arrangement conclu en vertu de la LACC. C’est le cas notamment lorsqu’un organisme administratif prononce une ordonnance environnementale qui est explicitement formulée en termes pécuniaires.

[3] En d’autres circonstances, il est plus difficile de savoir si une ordonnance peut être traitée comme une réclamation pécuniaire. L’appelante et certains des intervenants affirment qu’une ordonnance émise par un organisme de protection de l’environnement ne constitue pas une réclamation au sens de la LACC si elle n’exige pas du débiteur qu’il lui paye un montant d’argent. Je conviens que les ordonnances des organismes administratifs ne constituent pas toutes des réclamations pécuniaires, et donc des réclamations prouvables dans le cadre de procédures d’insolvabilité, mais certaines peuvent l’être en dépit du fait qu’elles ne sont pas quantifiées dès le début des procédures. En matière environnementale, le tribunal chargé de l’application de la LACC doit déterminer s’il y a suffisamment de faits indiquant qu’il existe une obligation environnementale de laquelle résultera une dette envers l’organisme administratif qui a prononcé l’ordonnance. En pareil cas, la question pertinente ne se résume pas à déterminer si l’organisme a formellement exercé son pouvoir de réclamer une dette. Lorsque le tribunal évalue une réclamation (ou une ordonnance) il ne se limite pas à un examen de sa forme. Si l’ordonnance n’est pas formulée en termes pécuniaires, le tribunal doit déterminer, en fonction des faits en cause et du cadre législatif applicable, si elle constitue une réclamation qui sera assujettie au processus de réclamation.

[4] Le présent pourvoi a trait à des dommages environnementaux survenus avant que les procédures sous le régime de la LACC ne soient engagées, des dommages causés à des terrains qui, en majeure partie, ne sont plus en la possession du débiteur ni sous son contrôle. Le tribunal de première instance a conclu, selon les faits en l’espèce, que les ordonnances émises par Sa Majesté la Reine du chef de la province de Terre-Neuve-et-Labrador (« province ») ne constituaient que la première étape en vue de restaurer les sites contaminés et de réclamer les coûts engagés. Comme l’a exprimé le juge de recover amounts of money to be eventually used for the remediation of the properties in question” (2010 QCCS 1261, 68 C.B.R. (5th) 1, at para. 211). As a result, the CCAA court found that the orders were clearly monetary in nature. I see no error of law and no reason to interfere with this finding of fact. I would dismiss the appeal with costs.

I. Facts and Procedural History

[5] For over 100 years, AbitibiBowater Inc. and its affiliated or predecessor companies (together, “Abitibi”) were involved in industrial activity in Newfoundland and Labrador. In 2008, Abitibi announced the closure of a mill that was its last operation in that province.

[6] Within two weeks of the announcement, the Province passed the Abitibi-Consolidated Rights and Assets Act, S.N.L. 2008, c. A-1.01 (“Abitibi Act”), which immediately transferred most of Abitibi’s property in Newfoundland and Labrador to the Province and denied Abitibi any legal remedy for this expropriation.

[7] The closure of its mill in Newfoundland and Labrador was one of many decisions Abitibi made in a period of general financial distress affecting its activities both in the United States and in Canada. It filed for insolvency protection in the United States on April 16, 2009. It also sought a stay of proceedings under the CCAA in the Superior Court of Quebec, as its Canadian head office was located in Montréal. The CCAA stay was ordered on April 17, 2009.

[8] In the same month, Abitibi also filed a notice of intent to submit a claim to arbitration under NAFTA (the North American Free Trade Agreement Between the Government of Canada, the Government of the United Mexican States and the Government of the United States of America, première instance, [TRADUCTION] « les ordonnances avaient pour effet attendu, pratique et réaliste d’établir le fondement d’une réclamation permettant à la province de récupérer des sommes d’argent qui seraient utilisées pour procéder aux travaux de décontamination » (2010 QCCS 1261, 68 C.B.R. (5th) 1, par. 211). Par conséquent, pour le tribunal, les ordonnances étaient clairement de nature pécuniaire. Je ne vois aucune erreur de droit ni aucune raison de modifier ces conclusions de fait. Je suis d’avis de rejeter le pourvoi avec dépens.

I. Faits et historique judiciaire

[5] Pendant plus d’une centaine d’années, AbitibiBowater Inc., et ses auteurs ou sociétés filiales (ensemble, « Abitibi ») ont poursuivi des activités industrielles à Terre-Neuve-et-Labrador. En 2008, Abitibi a annoncé la fermeture de la dernière des scieries qu’elle exploitait dans cette province.

[7] La fermeture de sa scierie à Terre-Neuve-et-Labrador est l’une des nombreuses décisions prises par Abitibi dans une période où de grandes difficultés financières touchaient ses activités au Canada et aux États-Unis. Le 16 avril 2009, elle a présenté une demande de protection contre l’insolvabilité aux États-Unis. Elle a également demandé à la Cour supérieure du Québec, à Montréal, où elle a son siège social au Canada, une suspension des procédures en vertu de la LACC. La suspension a été ordonnée le 17 avril 2009.

[8] Au cours du même mois, Abitibi a aussi déposé un avis d’intention de soumettre une plainte à l’arbitrage en vertu de l’ALENA (Accord de libre-échange nord-américain entre le gouvernement du Canada, le gouvernement des États-Unis d’Amérique et le gouvernement des États-Unis du Mexique, Can. T.S. 1994 No. 2) for losses resulting from the Abitibi Act, which, according to Abitibi, exceeded $300 million.

[9] On November 12, 2009, the Province’s Minister of Environment and Conservation (“Minister”) issued five orders (the “EPA Orders”) under s. 99 of the Environmental Protection Act, S.N.L. 2002, c. E-14.2 (“EPA”). The EPA Orders required Abitibi to submit remediation action plans to the Minister for five industrial sites, three of which had been expropriated, and to complete the approved remediation actions. The CCAA judge estimated the cost of implementing these plans to be from “the mid-to-high eight figures” to “several times higher” (para. 81).

[10] On the day it issued the EPA Orders, the Province brought a motion for a declaration that a claims procedure order issued under the CCAA in relation to Abitibi’s proposed reorganization did not bar the Province from enforcing the EPA Orders. The Province argued — and still argues — that non-monetary statutory obligations are not “claims” under the CCAA and hence cannot be stayed and be subject to a claims procedure order. It further submits that Parliament lacks the constitutional competence under its power to make laws in relation to bankruptcy and insolvency to stay orders that are validly made in the exercise of a provincial power.

[11] Abitibi contested the motion and sought a declaration that the EPA Orders were stayed and that they were subject to the claims procedure order. It argued that the EPA Orders were monetary in nature and hence fell within the definition of the word “claim” in the claims procedure order.

[12] Gascon J. of the Quebec Superior Court, sitting as a CCAA court, dismissed the Province's motion. He found that he had the authority to characterize the orders as "claims" if the underlying regulatory obligations "remain[ed], in a particular fact pattern, truly financial and monetary in nature" (para. 148). He declared that the EPA Orders were stayed by the initial stay order and were not subject to the exception found in that order. He also declared that the filing by the Province of any claim based on the EPA Orders was subject to the claims procedure order, and reserved to the Province the right to request an extension of time to assert a claim under the claims procedure order and to Abitibi the right to contest such a request.

[13] In the Court of Appeal, Chamberland J.A. denied the Province leave to appeal (2010 QCCA 965, 68 C.B.R. (5th) 57). In his view, the appeal had no reasonable chance of success, because Gascon J. had found as a fact that the EPA Orders were financial or monetary in nature. Chamberland J.A. also found that no constitutional issue arose, given that the Superior Court judge had merely characterized the orders in the context of the restructuring process; the judgment did not "'immunise' Abitibi from compliance with the EPA Orders" (para. 33). Finally, he noted that Gascon J. had reserved the Province's right to request an extension of time to file a claim in the CCAA process.

II. Positions of the Parties

[14] The Province argues that the CCAA court erred in interpreting the relevant CCAA provisions in a way that nullified the EPA, and that the interpretation is inconsistent with both the ancillary powers doctrine and the doctrine of interjurisdictional immunity. The Province further submits [12] Le juge Gascon de la Cour supérieure du Québec, siégeant aux termes de la LACC, a rejeté la requête de la province. Il a statué qu'il avait le pouvoir de qualifier les ordonnances de « réclamations » si les obligations légales sous-jacentes [TRADUCTION] « demeur[ai]ent, dans une situation factuelle particulière, de nature véritablement financière et pécuniaire » (par. 148). Il a déclaré que les ordonnances EPA avaient été suspendues en vertu de l'ordonnance de suspension initiale et qu'elles n'étaient pas visées par l'exception énoncée dans cette ordonnance. Il a également déclaré que la présentation, par la province, de toute réclamation fondée sur les ordonnances EPA était assujettie à l'ordonnance relative à la procédure de réclamations; il a réservé à la province le droit de demander par requête une prorogation du délai pour présenter une réclamation en vertu de la procédure de réclamations et a confirmé le droit d'Abitibi de contester une telle requête.

[13] En Cour d'appel, le juge Chamberland a rejeté la demande d'autorisation d'appel présentée par la province (2010 QCCA 965, 68 C.B.R. (5th) 57). À son avis, l'appel n'avait aucune chance raisonnable de succès parce que le juge Gascon avait conclu, comme question de faits, que les ordonnances EPA étaient de nature financière ou pécuniaire. Le juge Chamberland a également estimé qu'aucune question constitutionnelle ne se posait, car le juge de la Cour supérieure n'avait fait que qualifier les ordonnances dans le contexte du processus de restructuration; le jugement ne [TRADUCTION] « "soustrayait" pas Abitibi à son obligation de se conformer aux ordonnances EPA » (par. 33). Enfin, il a fait remarquer que le juge Gascon avait réservé à la province le droit de demander la prorogation de délai pour produire une réclamation en vertu de la LACC.

II. Thèses des parties

[14] La province soutient que le tribunal de première instance a commis l'erreur d'interpréter les dispositions applicables de la LACC de façon à invalider l'EPA et que cette interprétation est incompatible tant avec la doctrine des pouvoirs accessoires qu'avec celle de la protection des compétences that, in any event, the EPA Orders are not “claims” within the meaning of the CCAA. It takes the position that “any plan of compromise and arrangement that Abitibi might submit for court approval must make provision for compliance with the EPA Orders” (A.F., at para. 32).

[15] Abitibi contends that the factual record does not provide a basis for applying the constitutional doctrines. It relies on the CCAA court’s findings of fact, particularly the finding that the Province’s intent was to establish the basis for a monetary claim. Abitibi submits that the true issue is whether a province that has a monetary claim against an insolvent company can obtain a preference against other unsecured creditors by exercising its regulatory power.

III. Constitutional Questions

1. Is the definition of “claim” in s. 2(1) of the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36, ultra vires the Parliament of Canada or constitutionally inapplicable to the extent this definition includes statutory duties to which the debtor is subject pursuant to s. 99 of the Environmental Protection Act, S.N.L. 2002, c. E-14.2?

2. Is s. 11 of the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36, ultra vires the Parliament of Canada or constitutionally inapplicable to the extent this section gives courts jurisdiction to bar or extinguish statutory duties to which the debtor is subject pursuant to s. 99 of the Environmental Protection Act, S.N.L. 2002, c. E-14.2?

3. Is s. 11 of the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36, ultra vires the Parliament of Canada or constitutionally inapplicable to the extent this section gives courts jurisdiction to exclusives. La province fait de plus valoir que, de toute façon, les ordonnances EPA ne constituent pas des « réclamations » au sens de la LACC. Elle soutient que [TRADUCTION] « tout plan de transaction et d’arrangement qu’Abitibi pourrait soumettre à l’approbation du tribunal doit prévoir qu’[Abitibi] doit se conformer aux ordonnances EPA » (m.a., par. 32).

[15] Abitibi soutient que l’application des doctrines constitutionnelles ne trouve aucun fondement dans les faits du dossier. Elle appuie sa position sur les conclusions de fait tirées par le tribunal de première instance, plus particulièrement celles où le tribunal conclut que l’intention de la province était d’établir le fondement d’une réclamation pécuniaire. Abitibi plaide que la véritable question est de savoir si, par l’exercice de son pouvoir de réglementation, une province ayant une réclamation pécuniaire à faire valoir contre une entreprise insolvable peut obtenir une préférence à l’encontre d’autres créanciers non garantis.

III. Questions constitutionnelles

[16] À la demande de la province, la Juge en chef a formulé les questions constitutionnelles suivantes :

review the exercise of ministerial discretion under s. 99 of the Environmental Protection Act, S.N.L. 2002, c. E-14.2?

[17] I note that the question whether a CCAA court has constitutional jurisdiction to stay a provincial order that is not a monetary claim does not arise here, because the stay order in this case did not affect non-monetary orders. However, the question may arise in other cases. In 2007, Parliament expressly gave CCAA courts the power to stay regulatory orders that are not monetary claims by amending the CCAA to include the current version of s. 11.1(3) (An Act to amend the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, the Wage Earner Protection Program Act and chapter 47 of the Statutes of Canada, 2005, S.C. 2007, c. 36, s. 65) (the "2007 amendments"). Thus, future cases may give courts the opportunity to consider the question raised by the Province in an appropriate factual context. The only constitutional question that needs to be answered in this case concerns the jurisdiction of a CCAA court to determine whether an environmental order that is not framed in monetary terms is in fact a monetary claim.

[18] Processing creditors' claims against an insolvent debtor in an equitable and orderly manner is at the heart of insolvency legislation, which falls under a head of power attributed to Parliament. Rules concerning the assessment of creditors' claims, such as the determination of whether a creditor has a monetary claim, relate directly to the equitable and orderly treatment of creditors in an insolvency process. There is no need to perform a detailed analysis of the pith and substance of the provisions on the assessment of claims in insolvency matters to conclude that the federal legislation governing the characterization of an order as a monetary claim is valid. Because the provisions relate directly to Parliament's jurisdiction,

[17] Je souligne que la question de savoir si, aux termes de la LACC, un tribunal a compétence constitutionnelle pour suspendre l'application d'une ordonnance provinciale qui ne constitue pas une réclamation pécuniaire ne se pose pas en l'espèce parce que l'ordonnance de suspension en cause ne visait pas ces ordonnances. La question pourrait toutefois se poser dans d'autres affaires. En 2007, par l'ajout du par. 11.1(3) de la LACC, le législateur fédéral a explicitement conféré aux tribunaux compétents aux termes de la LACC le pouvoir de suspendre l'application des ordonnances d'un organisme administratif qui ne constituent pas des réclamations pécuniaires (Loi modifiant la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité, la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies, la Loi sur le Programme de protection des salariés et le chapitre 47 des Lois du Canada (2005), L.C. 2007, ch. 36, art. 65) (les « modifications de 2007 »). Ainsi, les tribunaux auront l'occasion d'analyser la question soulevée par la province lorsque le contexte factuel s'y prêtera. La seule question constitutionnelle qui requiert une réponse en l'espèce a trait à la compétence d'un tribunal, aux termes de la LACC, de déterminer si une ordonnance environnementale qui n'est pas formulée en termes pécuniaires constitue, en fait, une réclamation pécuniaire.

[18] Le traitement équitable et ordonné des réclamations présentées par des créanciers contre un débiteur insolvable se situe au cœur même de la législation en matière d'insolvabilité, un domaine de compétence attribué au législateur fédéral. L'établissement de règles relatives à l'évaluation des réclamations des créanciers, comme celle permettant de déterminer si un créancier fait valoir une réclamation pécuniaire, concerne directement le traitement équitable et ordonné des créanciers dans le cadre d'un processus établi en matière d'insolvabilité. Il n'est pas nécessaire d'analyser en détail le caractère véritable des dispositions régissant l'évaluation des réclamations en matière d'insolvabilité pour conclure à la validité du texte législatif fédéral

the ancillary powers doctrine is not relevant to this case. I also find that the interjurisdictional immunity doctrine is not applicable. A finding that a claim of an environmental creditor is monetary in nature does not interfere in any way with the creditor's activities. Its claim is simply subjected to the insolvency process.

[19] What the Province is actually arguing is that courts should consider the form of an order rather than its substance. I see no reason why the Province's choice of order should not be scrutinized to determine whether the form chosen is consistent with the order's true purpose as revealed by the Province's own actions. If the Province's actions indicate that, in substance, it is asserting a provable claim within the meaning of federal legislation, then that claim can be subjected to the insolvency process. Environmental claims do not have a higher priority than is provided for in the CCAA. Considering substance over form prevents a regulatory body from artificially creating a priority higher than the one conferred on the claim by federal legislation. This Court recognized long ago that a province cannot disturb the priority scheme established by the federal insolvency legislation (Husky Oil Operations Ltd. v. Minister of National Revenue, [1995] 3 S.C.R. 453). Environmental claims are given a specific, and limited, priority under the CCAA. To exempt orders which are in fact monetary claims from the CCAA proceedings would amount to conferring upon provinces a priority higher than the one provided for in the CCAA.

IV. Claims Under the CCAA

[20] Several provisions of the CCAA have been amended since Abitibi filed for insolvency

permettant d'établir qu'une ordonnance constitue une réclamation pécuniaire. L'application de la doctrine des pouvoirs accessoires n'est pas pertinente en l'espèce car les dispositions en cause sont directement reliées à la compétence du législateur fédéral. J'estime également que la doctrine de la protection des compétences exclusives ne s'applique pas en l'espèce. Une conclusion selon laquelle un créancier œuvrant dans le domaine de l'environnement détient une réclamation pécuniaire ne modifie en rien les activités de ce créancier. La réclamation de ce dernier est simplement assujettie au processus d'insolvabilité.

[19] Ce que soutient en fait la province, c'est que les tribunaux devraient examiner la forme des ordonnances plutôt que leur substance. Je ne vois aucune raison empêchant l'examen du choix par la province d'un type d'ordonnance donnée afin de déterminer si la forme choisie concorde avec l'objectif véritable qui se dégage des gestes qu'elle a posés. Si ces gestes indiquent qu'elle fait effectivement valoir une réclamation prouvable au sens de la législation fédérale, alors cette réclamation peut être assujettie au processus d'insolvabilité. Les réclamations en matière d'environnement ne bénéficient pas d'un rang supérieur à celui prévu par les dispositions de la LACC. Privilégier l'examen de la substance d'une ordonnance plutôt que de sa forme permet d'éviter qu'un organisme administratif obtienne de façon artificielle une priorité de rang supérieure à celle que la législation fédérale attribue à la réclamation. Notre Cour a depuis longtemps reconnu qu'une province ne pouvait perturber les priorités établies par le régime fédéral d'insolvabilité (Husky Oil Operations Ltd. c. Ministre du Revenu national, [1995] 3 R.C.S. 453). La LACC établit une priorité précise et limitée à l'égard des réclamations en matière environnementale. Le fait de soustraire aux procédures d'insolvabilité les ordonnances qui sont en fait des réclamations pécuniaires équivaldrait à accorder aux provinces une priorité d'un rang supérieur à celui prévu par la LACC.

IV. Réclamations sous le régime de la LACC

protection. Except where otherwise indicated, the provisions I refer to are those that were in force when the stay was ordered.

[21] One of the central features of the CCAA scheme is the single proceeding model, which ensures that most claims against a debtor are entertained in a single forum. Under this model, the court can stay the enforcement of most claims against the debtor's assets in order to maintain the status quo during negotiations with the creditors. When such negotiations are successful, the creditors typically accept less than the full amounts of their claims. Claims have not necessarily accrued or been liquidated at the outset of the insolvency proceeding, and they sometimes have to be assessed in order to determine the monetary value that will be subject to compromise.

[22] Section 12 of the CCAA establishes the basic rules for ascertaining whether an order is a claim that may be subjected to the insolvency process:

12. (1) [Definition of "claim"] For the purposes of this Act, "claim" means any indebtedness, liability or obligation of any kind that, if unsecured, would be a debt provable in bankruptcy within the meaning of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act.

(2) [Determination of amount of claim] For the purposes of this Act, the amount represented by a claim of any secured or unsecured creditor shall be determined as follows:

(a) the amount of an unsecured claim shall be the amount

(iii) in the case of any other company, proof of which might be made under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, but if the amount so provable is not admitted by the company, the amount shall be determined by the court on summary application by the company or by the creditor; . . .

de protection contre l'insolvabilité. À moins d'indication contraire de ma part, les dispositions que je cite sont celles qui étaient en vigueur lorsque la suspension des procédures a été ordonnée.

(2) [Détermination du montant de la réclamation] Pour l'application de la présente loi, le montant représenté par une réclamation d'un créancier garanti ou chirographaire est déterminé de la façon suivante :

a) le montant d'une réclamation non garantie est le montant :

(iii) dans le cas de toute autre compagnie, dont la preuve pourrait être établie en vertu de la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité, mais si le montant ainsi provable n'est pas admis par la compagnie, ce montant est déterminé par le tribunal sur demande sommaire par la compagnie ou le créancier;

[23] Section 12 of the CCAA refers to the rules of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-3 (“BIA”). Section 2 of the BIA defines a claim provable in bankruptcy:

“claim provable in bankruptcy”, “provable claim” or “claim provable” includes any claim or liability provable in proceedings under this Act by a creditor;

[24] This definition is completed by s. 121(1) of the BIA:

121. (1) All debts and liabilities, present or future, to which the bankrupt is subject on the day on which the bankrupt becomes bankrupt or to which the bankrupt may become subject before the bankrupt’s discharge by reason of any obligation incurred before the day on which the bankrupt becomes bankrupt shall be deemed to be claims provable in proceedings under this Act.

121. . . .

(2) The determination whether a contingent or unliquidated claim is a provable claim and the valuation of such a claim shall be made in accordance with section 135.

135. . . .

(1.1) The trustee shall determine whether any contingent claim or unliquidated claim is a provable claim, and, if a provable claim, the trustee shall value it, and the claim is thereafter, subject to this section, deemed a proved claim to the amount of its valuation.

[26] These provisions highlight three requirements that are relevant to the case at bar. First, there must be a debt, a liability or an obligation to a creditor. Second, the debt, liability or obligation must be incurred before the debtor becomes bankrupt. Third, it must be possible to attach a monetary value to the debt, liability or obligation. I will examine each of these requirements in turn.

[24] Cette définition est complétée par le par. 121(1) de la LFI :

121. (1) Toutes créances et tous engagements, présents ou futurs, auxquels le failli est assujéti à la date à laquelle il devient failli, ou auxquels il peut devenir assujéti avant sa libération, en raison d’une obligation contractée antérieurement à cette date, sont réputés des réclamations prouvables dans des procédures entamées en vertu de la présente loi.

121. . . .

(2) La question de savoir si une réclamation éventuelle ou non liquidée constitue une réclamation prouvable et, le cas échéant, son évaluation sont décidées en application de l’article 135.

135. . . .

(1.1) Le syndic décide si une réclamation éventuelle ou non liquidée est une réclamation prouvable et, le cas échéant, il l’évalue; sous réserve des autres dispositions du présent article, la réclamation est dès lors réputée prouvée pour le montant de l’évaluation.

[26] Ces dispositions font ressortir trois conditions pertinentes à la présente affaire. Premièrement, on doit être en présence d’une dette, d’un engagement ou d’une obligation envers un créancier. Deuxièmement, la dette, l’engagement ou l’obligation doit avoir pris naissance avant que le débiteur ne devienne failli. Troisièmement, il doit être possible d’attribuer une valeur pécuniaire à cette dette, cet engagement ou cette obligation. Je vais examiner chacune de ces conditions à tour de rôle.

[27] The BIA's definition of a provable claim, which is incorporated by reference into the CCAA, requires the identification of a creditor. Environmental statutes generally provide for the creation of regulatory bodies that are empowered to enforce the obligations the statutes impose. Most environmental regulatory bodies can be creditors in respect of monetary or non-monetary obligations imposed by the relevant statutes. At this first stage of determining whether the regulatory body is a creditor, the question whether the obligation can be translated into monetary terms is not yet relevant. This issue will be broached later. The only determination that has to be made at this point is whether the regulatory body has exercised its enforcement power against a debtor. When it does so, it identifies itself as a creditor, and the requirement of this stage of the analysis is satisfied.

[28] The enquiry into the second requirement is based on s. 121(1) of the BIA, which imposes a time limit on claims. A claim must be founded on an obligation that was "incurred before the day on which the bankrupt becomes bankrupt". Because the date when environmental damage occurs is often difficult to ascertain, s. 11.8(9) of the CCAA provides more temporal flexibility for environmental claims:

(9) A claim against a debtor company for costs of remedying any environmental condition or environmental damage affecting real property of the company shall be a claim under this Act, whether the condition arose or the damage occurred before or after the date on which proceedings under this Act were commenced.

[29] The creditor's claim will be exempt from the single proceeding requirement if the debtor's corresponding obligation has not arisen as of the time limit for inclusion in the insolvency process. This could apply, for example, to a debtor's statutory obligations relating to polluting activities that continue after the reorganization, because in such cases,

[27] La définition de réclamation prouvable établie par la LFI et incorporée par renvoi à la LACC exige qu'une personne ait qualité de créancier. Les lois régissant l'environnement pourvoient généralement à la création d'un organisme chargé de voir au respect des obligations qui y sont prévues. La plupart des organismes administratifs peuvent agir à titre de créanciers en relation avec les obligations pécuniaires ou non pécuniaires imposées par ces lois. À cette première étape qui consiste à déterminer si un organisme administratif est un créancier, il n'est pas encore pertinent de décider si l'obligation peut être formulée en termes pécuniaires. Cette question sera abordée à un stade ultérieur. À cette étape, la seule question à trancher est de savoir si l'organisme administratif a exercé, à l'encontre d'un débiteur, son pouvoir de faire appliquer la loi. Lorsqu'il le fait, il s'identifie alors comme créancier et la condition de cette étape est respectée.

[28] L'examen de la seconde condition repose sur le par. 121(1) de la LFI qui impose que la réclamation ait pris naissance dans un délai donné. Celle-ci doit se fonder sur une obligation « contractée antérieurement à cette date [la date à laquelle le failli devient failli] ». Comme il est souvent difficile d'établir la date à laquelle un dommage lié à l'environnement est survenu, le par. 11.8(9) de la LACC prévoit une certaine flexibilité pour ce qui est des réclamations en matière d'environnement :

(9) La réclamation pour les frais de réparation du fait ou dommage lié à l'environnement et touchant un bien immeuble de la compagnie débitrice constitue une réclamation, que la date du fait ou dommage soit antérieure ou postérieure à celle où des procédures sont intentées au titre de la présente loi.

[29] La réclamation du créancier sera exemptée de l'exigence découlant de la procédure unique si l'obligation correspondante du débiteur n'a pas pris naissance dans le délai fixé pour que la réclamation soit incluse dans le processus d'insolvabilité. À titre d'exemple, cela pourrait s'appliquer aux obligations que la loi impose à un débiteur concernant the damage continues to be sustained after the re-organization has been completed.

[30] With respect to the third requirement, that it be possible to attach a monetary value to the obligation, the question is whether orders that are not expressed in monetary terms can be translated into such terms. I note that when a regulatory body claims an amount that is owed at the relevant date, that is, when it frames its order in monetary terms, the court does not need to make this determination, because what is being claimed is an “indebtedness” and therefore clearly falls within the meaning of “claim” as defined in s. 12(1) of the CCAA.

[31] However, orders, which are used to address various types of environmental challenges, may come in many forms, including stop, control, preventative, and clean-up orders (D. Saxe, “Trustees’ and Receivers’ Environmental Liability Update” (1998), 49 C.B.R. (3d) 138, at p. 141). When considering an order that is not framed in monetary terms, courts must look at its substance and apply the rules for the assessment of claims.

[32] Parliament recognized that regulatory bodies sometimes have to perform remediation work (see House of Commons, Evidence of the Standing Committee on Industry, No. 16, 2nd Sess., 35th Parl., June 11, 1996). When one does so, its claim with respect to remediation costs is subject to the insolvency process, but the claim is secured by a charge on the contaminated real property and certain other related property and benefits from a priority (s. 11.8(8) CCAA). Thus, Parliament struck a balance between the public’s interest in enforcing environmental regulations and the interest of third-party creditors in being treated equitably.

ses activités polluantes qui se poursuivent après la réorganisation, parce qu’en pareilles circonstances, des dommages sont encore causés après que la réorganisation ait été complétée.

[30] En ce qui concerne la troisième condition, soit qu’il doit être possible d’attribuer à l’obligation une valeur pécuniaire, la question est de savoir si des ordonnances qui ne sont pas formulées en termes pécuniaires peuvent être formulées en de tels termes. Je souligne que lorsqu’un organisme administratif réclame une somme qui est due à la date pertinente, il formule ainsi son ordonnance en termes pécuniaires. Le tribunal n’a alors aucune détermination à faire à cette étape car ce qui est réclamé est une « dette » et est, par conséquent, clairement visé par la définition d’une « réclamation » prévue au par. 12(1) de la LACC.

[32] Le législateur fédéral reconnaît que les organismes administratifs doivent à l’occasion exécuter des travaux de décontamination (voir Chambre des communes, Témoignages du Comité permanent de l’industrie, n° 16, 2^e sess., 35^e lég., 11 juin 1996). En pareil cas, la réclamation relative aux frais de décontamination est assujettie à la procédure de réclamations en matière d’insolvabilité mais elle est garantie par une charge réelle grevant l’immeuble contaminé et certains immeubles connexes et bénéficie d’un rang prioritaire (par. 11.8(8) LACC). Ainsi, le législateur a établi un équilibre entre l’intérêt du public à l’égard de l’application de la réglementation environnementale et les intérêts des tiers créanciers qui doivent être traités de façon équitable.

[33] If Parliament had intended that the debtor always satisfy all remediation costs, it would have granted the Crown a priority with respect to the totality of the debtor's assets. In light of the legislative history and the purpose of the reorganization process, the fact that the Crown's priority under s. 11.8(8) of the CCAA is limited to the contaminated property and certain related property leads me to conclude that to exempt environmental orders would be inconsistent with the insolvency legislation. As deferential as courts may be to regulatory bodies' actions, they must apply the general rules.

[34] Unlike in proceedings governed by the common law or the civil law, a claim may be asserted in insolvency proceedings even if it is contingent on an event that has not yet occurred (for the common law, see Canada v. McLarty, 2008 SCC 26, [2008] 2 S.C.R. 79, at paras. 17-18; for the civil law, see arts. 1497, 1508 and 1513 of the Civil Code of Québec, S.Q. 1991, c. 64). Thus, the broad definition of "claim" in the BIA includes contingent and future claims that would be unenforceable at common law or in the civil law. As for unliquidated claims, a CCAA court has the same power to assess their amounts as would a court hearing a case in a common law or civil law context.

[35] The reason the BIA and the CCAA include a broad range of claims is to ensure fairness between creditors and finality in the insolvency proceeding for the debtor. In a corporate liquidation process, it is more equitable to allow as many creditors as possible to participate in the process and share in the liquidation proceeds. This makes it possible to include creditors whose claims have not yet matured when the corporate debtor files for bankruptcy, and thus avert a situation in which they would be faced with an inactive debtor that cannot satisfy a judgment. The rationale is slightly different in the context of a corporate proposal or reorganization. In such cases, the broad approach serves not only to ensure fairness between creditors, but also to allow the debtor to make as fresh a start as possible after a proposal or an arrangement is approved.

[33] Si le législateur fédéral avait eu l'intention d'obliger le débiteur à supporter dans tous les cas tous les coûts des travaux de décontamination, il aurait accordé à l'État une priorité applicable à la totalité des actifs du débiteur. Compte tenu de l'historique des dispositions législatives et des objectifs du processus de réorganisation, le fait que la priorité de l'État aux termes du par. 11.8(8) de la LACC soit limitée au bien contaminé et à certains biens liés m'amène à conclure qu'une exemption à l'égard des ordonnances environnementales serait incompatible avec la législation en matière d'insolvabilité. Aussi respectueux soient-ils des mesures prises par les organismes administratifs, les tribunaux sont tenus d'appliquer les règles générales.

[36] The criterion used by courts to determine whether a contingent claim will be included in the insolvency process is whether the event that has not yet occurred is too remote or speculative (Confederation Treasury Services Ltd. (Bankrupt), Re (1997), 96 O.A.C. 75). In the context of an environmental order, this means that there must be sufficient indications that the regulatory body that triggered the enforcement mechanism will ultimately perform remediation work and assert a monetary claim to have its costs reimbursed. If there is sufficient certainty in this regard, the court will conclude that the order can be subjected to the insolvency process.

[37] The exercise by the CCAA court of its jurisdiction to determine whether an order is a provable claim entails a certain scrutiny of the regulatory body's actions. This scrutiny is in some ways similar to judicial review. There is a distinction, however, and it lies in the object of the assessment that the CCAA court must make. The CCAA court does not review the regulatory body's exercise of discretion. Rather, it inquires into whether the facts indicate that the conditions for inclusion in the claims process are met. For example, if activities at issue are ongoing, the CCAA court may well conclude that the order cannot be included in the insolvency process because the activities and resulting damages will continue after the reorganization is completed and hence exceed the time limit for a claim. If, on the other hand, the regulatory body, having no realistic alternative but to perform the remediation work itself, simply delays framing the order as a claim in order to improve its position in relation to other creditors, the CCAA court may conclude le contexte d'une proposition concordataire présentée par une société ou d'une réorganisation. Dans ces cas, l'objectif que sous-tend une interprétation large est non seulement de garantir l'équité entre créanciers, mais aussi de permettre au débiteur de prendre un nouveau départ dans les meilleures conditions possibles à la suite de l'approbation d'une proposition ou d'un arrangement.

[37] Lorsqu'il détermine si une ordonnance constitue une réclamation prouvable, le tribunal chargé de l'application de la LACC doit, dans une certaine mesure, examiner les actes posés par l'organisme administratif. Cet examen se rapproche à certains égards de celui d'un contrôle judiciaire. La différence se situe, toutefois, au niveau de l'objet de l'évaluation que doit faire le tribunal. Son examen ne porte pas sur l'exercice du pouvoir discrétionnaire par l'organisme administratif. Il doit plutôt déterminer si le contexte factuel indique que les conditions requises pour que l'ordonnance soit incluse dans le processus de réclamations sont respectées. Par exemple, si le débiteur continue d'exercer les activités faisant l'objet de l'intervention de l'organisme administratif, il est fort possible que le tribunal conclue que l'ordonnance ne peut être incorporée au processus d'insolvabilité parce que ces activités et les dommages en découlant se poursuivront après la réorganisation et qu'elles excéderont donc le délai prescrit pour la production d'une that this course of action is inconsistent with the insolvency scheme and decide that the order has to be subject to the claims process. Similarly, if the property is not under the debtor's control and the debtor does not, and realistically will not, have the means to perform the remediation work, the CCAA court may conclude that it is sufficiently certain that the regulatory body will have to perform the work.

[38] Certain indicators can thus be identified from the text and the context of the provisions to guide the CCAA court in determining whether an order is a provable claim, including whether the activities are ongoing, whether the debtor is in control of the property, and whether the debtor has the means to comply with the order. The CCAA court may also consider the effect that requiring the debtor to comply with the order would have on the insolvency process. Since the appropriate analysis is grounded in the facts of each case, these indicators need not all apply, and others may also be relevant.

[39] Having highlighted three requirements for finding a claim to be provable in a CCAA process that need to be considered in the case at bar, I must now discuss certain policy arguments raised by the Province and some of the interveners.

[40] These parties argue that treating a regulatory order as a claim in an insolvency proceeding extinguishes the debtor's environmental obligations, thereby undermining the polluter-pay principle discussed by this Court in Imperial Oil Ltd. v. Quebec (Minister of the Environment), 2003 SCC 58, [2003] 2 S.C.R. 624, at para. 24. This objection réclamation. Par contre, si l'organisme administratif, n'ayant aucune solution réaliste autre que celle d'effectuer lui-même les travaux de décontamination, ne fait que retarder la production d'une réclamation pécuniaire dans le but d'améliorer sa position par rapport à celle des autres créanciers, le tribunal pourrait conclure que cette démarche n'est pas compatible avec le régime d'insolvabilité et décider que l'ordonnance doit être traitée dans le cadre du processus de réclamations. De même, si le débiteur n'exerce aucun contrôle sur le bien et ne dispose pas, ni ne disposera, de façon réaliste, des moyens pour effectuer les travaux de décontamination, le tribunal pourrait conclure de façon suffisamment certaine que l'organisme administratif devra exécuter les travaux.

[38] Il est ainsi possible de discerner, grâce au libellé des dispositions et à leur contexte, certains indicateurs qui permettent de guider le tribunal au moment de déterminer si l'ordonnance constitue une réclamation prouvable, notamment si les activités se poursuivent, si le débiteur exerce un contrôle sur le bien et s'il dispose des moyens de se conformer à l'ordonnance. Il est également possible pour le tribunal de prendre en compte les conséquences qu'entraînerait sur le processus d'insolvabilité le fait d'exiger du débiteur qu'il se conforme à l'ordonnance. Puisque l'analyse qu'il convient de réaliser est fondée sur les faits propres à chaque cas, il n'est pas nécessaire que tous ces indicateurs soient présents, et d'autres peuvent également devenir pertinents.

[39] Après avoir souligné les trois conditions qui permettent en l'espèce de conclure qu'une ordonnance constitue une réclamation prouvable dans le cadre d'un processus régi par la LACC, il me faut examiner certains arguments de principe que la province et certains intervenants ont fait valoir.

demonstrates a misunderstanding of the nature of insolvency proceedings. Subjecting an order to the claims process does not extinguish the debtor's environmental obligations any more than subjecting any creditor's claim to that process extinguishes the debtor's obligation to pay its debts. It merely ensures that the creditor's claim will be paid in accordance with insolvency legislation. Moreover, full compliance with orders that are found to be monetary in nature would shift the costs of remediation to third-party creditors, including involuntary creditors, such as those whose claims lie in tort or in the law of extra-contractual liability. In the insolvency context, the Province's position would result not only in a super-priority, but in the acceptance of a "third-party-pay" principle in place of the polluter-pay principle.

[41] Nor does subjecting the orders to the insolvency process amount to issuing a licence to pollute, since insolvency proceedings do not concern the debtor's future conduct. A debtor that is reorganized must comply with all environmental regulations going forward in the same way as any other person. To quote the colourful analogy of two American scholars, "Debtors in bankruptcy have — and should have — no greater license to pollute in violation of a statute than they have to sell cocaine in violation of a statute" (D. G. Baird and T. H. Jackson, "Comment: Kovacs and Toxic Wastes in Bankruptcy" (1984), 36 Stan. L. Rev. 1199, at p. 1200).

[42] Furthermore, corporations may engage in activities that carry risks. No matter what risks are at issue, reorganization made necessary by insolvency is hardly ever a deliberate choice. When the risks materialize, the dire costs are borne by almost all stakeholders. To subject orders to the claims process is not to invite corporations to restructure Itée c. Québec (Ministre de l'Environnement), 2003 CSC 58, [2003] 2 R.C.S. 624, par. 24. Cet argument démontre une mauvaise compréhension de la nature des procédures en matière d'insolvabilité. Le fait d'assujettir une ordonnance au processus de réclamations n'éteint pas les obligations environnementales qui incombent au débiteur, pas plus que le fait de soumettre à ce processus les réclamations des créanciers n'éteint l'obligation du débiteur de payer ses dettes. Le fait d'assujettir une ordonnance au processus de réclamation vise simplement à faire en sorte que le paiement au créancier sera fait conformément aux dispositions législatives applicables en matière d'insolvabilité. De plus, le respect intégral des ordonnances dont la nature pécuniaire est reconnue transférerait le coût de la décontamination aux tiers créanciers, y compris aux créanciers involontaires, par exemple les créanciers en responsabilité délictuelle ou extra-contractuelle. Dans un contexte d'insolvabilité, la position de la province aurait comme résultat de lui accorder non seulement une super-priorité, mais aussi de reconnaître l'application d'un principe du « tiers-payeur » plutôt que celui du pollueur-payeur.

[41] Par ailleurs, l'assujettissement des ordonnances au processus d'insolvabilité n'autorise pas une personne à polluer, car la procédure en insolvabilité ne touche pas les actes que le débiteur posera dans le futur. Le débiteur réorganisé doit se conformer pour l'avenir à la réglementation environnementale, comme le ferait toute autre personne. Pour citer une analogie haute en couleurs de deux universitaires américains, [TRADUCTION] « [I]es débiteurs en faillite n'ont pas — et ne devraient pas avoir — une autorisation plus étendue de polluer en violation d'une loi qu'ils n'en ont de vendre de la cocaïne » (D. G. Baird et T. H. Jackson, « Comment : Kovacs and Toxic Wastes in Bankruptcy » (1984), 36 Stan. L. Rev. 1199, p. 1200).

[42] En outre, il arrive que des sociétés exercent des activités comportant des risques. Peu importe les risques en cause, une réorganisation rendue nécessaire par l'insolvabilité de la société peut difficilement être assimilée à un choix délibéré. Lorsque les risques se concrétisent, la quasi-totalité des personnes ayant des intérêts dans la société en in order to rid themselves of their environmental liabilities.

[43] And the power to determine whether an order is a provable claim does not mean that the court will necessarily conclude that the order before it will be subject to the CCAA process. In fact, the CCAA court in the case at bar recognized that orders relating to the environment may or may not be considered provable claims. It stayed only those orders that were monetary in nature.

[44] The Province also argues that courts have in the past held that environmental orders cannot be interpreted as claims when the regulatory body has not yet exercised its power to assert a claim framed in monetary terms. The Province relies in particular on Panamericana de Bienes y Servicios S.A. v. Northern Badger Oil & Gas Ltd. (1991), 81 Alta. L.R. (2d) 45 (C.A.), and its progeny. In Panamericana, the Alberta Court of Appeal held that a receiver was personally liable for work under a remediation order and that the order was not a claim in insolvency proceedings. The court found that the duty to undertake remediation work is owed to the public at large until the regulator exercises its power to assert a monetary claim.

[45] The first answer to the Province's argument is that courts have never shied away from putting substance ahead of form. They can determine whether the order is in substance monetary.

[46] The second answer is that the provisions relating to the assessment of claims, particularly those governing contingent claims, contemplate instances in which the quantum is not yet established when the claims are filed. Whether, in the supportent les terribles coûts. L'assujettissement des ordonnances à la procédure de réclamations n'équivaut pas à convier les sociétés à se réorganiser dans le but d'échapper à leurs obligations environnementales.

[44] La province plaide aussi que selon la jurisprudence, les ordonnances environnementales ne peuvent pas être assimilées à des réclamations lorsque l'organisme administratif n'a pas encore exercé son pouvoir de faire valoir une réclamation formulée en termes pécuniaires. La province s'appuie particulièrement sur l'arrêt Panamericana de Bienes y Servicios S.A. c. Northern Badger Oil & Gas Ltd. (1991), 81 Alta. L.R. (2d) 45 (C.A.), et les jugements rendus dans sa foulée. Dans l'arrêt Panamericana, la Cour d'appel de l'Alberta a tenu le séquestre personnellement responsable de l'exécution des travaux ordonnés et a statué que l'ordonnance ne constituait pas une réclamation visée par les procédures en insolvabilité. La cour a conclu que l'obligation d'entreprendre les travaux de décontamination est due au public en général jusqu'à ce que l'organisme administratif exerce son pouvoir de faire valoir une réclamation pécuniaire.

[45] La première réponse à cet argument de la province est que les tribunaux n'ont jamais hésité à privilégier le fond à la forme. Les tribunaux peuvent déterminer si, en substance, l'ordonnance est de nature pécuniaire.

regulatory context, an obligation always entails the existence of a correlative right has been discussed by a number of scholars. Various theories of rights have been put forward (see W. N. Hohfeld, Fundamental Legal Conceptions as Applied in Judicial Reasoning (new ed. 2001); D. N. MacCormick, “Rights in Legislation”, in P. M. S. Hacker and J. Raz, eds., Law, Morality, and Society: Essays in Honour of H. L. A. Hart (1977), 189). However, because the Province issued the orders in this case, it would be recognized as a creditor in respect of a right no matter which of these theories was applied. As interesting as the discussion may be, therefore, I do not need to consider which theory should prevail. The real question is not to whom the obligation is owed, as this question is answered by the statute, which determines who can require that it be discharged. Rather, the question is whether it is sufficiently certain that the regulatory body will perform the remediation work and, as a result, have a monetary claim.

[47] The third answer to the Province’s argument is that insolvency legislation has evolved considerably over the two decades since Panamericana. At the time of Panamericana, none of the provisions relating to environmental liabilities were in force. Indeed, some of those provisions were enacted very soon after, and seemingly in response to, that case. In 1992, Parliament shielded trustees from the very liability imposed on the receiver in Panamericana (An Act to amend the Bankruptcy Act and to amend the Income Tax Act in consequence thereof, S.C. 1992, c. 27, s. 9, amending s. 14 of the BIA). The 1997 amendments provided additional protection to trustees and monitors (An Act to amend the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act and the Income Tax Act, S.C. 1997, c. 12). The 2007 amendments made it clear that a CCAA court has the power to determine that a regulatory order may be a claim and also provided criteria for staying regulatory orders (s. 65, amending the CCAA to include the current version of s. 11.1). The purpose of these amendments was to balance the creditor’s certain nombre d’auteurs ont examiné la question de savoir si, dans un contexte réglementaire, l’existence d’une obligation implique toujours en corrélation celle d’un droit. Diverses théories relatives aux droits ont été avancées (voir W. N. Hohfeld, Fundamental Legal Conceptions as Applied in Judicial Reasoning (nouvelle éd. 2001); D. N. MacCormick, « Rights in Legislation », dans P. M. S. Hacker et J. Raz, dir., Law, Morality, and Society : Essays in Honour of H. L. A. Hart (1977), 189). Toutefois, comme en l’espèce la province a prononcé les ordonnances, elle serait reconnue comme créancière d’un droit en vertu de l’une ou l’autre de ces théories. Par conséquent, malgré l’intérêt que peut susciter ce débat, il n’est pas nécessaire de déterminer la théorie qui prévaut. La véritable question n’est pas de savoir à qui est due l’obligation, puisque la loi y répond en indiquant qui peut en exiger l’exécution. La question est plutôt de savoir s’il est suffisamment certain que l’organisme administratif effectuera les travaux de décontamination et pourra ainsi faire valoir une réclamation pécuniaire.

[47] La troisième réponse à l’argument soulevé par la province est que la législation en matière d’insolvabilité a considérablement évolué au cours des deux décennies écoulées depuis l’arrêt Panamericana. À l’époque où l’arrêt Panamericana a été prononcé, aucune des dispositions concernant les obligations liées à l’environnement n’était en vigueur. Certaines des dispositions ont été adoptées très peu de temps après cette décision et, semble-t-il, en réponse à celle-ci. En 1992, le législateur a permis aux syndic d’échapper à la responsabilité même que l’arrêt Panamericana avait retenue contre le séquestre (Loi modifiant la Loi sur la faillite et la Loi de l’impôt sur le revenu en conséquence, L.C. 1992, ch. 27, art. 9, modifiant l’art. 14 de la LFI). Une protection additionnelle a été accordée au syndic et au contrôleur avec les modifications adoptées en 1997 (Loi modifiant la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité, la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies et la Loi de l’impôt sur le revenu, L.C. 1997, ch. 12). Les modifications apportées en 2007 ont précisé que le tribunal chargé d’appliquer la LACC a need for fairness against the debtor's need to make a fresh start.

[48] Whether the regulatory body has a contingent claim is a determination that must be grounded in the facts of each case. Generally, a regulatory body has discretion under environmental legislation to decide how best to ensure that regulatory obligations are met. Although the court should take care to avoid interfering with that discretion, the action of a regulatory body is nevertheless subject to scrutiny in insolvency proceedings.

V. Application

[49] I now turn to the application of the principles discussed above to the case at bar. This case does not turn on whether the Province is the creditor of an obligation or whether damage had occurred as of the relevant date. Those requirements are easily satisfied, since the Province had identified itself as a creditor by resorting to EPA enforcement mechanisms and since the damage had occurred before the time of the CCAA proceedings. Rather, the issue centres on the third requirement: that the orders meet the criterion for admission as a pecuniary claim. The claim was contingent to the extent that the Province had not yet formally exercised its power to ask for the payment of money. The question is whether it was sufficiently certain that the orders would eventually result in a monetary claim. To the CCAA judge, there was no doubt that the answer was yes.

le pouvoir de décider qu'une ordonnance d'un organisme administratif peut constituer une réclamation; ces modifications ont de plus établi des critères applicables à la suspension de ces ordonnances (art. 65, modifiant la LACC par l'ajout de l'art. 11.1). Ces modifications visaient à établir un équilibre entre le besoin de traiter les créanciers de façon équitable et celui de permettre au débiteur de prendre un nouveau départ.

V. Application

[49] J'aborde maintenant l'application des principes énoncés ci-dessus à l'affaire dont notre Cour est saisie. En l'espèce, le débat n'est pas centré sur la question de savoir si la province est créancière d'une obligation ou si des dommages étaient survenus à la date pertinente. Il est facile de répondre à ces questions étant donné que la province s'est elle-même présentée comme créancière en ayant recours aux mécanismes d'application de l'EPA et que les dommages sont survenus avant que les procédures en vertu de la LACC ne soient entamées. Le débat porte plutôt sur la troisième condition, celle qui consiste à savoir si les ordonnances satisfont au critère d'admissibilité à titre de réclamation pécuniaire. La réclamation était éventuelle dans la mesure où la province n'avait pas formellement exercé son pouvoir de demander paiement d'une somme d'argent. La question est de savoir s'il était suffisamment certain que l'ordonnance mènerait éventuellement à la production d'une réclamation pécuniaire. Pour le juge de première instance, une réponse affirmative ne faisait pas de doute.

[50] The Province's exercise of its legislative powers in enacting the Abitibi Act created a unique set of facts that led to the orders being issued. The seizure of Abitibi's assets by the Province, the cancellation of all outstanding water and hydroelectric contracts between Abitibi and the Province, the cancellation of pending legal proceedings by Abitibi in which it sought the reimbursement of several hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the denial of any compensation for the seized assets and of legal redress are inescapable background facts in the judge's review of the EPA Orders.

[51] The CCAA judge did not elaborate on whether it was sufficiently certain that the Minister would perform the remediation work and therefore make a monetary claim. However, most of his findings clearly rest on a positive answer to this question. For example, his finding that "[i]n all likelihood, the pith and substance of the EPA Orders is an attempt by the Province to lay the groundwork for monetary claims against Abitibi, to be used most probably as an offset in connection with Abitibi's own NAFTA claims for compensation" (para. 178), is necessarily based on the premise that the Province would most likely perform the remediation work. Indeed, since monetary claims must, both at common law and in civil law, be mutual for set-off or compensation to operate, the Province had to have incurred costs in doing the work in order to have a claim that could be set off against Abitibi's claims.

[52] That the judge relied on an implicit finding that the Province would most likely perform the work and make a claim to offset its costs is also shown by the confirmation he found in the declaration by the Premier that the Province was attempting to assess the cost of doing remediation work Abitibi had allegedly left undone and that in the Province's assessment, "at this point in time, there would not be a net payment to Abitibi” (para. 181).

[51] Le juge de première instance n'a pas fait une analyse distincte du critère suivant lequel le tribunal doit être suffisamment certain que le ministre exécuterait les travaux de décontamination et ferait, par conséquent, valoir une réclamation pécuniaire. Cependant, la plupart de ses conclusions reposent manifestement sur un constat positif à cet égard. Par exemple, le constat que [TRADUCTION] « [s]elon toute vraisemblance, le caractère véritable des ordonnances EPA [consiste] pour la province à tenter de jeter les bases de réclamations pécuniaires contre Abitibi, dans le but de les utiliser tout probablement à titre compensatoire au regard des demandes d'indemnisation d'Abitibi fondées sur l'ALÉNA » (par. 178) repose nécessairement sur la prémisse que la province allait fort probablement exécuter les travaux de décontamination. En effet, puisque les réclamations pécuniaires, en common law comme en droit civil, doivent être réciproques pour opérer compensation, la province devait avoir engagé des dépenses en exécutant des travaux, ce qui établissait la base de la réclamation qu'elle ferait valoir pour compenser celle d'Abitibi.

[53] The CCA judge’s reasons not only rest on an implicit finding that the Province would most likely perform the work, but refer explicitly to facts that support this finding. To reach his conclusion that the EPA Orders were monetary in nature, the CCA judge relied on the fact that Abitibi’s operations were funded through debtor-in-possession financing and its access to funds was limited to ongoing operations. Given that the EPA Orders targeted sites that were, for the most part, no longer in Abitibi’s possession, this meant that Abitibi had no means to perform the remediation work during the reorganization process.

[54] In addition, because Abitibi lacked funds and no longer controlled the properties, the timetable set by the Province in the EPA Orders suggested that the Province never truly intended that Abitibi was to perform the remediation work required by the orders. The timetable was also unrealistic. For example, the orders were issued on November 12, 2009 and set a deadline of January 15, 2010 to perform a particular act, but the evidence revealed that compliance with this requirement would have taken close to a year.

[55] Furthermore, the judge relied on the fact that Abitibi was not simply designated a “person responsible” under the EPA, but was intentionally targeted by the Province. The finding that the Province had targeted Abitibi was drawn not only from the timing of the EPA Orders, but also from the fact that Abitibi was the only person designated in them, whereas others also appeared to be responsible — in some cases, primarily responsible — for the contamination. For example, Abitibi was ordered to do remediation work on a site it had surrendered more than 50 years before the orders were issued; the expert report upon which the orders were based made no distinction between Abitibi’s activities on the property, on which its source of power had been horse power, and subsequent activities by others who had used fuel-powered vehicles pas exécutés, et que selon l’estimation de la province, [TRADUCTION] « à l’heure actuelle, aucun paiement net ne serait versé à Abitibi » (par. 181).

[55] En outre, le juge s’est appuyé sur le fait qu’Abitibi n’était pas simplement désignée comme [TRADUCTION] « personne responsable » aux termes de l’EPA, mais qu’elle était intentionnellement visée par la province. Il a fait cette constatation non seulement en raison du choix du moment où les ordonnances ont été prononcées, mais aussi parce qu’Abitibi y était la seule personne désignée alors que d’autres semblaient également responsables — et en certains cas, principalement responsables — de la contamination. Par exemple, la province a ordonné à Abitibi d’effectuer des travaux de décontamination d’un site qu’elle avait abandonné plus de 50 ans avant le prononcé des ordonnances alors que le rapport d’expert sur lequel les ordonnances étaient fondées ne distinguait aucunement les activités d’Abitibi, qui avait utilisé des chevaux, there. In the judge's opinion, this finding of fact went to the Province's intent to establish a basis for performing the work itself and asserting a claim against Abitibi.

[56] These reasons — and others — led the CCAA judge to conclude that the Province had not expected Abitibi to perform the remediation work and that the “intended, practical and realistic effect of the EPA Orders was to establish a basis for the Province to recover amounts of money to be eventually used for the remediation of the properties in question” (para. 211). He found that the Province appeared to have in fact taken some steps to liquidate the claims arising out of the EPA Orders.

[57] In the end, the judge found that there was definitely a claim that “might” be filed, and that it was not left to “the subjective choice of the creditor to hold the claim in its pocket for tactical reasons” (para. 227). In his words, the situation did not involve a “detached regulator or public enforcer issuing [an] order for the public good” (para. 175), and it was “the hat of a creditor that best fit[ed] the Province, not that of a disinterested regulator” (para. 176).

[58] In sum, although the analytical framework used by Gascon J. was driven by the facts of the case, he reviewed all the legal principles and facts that needed to be considered in order to make the determination in the case at bar. He did at times rely on indicators that are unique and that do not appear in the analytical framework I propose above, but he did so because of the exceptional facts of this case. Yet, had he formulated the question in the same way as I have, his conclusion, based on his objective findings of fact, would have been the same. Earmarking money may be a strong indicator that a province will perform remediation work, and actually commencing the work is the first step towards the creation of a debt, but these are not the et les activités subséquentes d'autres personnes qui y avaient utilisé des véhicules alimentés au mazout. Ce fait, pour le juge, illustre l'intention de la province d'établir un fondement pour exécuter elle-même les travaux et présenter une réclamation contre Abitibi.

[57] En fin de compte, le juge a conclu qu'il existait véritablement une réclamation qui « pourrait » être présentée, et qu'on ne pouvait laisser au bon vouloir du créancier [TRADUCTION] « le choix subjectif de la garder en réserve pour des raisons tactiques » (par. 227). Pour reprendre ses propres mots, il ne s'agissait pas d'un cas où « un organisme de réglementation ou d'application de la loi a émis de manière objective une ordonnance dans l'intérêt public » (par. 175), mais que « la province a agi plus comme un créancier que comme un organisme administratif désintéressé » (par. 176).

[58] En somme, bien que le cadre analytique utilisé par le juge Gascon a été dicté par les faits de l'affaire, il a examiné tous les principes juridiques et les faits qu'il était tenu de prendre en compte pour statuer sur la question qui se posait. À l'occasion, il s'est appuyé sur des indicateurs singuliers qui ne figurent pas dans le cadre analytique que j'ai déjà proposé, mais cela s'explique par les faits exceptionnels en l'espèce. Or, s'il avait formulé la question comme je l'ai posée, sa conclusion, appuyée sur ses constatations de fait objectives, aurait été la même. Le fait de prévoir un budget peut constituer un indicateur clair qu'une province exécutera des travaux de décontamination, et le fait que ces travaux soient entrepris constitue la première étape de only considerations that can lead to a finding that a creditor has a monetary claim. The CCAA judge's assessment of the facts, particularly his finding that the EPA Orders were the first step towards performance of the remediation work by the Province, leads to no conclusion other than that it was sufficiently certain that the Province would perform remediation work and therefore fall within the definition of a creditor with a monetary claim.

VI. Conclusion

[59] In sum, I agree with the Chief Justice that, as a general proposition, an environmental order issued by a regulatory body can be treated as a contingent claim, and that such a claim can be included in the claims process if it is sufficiently certain that the regulatory body will make a monetary claim against the debtor. Our difference of views lies mainly in the applicable threshold for including contingent claims and in our understanding of the CCAA judge's findings of fact.

[60] With respect to the law, the Chief Justice would craft a standard specific to the context of environmental orders by requiring a "likelihood approaching certainty" that the regulatory body will perform the remediation work. She finds that this threshold is justified because "remediation may cost a great deal of money" (para. 86). I acknowledge that remediating pollution is often costly, but I am of the view that Parliament has borne this consideration in mind in enacting provisions specific to environmental claims. Moreover, I recall that in this case, the Premier announced that the remediation work would be performed at no net cost to the Province. It was clear to him that the Abitibi Act would make it possible to offset all the related costs.

la constitution d'une dette, mais ces considérations ne sont pas les seules qui permettent de conclure qu'un créancier fait valoir une réclamation pécuniaire. L'appréciation des faits par le juge de première instance, plus particulièrement sa constatation que les ordonnances constituaient la première étape en vue de la décontamination des sites, ne permet de tirer aucune conclusion autre que celle suivant laquelle il était suffisamment certain que la province exécuterait des travaux de décontamination et qu'elle était par conséquent visée par la définition d'un créancier ayant une réclamation pécuniaire.

VI. Conclusion

[59] En somme, je suis d'accord avec la Juge en chef pour dire qu'en règle générale, une ordonnance environnementale d'un organisme administratif peut être traitée comme une réclamation éventuelle et qu'une telle réclamation peut être incluse au processus de réclamation s'il est suffisamment certain que l'organisme administratif fera valoir une réclamation pécuniaire contre le débiteur. Nos divergences de vues portent principalement sur le critère applicable pour que les réclamations éventuelles soient incluses et sur la façon dont nous interprétons les constatations de fait tirées par le juge de première instance.

[60] En ce qui concerne le droit, la Juge en chef établirait une norme propre au contexte des ordonnances environnementales qui exigerait une « probabilité proche de la certitude » que l'organisme administratif réalisera les travaux de restauration. Elle estime que ce critère s'impose parce que « les travaux de restauration peuvent être très coûteux » (par. 86). Je reconnais que les travaux de décontamination sont souvent coûteux, mais je crois que cette considération a été prise en compte par le législateur fédéral lors de l'adoption des dispositions particulières visant les réclamations en matière environnementale. De plus, je rappelle qu'en l'instance, le premier ministre a annoncé que les travaux de décontamination seraient réalisés sans coût net pour la province. Il était évident pour lui que l'adoption de l'Abitibi Act permettrait de compenser tous les coûts afférents.

[61] Thus, I prefer to take the approach generally taken for all contingent claims. In my view, the CCAA court is entitled to take all relevant facts into consideration in making the relevant determination. Under this approach, the contingency to be assessed in a case such as this is whether it is sufficiently certain that the regulatory body will perform remediation work and be in a position to assert a monetary claim.

[62] Finally, the Chief Justice would review the CCAA court's findings of fact. I would instead defer to them. On those findings, applying any legal standard, be it the one proposed by the Chief Justice or the one I propose, the Province's claim is monetary in nature and its motion for a declaration exempting the EPA Orders from the claims procedure order was properly dismissed.

[63] For these reasons, I would dismiss the appeal with costs.

The following are the reasons delivered by

THE CHIEF JUSTICE (dissenting) —

1. Overview

[64] The issue in this case is whether orders made under the Environmental Protection Act, S.N.L. 2002, c. E-14.2 (“EPA”), by the Newfoundland and Labrador Minister of Environment and Conservation (“Minister”) requiring a polluter to clean up sites (the “EPA Orders”) are monetary claims that can be compromised in corporate restructuring under the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (“CCAA”). If they are not claims that can be compromised in restructuring, the Abitibi respondents (“Abitibi”) will still have a legal obligation to clean up the sites following their emergence from restructuring. If they are such claims, Abitibi will have emerged from restructuring free of the obligation, able to recommence business without remediating the [61] Par conséquent, je préfère retenir la méthode généralement suivie en matière de réclamations éventuelles. À mon avis, le tribunal chargé de l’application de la LACC peut prendre en compte l’ensemble des faits pertinents en vue de rendre la décision appropriée. Suivant cette approche, l’éventualité qu’il faut évaluer dans une affaire comme celle-ci est de savoir s’il est suffisamment certain que l’organisme administratif exécutera les travaux de décontamination et sera en mesure de faire valoir une réclamation pécuniaire.

[62] Enfin, la Juge en chef réviserait les conclusions de fait du juge de première instance. Pour ma part, je m’en remets à ces conclusions. Quelle que soit la norme juridique appliquée, soit celle proposée par la Juge en chef ou celle que je propose, au vu de ces conclusions, la réclamation de la province est de nature pécuniaire et sa requête demandant de déclarer que les ordonnances EPA n’étaient pas assujetties à l’ordonnance relative à la procédure de réclamations a été à juste titre rejetée.

properties it polluted, the cost of which will fall on the Newfoundland and Labrador public.

[65] Remediation orders made under a province's environmental protection legislation impose ongoing regulatory obligations on the corporation required to clean up the pollution. They are not monetary claims. In narrow circumstances, specified by the CCAA, these ongoing regulatory obligations may be reduced to monetary claims, which can be compromised under CCAA proceedings. This occurs where a province has done the work, or where it is "sufficiently certain" that it will do the work. In these circumstances, the regulatory obligation would be extinguished and the province would have a monetary claim for the cost of remediation in the CCAA proceedings. Otherwise, the regulatory obligation survives the restructuring.

[66] In my view, the orders for remediation in this case, with a minor exception, are not claims that can be compromised in restructuring. On one of the properties, the Minister did emergency remedial work and put other work out to tender. These costs can be claimed in the CCAA proceedings. However, with respect to the other properties, on the evidence before us, the Minister has neither done the clean-up work, nor is it sufficiently certain that he or she will do so. The Province of Newfoundland and Labrador ("Province") retained a number of options, including requiring Abitibi to perform the remediation if it successfully emerged from the CCAA restructuring.

restructuration sera terminée. Dans le cas contraire, Abitibi sera déchargée de cette obligation; elle pourra reprendre ses activités à l'issue de la restructuration sans avoir à décontaminer les sites qu'elle a pollués et la population de Terre-Neuve-et-Labrador devra supporter le coût de la décontamination.

[66] À mon avis, les ordonnances exigeant la décontamination en l'espèce, à une exception près, ne constituent pas des réclamations pouvant faire l'objet de transactions dans le cadre d'une restructuration. Dans un des sites, la ministre de l'époque a effectué d'urgence la décontamination et a lancé un appel d'offres pour d'autres travaux. Le coût de ces travaux peut faire l'objet d'une réclamation dans les procédures engagées sous le régime de la LACC. Toutefois, en ce qui concerne les autres sites, selon les éléments de preuve dont nous disposons, le ministre en poste n'a pas effectué les travaux de décontamination et il n'est pas suffisamment certain qu'il le fera. La province de Terre-Neuve-et-Labrador (« province ») a conservé un certain nombre de solutions, dont celle d'obliger Abitibi à décontaminer les sites si elle réussit sa restructuration engagée sous le régime de la LACC.

[67] I would therefore allow the appeal and grant the Province the declaration it seeks that Abitibi is still subject to its obligations under the EPA following its emergence from restructuring, except for work done or tendered for on the Buchans site.

2. The Proceedings Below

[68] The CCAA judge took the view that the Province issued the EPA Orders, not in order to make Abitibi remediate, but as part of a money grab. He therefore concluded that the orders were monetary and financial in nature and should be considered claims that could be compromised under the CCAA (2010 QCCS 1261, 68 C.B.R. (5th) 1). The Quebec Court of Appeal denied leave to appeal on the ground that this “factual” conclusion could not be disturbed (2010 QCCA 965, 68 C.B.R. (5th) 57).

[69] The CCAA judge’s stark view that an EPA obligation can be considered a monetary claim capable of being compromised simply because (as he saw it) the Province’s motive was money, is no longer pressed. Whether an EPA order is a claim under the CCAA depends on whether it meets the requirements for a claim under that statute. That is the only issue to be resolved. Insofar as this determination touches on the division of powers, I am in substantial agreement with my colleague Deschamps J., at paras. 18-19.

3. The Distinction Between Regulatory Obligations and Claims Under the CCAA

[70] Orders to clean up polluted property under provincial environmental protection legislation are regulatory orders. They remain in effect until the [67] Je suis par conséquent d’avis d’accueillir le pourvoi et d’accorder à la province le jugement déclaratoire sollicité portant qu’Abitibi reste assujettie à ses obligations en vertu de l’EPA au terme de cette période de restructuration, à l’exception des travaux sur le site de Buchans déjà exécutés ou à l’égard desquels des appels d’offres ont été lancés.

2. Les décisions des juridictions inférieures

[68] Le juge de première instance a adopté le point de vue selon lequel la province avait émis les ordonnances EPA, non pas pour obliger Abitibi à réparer les dommages causés, mais pour lui soustraire de l’argent. Il a donc conclu que les ordonnances étaient de nature pécuniaire et financière, et qu’elles devraient être considérées comme des réclamations pouvant faire l’objet de transactions sous le régime de la LACC (2010 QCCS 1261, 68 C.B.R. (5th) 1). La Cour d’appel du Québec a refusé l’autorisation d’interjeter appel de cette décision au motif que rien ne permettait de modifier cette conclusion « de fait » (2010 QCCA 965, 68 C.B.R. (5th) 57).

[69] Le point de vue peu nuancé du juge de première instance, selon lequel une obligation découlant de l’EPA peut être considérée comme une réclamation pécuniaire susceptible de faire l’objet d’une transaction du simple fait (à son avis) que la province n’était motivée que par l’argent, n’est plus en cause. Pour répondre à la question de savoir si une ordonnance émise sous le régime de l’EPA constitue une réclamation au sens de la LACC, il faut déterminer si elle satisfait aux conditions d’existence d’une réclamation établies par cette loi. Il s’agit de la seule question à trancher. Dans la mesure où la décision sur ce point touche le partage des pouvoirs, je souscris pour l’essentiel à l’opinion exprimée par ma collègue la juge Deschamps aux par. 18-19.

3. La distinction entre une exigence réglementaire et une réclamation au titre de la LACC

property has been cleaned up or the matter otherwise resolved.

[71] It is not unusual for corporations seeking to restructure under the CCAA to be subject to a variety of ongoing regulatory orders arising from statutory schemes governing matters like employment, energy conservation and the environment. The corporation remains subject to these obligations as it continues to carry on business during the restructuring period, and remains subject to them when it emerges from restructuring unless they have been compromised or liquidated.

[72] The CCAA, like the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-3 (“BIA”), draws a fundamental distinction between ongoing regulatory obligations owed to the public, which generally survive the restructuring, and monetary claims that can be compromised.

[73] This distinction is also recognized in the jurisprudence, which has held that regulatory duties owed to the public are not “claims” under the BIA, nor, by extension, under the CCAA. In Panamericana de Bienes y Servicios S.A. v. Northern Badger Oil & Gas Ltd. (1991), 81 Alta. L.R. (2d) 45, the Alberta Court of Appeal held that a receiver in bankruptcy must comply with an order from the Energy Resources Conservation Board to comply with well abandonment requirements. Writing for the court, Laycraft C.J.A. said the question was whether the Bankruptcy Act “requires that the assets in the estate of an insolvent well licensee should be distributed to creditors leaving behind the duties respecting environmental safety . . . as a charge to the public” (para. 29). He answered the question in the negative:

The duty is owed as a public duty by all the citizens of the community to their fellow citizens. When the de nature réglementaire. Elles demeurent en vigueur jusqu’à ce que le site ait été décontaminé ou que l’affaire soit réglée d’une autre façon.

[TRADUCTION] L’obligation est établie comme une obligation à caractère public qui doit être respectée par citizen subject to the order complies, the result is not the recovery of money by the peace officer or public authority, or of a judgment for money, nor is that the object of the whole process. Rather, it is simply the enforcement of the general law. The enforcing authority does not become a “creditor” of the citizen on whom the duty is imposed. [Emphasis added; para. 33.]

[74] The distinction between regulatory obligations under the general law aimed at the protection of the public and monetary claims that can be compromised in CCAA restructuring or bankruptcy is a fundamental plank of Canadian corporate law. It has been repeatedly acknowledged: Lamford Forest Products Ltd. (Re) (1991), 86 D.L.R. (4th) 534 (B.C.S.C.); Shirley (Re) (1995), 129 D.L.R. (4th) 105 (Ont. Ct. (Gen. Div.)), at p. 109; Husky Oil Operations Ltd. v. Minister of National Revenue, [1995] 3 S.C.R. 453, at para. 146, per Iacobucci J. (dissenting). As Farley J. succinctly put it in Air Canada, Re [Regulators’ motions] (2003), 28 C.B.R. (5th) 52 (Ont. S.C.J.), at para. 18: “Once [the company] emerges from these CCAA proceedings (successfully one would hope), then it will have to deal with each and every then unresolved [regulatory] matter.”

[75] Recent amendments to the CCAA confirm this distinction. Section 11.1(2) now explicitly provides that, except to the extent a regulator is enforcing a payment obligation, a general stay does not affect a regulatory body’s authority in relation to a corporation going through restructuring. The CCAA court may only stay specific actions or suits brought by a regulatory body, and only if such action is necessary for a viable compromise to be reached and it would not be contrary to the public interest to make such an order (s. 11.1(3)).

l’ensemble des citoyens de la collectivité à l’égard de leurs concitoyens. Lorsque le citoyen visé par l’ordonnance s’y conforme, le résultat n’est pas perçu comme le recouvrement d’une somme d’argent par un agent de la paix ou l’autorité publique, ni comme l’exécution d’un jugement ordonnant le paiement d’une somme d’argent; d’ailleurs, cela ne constitue pas non plus l’objectif de l’ensemble du processus. Il faut plutôt y voir l’application d’une loi générale. L’organisme d’application de la loi ne devient pas un « créancier » du citoyen à qui incombe l’obligation. [Je souligne; par. 33.]

[75] Des modifications apportées récemment à la LACC confirment cette distinction. Le paragraphe 11.1(2) prévoit maintenant expressément que, sauf dans la mesure où un organisme de réglementation fait respecter une obligation de paiement, une suspension générale ne porte aucunement atteinte aux pouvoirs de celui-ci à l’égard d’une société en restructuration. Le tribunal chargé d’appliquer la LACC ne peut ordonner une suspension qu’à l’égard de certaines actions ou poursuites intentées par un organisme administratif, et seulement si cette mesure est nécessaire à la conclusion d’une transaction viable et si une telle ordonnance ne serait pas contraire à l’intérêt public (par. 11.1(3)).

[76] Abitibi argues that another amendment to the CCAA, s. 11.8(9), treats ongoing regulatory duties owed to the public as claims, and erases the distinction between the two types of obligation: see General Chemical Canada Ltd., Re, 2007 ONCA 600, 228 O.A.C. 385, per Goudge J.A., relying on s. 14.06(8) of the BIA (the equivalent of s. 11.8(9) of the CCAA). With respect, this reads too much into the provision. Section 11.8(9) of the CCAA refers only to the situation where a government has performed remediation, and provides that the costs of the remediation become a claim in the restructuring process even where the environmental damage arose after CCAA proceedings have begun. As stated in Strathcona (County) v. PriceWaterhouseCoopers Inc., 2005 ABQB 559, 47 Alta. L.R. (4th) 138, per Burrows J., the section “does not convert a statutorily imposed obligation owed to the public at large into a liability owed to the public body charged with enforcing it” (para. 42).

4. When Does a Regulatory Obligation Become a Claim Under the CCAA?

[77] This brings us to the heart of the question before us: When does a regulatory obligation imposed on a corporation under environmental protection legislation become a “claim” provable and compromisable under the CCAA?

[78] Regulatory obligations are, as a general proposition, not compromisable claims. Only financial or monetary claims provable by a “creditor” fall within the definition of “claim” under the CCAA. A “creditor” is defined as “a person having a claim”: s. 2, BIA. Thus, the identification of a “creditor” hangs on the existence of a “claim”. Section 12(1) of the CCAA defines “claim” as “any indebtedness, liability or obligation . . . that . . . would be a debt provable in bankruptcy”, which is [76] Abitibi plaide qu’en vertu d’une autre modification apportée à la LACC, le par. 11.8(9), les exigences réglementaires continues établies en faveur du public sont considérées comme des réclamations, et que cette modification élimine la distinction entre les deux types d’obligations : voir General Chemical Canada Ltd., Re, 2007 ONCA 600, 228 O.A.C. 385, le juge Goudge, citant le par. 14.06(8) de la LFI (la disposition équivalente au par. 11.8(9) de la LACC). Avec égards, cette interprétation de la disposition est trop large. Le paragraphe 11.8(9) de la LACC vise uniquement la situation où un gouvernement a exécuté des travaux de réparation du dommage, et prévoit que les frais de réparation constituent une réclamation dans le cadre du processus de restructuration, même si les dommages ont été causés à l’environnement après l’introduction des procédures au titre de la LACC. Comme l’a déclaré le juge Burrows dans Strathcona (County) c. PriceWaterhouseCoopers Inc., 2005 ABQB 559, 47 Alta. L.R. (4th) 138, la disposition [TRADUCTION] « ne convertit pas une exigence imposée par la loi et établie en faveur du public en général en une dette envers l’organisme public chargé d’appliquer la loi » (par. 42).

4. Quand une exigence réglementaire devient-elle une réclamation au titre de la LACC?

[78] En règle générale, les exigences réglementaires ne sont pas des réclamations pouvant faire l’objet d’une transaction. Seules les réclamations financières ou pécuniaires prouvables par un « créancier » correspondent à la définition de « réclamation » au sens de la LACC. Un « créancier » est défini comme étant une « [p]ersonne ayant une réclamation » : art. 2, LFI. Ainsi, l’identification d’un « créancier » repose sur l’existence d’une « réclamation ». Le paragraphe 12(1) de la LACC définit une « réclamation » accepted as confined to obligations of a financial or monetary nature.

[79] The CCAA does not depart from the proposition that a claim must be financial or monetary. However, it contains a scheme to deal with disputes over whether an obligation is a monetary obligation as opposed to some other kind of obligation.

[80] Such a dispute may arise with respect to environmental obligations of the corporation. The CCAA recognizes three situations that may arise when a corporation enters restructuring.

[81] The first situation is where the remedial work has not been done (and there is no “sufficient certainty” that the work will be done, unlike the third situation described below). In this situation, the government cannot claim the cost of remediation: see s. 102(3) of the EPA. The obligation of compliance falls in principle on the monitor who takes over the corporation’s assets and operations. If the monitor remediates the property, he can claim the costs as costs of administration. If he does not wish to do so, he may obtain a court order staying the remediation obligation or abandon the property: s. 11.8(5) CCAA (in which case costs of remediation shall not rank as costs of administration: s. 11.8(7)). In this situation, the obligation cannot be compromised.

[82] The second situation is where the government that has issued the environmental protection order moves to clean up the pollution, as the legislation entitles it to do. In this situation, the government has a claim for the cost of remediation that is compromisable in the CCAA proceedings. This is because the government, by moving to clean up the pollution, has changed the outstanding regulatory comme étant « toute dette, tout engagement ou toute obligation [. . .] qui [. . .] constituerait une dette prouvable en matière de faillite », une définition dont la portée reconnue se limite aux obligations de nature financière ou pécuniaire.

[80] Les obligations environnementales qui incombent à une personne morale peuvent engendrer un tel différend. La LACC reconnaît trois situations susceptibles de se présenter lorsqu’une personne morale s’engage dans un processus de restructuration.

[81] La première situation est celle où les travaux de restauration du site n’ont pas été exécutés (et il n’est pas « suffisamment certain » que les travaux seront exécutés, contrairement à la troisième situation exposée ci-après). En pareil cas, le gouvernement ne peut réclamer le coût de la restauration : voir le par. 102(3) de l’EPA. En principe, l’obligation de se conformer à la loi incombe au contrôleur qui prend en charge l’actif et les activités de la société. Si le contrôleur exécute les travaux de restauration du site, il peut réclamer les frais en tant que frais d’administration. S’il ne désire pas le faire, il peut obtenir de la cour une ordonnance suspendant l’exigence de restauration ou il peut abandonner l’immeuble : par. 11.8(5) de la LACC (dans ce cas, les frais de restauration ne font pas partie des frais d’administration : par. 11.8(7)). En pareil cas, l’obligation ne peut faire l’objet d’une transaction.

[82] La deuxième situation est celle où le gouvernement qui a émis l’ordonnance environnementale prend des mesures de décontamination, ce que la législation l’autorise à faire. En pareil cas, le gouvernement peut produire, pour le coût de la décontamination, une réclamation qui pourra faire l’objet d’une transaction dans le cadre des procédures engagées sous le régime de la LACC. Il en est ainsi obligation owed to the public into a financial or monetary obligation owed by the corporation to the government. Section 11.8(9), already discussed, makes it clear that this applies to damage after the CCAA proceedings commenced, which might otherwise not be claimable as a matter of timing.

[83] A third situation may arise: the government has not yet performed the remediation at the time of restructuring, but there is “sufficient certainty” that it will do so. This situation is regulated by the provisions of the CCAA for contingent or future claims. Under the CCAA, a debt or liability that is contingent on a future event may be compromised.

[84] It is clear that a mere possibility that work will be done does not suffice to make a regulatory obligation a contingent claim under the CCAA. Rather, there must be “sufficient certainty” that the obligation will be converted into a financial or monetary claim to permit this. The impact of the obligation on the insolvency process is irrelevant to the analysis of contingency. The future liabilities must not be “so remote and speculative in nature that they could not properly be considered contingent claims”: Confederation Treasury Services Ltd. (Bankrupt), Re (1997), 96 O.A.C. 75, at para. 4.

[85] Where environmental obligations are concerned, courts to date have relied on a high degree of probability verging on certainty that the government will in fact step in and remediate the property. In Anvil Range Mining Corp., Re (2001), 25 C.B.R. (4th) 1 (Ont. S.C.J.), Farley J. concluded that a contingent claim was established where the money had already been earmarked in the budget for the remediation project. He observed that parce que le gouvernement, en prenant des mesures pour décontaminer le site, a transformé l'exigence réglementaire non exécutée établie en faveur du public en une obligation financière ou pécuniaire à laquelle la société est tenue envers le gouvernement. Le paragraphe 11.8(9), examiné précédemment, prévoit clairement que cette situation s'applique aux dommages survenus après que les procédures ont été engagées au titre de la LACC; en l'absence d'une telle précision, ces dommages ne pourraient faire l'objet d'une réclamation compte tenu du moment choisi pour agir.

[83] Une troisième situation peut se présenter : le gouvernement n'a pas encore exécuté des travaux de restauration au moment de la restructuration, mais il est « suffisamment certain » qu'il le fera. Cette situation est prévue par les dispositions de la LACC relatives aux réclamations éventuelles ou futures. Aux termes de la LACC, une dette ou un engagement qui dépend d'un événement futur peut faire l'objet d'une transaction.

[84] Il est évident qu'une simple possibilité que les travaux soient exécutés ne suffit pas pour transformer une exigence réglementaire en une réclamation éventuelle au titre de la LACC. Pour en arriver à ce résultat, il faut plutôt qu'il soit « suffisamment certain » que l'exigence sera convertie en une réclamation financière ou pécuniaire. L'incidence de l'exigence sur le processus d'insolvabilité n'est pas pertinente pour l'analyse du caractère éventuel de la réclamation. Les engagements futurs ne doivent pas être [TRADUCTION] « si lointains et hypothétiques qu'ils ne puissent être considérés à bon droit comme des réclamations éventuelles » : Confederation Treasury Services Ltd. (Bankrupt), Re (1997), 96 O.A.C. 75, par. 4.

[85] Lorsque des exigences environnementales sont en cause, les tribunaux se sont jusqu'à ce jour fondés sur un haut degré de probabilité, proche de la certitude, que le gouvernement prendra réellement des mesures et exécutera les travaux de restauration. Dans Anvil Range Mining Corp., Re (2001), 25 C.B.R. (4th) 1 (C.S.J. Ont.), le juge Farley a conclu que la preuve d'une réclamation éventuelle était établie parce que les fonds avaient

“there appears to be every likelihood to a certainty that every dollar in the budget for the year ending March 31, 2002 earmarked for reclamation will be spent” (para. 15 (emphasis added)). Similarly, in Shirley (Re), Kennedy J. relied on the fact that the Ontario Minister of the Environment had already entered the property at issue and commenced remediation activities to conclude that “[a]ny doubt about the resolve of the [Ministry’s] intent to realize upon its authority ended when it began to incur expense from operations” (p. 110).

[86] There is good reason why “sufficient certainty” should be interpreted as requiring “likelihood approaching certainty” when the issue is whether ongoing environmental obligations owed to the public should be converted to contingent claims that can be expunged or compromised in the restructuring process. Courts should not overlook the obstacles governments may encounter in deciding to remediate environmental damage a corporation has caused. To begin with, the government’s decision is discretionary and may be influenced by any number of competing political and social considerations. Furthermore, remediation may cost a great deal of money. For example, in this case, the CCAA court found that at a minimum the remediation would cost in the “mid-to-high eight figures”, and could indeed cost several times that (para. 81). In concrete terms, the remediation at issue in this case may be expected to meet or exceed the entire budget of the Minister ($65 million) for 2009. Not only would this be a massive expenditure, but it would also likely require the specific approval of the legislature and thereby be subject to political uncertainties. To assess these factors and determine whether all this will occur would embroil the CCAA judge in social, economic and political considerations — matters which are not normally subject to judicial consideration: R. v. Imperial Tobacco Canada Ltd., 2011 SCC 42, [2011] 3 S.C.R. 45, at para. 74. It is small wonder, then, that courts assessing whether it is “sufficiently certain” that a government will clean up pollution created déjà été dédiés au projet de restauration dans le budget. Il a fait remarquer qu’[TRADUCTION] « il semble fortement probable et presque certain que chaque dollar dédié aux réclamations figurant au budget établi pour l’année se terminant le 31 mars 2002 sera dépensé » (par. 15 (je souligne)). De même, dans Shirley (Re), le juge Kennedy s’est fondé sur le fait que les employés du ministère de l’Environnement de l’Ontario se trouvaient déjà sur le terrain en cause et avaient commencé les travaux de restauration pour conclure que [TRADUCTION] « [t]ous doutes quant à la détermination du [ministère] d’exercer son droit se sont estompés lorsque l’opération a commencé à lui occasionner des dépenses » (p. 110).

[86] Une bonne raison explique pourquoi il convient d’interpréter l’expression « suffisamment certain » comme exigeant une « probabilité proche de la certitude » lorsqu’il s’agit de déterminer si des exigences environnementales continues établies en faveur du public devraient être converties en réclamations éventuelles qui peuvent être rayées ou faire l’objet d’une transaction dans le cadre du processus de restructuration. Les tribunaux ne devraient pas oublier les obstacles auxquels les gouvernements peuvent se heurter lorsqu’ils décident de réparer les dommages environnementaux causés par une société. D’abord, la décision du gouvernement est discrétionnaire, et elle peut être influencée par nombre de considérations politiques et sociales concurrentes. En outre, les travaux de restauration peuvent être très coûteux. En l’espèce, par exemple, le juge de première instance a conclu que ces travaux pourraient coûter au minimum [TRADUCTION] « entre cinquante et cent millions de dollars », et même plusieurs fois cette somme (par. 81). En termes concrets, le coût des travaux en cause en l’espèce pourrait atteindre ou dépasser le budget total du ministre (65 millions de dollars) pour l’exercice 2009. Il s’agirait non seulement d’une dépense énorme, mais il faudrait probablement aussi l’approbation explicite de l’assemblée législative, avec les incertitudes politiques que cela comporte. L’évaluation de ces facteurs et l’appréciation de la possibilité que tout ce qui précède se produise entraîneraient le juge chargé d’appliquer la LACC dans des considérations d’ordre by a corporation have insisted on proof of likelihood approaching certainty.

[87] In this case, as will be seen, apart from the Buchans property, the record is devoid of any evidence capable of establishing that it is “sufficiently certain” that the Province will itself remediate the properties. Even on a more relaxed standard than the one adopted in similar cases to date, the evidence in this case would fail to establish that remediation is “sufficiently certain”.

5. The Result in This Case

[88] Five different sites are at issue in this case. The question in each case is whether the Minister has already remediated the property (making it to that extent an actual claim), or if not, whether it is “sufficiently certain” that he or she will remediate the property, permitting it to be considered a contingent claim.

[89] The Buchans site posed immediate risks to human health as a consequence of high levels of lead and other contaminants in the soil, groundwater, surface water and sediment. There was a risk that the wind would disperse the contamination, posing a threat to the surrounding population. Lead has been found in residential areas of Buchans and adults tested in the town had elevated levels of lead in their blood. In addition, a structurally unsound dam at the Buchans site raised the risk of contaminating silt entering the Exploits and Buchans rivers.

[90] The Minister quickly moved to address the immediate concern of the unsound dam and put social, économique et politique — des questions normalement soustraites à l’examen judiciaire : R. c. Imperial Tobacco Canada Ltée, 2011 CSC 42, [2011] 3 R.C.S. 45, par. 74. Il n’est donc pas étonnant que les tribunaux, lorsqu’il s’agit d’apprécier s’il est « suffisamment certain » qu’un gouvernement procédera à la décontamination causée par une société, s’en soient tenus à la preuve d’une probabilité proche de la certitude.

[87] En l’espèce, comme nous le verrons, à l’exclusion du site de Buchans, le dossier est dénué d’éléments de preuve susceptibles d’établir qu’il est « suffisamment certain » que la province exécutera elle-même les travaux de décontamination. Même si l’on applique une norme plus souple que celle retenue jusqu’à ce jour dans des affaires semblables, la preuve en l’espèce n’établirait pas qu’il est « suffisamment certain » que les sites seront décontaminés.

5. L’issue du présent pourvoi

[89] Le site de Buchans posait un risque immédiat à la santé pour les humains en raison de la forte concentration de plomb et d’autres contaminants présente dans le sol, l’eau souterraine et de surface ainsi que dans des sédiments. Il y avait un risque que le vent disperse la contamination, ce qui aurait représenté une menace pour la population environnante. On a trouvé du plomb dans des zones résidentielles de Buchans et les tests de sang ont révélé chez des adultes résidant dans la ville des concentrations élevées de plomb. De plus, un barrage en mauvais état situé sur le site de Buchans augmentait le risque de contamination du limon se déversant dans les rivières Exploits et Buchans.

[90] La ministre de l’époque a rapidement pris des mesures pour régler le problème immédiat du out a request for tenders for other measures that required immediate action at the Buchans site. Money expended is clearly a claim under the CCAA. I am also of the view that the work for which the request for tenders was put out meets the “sufficiently certain” standard and constitutes a contingent claim.

[91] Beyond this, it has not been shown that it is “sufficiently certain” that the Province will do the remediation work to permit Abitibi’s ongoing regulatory obligations under the EPA Orders to be considered contingent debts. The same applies to the other properties, on which no work has been done and no requests for tender to do the work initiated.

[92] Far from being “sufficiently certain”, there is simply nothing on the record to support the view that the Province will move to remediate the remaining properties. It has not been shown that the contamination poses immediate health risks, which must be addressed without delay. It has not been shown that the Province has taken any steps to do any work. And it has not been shown that the Province has set aside or even contemplated setting aside money for this work. Abitibi relies on a statement by the then-Premier in discussing the possibility that the Province would be obliged to compensate Abitibi for expropriation of some of the properties, to the effect that “there would not be a net payment to Abitibi”: R.F., at para. 12. Apart from the fact that the Premier was not purporting to state government policy, the statement simply does not say that the Province would do the remediation. The Premier may have simply been suggesting that outstanding environmental liabilities made the properties worth little or nothing, obviating any net payment to Abitibi.

[93] My colleague Deschamps J. concludes that the findings of the CCAA court establish that it was barrage en mauvais état et a lancé un appel d’offres relatif aux autres mesures nécessitant une intervention immédiate sur le site de Buchans. Il est clair que les sommes d’argent dépensées constituent une réclamation au sens de la LACC. J’estime également que les travaux à l’égard desquels des appels d’offres ont été lancés satisfont à la norme de ce qui est « suffisamment certain » et qu’ils constituent une réclamation éventuelle.

[92] Il n’est pas « suffisamment certain » que la province entreprenne la décontamination des autres sites : aucune preuve au dossier ne laisse entrevoir cette possibilité. Il n’a pas été démontré que la contamination pose pour la santé des risques immédiats exigeant la prise de mesures dans les plus brefs délais. Il n’a pas été démontré que la province a pris quelque mesure que ce soit pour réaliser des travaux. Et il n’a pas été démontré que la province a prévu des sommes d’argent pour ces travaux ou qu’elle a même songé à en prévoir. Abitibi se fonde sur une déclaration du premier ministre de l’époque, qui examinait la possibilité que la province soit tenue de verser à Abitibi une indemnité pour l’expropriation de certains terrains, selon laquelle [TRADUCTION] « aucun montant net ne serait versé à Abitibi » : m.i., par. 12. Mis à part le fait que le premier ministre ne prétendait pas établir une politique gouvernementale, sa déclaration n’indique aucunement que la province exécuterait la décontamination. Le premier ministre indiquait peut-être simplement qu’en raison des exigences environnementales non respectées, les terrains ne valaient plus rien ou presque et qu’il serait inutile de verser quoi que ce soit à Abitibi.

“sufficiently certain” that the Province would remediate the land, converting Abitibi’s regulatory obligations under the EPA Orders to contingent claims that can be compromised under the CCAA. With respect, I find myself unable to agree.

[94] The CCAA judge never asked himself the critical question of whether it was “sufficiently certain” that the Province would do the work itself. Essentially, he proceeded on the basis that the EPA Orders had not been put forward in a sincere effort to obtain remediation, but were simply a money grab. The CCAA judge buttressed his view that the Province’s regulatory orders were not sincere by opining that the orders were unenforceable (which if true would not prevent new EPA orders) and by suggesting that the Province did not want to assert a contingent claim, since this might attract a counterclaim by Abitibi for the expropriation of the properties (something that may be impossible due to Abitibi’s decision to take the expropriation issue to NAFTA (the North American Free Trade Agreement Between the Government of Canada, the Government of the United Mexican States and the Government of the United States of America, Can. T.S. 1994 No. 2), excluding Canadian courts). In any event, it is clear that the CCAA judge, on the reasoning he adopted, never considered the question of whether it was “sufficiently certain” that the Province would remediate the properties. It follows that the CCAA judge’s conclusions cannot support the view that the outstanding obligations are contingent claims under the CCAA.

[95] My colleague concludes:

[The CCAA judge] did at times rely on indicators that are unique and that do not appear in the analytical framework I propose above, but he did so because of the exceptional facts of this case. Yet, had he formulated the établissement qu’il est « suffisamment certain » que la province décontaminerait les terrains, transformant ainsi les exigences réglementaires que les ordonnances EPA imposent à Abitibi en réclamations éventuelles pouvant faire l’objet d’une transaction sous le régime de la LACC. Avec égards, je ne puis souscrire à cette conclusion.

[94] Le juge de première instance ne s’est jamais posé la question cruciale de savoir s’il était « suffisamment certain » que la province exécuterait elle-même les travaux. Essentiellement, il a tenu pour acquis que les ordonnances EPA n’avaient pas été émises avec l’intention sincère d’obtenir la décontamination des sites, mais qu’il s’agissait simplement d’une manœuvre pour soutirer de l’argent. Le juge a renforcé son point de vue selon lequel les ordonnances réglementaires émises par la province étaient dépourvues de sincérité en exprimant l’avis qu’elles n’étaient pas susceptibles d’exécution (ce qui, si cela s’avérait exact, n’empêcherait pas que de nouvelles ordonnances soient émises). Le juge a également laissé entendre que la province ne voulait pas produire une réclamation éventuelle, ce qui aurait pu provoquer le dépôt d’une demande reconventionnelle d’Abitibi pour l’expropriation des propriétés (un résultat qui peut s’avérer impossible étant donné la décision d’Abitibi de soumettre la question de l’expropriation à l’ALÉNA (Accord de libre-échange nord-américain entre le gouvernement du Canada, le gouvernement des États-Unis d’Amérique et le gouvernement des États-Unis du Mexique, R.T. Can. 1994 n° 2), en écartant la juridiction des tribunaux canadiens). Quoi qu’il en soit, il est évident que dans son raisonnement, le juge de première instance n’a jamais examiné la question de savoir s’il était « suffisamment certain » que la province décontaminerait les sites. Il s’ensuit que les conclusions du juge ne peuvent soutenir le point de vue selon lequel les obligations non exécutées constituent des réclamations éventuelles au sens de la LACC.

[95] Ma collègue conclut comme suit :

À l’occasion, [le juge] s’est appuyé sur des indicateurs singuliers qui ne figurent pas dans le cadre analytique que j’ai déjà proposé, mais cela s’explique par les faits exceptionnels en l’espèce. Or, s’il avait formulé la question question in the same way as I have, his conclusion, based on his objective findings of fact, would have been the same. . . . The CCAA judge's assessment of the facts . . . leads to no conclusion other than that it was sufficiently certain that the Province would perform remediation work and therefore fall within the definition of a creditor with a monetary claim. [Emphasis added; para. 58.]

[96] I must respectfully confess to a less sanguine view. First, I find myself unable to decide the case on what I think the CCAA judge would have done had he gotten the law right and considered the central question. In my view, his failure to consider that question requires this Court to answer it in his stead on the record before us: Housen v. Nikolaisen, 2002 SCC 33, [2002] 2 S.C.R. 235, at para. 35. But more to the point, I see no objective facts that support, much less compel, the conclusion that it is “sufficiently certain” that the Province will move to itself remediate any or all of the pollution Abitibi caused. The mood of the regulator in issuing remediation orders, be it disinterested or otherwise, has no bearing on the likelihood that the Province will undertake such a massive project itself. The Province has options. It could, to be sure, opt to do the work. Or it could await the result of Abitibi's restructuring and call on it to remediate once it resumed operations. It could even choose to leave the sites contaminated. There is nothing in the record that makes the first option more probable than the others, much less establishes “sufficient certainty” that the Province will itself clean up the pollution, converting it to a debt.

[97] I would allow the appeal and issue a declaration that Abitibi's remediation obligations under the EPA Orders do not constitute claims compensable under the CCAA, except for work done or tendered for on the Buchans site.

comme je l'ai posée, sa conclusion, appuyée sur ses constatations de fait objectives, aurait été la même. [. . .] L'appréciation des faits par le juge [. . .] ne permet de tirer aucune conclusion autre que celle suivant laquelle il était suffisamment certain que la province exécuterait des travaux de décontamination et qu'elle était par conséquent visée par la définition d'un créancier ayant une réclamation pécuniaire. [Je souligne; par. 58.]

[96] Avec égards, je dois avouer que je ne partage pas la certitude de ma collègue à ce titre. Premièrement, j'estime ne pas pouvoir trancher le pourvoi en me fondant sur ce que je crois qu'aurait fait le juge de première instance s'il avait alors saisi correctement le droit et examiné la question réellement en jeu. À mon avis, le fait qu'il n'ait pas examiné cette question oblige notre Cour à y répondre à sa place au vu du dossier : Housen c. Nikolaisen, 2002 CSC 33, [2002] 2 R.C.S. 235, par. 35. Mais, plus précisément, je ne vois pas de faits objectifs qui appuient, et encore moins qui imposent, la conclusion selon laquelle il est « suffisamment certain » que la province entreprendra elle-même de décontaminer un site ou tous les sites pollués par Abitibi. L'humeur de l'organisme de réglementation qui ordonne la décontamination, qu'il soit ou non désintéressé, n'a aucune incidence sur la probabilité que la province entreprenne elle-même un projet d'une telle ampleur. Des choix s'offrent à la province. Elle pourrait certes choisir d'exécuter les travaux. Ou elle pourrait attendre le résultat de la restructuration d'Abitibi et lui demander d'exécuter les travaux d'assainissement une fois qu'elle aura repris ses activités. Elle pourrait même choisir de laisser les sites contaminés. Rien au dossier n'indique que le premier choix est plus susceptible d'être retenu que les autres, et encore moins qui établisse qu'il est « suffisamment certain » que la province exécutera elle-même la décontamination, convertissant ainsi l'opération en une créance.

[98] LEBEL J. (dissenting) — I have read the reasons of the Chief Justice and Deschamps J. They agree that a court overseeing a proposed arrangement under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (“CCAA”), cannot relieve debtors of their regulatory obligations. The only regulatory orders that can be subject to compromise are those which are monetary in nature. My colleagues also accept that contingent environmental claims can be liquidated and compromised if it is established that the regulatory body would remediate the environmental contamination itself, and hence turn the regulatory order into a monetary claim.

[99] At this point, my colleagues disagree on the proper evidentiary test with respect to whether the government would remediate the contamination. In the Chief Justice’s opinion, the evidence must show that there is a “likelihood approaching certainty” that the province would remediate the contamination itself (para. 86). In my respectful opinion, this is not the established test for determining where and how a contingent claim can be liquidated in bankruptcy and insolvency law. The test of “sufficient certainty” described by Deschamps J., which does not look very different from the general civil standard of probability, better reflects how both the common law and the civil law view and deal with contingent claims. On the basis of the test Deschamps J. proposes, I must agree with the Chief Justice and would allow the appeal.

[100] First, no matter how I read the CCAA court’s judgment (2010 QCCS 1261, 68 C.B.R. (5th) 1), I find no support for a conclusion that it is consistent with the principle that the CCAA does not apply to purely regulatory obligations, or that the court had evidence that would satisfy the test of “sufficient certainty” that the province of Newfoundland and

[99] Sur ce, mes collègues diffèrent d’opinion quant au critère de preuve applicable pour déterminer si le gouvernement entend effectuer la décontamination. De l’avis de la Juge en chef, la preuve doit démontrer une « probabilité proche de la certitude » que la province se chargerait de la décontamination (par. 86). À mon humble avis, il ne s’agit pas du critère établi pour déterminer si, et de quelle façon, une réclamation éventuelle peut être liquidée en droit de la faillite et de l’insolvabilité. Le critère de ce qui est « suffisamment certain » qu’énonce la juge Deschamps ne semble pas différer beaucoup de la norme générale de probabilité en matière civile et reflète mieux la façon dont la common law et le droit civil envisagent et traitent les réclamations éventuelles. Cependant, en appliquant le critère que propose la juge Deschamps, je dois souscrire aux motifs de la Juge en chef et je suis d’avis d’accueillir le pourvoi.

Labrador (“Province”) would perform the remedial work itself.

[101] In my view, the CCAA court was concerned that the arrangement would fail if the Abitibi respondents (“Abitibi”) were not released from their regulatory obligations in respect of pollution. The CCAA court wanted to eliminate the uncertainty that would have clouded the reorganized corporations’ future. Moreover, its decision appears to have been driven by an opinion that the Province had acted in bad faith in its dealings with Abitibi both during and after the termination of its operations in the Province. I agree with the Chief Justice that there is no evidence that the Province intends to perform the remedial work itself. In the absence of any other evidence, an offhand comment made in the legislature by a member of the government hardly satisfies the “sufficient certainty” test. Even if the evidentiary test proposed by my colleague Deschamps J. is applied, this Court can legitimately disregard the CCAA court’s finding as the Chief Justice proposes, since it did not rest on a sufficient factual foundation.

[102] For these reasons, I would concur with the disposition proposed by the Chief Justice.

voulant qu’il soit « suffisamment certain » que la province de Terre-Neuve-et-Labrador (« province ») exécuterait elle-même les travaux de décontamination.

[101] À mon avis, le tribunal de première instance craignait un échec de l’arrangement si les sociétés du groupe Abitibi intimées (« Abitibi ») ne pouvaient se libérer des exigences réglementaires relatives à la pollution. Le tribunal voulait écarter l’incertitude qui aurait assombri l’avenir de ces sociétés après leur réorganisation. De plus, sa décision semble motivée par l’opinion suivant laquelle la province avait traité de mauvaise foi avec Abitibi dès que cette dernière eût cessé ses activités dans cette province. Je suis d’accord avec la Juge en chef pour conclure qu’aucune preuve ne confirme l’intention de la province d’exécuter elle-même les travaux de décontamination. En l’absence de tout autre élément de preuve, une remarque faite en passant par un ministre devant l’assemblée législative peut difficilement satisfaire au critère de ce qui est « suffisamment certain ». Même si l’on applique le critère de preuve que propose ma collègue la juge Deschamps, notre Cour peut légitimement écarter les conclusions du tribunal de première instance comme le propose la Juge en chef car elles ne reposent sur aucun fondement factuel suffisant.

[102] Pour ces motifs, je suis d’avis de souscrire au dispositif que propose la Juge en chef.

By the Court:

[1] ScoZinc brings a motion seeking an order to accomplish three things. The first is for a meeting of the creditors pursuant to ss. 4 and 5 of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act. The second is a further extension of the stay of proceedings initially ordered by this Court on December 22, 2008 and extended from time to time. The third is approval of notice of this motion being given only to certain defined creditors.

[2] The company has filed an affidavit of William Felderhof referred to as his seventh affidavit, sworn April 28, 2009 and the Monitor has filed its sixth report dated April 30, 2009.

[3] As part of its submissions the company notes that there is nothing in the CCAA which requires the Court to give prior preliminary approval of ScoZinc's proposed plan before it is presented to the creditors. It notes that the jurisprudence establishes that this approval is generally desirable prior to calling a meeting of the creditors. Some, but not all of this jurisprudence was reviewed by MacAdam J. in Re Federal Gypsum 2007 NSSC 384.

[4] Justice MacAdam in Re Federal Gypsum did refer to the two different standards that have been proposed or referred to in cases from Ontario and British Columbia. Some of these cases have expressed the view that the debtor company should establish that the plan has "a reasonable chance" that it would be accepted by the creditors. Other cases have referred to the appropriate test as simply a determination as to whether or not the proposed plan is one that would be “doomed to failure”.

[5] In a different context, Glube C.J.T.D. (as she then was) in Fairview Industries (1991), 11 C.B.R. (3d) 43 cautioned that it would be impractical and extremely costly to continue to prepare a plan when “there is no hope that it would be approved”.

[6] I think it fair to say that MacAdam J., although not expressly but by necessary implication, preferred the lower standard facing a debtor company in submitting its plan to the Court for a preliminary approval. At para. 12 he wrote:

[12] In view of the relatively low threshold on the Company in seeking Court approval to have a plan of arrangement submitted to the creditors for a vote, I am satisfied the plan should proceed and the creditors should determine whether they do, or do not accept the plan as finally filed.

[7] In my opinion it should not be up to the Court to second guess the probability of success of a proposed plan of arrangement. Businessmen are free to make their own views known before and ultimately at the creditors’ meeting. It seems to me that the Court should only decline to give preliminary approval and refuse to order a meeting if it was of the view that there was no hope that the plan would be approved by the creditors or, if it was approved by the creditors, it would not, for some other reason, be approved by the Court.

[8] The Monitor in its sixth report says that the proposed plan is reasonable under the circumstances. This opinion appears to flow from its conclusion that if the plan is rejected and the company forced into receivership or bankruptcy, unsecured creditors will not recover the amount offered in the plan and it is highly unlikely that the secured creditors will recover the amount offered to them. I see no reason to disagree with the opinion offered by the Monitor.

[9] Given that opinion and in light of the terms that are set out in the proposed plan I am certainly satisfied that the plan is far from one that is doomed to failure. It is one that should be put to the creditors for their consideration. It is therefore appropriate that I exercise the discretion that is set out in ss. 4 and 5 of the CCAA and order a meeting of the creditors on the terms set out in the proposed meeting order.

[10] With respect to the extension of the stay of proceedings, as I noted at the outset there had been an initial order of this Court under s.11 of the CCAA. This order was granted on December 22, 2008. It was, as required by the statute, limited to a period of 30 days. It has been extended on two previous occasions. It is now due to expire May 22nd, 2009. The meeting of the creditors is scheduled for May 21, 2009. There is a tentative return date scheduled for May 28, 2009 for the Court to consider sanctioning the plan, should it be approved by the creditors.

[11] The test with respect to extending the stay of proceedings has been set out in a number of cases that have considered ss. 11(4) and (6) of the CCAA. These were reviewed by me in Re ScoZinc Ltd. 2009 NSSC 108. In these circumstances there is no need to review the test and the evidence in support of that test.

[12] In light of my conclusion that the company had met the threshold for ordering a meeting of the creditors under ss. 4 and 5 of the CCAA the appropriateness of a further extension permitting the company to return to the Court within a very short period of time following that meeting of the creditors is patently obvious. The extension is therefore granted.

[13] The last issue is the approval of notice of this motion being given only to certain defined creditors. Given the number of creditors that appeared early on in the proceedings it was somewhat impractical to give notice to each of them with the volumes of materials that would be required to be produced and served. With respect to the prior motions it was required that notice be given to all creditors asserting claims against the debtor company in excess of $100,000.00 and all creditors asserting builders liens. In addition all creditors were apprised of these proceedings by way of the mail out to each and every creditor as required by the CCAA leading to filing of proofs of claim. The status of the proceedings, including this motion, have been posted on the Monitor's website. I see no reason to depart from the previous practice and this aspect of the motion is also granted.

Introduction

[1] The applicants, Trican Well Services Ltd. (Trican) and Ensign Drilling Inc (Ensign), seek leave to appeal an order sanctioning a plan of arrangement put forward by the respondents Delphi Energy Corp and Delphi Energy (Alberta) Limited (collectively, Delphi) under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, RSC 1985, c C-36 [CCAA]. The applicants are trade creditors who filed builders' liens against Delphi's properties for goods and services.

[2] Delphi is a junior energy producer. In 2019, it implemented a recapitalization transaction from which it drew down funds to drill three new wells in 2020. In March 2020, the combination of an oil price collapse and COVID-19 put Delphi in financial peril. Ultimately, Delphi's cash flow was restricted by senior lenders. On April 14, 2020, Delphi filed for CCAA protection.

[3] A plan of arrangement (the Plan) was put forward and approved by the requisite double majorities of creditors, and the Sanction Order was granted on September 11, 2020. Two classes of affected creditors voted on the Plan: secured creditors, comprising Delphi's Second Lien Noteholders in respect of the secured portion of their claims, and "general unsecured creditors". The unsecured creditors included trade creditors, which category included the applicants, the Second Lien Noteholders in respect of their unsecured deficiency claims, and a convenience class of unsecured creditors with claims of less than $5,000. All unsecured creditors had the option to join the convenience class and accept a $5,000 payout on their claims; they were then deemed to have voted in favour of the Plan.

[4] The applicants provided goods and services in the erection of Delphi's three new wells and are owed approximately $7.5 million. At the sanction hearing, they submitted that their builders' lien rights were improperly subordinated to the interests of supplemental debenture holders, Delphi's first lien lenders and second lien noteholders, resulting in the applicants and other prospective lien holders becoming general unsecured creditors. They take issue with the manner in which the voting classes of creditors were established, which they say resulted in the voting power of the trade creditors being overwhelmed.

[5] The applicants seek leave to appeal the Sanction Order, submitting it was neither fair nor reasonable, and was not in compliance with the statutory requirements for a sanction order under the CCAA. Specifically, the applicants seek leave to appeal on the following grounds:

- a) the chambers judge misapplied or misapprehended the commonality of interest test for classification of voters, essentially denying trade creditors voting power; and

- b) the chambers judge ought not to have sanctioned a plan that breached the statutory requirement under s 5.1(2) of the CCAA because it purports to compromise statutorily protected claims against directors.

[6] In oral argument on the leave application the applicants submitted that, while they did not appeal the original classification order, their classification for the purpose of voting and the fairness of the Plan were important considerations at the sanction hearing, and these circumstances were improperly disregarded by the supervising judge in granting the Sanction Order.

[7] In her reasons for sanctioning the plan the supervising judge noted that the overall indebtedness of Delphi was insurmountable, with total secured claims of $142.3 million and unsecured claims of another $27 million, for a total indebtedness of $170 million. If the Plan is approved, the 104 small creditors comprising the Convenience Class will each receive $5,000; approximately 100 parties will share pari passu in an unsecured claims pool of $3 million dollars, or about 2.4% on the dollar recovery. All the secured debt, less the deficiency claim amount, will be converted to equity. The supervising judge stated, “but for some trailing obligations, Delphi, if the plan is sanctioned and closes, will emerge debt free with 38 employees and will continue operating as an energy company headquartered in Alberta”.

[8] In concluding that the Plan was fair and reasonable, the supervising judge considered the alternative of liquidation, wherein all unsecured parties would lose and the company would cease to operate. She found that “upon close examination, the unsecured claim class is properly constituted, even if the convenience class are excluded, the vote in favour would still have carried the plan”. In concluding there was sufficient commonality of interest among the class, she noted that the balancing of creditors’ interests also discloses that the shareholders are compromising substantial claims, the plan sponsor being by far the largest loser.

Considering an application for leave to appeal under the CCAA

[9] The test for leave to appeal is set out in s 13 of the CCAA:

Except in Yukon, any person dissatisfied with an order or a decision made under this Act may appeal from the order or decision on obtaining leave of the judge appealed from or of the court or a judge of the court to which the appeal lies and on such terms as to security and in other respects as the judge or court directs.

[10] When considering whether to grant leave to appeal the discretionary decision of a supervising judge under the CCAA, appellate courts are instructed to consider several factors: whether the point on appeal is of significance to the practice; whether the point raised is of significance to the proceeding itself; whether the appeal is prima facie meritorious; and whether the appeal will unduly hinder the progress of the action: Liberty Oil & Gas Ltd (Re), 2003 ABCA 158 at paras 15-16, 44 CBR (4th) 96; Bellatrix Exploration Ltd v BP Canada Energy Group ULC, 2020 ABCA 178 at para 16.

[11] The standard of review applied to the discretionary decision of a supervising judge is highly deferential, absent an error in law or principle or an exercise of discretion that is clearly unreasonable. As stated by Fruman JA in Uti Energy Corp v Fracmaster Ltd, 1999 ABCA 178 at para 3, 244 AR 93:

[T]his is a court of review. It is not our task to reconsider the merits of the various offers and decide which proposal might be best. The decisions made by the chambers judge involve a good measure of discretion, and are owed considerable deference. Whether or not we agree, we will only interfere if we conclude that she acted unreasonably, erred in principle or made a manifest error.

[12] The Supreme Court of Canada recently reiterated the need for caution in the review of a supervising judge's discretionary decisions, noting that "[a]ppellate courts must be careful not to substitute their own discretion in place of the supervising judge's": 9354-9186 Québec Inc v Callidus Capital Corp, 2020 SCC 10 at para 53.

[13] Whether a plan is fair and reasonable is a question of mixed law and fact, and as such is entitled to deference. The very nature of a CCAA proceeding requires the balancing of a multiplicity of divergent interests and stakeholders with a view to a fair and reasonable compromise in aid of a successful restructuring, if possible. Ascertaining how that can be accomplished with as little pain as possible is a delicate task, requiring a clear understanding of all the interests at stake, the effect of the plan on all stakeholders and, equally importantly, the effect of the alternative to restructuring on those same stakeholders. An appellate court should not lightly intervene in this balancing exercise.

First proposed ground of appeal: The classification of creditors

[14] In assessing whether a plan is fair and reasonable, as required by s 6 of the CCAA, the supervising judge must consider the composition of the voting class of unsecured creditors. Section 22 of the CCAA empowers the company to divide its creditors into classes for the purpose of a compromise or arrangement. Creditors may be included in the same class if "their interests or rights are sufficiently similar to give them a commonality of interest", taking into account the following factors (s 22(2)):

- (a) the nature of the debts, liabilities or obligations giving rise to their claims;
- (b) the nature and rank of any security in respect of their claims;
- (c) the remedies available to the creditors in the absence of the compromise or arrangement being sanctioned, and the extent to which the creditors would recover their claims by exercising those remedies; and
- (d) any further criteria, consistent with those set out in above.

[15] The key considerations in determining if a proposed class has the requisite commonality of interest are set forth in Canadian Airlines Corp (Re) (2000), 19 CBR (4th) 12 at para 31:

1. Commonality of interest should be viewed on the basis of the non-fragmentation test, not on an identity of interest test.
2. The interests to be considered are the legal interests the creditor holds qua creditor in relationship to the debtor company, prior to and under the plan as well as on liquidation.
3. The commonality of these interests are to be viewed purposively, bearing in mind the object of the C.C.A.A., namely to facilitate reorganizations if possible.
4. In placing a broad and purposive interpretation on the C.C.A.A., the court should be careful to resist classification approaches which would potentially jeopardize potentially viable plans.
5. Absent bad faith, the motivations of the creditors to approve or disapprove are irrelevant.
6. The requirement of creditors being able to consult together means being able to assess their legal entitlement as creditors before or after the plan in a similar manner.

[emphasis in original]

[16] Excessive fragmentation, which is counterproductive to facilitating a reorganization, should be avoided. Fragmentation is not just about the number of classes, but the effect that fragmentation of classes might have on the ability to achieve the legislative goal of a viable reorganization: see SemCanada Crude Company (Re), 2009 ABQB 490 at para 21. What is required is some “community of interest and rights which are not so dissimilar as to make it impossible for the creditors in the class to consult with a view toward a common interest”: Sklar-Peppler Furniture Corp v Bank of Nova Scotia (1991), 86 DLR (4th) 621 at para 14 (ON SCDC). Another important consideration is avoidance of tyranny of the minority: “it would be improper to create a special class simply for the benefit of the opposing creditor which would give that creditor the potential to exercise an unwarranted degree of power”: Sklar-Peppler at para 14.

[17] In this case, the applicants submit that the trade creditors were unfairly classified and, had they their own separate class, they would have defeated the Plan. They submit that the supervising judge failed to properly characterize the commonality of interest test. Put simply, the applicants say they have no commonality of interest with the other members of the class. The trade creditors will receive a negligible amount, whereas the convenience class will receive what amounts to full recovery, and the second lien noteholders with deficiencies will see the conversion of their secured debt to equity.

[18] It is worth noting that the trade creditors could have opted into the convenience class had they so chosen. Moreover, the second lien noteholders will see the secured portion of their claims converted from debt to equity, but their deficiencies are subject to the same 2.4 cents on the dollar that the trade creditors will receive under the Plan.

[19] A review of the transcript makes clear that the supervising judge understood the situation of the various creditors. She was alive to the fact that, if the trade creditors were given their own class, they could veto the Plan. She understood that if the convenience class was removed, the vote would have passed regardless.

[20] The matter of classification is discretionary, as was the supervising judge's determination that the overall Plan was fair and reasonable in the circumstances. The proposed issue on appeal is clearly of importance to the applicants, as if they were successful on appeal they would be in a position to veto the Plan. However, given the degree of deference that would be paid to the decision of the supervising judge on issues of classification, I am not persuaded that this ground of appeal has a likelihood of success.

Second proposed ground of appeal: Failure to meet the statutory requirements under s. 5.1(2)

[21] The applicants accept that a plan may compromise some claims against directors by capping them to proceeds under insurance policies. However, they submit that statutorily protected claims against directors must be exempted from any compromise in light of s 5.1(2), which excludes claims based on allegations of misrepresentation or wrongful or oppressive conduct. The applicants submit the Sanction Order irrevocably limits such protected claims to the unspecified proceeds of insurance policies which, they say, is statutorily prohibited. The applicants also submit that Delphi failed to put the insurance policies into evidence before the supervising judge.

[22] Delphi submits that the Plan does not compromise the claims against directors, but merely channels financial recovery to available insurance proceeds, and that this is consistent with the practice of CCAA courts across Canada, including in Alberta¹.

[23] There is clear authority for Delphi's proposition, although I was not directed to any appellate authority considering the issue. In my view, the merit of this proposed ground of appeal depends on whether Delphi's position, that the claim in this case is not being compromised, withstands scrutiny. A careful review of the Plan and the Sanction Order makes clear that the applicants' claim against the directors is not being compromised within the meaning of the CCAA. Rather, recovery on that claim is limited to the amount of directors' and officers' insurance in place. That amount is $40 million. The total builders' lien claims, were they to be completely successful, amount to approximately $20 million. I note as an aside that the bad faith argument upon which this potential claim is premised was found for the purpose of the sanction hearing to be without evidentiary foundation. In all these circumstances, there is no merit to the argument that the claim is being impermissibly compromised.

Conclusion

[24] In my view, in light of the standard of review applicable to a decision on fairness, and in light of the applicable law, neither proposed ground of appeal is of sufficient merit to warrant an appeal.

[25] I am also mindful of the last consideration, that is the undue hinderance of the restructuring if leave to appeal is granted. The applicants concede that some delay would be occasioned by an appeal, although they propose the appeal be heard on an expedited basis. However, the record suggests that the prospect of a going-concern restructuring will be seriously imperiled if the plan sponsors choose not to fund the Plan beyond the agreed plan outside date. If the Plan is not consummated, Delphi will undoubtedly be faced with liquidation, the only other alternative put forward. The economic consequences of liquidation would be considerably worse for all stakeholders, including the applicants.

[26] In my view, this is not a case where leave to appeal ought to be granted. The issues raised to impugn the exercise of discretion that the Plan is not fair and reasonable have been thoroughly considered by appellate courts across the country and the principles are well known. The exercise of discretion by the supervising judge was not the product of legal error or misapprehension of the evidence. She appears to have had a very solid understanding of the financial circumstances of Delphi and all the objecting creditors when she concluded the plan was fair and reasonable.

C-36, ss. 11, 11.2.

The debtor companies filed a petition for the issuance of an initial order under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act ("CCAA") in November 2015. The petition succeeded, and the initial order was issued by a supervising judge, who became responsible for overseeing the proceedings. Since then, substantially all of the assets of the debtor companies have been liquidated, with the notable exception of retained claims for damages against the companies' only secured creditor. In September 2017, the secured creditor proposed a plan of arrangement, which later failed to receive sufficient creditor support. In February 2018, the secured creditor proposed another, virtually identical, plan of arrangement. It also sought the supervising judge's permission to vote on this new plan in the same class as the debtor companies' unsecured creditors, on the basis that its security was worth nil. Around the

EN APPEL DE LA COUR D'APPEL DU QUÉBEC

Faillite et insolvabilité — Pouvoir discrétionnaire du juge surveillant dans une instance introduite sous le régime de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies — Contrôle en appel des décisions du juge surveillant — Le juge surveillant a-t-il le pouvoir discrétionnaire d'empêcher un créancier de voter sur un plan d'arrangement si ce créancier agit dans un but illégitime? — Le juge surveillant peut-il approuver le financement de litige par un tiers à titre de financement temporaire? — Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies, L.R.C. 1985, c. C-36, art. 11, 11.2.

En novembre 2015, les compagnies débitrices déposent une requête en délivrance d'une ordonnance initiale sous le régime de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies (« LACC »). La requête est accueillie, et l'ordonnance initiale est rendue par un juge surveillant, qui est chargé de surveiller le déroulement de l'instance. Depuis, la quasi-totalité des éléments d'actif de la compagnie débitrice ont été liquidés, à l'exception notable des réclamations réservées en dommages-intérêts contre le seul créancier garanti des compagnies. En septembre 2017, le créancier garanti propose un plan d'arrangement, qui n'obtient pas subséquemment l'appui nécessaire des créanciers. En février 2018, le créancier garanti propose un autre plan d'arrangement, presque identique au premier. Il demande aussi au juge surveillant la permission de voter sur ce nouveau plan dans la même catégorie que same time, the debtor companies sought interim financing in the form of a proposed third party litigation funding agreement, which would permit them to pursue litigation of the retained claims. They also sought the approval of a related super-priority litigation financing charge.

The supervising judge determined that the secured creditor should not be permitted to vote on the new plan because it was acting with an improper purpose. As a result, the new plan had no reasonable prospect of success and was not put to a creditors' vote. The supervising judge allowed the debtor companies' application, authorizing them to enter into a third party litigation funding agreement. On appeal by the secured creditor and certain of the unsecured creditors, the Court of Appeal set aside the supervising judge's order, holding that he had erred in reaching the foregoing conclusions.

Held: The appeal should be allowed and the supervising judge's order reinstated.

The supervising judge made no error in barring the secured creditor from voting or in authorizing the third party litigating funding agreement. A supervising judge has the discretion to bar a creditor from voting on a plan of arrangement where they determine that the creditor is acting for an improper purpose. A supervising judge can also approve third party litigation funding as interim financing, pursuant to s. 11.2 of the CCAA. The Court of Appeal was not justified in interfering with the supervising judge's discretionary decisions in this regard, having failed to treat them with the appropriate degree of deference.

The CCAA is one of three principal insolvency statutes in Canada. It pursues an array of overarching remedial objectives that reflect the wide ranging and potentially catastrophic impacts insolvency can have. These objectives include: providing for timely, efficient and impartial resolution of a debtor's insolvency; preserving and maximizing the value of a debtor's assets; ensuring fair and equitable treatment of the claims against a debtor; protecting the public interest; and, in the context of a commercial insolvency, balancing the costs and benefits of restructuring or liquidating the company. The architecture of the CCAA leaves the case-specific assessment and balancing of these objectives to the supervising judge.

les créanciers non garantis des compagnies débitrices, au motif que sa sûreté ne vaut rien. À peu près au même moment, les compagnies débitrices demandent un financement temporaire sous forme d'un accord de financement de litige par un tiers qui leur permettrait de poursuivre l'instruction des réclamations réservées. Elles sollicitent également l'approbation d'une charge super-prioritaire pour financer le litige.

Le juge surveillant décide que le créancier garanti ne peut voter sur le nouveau plan parce qu'il agit dans un but illégitime. En conséquence, le nouveau plan n'a aucune possibilité raisonnable d'être avalisé et il n'est pas soumis au vote des créanciers. Le juge surveillant accueille la demande des compagnies débitrices et les autorise à conclure un accord de financement de litige par un tiers. À l'issue d'un appel formé par le créancier garanti et certains des créanciers non garantis, la Cour d'appel annule l'ordonnance du juge surveillant, estimant qu'il est parvenu à tort aux conclusions qui précèdent.

Arrêt : Le pourvoi est accueilli et l'ordonnance du juge surveillant est rétablie.

Le juge surveillant n'a commis aucune erreur en empêchant le créancier garanti de voter ou en approuvant l'accord de financement de litige par un tiers. Un juge surveillant a le pouvoir discrétionnaire d'empêcher un créancier de voter sur un plan d'arrangement s'il décide que le créancier agit dans un but illégitime. Un juge surveillant peut aussi approuver le financement de litige par un tiers à titre de financement temporaire, en vertu de l'art. 11.2 de la LACC. La Cour d'appel n'était pas justifiée de modifier les décisions discrétionnaires du juge surveillant à cet égard et n'a pas fait preuve de la déférence à laquelle elle était tenue par rapport à ces décisions.

La LACC est l'une des trois principales lois canadiennes en matière d'insolvabilité. Elle poursuit un grand nombre d'objectifs réparateurs généraux qui témoignent de la vaste gamme des conséquences potentiellement catastrophiques qui peuvent découler de l'insolvabilité. Ces objectifs incluent les suivants : régler de façon rapide, efficace et impartiale l'insolvabilité d'un débiteur; préserver et maximiser la valeur des actifs d'un débiteur; assurer un traitement juste et équitable des réclamations déposées contre un débiteur; protéger l'intérêt public; et, dans le contexte d'une insolvabilité commerciale, établir un équilibre entre les coûts et les bénéfices découlant de la restructuration ou de la liquidation d'une compagnie. La structure de la LACC laisse au juge surveillant le soin de procéder à un examen et à une mise en balance au cas par cas de ces objectifs.

From beginning to end, each proceeding under the CCAA is overseen by a single supervising judge, who has broad discretion to make a variety of orders that respond to the circumstances of each case. The anchor of this discretionary authority is s. 11 of the CCAA, which empowers a judge to make any order that they consider appropriate in the circumstances. This discretionary authority is broad, but not boundless. It must be exercised in furtherance of the remedial objectives of the CCAA and with three baseline considerations in mind: (1) that the order sought is appropriate in the circumstances, and (2) that the applicant has been acting in good faith and (3) with due diligence. The due diligence consideration discourages parties from sitting on their rights and ensures that creditors do not strategically manoeuvre or position themselves to gain an advantage. A high degree of deference is owed to discretionary decisions made by judges supervising CCAA proceedings and, as such, appellate intervention will only be justified if the supervising judge erred in principle or exercised their discretion unreasonably.

A creditor can generally vote on a plan of arrangement or compromise that affects its rights, subject to any specific provisions of the CCAA that may restrict its voting rights, or a proper exercise of discretion by the supervising judge to constrain or bar the creditor's right to vote. Given that the CCAA regime contemplates creditor participation in decision-making as an integral facet of the workout regime, the discretion to bar a creditor from voting should only be exercised where the circumstances demand such an outcome. Where a creditor is seeking to exercise its voting rights in a manner that frustrates, undermines, or runs counter to the remedial objectives of the CCAA — that is, acting for an improper purpose — s. 11 of the CCAA supplies the supervising judge with the discretion to bar that creditor from voting. This discretion parallels the similar discretion that exists under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and advances the basic fairness that permeates Canadian insolvency law and practice. Whether this discretion ought to be exercised in a particular case is a circumstance-specific inquiry that the supervising judge is best-positioned to undertake.

In the instant case, the supervising judge's decision to bar the secured creditor from voting on the new plan discloses no error justifying appellate intervention. When he made this decision, the supervising judge was intimately Chaque procédure fondée sur la LACC est supervisée du début à la fin par un seul juge surveillant, qui a le vaste pouvoir discrétionnaire de rendre toute une gamme d'ordonnances susceptibles de répondre aux circonstances de chaque cas. Le point d'ancrage de ce pouvoir discrétionnaire est l'art. 11 de la LACC, lequel confère au juge le pouvoir de rendre toute ordonnance qu'il estime indiquée. Quoique vaste, ce pouvoir discrétionnaire n'est pas sans limites. Son exercice doit tendre à la réalisation des objectifs réparateurs de la LACC et tenir compte de trois considérations de base : (1) que l'ordonnance demandée est indiquée, et (2) que le demandeur a agi de bonne foi et (3) avec la diligence voulue. La considération de diligence décourage les parties de rester sur leurs positions et fait en sorte que les créanciers n'usent pas stratégiquement de ruse ou ne se placent pas eux-mêmes dans une position pour obtenir un avantage. Les décisions discrétionnaires des juges chargés de la supervision des procédures intentées sous le régime de la LACC commandent un degré élevé de déférence. En conséquence, les cours d'appel ne seront justifiées d'intervenir que si le juge surveillant a commis une erreur de principe ou exercé son pouvoir discrétionnaire de manière déraisonnable.

En général, un créancier peut voter sur un plan d'arrangement ou une transaction qui a une incidence sur ses droits, sous réserve des dispositions de la LACC qui peuvent limiter son droit de voter, ou de l'exercice justifié par le juge surveillant de son pouvoir discrétionnaire de limiter ou de supprimer ce droit. Étant donné que le régime de la LACC, dont l'un des aspects essentiels tient à la participation du créancier au processus décisionnel, les créanciers ne devraient être empêchés de voter que si les circonstances l'exigent. Lorsqu'un créancier cherche à exercer ses droits de vote de manière à contrecarrer ou à miner les objectifs réparateurs de la LACC ou à aller à l'encontre de ceux-ci — c'est-à-dire à agir dans un but illégitime — l'art. 11 de la LACC confère au juge surveillant le pouvoir discrétionnaire d'empêcher le créancier de voter. Ce pouvoir discrétionnaire s'apparente au pouvoir discrétionnaire semblable qui existe en vertu de la Loi sur la faillite et l'insolvabilité et favorise l'équité fondamentale qui imprègne le droit et la pratique en matière d'insolvabilité au Canada. La question de savoir s'il y a lieu d'exercer le pouvoir discrétionnaire dans une situation donnée appelle une analyse fondée sur les circonstances propres à chaque situation que le juge surveillant est le mieux placé pour effectuer.

En l'espèce, la décision du juge surveillant d'empêcher le créancier garanti de voter sur le nouveau plan ne révèle aucune erreur justifiant l'intervention d'une cour d'appel. Lorsqu'il a rendu sa décision, le juge surveillant familiar with these proceedings, having presided over them for over 2 years, received 15 reports from the monitor, and issued approximately 25 orders. He considered the whole of the circumstances and concluded that the secured creditor's vote would serve an improper purpose. He was aware that the secured creditor had chosen not to value any of its claim as unsecured prior to the vote on the first plan and did not attempt to vote on that plan, which ultimately failed to receive the other creditors' approval. Between the failure of the first plan and the proposal of the (essentially identical) new plan, none of the factual circumstances relating to the debtor companies' financial or business affairs had materially changed. However, the secured creditor sought to value the entirety of its security at nil and, on that basis, sought leave to vote on the new plan as an unsecured creditor. If the secured creditor were permitted to vote in this way, the new plan would certainly have met the double majority threshold for approval under s. 6(1) of the CCAA. The inescapable inference was that the secured creditor was attempting to strategically value its security to acquire control over the outcome of the vote and thereby circumvent the creditor democracy the CCAA protects. The secured creditor's course of action was also plainly contrary to the expectation that parties act with due diligence in an insolvency proceeding, which includes acting with due diligence in valuing their claims and security. The secured creditor was therefore properly barred from voting on the new plan.

Whether third party litigation funding should be approved as interim financing is a case-specific inquiry that should have regard to the text of s. 11.2 of the CCAA and the remedial objectives of the CCAA more generally. Interim financing is a flexible tool that may take on a range of forms. This is apparent from the wording of s. 11.2(1), which is broad and does not mandate any standard form or terms. At its core, interim financing enables the preservation and realization of the value of a debtor's assets. In some circumstances, like the instant case, litigation funding furthers this basic purpose. Third party litigation funding agreements may therefore be approved as interim financing in CCAA proceedings when the supervising judge determines that doing so would be fair and appropriate, having regard to all the circumstances and the objectives of the Act. This requires consideration of the specific factors set out in s. 11.2(4) of the CCAA. These factors need not be mechanically applied or individually reviewed by the supervising judge, as not all of them will be significant in every case, nor are they exhaustive.

connaissait très bien les procédures en cause, car il les avait présidées pendant plus de 2 ans, avait reçu 15 rapports du contrôleur et avait délivré environ 25 ordonnances. Il a tenu compte de l'ensemble des circonstances et a conclu que le vote du créancier garanti viserait un but illégitime. Il savait qu'avant le vote sur le premier plan, le créancier garanti avait choisi de n'évaluer aucune partie de sa réclamation à titre de créancier non garanti et n'avait pas tenté de voter sur ce plan, qui n'a finalement pas reçu l'aval des autres créanciers. Entre l'insuccès du premier plan et la proposition du nouveau plan (identique pour l'essentiel au premier plan), les circonstances factuelles se rapportant aux affaires financières ou commerciales des compagnies débitrices n'avaient pas réellement changé. Pourtant, le créancier garanti a tenté d'évaluer la totalité de sa sûreté à zéro et, sur cette base, a demandé l'autorisation de voter sur le nouveau plan à titre de créancier non garanti. Si le créancier garanti avait été autorisé à voter de cette façon, le nouveau plan aurait certainement satisfait au critère d'approbation à double majorité prévu par le par. 6(1) de la LACC. La seule conclusion possible était que le créancier garanti tentait d'évaluer stratégiquement la valeur de sa sûreté afin de prendre le contrôle du vote et ainsi contourner la démocratie entre les créanciers que défend la LACC. La façon d'agir du créancier garanti était manifestement contraire à l'attente selon laquelle les parties agissent avec diligence dans une procédure d'insolvabilité, ce qui comprend le fait de faire preuve de diligence raisonnable dans l'évaluation de leurs réclamations et sûretés. Le créancier garanti a donc été empêché à bon droit de voter sur le nouveau plan.

La question de savoir s'il y a lieu d'approuver le financement d'un litige par un tiers à titre de financement temporaire commande une analyse fondée sur les faits de l'espèce qui doit tenir compte du libellé de l'art. 11.2 de la LACC et des objectifs réparateurs de la LACC de façon plus générale. Le financement temporaire est un outil souple qui peut revêtir différentes formes. Cela ressort du libellé du par. 11.2(1), qui est large et ne prescrit aucune forme ou condition type. Le financement temporaire permet essentiellement de préserver et de réaliser la valeur des éléments d'actif du débiteur. Dans certaines circonstances, comme en l'espèce, le financement de litige favorise la réalisation de cet objectif fondamental. Les accords de financement de litige par un tiers peuvent être approuvés à titre de financement temporaire dans le cadre des procédures fondées sur la LACC lorsque le juge surveillant estime qu'il serait juste et approprié de le faire, compte tenu de l'ensemble des circonstances et des objectifs de la Loi. Cela implique la prise en considération des facteurs précis énoncés au par. 11.2(4) de la LACC. Ces facteurs

Additionally, in order for a third party litigation funding agreement to be approved as interim financing, the agreement must not contain terms that effectively convert it into a plan of arrangement.

In the instant case, there is no basis upon which to interfere with the supervising judge's exercise of his discretion to approve the litigation funding agreement as interim financing. A review of the supervising judge's reasons as a whole, combined with a recognition of his manifest experience with the debtor companies' CCAA proceedings, leads to the conclusion that the factors listed in s. 11.2(4) concern matters that could not have escaped his attention and due consideration. It is apparent that he was focussed on the fairness at stake to all parties, the specific objectives of the CCAA, and the particular circumstances of this case when he approved the litigation funding agreement as interim financing. Further, the litigation funding agreement is not a plan of arrangement because it does not propose any compromise of the creditors' rights. The fact that the creditors may walk away with more or less money at the end of the day does not change the nature or existence of their rights to access the funds generated from the debtor companies' assets, nor can it be said to compromise those rights. Finally, the litigation financing charge does not convert the litigation funding agreement into a plan of arrangement. Holding otherwise would effectively extinguish the supervising judge's authority to approve these charges without a creditors' vote, which is expressly provided for in s. 11.2 of the CCAA.

ne doivent pas être appliqués machinalement ou examinés individuellement par le juge surveillant, car ils ne seront pas tous importants dans tous les cas, et ils ne sont pas non plus exhaustifs. En outre, pour qu'un accord de financement de litige par un tiers soit approuvé à titre de financement temporaire, il ne doit pas comporter des conditions qui le convertissent effectivement en plan d'arrangement.

En l'espèce, il n'y a aucune raison d'intervenir dans l'exercice par le juge surveillant de son pouvoir discrétionnaire d'approuver l'accord de financement de litige à titre de financement temporaire. L'examen des motifs du juge surveillant dans leur ensemble, conjugué à la reconnaissance de son expérience évidente des procédures intentées par les compagnies débitrices sous le régime de la LACC, mène à la conclusion que les facteurs énumérés au par. 11.2(4) concernent des questions qui n'auraient pu échapper à son attention et à son examen adéquat. Il est manifeste que le juge surveillant a mis l'accent sur l'équité envers toutes les parties, les objectifs précis de la LACC et les circonstances particulières de la présente affaire lorsqu'il a approuvé l'accord de financement de litige à titre de financement temporaire. De plus, l'accord de financement de litige ne constitue pas un plan d'arrangement parce qu'il ne propose aucune transaction visant les droits des créanciers. Le fait que les créanciers puissent en fin de compte remporter plus ou moins d'argent ne modifie en rien la nature ou l'existence de leurs droits d'avoir accès aux fonds provenant des actifs des compagnies débitrices, pas plus qu'on ne saurait dire qu'il s'agit d'une transaction à l'égard de leurs droits. Enfin, la charge relative au financement de litige ne convertit pas l'accord de financement de litige en plan d'arrangement. Une conclusion contraire aurait pour effet d'annihiler le pouvoir du juge surveillant d'approuver ces charges sans un vote des créanciers, un résultat qui est expressément prévu par l'art. 11.2 de la LACC.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE AND MOLDAVER J.—

I. Overview

[1] These appeals arise in the context of an ongoing proceeding instituted under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (“CCAA”), in which substantially all of the assets of the debtor companies have been liquidated. The proceeding was commenced well over four years ago. Since then, a single supervising judge has been responsible for its oversight. In this capacity, he has made numerous discretionary decisions.

[2] Two of the supervising judge’s decisions are in issue before us. Each raises a question requiring this Court to clarify the nature and scope of judicial discretion in CCAA proceedings. The first is whether a supervising judge has the discretion to bar a creditor from voting on a plan of arrangement where they determine that the creditor is acting for an improper purpose. The second is whether a supervising judge can approve third party litigation funding as interim financing, pursuant to s. 11.2 of the CCAA.

[3] For the reasons that follow, we would answer both questions in the affirmative, as did the supervising judge. To the extent the Court of Appeal disagreed

LE JUGE EN CHEF ET LE JUGE MOLDAVER —

I. Aperçu

[3] Pour les motifs qui suivent, nous sommes d’avis de répondre à ces deux questions par l’affirmative, à l’instar du juge surveillant. Dans la mesure où la and went on to interfere with the supervising judge’s discretionary decisions, we conclude that it was not justified in doing so. In our respectful view, the Court of Appeal failed to treat the supervising judge’s decisions with the appropriate degree of deference. In the result, as we ordered at the conclusion of the hearing, these appeals are allowed and the supervising judge’s order reinstated.

II. Facts

[4] In 1994, Mr. Gérald Duhamel founded Bluberi Gaming Technologies Inc., which is now one of the appellants, 9354-9186 Québec inc. The corporation manufactured, distributed, installed, and serviced electronic casino gaming machines. It also provided management systems for gambling operations. Its sole shareholder has at all material times been Bluberi Group Inc., which is now another of the appellants, 9354-9178 Québec inc. Through a family trust, Mr. Duhamel controls Bluberi Group Inc. and, as a result, Bluberi Gaming (collectively, “Bluberi”).

[5] In 2012, Bluberi sought financing from the respondent, Callidus Capital Corporation (“Callidus”), which describes itself as an “asset-based or distressed lender” (R.F., at para. 26). Callidus extended a credit facility of approximately $24 million to Bluberi. This debt was secured in part by a share pledge agreement.

[6] Over the next three years, Bluberi lost significant amounts of money, and Callidus continued to extend credit. By 2015, Bluberi owed approximately $86 million to Callidus — close to half of which Bluberi asserts is comprised of interest and fees.

A. Bluberi’s Institution of CCAA Proceedings and Initial Sale of Assets

[7] On November 11, 2015, Bluberi filed a petition for the issuance of an initial order under the CCAA. In its petition, Bluberi alleged that its liquidity issues

Cour d’appel s’est dite d’avis contraire et a modifié les décisions discrétionnaires du juge surveillant, nous concluons qu’elle n’était pas justifiée de le faire. Avec égards, la Cour d’appel n’a pas fait preuve de la déférence à laquelle elle était tenue par rapport aux décisions du juge surveillant. C’est pourquoi, comme nous l’avons ordonné à l’issue de l’audience, les pourvois sont accueillis et l’ordonnance du juge surveillant est rétablie.

II. Les faits

[4] En 1994, M. Gérald Duhamel fonde Bluberi Gaming Technologies Inc., qui est devenue l’une des appelantes, 9354-9186 Québec inc. L’entreprise fabriquait, distribuait, installait et entretenait des appareils de jeux électroniques pour casino. Elle offrait aussi des systèmes de gestion dans le domaine des jeux d’argent. Pendant toute la période pertinente, son unique actionnaire était Bluberi Group Inc., qui est devenue une autre des appelantes, 9354-9178 Québec inc. Par l’entremise d’une fiducie familiale, M. Duhamel contrôlait Bluberi Group inc. et, de ce fait, Bluberi Gaming (collectivement, « Bluberi »).

[5] En 2012, Bluberi demande du financement à l’intimée Callidus Capital Corporation (« Callidus »), qui se décrit comme un [TRADUCTION] « prêteur offrant du financement garanti par des actifs ou du financement à des entreprises en difficulté financière » (m.i., par. 26). Callidus lui consent une facilité de crédit d’environ 24 millions de dollars, que Bluberi garantit partiellement en signant une entente par laquelle elle met en gage ses actions.

[6] Au cours des trois années suivantes, Bluberi perd d’importantes sommes d’argent et Callidus continue de lui consentir du crédit. En 2015, Bluberi doit environ 86 millions de dollars à Callidus — Bluberi affirme que près de la moitié de cette somme est composée d’intérêts et de frais.

A. L’introduction des procédures sous le régime de la LACC par Bluberi et la vente initiale d’actifs

[7] Le 11 novembre 2015, Bluberi dépose une requête en délivrance d’une ordonnance initiale sous le régime de la LACC. Dans sa requête, Bluberi allègue were the result of Callidus taking de facto control of the corporation and dictating a number of purposefully detrimental business decisions. Bluberi alleged that Callidus engaged in this conduct in order to deplete the corporation's equity value with a view to owning Bluberi and, ultimately, selling it.

[8] Over Callidus's objection, Bluberi's petition succeeded. The supervising judge, Michaud J., issued an initial order under the CCAA. Among other things, the initial order confirmed that Bluberi was a "debtor company" within the meaning of s. 2(1) of the Act; stayed any proceedings against Bluberi or any director or officer of Bluberi; and appointed Ernst & Young Inc. as monitor ("Monitor").

[9] Working with the Monitor, Bluberi determined that a sale of its assets was necessary. On January 28, 2016, it proposed a sale solicitation process, which the supervising judge approved. That process led to Bluberi entering into an asset purchase agreement with Callidus. The agreement contemplated that Callidus would obtain all of Bluberi's assets in exchange for extinguishing almost the entirety of its secured claim against Bluberi, which had ballooned to approximately $135.7 million. Callidus would maintain an undischarged secured claim of $3 million against Bluberi. The agreement would also permit Bluberi to retain claims for damages against Callidus arising from its alleged involvement in Bluberi's financial difficulties ("Retained Claims").¹ Throughout these proceedings, Bluberi has asserted that the Retained Claims should amount to over $200 million in damages.

[10] The supervising judge approved the asset purchase agreement, and the sale of Bluberi's assets to Callidus closed in February 2017. As a result, Callidus effectively acquired Bluberi's business, and has continued to operate it as a going concern.

que ses problèmes de liquidité découlent du fait que Callidus exerce un contrôle de facto à l'égard de son entreprise et lui dicte un certain nombre de décisions d'affaires dans l'intention de lui nuire. Bluberi prétend que Callidus agit ainsi afin de réduire la valeur des actions dans le but de devenir propriétaire de Bluberi et ultimement de la vendre.

[8] Malgré l'objection de Callidus, la requête de Bluberi est accueillie. Le juge surveillant, le juge Michaud, rend une ordonnance initiale sous le régime de la LACC. Celle-ci confirme entre autres que Bluberi est une « compagnie débitrice » au sens du par. 2(1) de la Loi, suspend toute procédure introduite à l'encontre de Bluberi, de ses administrateurs ou dirigeants, et désigne Ernst & Young Inc. pour agir à titre de contrôleur (« contrôleur »).

[9] Travaillant en collaboration avec le contrôleur, Bluberi décide que la vente de ses actifs est nécessaire. Le 28 janvier 2016, elle propose un processus de mise en vente que le juge surveillant approuve. Ce processus débouche sur la conclusion d'une convention d'achat d'actifs entre Bluberi et Callidus. Cette convention prévoit que Callidus obtient l'ensemble des actifs de Bluberi en échange de l'extinction de la presque totalité de la créance garantie qu'elle détient à l'encontre de Bluberi, qui s'élevait à environ 135,7 millions de dollars. Callidus conserve une créance garantie non libérée de 3 millions de dollars contre Bluberi. La convention prévoit aussi que Bluberi se réserve le droit de réclamer des dommages-intérêts à Callidus en raison de l'implication alléguée de celle-ci dans ses difficultés financières (les « réclamations réservées »)¹. Tout au long de ces procédures, Bluberi affirme que la valeur des réclamations ainsi réservées représente plus de 200 millions de dollars en dommages-intérêts.

[11] Since the sale, the Retained Claims have been Bluberi's sole remaining asset and thus the sole security for Callidus's $3 million claim.

B. The Initial Competing Plans of Arrangement

[12] On September 11, 2017, Bluberi filed an application seeking the approval of a $2 million interim financing credit facility to fund the litigation of the Retained Claims and other related relief. The lender was a joint venture numbered company incorporated as 9364-9739 Québec inc. This interim financing application was set to be heard on September 19, 2017.

[13] However, one day before the hearing, Callidus proposed a plan of arrangement ("First Plan") and applied for an order convening a creditors' meeting to vote on that plan. The First Plan proposed that Callidus would fund a $2.5 million (later increased to $2.63 million) distribution to Bluberi's creditors, except itself, in exchange for a release from the Retained Claims. This would have fully satisfied the claims of Bluberi's former employees and those creditors with claims worth less than $3000; creditors with larger claims were to receive, on average, 31 percent of their respective claims.

[14] The supervising judge adjourned the hearing of both applications to October 5, 2017. In the meantime, Bluberi filed its own plan of arrangement. Among other things, the plan proposed that half of any proceeds resulting from the Retained Claims, after payment of expenses and Bluberi's creditors' claims, would be distributed to the unsecured creditors, as long as the net proceeds exceeded $20 million.

[15] On October 5, 2017, the supervising judge ordered that the parties' plans of arrangement could be put to a creditors' vote. He ordered that both parties share the fees and expenses related to the [11] Depuis la vente, les réclamations réservées sont le seul élément d'actif de Bluberi et représentent donc la seule garantie que possède Callidus pour sa créance de 3 millions de dollars.

B. Les premiers plans d'arrangement concurrents

[12] Le 11 septembre 2017, Bluberi dépose une demande par laquelle elle sollicite l'approbation d'un financement provisoire de 2 millions de dollars sous forme de facilité de crédit afin de financer le coût des procédures liées aux réclamations réservées ainsi que d'autres mesures de réparation accessoires. Le prêteur est une coentreprise constituée sous le numéro 9364-9739 Québec inc. Cette demande de financement provisoire devait être instruite le 19 septembre 2017.

[13] Toutefois, la veille de l'audience, Callidus propose un plan d'arrangement (« premier plan ») et demande une ordonnance pour convoquer les créanciers à une assemblée afin qu'ils votent sur ce plan. Le premier plan proposait que Callidus avance la somme de 2,5 millions de dollars (puis plus tard 2,63 millions de dollars) aux fins de distribution aux créanciers de Bluberi, sauf elle-même, en échange de quoi elle serait libérée des réclamations réservées. Cette somme aurait permis d'acquitter entièrement les créances des anciens employés de Bluberi et toutes celles de moins de 3 000 $; les créanciers dont la créance était plus élevée devaient recevoir chacun en moyenne 31 pour 100 du montant de leur réclamation.

[14] Le juge surveillant ajourne donc l'audition des deux demandes au 5 octobre 2017. Entre-temps, Bluberi dépose son propre plan d'arrangement dans lequel elle propose notamment que la moitié de toute somme provenant des réclamations réservées, après paiement des dépenses et acquittement des réclamations des créanciers de Bluberi, soit distribuée aux créanciers non garantis, pourvu que la somme nette ainsi obtenue soit supérieure à 20 millions de dollars.

[15] Le 5 octobre 2017, le juge surveillant ordonne que les plans d'arrangement des parties soient soumis au vote des créanciers. Il ordonne que les honoraires et dépenses découlant de la présentation des presentation of the plans of arrangement at a creditors' meeting, and that a party's failure to deposit those funds with the Monitor would bar the presentation of that party's plan of arrangement. Bluberi elected not to deposit the necessary funds, and, as a result, only Callidus's First Plan was put to the creditors.

C. Creditors' Vote on Callidus's First Plan

[16] On December 15, 2017, Callidus submitted its First Plan to a creditors' vote. The plan failed to receive sufficient support. Section 6(1) of the CCAA provides that, to be approved, a plan must receive a "double majority" vote in each class of creditors — that is, a majority in number of class members, which also represents two-thirds in value of the class members' claims. All of Bluberi's creditors, besides Callidus, formed a single voting class of unsecured creditors. Of the 100 voting unsecured creditors, 92 creditors (representing $3,450,882 of debt) voted in favour, and 8 voted against (representing $2,375,913 of debt). The First Plan failed because the creditors voting in favour only held 59.22 percent of the total value being voted, which did not meet the s. 6(1) threshold. Most notably, SMT Hautes Technologies ("SMT"), which held 36.7 percent of Bluberi's debt, voted against the plan.

[17] Callidus did not vote on the First Plan — despite the Monitor explicitly stating that Callidus could have "vote[d] . . . the portion of its claim, assessed by Callidus, to be an unsecured claim" (Joint R.R., vol. III, at p.188).

D. Bluberi's Interim Financing Application and Callidus's New Plan

[18] On February 6, 2018, Bluberi filed one of the applications underlying these appeals, seeking authorization of a proposed third party litigation funding agreement ("LFA") with a publicly traded plans d'arrangement à l'assemblée des créanciers soient partagés entre les parties et qu'il soit interdit à toute partie qui ne dépose pas les fonds nécessaires auprès du contrôleur de présenter son plan d'arrangement. Bluberi choisit de ne pas déposer les fonds nécessaires et, en conséquence, seul le premier plan de Callidus est présenté aux créanciers.

C. Le vote des créanciers sur le premier plan de Callidus

[16] Le 15 décembre 2017, Callidus soumet son premier plan au vote des créanciers. Le plan n'obtient pas l'appui nécessaire. Le paragraphe 6(1) de la LACC prévoit que, pour être approuvé, le plan doit obtenir la « double majorité » de chaque catégorie de créanciers — c'est-à-dire, la majorité en nombre d'une catégorie de créanciers, qui représente aussi les deux tiers en valeur des réclamations de cette catégorie de créanciers. Tous les créanciers de Bluberi, hormis Callidus, forment une seule catégorie de créanciers non garantis ayant droit de vote. Des 100 créanciers non garantis, 92 (qui ont ensemble une créance de 3 450 882 $) votent en faveur du plan, et 8 votent contre (qui ont ensemble une créance de 2 375 913 $). Le premier plan échoue parce que les réclamations des créanciers ayant voté en sa faveur ne détiennent que 59,22 p. 100 en valeur des réclamations de ceux ayant voté, ce qui ne respectait pas le seuil établi au par. 6(1). Plus particulièrement, SMT Hautes Technologies (« SMT »), qui détient 36,7 p. 100 de la dette de Bluberi, vote contre le plan.

[17] Callidus ne vote pas sur le premier plan — malgré les propos explicites du contrôleur, selon qui Callidus pouvait [TRADUCTION] « voter [. . .] selon le pourcentage de sa créance qui, de l'avis de Callidus, était non garantie » (dossier conjoint des intimés, vol. III, p. 188).

[18] Le 6 février 2018, Bluberi dépose une des demandes à l'origine des présents pourvois. Elle demande au tribunal l'autorisation de conclure un accord de financement du litige par un tiers (« AFL ») litigation funder, IMF Bentham Limited or its Canadian subsidiary, Bentham IMF Capital Limited (collectively, “Bentham”). Bluberi’s application also sought the placement of a $20 million super-priority charge in favour of Bentham on Bluberi’s assets (“Litigation Financing Charge”).

[19] The LFA contemplated that Bentham would fund Bluberi’s litigation of the Retained Claims in exchange for receiving a portion of any settlement or award after trial. However, were Bluberi’s litigation to fail, Bentham would lose all of its invested funds. The LFA also provided that Bentham could terminate the litigation of the Retained Claims if, acting reasonably, it were no longer satisfied of the merits or commercial viability of the litigation.

[20] Callidus and certain unsecured creditors who voted in favour of its plan (who are now respondents and style themselves the “Creditors’ Group”) contested Bluberi’s application on the ground that the LFA was a plan of arrangement and, as such, had to be submitted to a creditors’ vote.²

[21] On February 12, 2018, Callidus filed the other application underlying these appeals, seeking to put another plan of arrangement to a creditors’ vote (“New Plan”). The New Plan was essentially identical to the First Plan, except that Callidus increased the proposed distribution by $250,000 (from $2.63 million to $2.88 million). Further, Callidus filed an amended proof of claim, which purported to value the security attached to its $3 million claim at nil. Callidus was of the view that this valuation was proper because Bluberi had no assets other than the Retained Claims. On this basis, Callidus asserted that it stood in the position of an unsecured creditor, and sought the supervising judge’s permission to vote on the New Plan with the other unsecured creditors.

² Notably, the Creditors’ Group advised Callidus that it would lend its support to the New Plan. It also asked Callidus to reimburse any legal fees incurred in association with that support. At the same time, the Creditors’ Group did not undertake to vote in any particular way, and confirmed that each of its members would assess all available alternatives individually.

avec un bailleur de fonds de litiges coté en bourse, IMF Bentham Limited ou sa filiale canadienne, Corporation Bentham IMF Capital (collectivement, « Bentham »). Bluberi demande également l’autorisation de grever son actif d’une charge super-prioritaire de 20 millions de dollars en faveur de Bentham (« charge liée au financement du litige »).

[19] L’AFL prévoit que Bentham financera le litige relatif aux réclamations réservées de Bluberi et qu’en retour elle recevra un pourcentage de toute somme convenue par règlement ou accordée à l’issue d’un procès. Toutefois, dans l’éventualité où Bluberi serait déboutée, Bentham perdra la totalité des fonds investis. L’AFL prévoit aussi que Bentham peut mettre fin au recours si, agissant de façon raisonnable, elle n’est plus convaincue du bien-fondé du litige ou de sa viabilité commerciale.

Given the size of its claim, if Callidus were permitted to vote on the New Plan, the plan would necessarily pass a creditors' vote. Bluberi opposed Callidus's application.

[22] The supervising judge heard Bluberi's interim financing application and Callidus's application regarding its New Plan together. Notably, the Monitor supported Bluberi's position.

III. Decisions Below

A. Quebec Superior Court, 2018 QCCS 1040 (Michaud J.)

[23] The supervising judge dismissed Callidus's application, declining to submit the New Plan to a creditors' vote. He granted Bluberi's application, authorizing Bluberi to enter into a litigation funding agreement with Bentham on the terms set forth in the LFA and imposing the Litigation Financing Charge on Bluberi's assets.

[24] With respect to Callidus's application, the supervising judge determined Callidus should not be permitted to vote on the New Plan because it was acting with an "improper purpose" (para. 48 (CanLII)). He acknowledged that creditors are generally entitled to vote in their own self-interest. However, given that the First Plan — which was almost identical to the New Plan — had been defeated by a creditors' vote, the supervising judge concluded that Callidus's attempt to vote on the New Plan was an attempt to override the result of the first vote. In particular, he wrote:

Taking into consideration the creditors' interest, the Court accepted, in the fall of 2017, that Callidus' Plan be submitted to their vote with the understanding that, as a secured creditor, Callidus would not cast a vote. However, under the present circumstances, it would serve an improper purpose if Callidus was allowed to vote on its own plan, especially when its vote would very likely result in demande au juge surveillant la permission de voter sur le nouveau plan avec les autres créanciers non garantis. Vu l'importance de sa réclamation, le plan serait nécessairement adopté par les créanciers si Callidus était autorisée à voter. Bluberi s'oppose à la demande de Callidus.

[22] Le juge surveillant instruit ensemble la demande de financement provisoire de Bluberi ainsi que la demande présentée par Callidus concernant son nouveau plan. Il est à souligner que le contrôleur appuie la position de Bluberi.

III. Historique judiciaire

A. Cour supérieure du Québec, 2018 QCCS 1040 (le juge Michaud)

[23] Le juge surveillant rejette la demande de Callidus et refuse de soumettre le nouveau plan au vote des créanciers. Il accueille la demande de Bluberi, l'autorisant ainsi à conclure un accord de financement du litige avec Bentham aux conditions énoncées dans l'AFL et ordonne que les actifs de Bluberi soient grevés de la charge liée au financement du litige.

[24] En ce qui a trait à la demande de Callidus, le juge surveillant décide que cette dernière ne peut voter sur le nouveau plan parce qu'elle agit dans un [TRADUCTION] « but illégitime » (par. 48 (CanLII)). Il reconnaît que les créanciers ont habituellement le droit de voter dans leur propre intérêt. Or, étant donné que le premier plan — qui était presque identique au nouveau plan — a été rejeté par les créanciers, le juge surveillant conclut qu'en demandant à voter sur le nouveau plan, Callidus tentait de contourner le résultat du premier vote. Il écrit notamment :

[TRADUCTION] Tenant compte de leur intérêt, la Cour a accepté à l'automne 2017 que le plan de Callidus soit soumis au vote des créanciers, étant entendu que, en tant que créancière garantie, celle-ci ne voterait pas. Toutefois, si, dans les circonstances actuelles, Callidus était autorisée à voter sur son propre plan, elle le ferait dans un but illégitime d'autant plus qu'il est probable que son vote the New Plan meeting the two thirds threshold for approval under the CCAA.

As pointed out by SMT, the main unsecured creditor, Callidus' attempt to vote aims only at cancelling SMT's vote which prevented Callidus' Plan from being approved at the creditors' meeting.

It is one thing to let the creditors vote on a plan submitted by a secured creditor, it is another to allow this secured creditor to vote on its own plan in order to exert control over the vote for the sole purpose of obtaining releases. [paras. 45-47]

[25] The supervising judge concluded that, in these circumstances, allowing Callidus to vote would be both “unfair and unreasonable” (para. 47). He also observed that Callidus's conduct throughout the CCAA proceedings “lacked transparency” (at para. 41) and that Callidus was “solely motivated by the [pending] litigation” (para. 44). In sum, he found that Callidus's conduct was contrary to the “requirements of appropriateness, good faith, and due diligence”, and ordered that Callidus would not be permitted to vote on the New Plan (para. 48, citing Century Services Inc. v. Canada (Attorney General), 2010 SCC 60, [2010] 3 S.C.R. 379, at para. 70).

[26] Because Callidus was not permitted to vote on the New Plan and SMT had unequivocally stated its intention to vote against it, the supervising judge concluded that the plan had no reasonable prospect of success. He therefore declined to submit it to a creditors' vote.

[27] With respect to Bluberi's application, the supervising judge considered three issues relevant to these appeals: (1) whether the LFA should be submitted to a creditors' vote; (2) if not, whether the LFA ought to be approved by the court; and (3) if so, whether the $20 million Litigation Financing Charge should be imposed on Bluberi's assets.

[28] The supervising judge determined that the LFA did not need to be submitted to a creditors' vote because it was not a plan of arrangement. He considered a plan of arrangement to involve “an arrangement permettrait d'atteindre le seuil de deux tiers nécessaire pour que le nouveau plan soit approuvé en vertu de la LACC.

Comme l'a souligné SMT, la principale créancière non garantie, Callidus souhaite voter afin d'annuler le vote de SMT, qui a empêché que son plan soit approuvé lors de l'assemblée des créanciers.

C'est une chose de laisser les créanciers voter sur un plan présenté par un créancier garanti, c'en est une autre de laisser ce créancier garanti voter sur son propre plan et exercer ainsi un contrôle sur le vote à seule fin d'être libéré de toute responsabilité. [par. 45-47]

[25] Le juge surveillant conclut que, dans les circonstances, permettre à Callidus de voter serait à la fois [TRADUCTION] « injuste et déraisonnable » (par. 47). Il note aussi que, tout au long de la procédure introduite en vertu de la LACC, Callidus a « manqué de transparence » (par. 41) et qu'elle « n'est motivée que par le litige [en cours] » (par. 44). En somme, il conclut que la conduite de Callidus est contraire à « l'opportunité, [à] la bonne foi et [à] la diligence » requises, et il ordonne que Callidus ne puisse pas voter sur le nouveau plan (par. 48, citant Century Services Inc. c. Canada (Procureur général), 2010 CSC 60, [2010] 3 R.C.S. 379, par. 70).

[26] Puisque Callidus n'a pas été autorisée à voter sur le nouveau plan et que SMT a manifesté sans équivoque son intention de voter contre celui-ci, le juge surveillant conclut que le plan n'a aucune possibilité raisonnable de recevoir l'aval des créanciers. Il refuse donc de le soumettre au vote des créanciers.

[27] Pour ce qui est de la demande de Bluberi, le juge surveillant examine trois questions qui sont pertinentes pour les présents pourvois : (1) si l'AFL devait être soumis au vote des créanciers; (2) dans la négative, si l'AFL devait être approuvé par le tribunal; et (3) le cas échéant, s'il devait ordonner que la charge liée au financement du litige de 20 millions de dollars grève les actifs de Bluberi.

[28] Le juge surveillant décide qu'il n'est pas nécessaire de soumettre l'AFL au vote des créanciers parce qu'il ne s'agit pas d'un plan d'arrangement. Il considère qu'un tel plan suppose [TRADUCTION] « un or compromise between a debtor and its creditors” (para. 71, citing Re Crystallex, 2012 ONCA 404, 293 O.A.C. 102, at para. 92 (“Crystallex”). In his view, the LFA lacked this essential feature. He also concluded that the LFA did not need to be accompanied by a plan, as Bluberi had stated its intention to file a plan in the future.

[29] After reviewing the terms of the LFA, the supervising judge found it met the criteria for approval of third party litigation funding set out in Bayens v. Kinross Gold Corporation, 2013 ONSC 4974, 117 O.R. (3d) 150, at para. 41, and Hayes v. The City of Saint John, 2016 NBQB 125, at para. 4 (CanLII). In particular, he considered Bentham’s percentage of return to be reasonable in light of its level of investment and risk. Further, the supervising judge rejected Callidus and the Creditors’ Group’s argument that the LFA gave too much discretion to Bentham. He found that the LFA did not allow Bentham to exert undue influence on the litigation of the Retained Claims, noting similarly broad clauses had been approved in the CCAA context (para. 82, citing Schenk v. Valeant Pharmaceuticals International Inc., 2015 ONSC 3215, 74 C.P.C. (7th) 332, at para. 23).

[30] Finally, the supervising judge imposed the Litigation Financing Charge on Bluberi’s assets. While significant, the supervising judge considered the amount to be reasonable given: the amount of damages that would be claimed from Callidus; Bentham’s financial commitment to the litigation; and the fact that Bentham was not charging any interim fees or interest (i.e., it would only profit in the event of successful litigation or settlement). Put simply, Bentham was taking substantial risks, and it was reasonable that it obtain certain guarantees in exchange.

[31] Callidus, again supported by the Creditors’ Group, appealed the supervising judge’s order, impleading Bentham in the process.

arrangement ou une transaction entre un débiteur et ses créanciers » (par. 71, citant Re Crystallex, 2012 ONCA 404, 293 O.A.C. 102, par. 92 (« Crystallex »)). À son avis, l’AFL est dépourvu de cette caractéristique essentielle. Il conclut aussi qu’il n’est pas nécessaire que l’AFL soit assorti d’un plan étant donné que Bluberi a exprimé l’intention d’en déposer un plus tard.

[29] Après en avoir examiné les modalités, le juge surveillant conclut que l’AFL respecte le critère d’approbation applicable en matière de financement d’un litige par un tiers qui est établi dans les décisions Bayens c. Kinross Gold Corporation, 2013 ONSC 4974, 117 O.R. (3d) 150, par. 41, et Hayes c. The City of Saint John, 2016 NBQB 125, par. 4 (CanLII). Plus particulièrement, il considère que le taux de retour de Bentham est raisonnable eu égard à son niveau d’investissement et de risque. Il rejette en outre l’argument avancé par Callidus et le groupe de créanciers, qui soutenaient que l’AFL donne trop de latitude à Bentham. Il conclut que l’AFL ne permet pas à Bentham d’exercer une influence indue sur le déroulement du litige lié aux réclamations réservées et souligne que des clauses générales semblables à celles qu’il contient ont déjà été approuvées dans le contexte de la LACC (par. 82, citant Schenk c. Valeant Pharmaceuticals International Inc., 2015 ONSC 3215, 74 C.P.C. (7th) 332, par. 23).

[30] Enfin, le juge surveillant ordonne que les actifs de Bluberi soient grevés de la charge liée au financement du litige. Il juge que, même s’il est élevé, le montant en question est raisonnable étant donné : le montant des dommages-intérêts qui sont réclamés à Callidus; l’engagement financier de Bentham dans le litige; et le fait que Bentham n’exige aucune provision pour frais ou intérêts (c.-à-d. qu’elle ne tirera profit de l’accord que si le procès ou le règlement est couronné de succès). En termes simples, Bentham prend des risques importants et il est raisonnable qu’elle obtienne certaines garanties en échange.

[31] Callidus, de nouveau appuyée par le groupe de créanciers, interjette appel de l’ordonnance du juge surveillant et met en cause Bentham.

B. Quebec Court of Appeal, 2019 QCCA 171 (Dutil and Schrager J.J.A. and Dumas J. (ad hoc))

[32] The Court of Appeal allowed the appeal, finding that “[t]he exercise of the judge’s discretion [was] not founded in law nor on a proper treatment of the facts so that irrespective of the standard of review applied, appellate intervention [was] justified” (para. 48 (CanLII)). In particular, the court identified two errors of relevance to these appeals.

[33] First, the court was of the view that the supervising judge erred in finding that Callidus had an improper purpose in seeking to vote on its New Plan. In its view, Callidus should have been permitted to vote. The court relied heavily on the notion that creditors have a right to vote in their own self-interest. It held that any judicial discretion to preclude voting due to improper purpose should be reserved for the “clearest of cases” (para. 62, referring to Re Blackburn, 2011 BCSC 1671, 27 B.C.L.R. (5th) 199, at para. 45). The court was of the view that Callidus’s transparent attempt to obtain a release from Bluberi’s claims against it did not amount to an improper purpose. The court also considered Callidus’s conduct prior to and during the CCAA proceedings to be incapable of justifying a finding of improper purpose.

[34] Second, the court concluded that the supervising judge erred in approving the LFA as interim financing because, in its view, the LFA was not connected to Bluberi’s commercial operations. The court concluded that the supervising judge had both “misconstrued in law the notion of interim financing and misapplied that notion to the factual circumstances of the case” (para. 78).

[35] In light of this perceived error, the court substituted its view that the LFA was a plan of arrangement and, as a result, should have been submitted

B. Cour d’appel du Québec, 2019 QCCA 171 (les juges Dutil et Schrager et le juge Dumas (ad hoc))

[32] La Cour d’appel accueille l’appel et conclut que [TRADUCTION] « [l]’exercice par le juge de son pouvoir discrétionnaire [n’était] pas fondé en droit, non plus qu’il ne reposait sur un traitement approprié des faits, de sorte que, peu importe la norme de contrôle appliquée, il [était] justifié d’intervenir en appel » (par. 48 (CanLII)). En particulier, la cour relève deux erreurs qui sont pertinentes pour les présents pourvois.

[33] D’une part, la cour conclut que le juge surveillant a commis une erreur en concluant que Callidus a agi dans un but illégitime en demandant l’autorisation de voter sur son nouveau plan. À son avis, Callidus aurait dû être autorisée à voter. La cour s’appuie grandement sur l’idée que les créanciers ont le droit de voter en fonction de leur propre intérêt. Elle juge que l’exercice du pouvoir discrétionnaire qui consiste à empêcher un créancier de voter dans un but illégitime devrait être [TRADUCTION] « réservé aux cas les plus évidents » (par. 62, renvoyant à Re Blackburn, 2011 BCSC 1671, 27 B.C.L.R. (5th) 199, par. 45). Selon elle, en tentant de façon transparente d’être libérée des réclamations de Bluberi à son égard, Callidus ne pouvait être considérée comme ayant agi dans un but illégitime. La cour conclut également que la conduite de Callidus, avant et pendant la procédure introduite en vertu de la LACC, ne pouvait justifier la conclusion qu’il existe un but illégitime.

[34] D’autre part, la cour conclut que le juge surveillant a eu tort d’approuver l’AFL en tant qu’accord de financement provisoire parce qu’à son avis, il n’est pas lié aux opérations commerciales de Bluberi. Elle conclut que le juge surveillant a [TRADUCTION] « donné à la notion de financement provisoire une interprétation non fondée en droit et qu’il a mal appliqué cette notion aux circonstances factuelles de l’affaire » (par. 78).

[35] À la lumière de ce qu’elle percevait comme une erreur, la cour substitue son opinion selon laquelle l’AFL est un plan d’arrangement et que pour to a creditors' vote. It held that "[a]n arrangement or proposal can encompass both a compromise of creditors' claims as well as the process undertaken to satisfy them" (para. 85). The court considered the LFA to be a plan of arrangement because it affected the creditors' share in any eventual litigation proceeds, would cause them to wait for the outcome of any litigation, and could potentially leave them with nothing at all. Moreover, the court held that Bluberi's scheme "as a whole", being the prosecution of the Retained Claims and the LFA, should be submitted as a plan to the creditors for their approval (para. 89).

[36] Bluberi and Bentham (collectively, "appellants"), again supported by the Monitor, now appeal to this Court.

IV. Issues

[37] These appeals raise two issues:

- (1) Did the supervising judge err in barring Callidus from voting on its New Plan on the basis that it was acting for an improper purpose?
- (2) Did the supervising judge err in approving the LFA as interim financing, pursuant to s. 11.2 of the CCAA?

V. Analysis

A. Preliminary Considerations

[38] Addressing the above issues requires situating them within the contemporary Canadian insolvency landscape and, more specifically, the CCAA regime. Accordingly, before turning to those issues, we review (1) the evolving nature of CCAA proceedings; (2) the role of the supervising judge in those proceedings; and (3) the proper scope of appellate review of a supervising judge's exercise of discretion.

cette raison, il aurait dû être soumis au vote des créanciers. Elle conclut [TRADUCTION] « [qu'un] arrangement ou une proposition peut englober une transaction visant les réclamations des créanciers ainsi que le processus suivi pour y donner suite » (par. 85). La cour juge que l'AFL est un plan d'arrangement parce qu'il a une incidence sur la participation des créanciers à l'indemnité susceptible d'être accordée à la suite d'un litige, qu'il oblige ceux-ci à attendre l'issue de tout litige, et qu'il est possible que les créanciers se retrouvent les mains vides. De plus, la cour conclut que le projet de Bluberi « dans son entièreté », soit la poursuite des réclamations réservées et l'AFL, doit être soumis à l'approbation des créanciers (par. 89).

[36] Bluberi et Bentham (collectivement, les « appelantes »), encore une fois appuyées par le contrôleur, se pourvoient maintenant devant notre Cour.

IV. Questions en litige

[37] Les pourvois soulèvent deux questions :

- (1) Le juge surveillant a-t-il commis une erreur en empêchant Callidus de voter sur son nouveau plan au motif qu'elle agissait dans un but illégitime?
- (2) Le juge surveillant a-t-il commis une erreur en approuvant l'AFL en tant que plan de financement provisoire, selon les termes de l'art. 11.2 de la LACC?

V. Analyse

A. Considérations préliminaires

[38] Pour répondre aux questions ci-dessus, nous devons les situer dans le contexte contemporain de l'insolvabilité au Canada, et plus précisément du régime de la LACC. Ainsi, avant de passer à ces questions, nous examinons (1) la nature évolutive des procédures intentées sous le régime de la LACC; (2) le rôle que joue le juge surveillant dans ces procédures; et (3) la portée du contrôle, en appel, de l'exercice du pouvoir discrétionnaire du juge surveillant.

(1) The Evolving Nature of CCAA Proceedings

[39] The CCAA is one of three principal insolvency statutes in Canada. The others are the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-3 (“BIA”), which covers insolvencies of both individuals and companies, and the Winding-up and Restructuring Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. W-11 (“WURA”), which covers insolvencies of financial institutions and certain other corporations, such as insurance companies (WURA, s. 6(1)). While both the CCAA and the BIA enable reorganizations of insolvent companies, access to the CCAA is restricted to debtor companies facing total claims in excess of $5 million (CCAA, s. 3(1)).

[40] Together, Canada’s insolvency statutes pursue an array of overarching remedial objectives that reflect the wide ranging and potentially “catastrophic” impacts insolvency can have (Sun Indalex Finance, LLC v. United Steelworkers, 2013 SCC 6, [2013] 1 S.C.R. 271, at para. 1). These objectives include: providing for timely, efficient and impartial resolution of a debtor’s insolvency; preserving and maximizing the value of a debtor’s assets; ensuring fair and equitable treatment of the claims against a debtor; protecting the public interest; and, in the context of a commercial insolvency, balancing the costs and benefits of restructuring or liquidating the company (J. P. Sarra, “The Oscillating Pendulum: Canada’s Sesquicentennial and Finding the Equilibrium for Insolvency Law”, in J. P. Sarra and B. Romaine, eds., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2016 (2017), 9, at pp. 9-10; J. P. Sarra, Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act (2nd ed. 2013), at pp. 4-5 and 14; Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce, Debtors and Creditors Sharing the Burden: A Review of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act (2003), at pp. 9-10; R. J. Wood, Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law (2nd ed. 2015), at pp. 4-5).

(1) La nature évolutive des procédures intentées sous le régime de la LACC

[40] Ensemble, les lois canadiennes sur l’insolvabilité poursuivent un grand nombre d’objectifs réparateurs généraux qui témoignent de la vaste gamme des conséquences potentiellement « catastrophiques » qui peuvent découler de l’insolvabilité (Sun Indalex Finance, LLC c. Syndicat des Métallos, 2013 CSC 6, [2013] 1 R.C.S. 271, par. 1). Ces objectifs incluent les suivants : régler de façon rapide, efficace et impartiale l’insolvabilité d’un débiteur; préserver et maximiser la valeur des actifs d’un débiteur; assurer un traitement juste et équitable des réclamations déposées contre un débiteur; protéger l’intérêt public; et, dans le contexte d’une insolvabilité commerciale, établir un équilibre entre les coûts et les bénéfices découlant de la restructuration ou de la liquidation d’une compagnie (J. P. Sarra, « The Oscillating Pendulum : Canada’s Sesquicentennial and Finding the Equilibrium for Insolvency Law », dans J. P. Sarra et B. Romaine, dir., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2016 (2017), 9, p. 9-10; J. P. Sarra, Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act (2^e éd. 2013), p. 4-5 et 14; Comité sénatorial permanent des banques et du commerce, Les débiteurs et les créanciers doivent se partager le fardeau : Examen de la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité et de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies (2003), p. 13-14; R. J. Wood, Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law (2^e éd. 2015), p. 4-5).

[41] Among these objectives, the CCAA generally prioritizes “avoiding the social and economic losses resulting from liquidation of an insolvent company” (Century Services, at para. 70). As a result, the typical CCAA case has historically involved an attempt to facilitate the reorganization and survival of the pre-filing debtor company in an operational state — that is, as a going concern. Where such a reorganization was not possible, the alternative course of action was seen as a liquidation through either a receivership or under the BIA regime. This is precisely the outcome that was sought in Century Services (see para. 14).

[42] That said, the CCAA is fundamentally insolvency legislation, and thus it also “has the simultaneous objectives of maximizing creditor recovery, preservation of going-concern value where possible, preservation of jobs and communities affected by the firm’s financial distress . . . and enhancement of the credit system generally” (Sarra, Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, at p. 14; see also Ernst & Young Inc. v. Essar Global Fund Ltd., 2017 ONCA 1014, 139 O.R. (3d) 1 (“Essar”), at para. 103). In pursuit of those objectives, CCAA proceedings have evolved to permit outcomes that do not result in the emergence of the pre-filing debtor company in a restructured state, but rather involve some form of liquidation of the debtor’s assets under the auspices of the Act itself (Sarra, “The Oscillating Pendulum: Canada’s Sesquicentennial and Finding the Equilibrium for Insolvency Law”, at pp. 19-21). Such scenarios are referred to as “liquidating CCAAs”, and they are now commonplace in the CCAA landscape (see Third Eye Capital Corporation v. Ressources Dianor Inc./Dianor Resources Inc., 2019 ONCA 508, 435 D.L.R. (4th) 416, at para. 70).

[42] Cela dit, la LACC est fondamentalement une loi sur l’insolvabilité, et à ce titre, elle a aussi [TRADUCTION] « comme objectifs simultanés de maximiser le recouvrement au profit des créanciers, de préserver la valeur d’exploitation dans la mesure du possible, de protéger les emplois et les collectivités touchées par les difficultés financières de l’entreprise [. . .] et d’améliorer le système de crédit de manière générale » (Sarra, Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, p. 14; voir aussi Ernst & Young Inc. c. Essar Global Fund Ltd., 2017 ONCA 1014, 139 O.R. (3d) 1 (« Essar »), par. 103). Afin d’atteindre ces objectifs, les procédures intentées sous le régime de la LACC ont évolué de telle sorte qu’elles permettent des solutions qui évitent l’émergence, sous une forme restructurée, de la société débitrice qui existait avant le début des procédures, mais qui impliquent plutôt une certaine forme de liquidation des actifs du débiteur sous le régime même de la Loi (Sarra, « The Oscillating Pendulum : Canada’s Sesquicentennial and Finding the Equilibrium for Insolvency Law », p. 19-21). Ces cas, qualifiés de [TRADUCTION] « procédures de liquidation sous le régime de la LACC », sont maintenant courants dans le contexte de la LACC (voir Third Eye Capital Corporation c. Ressources Dianor Inc./Dianor Resources Inc., 2019 ONCA 508, 435 D.L.R. (4th) 416, par. 70).

[43] Liquidating CCAAs take diverse forms and may involve, among other things: the sale of the debtor company as a going concern; an “en bloc” sale of assets that are capable of being operationalized by a buyer; a partial liquidation or downsizing of business operations; or a piecemeal sale of assets (B. Kaplan, “Liquidating CCAAs: Discretion Gone Awry?”, in J. P. Sarra, ed., Annual Review of Insolvency Law (2008), 79, at pp. 87-89). The ultimate commercial outcomes facilitated by liquidating CCAAs are similarly diverse. Some may result in the continued operation of the business of the debtor under a different going concern entity (e.g., the liquidations in Indalex and Re Canadian Red Cross Society (1998), 5 C.B.R. (4th) 299 (Ont. C.J. (Gen. Div.)), while others may result in a sale of assets and inventory with no such entity emerging (e.g., the proceedings in Re Target Canada Co., 2015 ONSC 303, 22 C.B.R. (6th) 323, at paras. 7 and 31). Others still, like the case at bar, may involve a going concern sale of most of the assets of the debtor, leaving residual assets to be dealt with by the debtor and its stakeholders.

[44] CCAA courts first began approving these forms of liquidation pursuant to the broad discretion conferred by the Act. The emergence of this practice was not without criticism, largely on the basis that it appeared to be inconsistent with the CCAA being a “restructuring statute” (see, e.g., Uti Energy Corp. v. Fracmaster Ltd., 1999 ABCA 178, 244 A.R. 93, at paras. 15-16, aff’g 1999 ABQB 379, 11 C.B.R. (4th) 204, at paras. 40-43; A. Nocilla, “The History of the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act and the Future of Re-Structuring Law in Canada” (2014), 56 Can. Bus. L.J. 73, at pp. 88-92).

[45] However, since s. 36 of the CCAA came into force in 2009, courts have been using it to effect liquidating CCAAs. Section 36 empowers courts to authorize the sale or disposition of a debtor

[43] Les procédures de liquidation sous le régime de la LACC revêtent différentes formes et peuvent, entre autres, inclure la vente de la société débitrice à titre d’entreprise en activité; la vente « en bloc » des éléments d’actif susceptibles d’être exploités par un acquéreur; une liquidation partielle de l’entreprise ou une réduction de ses activités; ou encore une vente de ses actifs élément par élément (B. Kaplan, « Liquidating CCAAs : Discretion Gone Awry? » dans J. P. Sarra, dir., Annual Review of Insolvency Law (2008), 79, p. 87-89). Les résultats commerciaux ultimement obtenus à l’issue des procédures de liquidation introduites sous le régime de la LACC sont eux aussi variés. Certaines procédures peuvent avoir pour résultat la continuité des activités de la débitrice sous la forme d’une autre entité viable (p. ex., les sociétés liquidées dans Indalex et Re Canadian Red Cross Society (1998), 5 C.B.R. (4th) 299 (C.J. Ont., Div. gén.)), alors que d’autres peuvent simplement aboutir à la vente des actifs et de l’inventaire sans donner naissance à une nouvelle entité (p. ex., la procédure en cause dans Re Target Canada Co., 2015 ONSC 303, 22 C.B.R. (6th) 323, par. 7 et 31). D’autres encore, comme dans le dossier qui nous occupe, peuvent donner lieu à la vente de la plupart des actifs de la débitrice en vue de la poursuite de son activité, laissant à la débitrice et aux parties intéressées le soin de s’occuper des actifs résiduels.

[45] Toutefois, depuis que l’art. 36 de la LACC est entré en vigueur en 2009, les tribunaux l’utilisent pour consentir à une liquidation sous le régime de la LACC. L’article 36 confère aux tribunaux le pouvoir company's assets outside the ordinary course of business.³ Significantly, when the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce recommended the adoption of s. 36, it observed that liquidation is not necessarily inconsistent with the remedial objectives of the CCAA, and that it may be a means to “raise capital [to facilitate a restructuring], eliminate further loss for creditors or focus on the solvent operations of the business” (p. 147). Other commentators have observed that liquidation can be a “vehicle to restructure a business” by allowing the business to survive, albeit under a different corporate form or ownership (Sarra, Rescue! The Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, at p. 169; see also K. P. McElcheran, Commercial Insolvency in Canada (4th ed. 2019), at p. 311). Indeed, in Indalex, the company sold its assets under the CCAA in order to preserve the jobs of its employees, despite being unable to survive as their employer (see para. 51).

[46] Ultimately, the relative weight that the different objectives of the CCAA take on in a particular case may vary based on the factual circumstances, the stage of the proceedings, or the proposed solutions that are presented to the court for approval. Here, a parallel may be drawn with the BIA context. In Orphan Well Association v. Grant Thornton Ltd., 2019 SCC 5, [2019] 1 S.C.R. 150, at para. 67, this Court explained that, as a general matter, the BIA serves two purposes: (1) the bankrupt's financial rehabilitation and (2) the equitable distribution of the bankrupt's assets among creditors. However, d'autoriser la vente ou la disposition des actifs d'une compagnie débitrice hors du cours ordinaire de ses affaires³. Fait important, lorsque le Comité sénatorial permanent des banques et du commerce a recommandé l'adoption de l'art. 36, il a fait observer que la liquidation n'est pas nécessairement incompatible avec les objectifs réparateurs de la LACC et qu'il pourrait s'agir d'un moyen « soit pour obtenir des capitaux [et faciliter la restructuration] ou éviter des pertes plus graves aux créanciers, soit pour se concentrer sur ses activités solvables » (p. 163). D'autres auteurs ont observé que la liquidation peut [TRADUCTION] « être un moyen de restructurer une entreprise » en lui permettant de survivre, quoique sous une forme corporative différente ou sous la gouverne de propriétaires différents (Sarra, Rescue! The Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, p. 169; voir aussi K. P. McElcheran, Commercial Insolvency in Canada (4^e éd. 2019), p. 311). D'ailleurs, dans l'arrêt Indalex, la compagnie a vendu ses actifs sous le régime de la LACC afin de protéger les emplois de son personnel, même si elle ne pouvait demeurer leur employeur (voir par. 51).

³ We note that while s. 36 now codifies the jurisdiction of a supervising court to grant a sale and vesting order, and enumerates factors to guide the court's discretion to grant such an order, it is silent on when courts ought to approve a liquidation under the CCAA as opposed to requiring the parties to proceed to liquidation under a receivership or the BIA regime (see Sarra, Rescue! The Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, at pp. 167-68; A. Nocilla, “Asset Sales Under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act and the Failure of Section 36” (2012) 52 Can. Bus. L.J. 226, at pp. 243-44 and 247). This issue remains an open question and was not put to this Court in either Indalex or these appeals.

in circumstances where a debtor corporation will never emerge from bankruptcy, only the latter purpose is relevant (see para. 67). Similarly, under the CCAA, when a reorganization of the pre-filing debtor company is not a possibility, a liquidation that preserves going-concern value and the ongoing business operations of the pre-filing company may become the predominant remedial focus. Moreover, where a reorganization or liquidation is complete and the court is dealing with residual assets, the objective of maximizing creditor recovery from those assets may take centre stage. As we will explain, the architecture of the CCAA leaves the case-specific assessment and balancing of these remedial objectives to the supervising judge.

(2) The Role of a Supervising Judge in CCAA Proceedings

[47] One of the principal means through which the CCAA achieves its objectives is by carving out a unique supervisory role for judges (see Sarra, Rescue! The Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, at pp. 18-19). From beginning to end, each CCAA proceeding is overseen by a single supervising judge. The supervising judge acquires extensive knowledge and insight into the stakeholder dynamics and the business realities of the proceedings from their ongoing dealings with the parties.

[48] The CCAA capitalizes on this positional advantage by supplying supervising judges with broad discretion to make a variety of orders that respond to the circumstances of each case and “meet contemporary business and social needs” (Century Services, at para. 58) in “real-time” (para. 58, citing R. B. Jones, “The Evolution of Canadian Restructuring: Challenges for the Rule of Law”, in J. P. Sarra, ed., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2005 (2006), 481, at p. 484). The anchor of this discretionary authority is s. 11, which empowers a judge “to make any order that [the judge] considers appropriate in the circumstances”. This section has been described as “the engine” driving the statutory scheme (Stelco la société débitrice ne s’extirpera jamais de la faillite, seul le dernier objectif est pertinent (voir par. 67). Dans la même veine, sous le régime de la LACC, lorsque la restructuration d’une société débitrice qui n’a pas déposé de proposition est impossible, une liquidation visant à protéger sa valeur d’exploitation et à maintenir ses activités courantes peut devenir l’objectif réparateur principal. En outre, lorsque la restructuration ou la liquidation est terminée et que le tribunal doit décider du sort des actifs résiduels, l’objectif de maximiser le recouvrement des créanciers à partir de ces actifs peut passer au premier plan. Comme nous l’expliquerons, la structure de la LACC laisse au juge surveillant le soin de procéder à un examen et à une mise en balance au cas par cas de ces objectifs réparateurs.

(2) Le rôle du juge surveillant dans les procédures intentées sous le régime de la LACC

[47] Un des principaux moyens par lesquels la LACC atteint ses objectifs réside dans le rôle particulier de surveillance qu’elle réserve aux juges (voir Sarra, Rescue! The Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, p. 18-19). Chaque procédure fondée sur la LACC est supervisée du début à la fin par un seul juge surveillant. En raison de ses rapports continus avec les parties, ce dernier acquiert une connaissance approfondie de la dynamique entre les intéressés et des réalités commerciales entourant la procédure.

[48] La LACC mise sur la position avantageuse qu’occupe le juge surveillant en lui accordant le vaste pouvoir discrétionnaire de rendre toute une gamme d’ordonnances susceptibles de répondre aux circonstances de chaque cas et de « [s’adapter] aux besoins commerciaux et sociaux contemporains » (Century Services, par. 58) en « temps réel » (par. 58, citant R. B. Jones, « The Evolution of Canadian Restructuring : Challenges for the Rule of Law », dans J. P. Sarra, dir., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2005 (2006), 481, p. 484). Le point d’ancrage de ce pouvoir discrétionnaire est l’art. 11, qui confère au juge le pouvoir de « rendre toute ordonnance qu’il estime indiquée ». Cette disposition a été décrite

[49] The discretionary authority conferred by the CCAA, while broad in nature, is not boundless. This authority must be exercised in furtherance of the remedial objectives of the CCAA, which we have explained above (see Century Services, at para. 59). Additionally, the court must keep in mind three “baseline considerations” (at para. 70), which the applicant bears the burden of demonstrating: (1) that the order sought is appropriate in the circumstances, and (2) that the applicant has been acting in good faith and (3) with due diligence (para. 69).

[50] The first two considerations of appropriateness and good faith are widely understood in the CCAA context. Appropriateness “is assessed by inquiring whether the order sought advances the policy objectives underlying the CCAA” (para. 70). Further, the well-established requirement that parties must act in good faith in insolvency proceedings has recently been made express in s. 18.6 of the CCAA, which provides:

Good faith

18.6 (1) Any interested person in any proceedings under this Act shall act in good faith with respect to those proceedings.

Good faith — powers of court

(2) If the court is satisfied that an interested person fails to act in good faith, on application by an interested person, the court may make any order that it considers appropriate in the circumstances.

(See also BIA, s. 4.2; Budget Implementation Act, 2019, No. 1, S.C. 2019, c. 29, ss. 133 and 140.)

[51] The third consideration of due diligence requires some elaboration. Consistent with the CCAA regime generally, the due diligence consideration discourages parties from sitting on their rights and ensures that creditors do not strategically manoeuvre or comme étant le « moteur » du régime législatif (Stelco Inc. (Re) (2005), 253 D.L.R. (4th) 109 (C.A. Ont.), par. 36).

[49] Quoique vaste, le pouvoir discrétionnaire conféré par la LACC n’est pas sans limites. Son exercice doit tendre à la réalisation des objectifs réparateurs de la LACC, que nous avons expliqués ci-dessus (voir Century Services, par. 59). En outre, la cour doit garder à l’esprit les trois « considérations de base » (par. 70) qu’il incombe au demandeur de démontrer : (1) que l’ordonnance demandée est indiquée, et (2) qu’il a agi de bonne foi et (3) avec la diligence voulue (par. 69).

[50] Les deux premières considérations, l’opportunité et la bonne foi, sont largement connues dans le contexte de la LACC. Le tribunal « évalue l’opportunité de l’ordonnance demandée en déterminant si elle favorisera la réalisation des objectifs de politique générale qui sous-tendent la Loi » (par. 70). Par ailleurs, l’exigence bien établie selon laquelle les parties doivent agir de bonne foi dans les procédures d’insolvabilité est depuis peu mentionnée de façon expresse à l’art. 18.6 de la LACC, qui dispose : 18.6 (1) Tout intéressé est tenu d’agir de bonne foi dans le cadre d’une procédure intentée au titre de la présente loi.

Bonne foi — pouvoirs du tribunal

(2) S’il est convaincu que l’intéressé n’agit pas de bonne foi, le tribunal peut, à la demande de tout intéressé, rendre toute ordonnance qu’il estime indiquée.

(Voir aussi LFI, art. 4.2; Loi n° 1 d’exécution du budget de 2019, L.C. 2019, c. 29, art. 133 et 140.)

[51] La troisième considération, celle de la diligence, requiert qu’on s’y attarde. Conformément au régime de la LACC en général, la considération de diligence décourage les parties de rester sur leurs positions et fait en sorte que les créanciers n’usent position themselves to gain an advantage (Lehndorff General Partner Ltd., Re (1993), 17 C.B.R. (3d) 24 (Ont. C.J. (Gen. Div.)), at p. 31). The procedures set out in the CCAA rely on negotiations and compromise between the debtor and its stakeholders, as overseen by the supervising judge and the monitor. This necessarily requires that, to the extent possible, those involved in the proceedings be on equal footing and have a clear understanding of their respective rights (see McElcheran, at p. 262). A party's failure to participate in CCAA proceedings in a diligent and timely fashion can undermine these procedures and, more generally, the effective functioning of the CCAA regime (see, e.g., North American Tungsten Corp. v. Global Tungsten and Powders Corp., 2015 BCCA 390, 377 B.C.A.C. 6, at paras. 21-23; Re BA Energy Inc., 2010 ABQB 507, 70 C.B.R. (5th) 24; HSBC Bank Canada v. Bear Mountain Master Partnership, 2010 BCSC 1563, 72 C.B.R. (5th) 276, at para. 11; Caterpillar Financial Services Ltd. v. 360networks Corp., 2007 BCCA 14, 279 D.L.R. (4th) 701, at paras. 51-52, in which the courts seized on a party's failure to act diligently).

[52] We pause to note that supervising judges are assisted in their oversight role by a court appointed monitor whose qualifications and duties are set out in the CCAA (see ss. 11.7, 11.8 and 23 to 25). The monitor is an independent and impartial expert, acting as “the eyes and the ears of the court” throughout the proceedings (Essar, at para. 109). The core of the monitor's role includes providing an advisory opinion to the court as to the fairness of any proposed plan of arrangement and on orders sought by parties, including the sale of assets and requests for interim financing (see CCAA, s. 23(1)(d) and (i); Sarra, Rescue! The Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, at pp. 566 and 569).

pas stratégiquement de ruse ou ne se placent pas eux-mêmes dans une position pour obtenir un avantage (Lehndorff General Partner Ltd., Re (1993), 17 C.B.R. (3d) 24 (C.J. Ont. (Div. gén.)), p. 31). La procédure prévue par la LACC se fonde sur les négociations et les transactions entre le débiteur et les intéressés, le tout étant supervisé par le juge surveillant et le contrôleur. Il faut donc nécessairement que, dans la mesure du possible, ceux qui participent au processus soient sur un pied d'égalité et aient une compréhension claire de leurs droits respectifs (voir McElcheran, p. 262). La partie qui, dans le cadre d'une procédure fondée sur la LACC, n'agit pas avec diligence et en temps utile risque de compromettre le processus et, de façon plus générale, de nuire à l'efficacité du régime de la Loi (voir, p. ex., North American Tungsten Corp. c. Global Tungsten and Powders Corp., 2015 BCCA 390, 377 B.C.A.C. 6 par. 21-23; Re BA Energy Inc., 2010 ABQB 507, 70 C.B.R. (5th) 24; HSBC Bank Canada c. Bear Mountain Master Partnership, 2010 BCSC 1563, 72 C.B.R. (5th) 276 par. 11; Caterpillar Financial Services Ltd. c. 360networks Corp., 2007 BCCA 14, 279 D.L.R. (4th) 701, par. 51-52, où les tribunaux se sont penchés sur le manque de diligence d'une partie).

(3) Appellate Review of Exercises of Discretion by a Supervising Judge

[53] A high degree of deference is owed to discretionary decisions made by judges supervising CCAA proceedings. As such, appellate intervention will only be justified if the supervising judge erred in principle or exercised their discretion unreasonably (see Grant Forest Products Inc. v. Toronto-Dominion Bank, 2015 ONCA 570, 387 D.L.R. (4th) 426, at para. 98; Bridging Finance Inc. v. Béton Brunet 2001 inc., 2017 QCCA 138, 44 C.B.R. (6th) 175, at para. 23). Appellate courts must be careful not to substitute their own discretion in place of the supervising judge's (New Skeena Forest Products Inc., Re, 2005 BCCA 192, 39 B.C.L.R. (4th) 338, at para. 20).

[54] This deferential standard of review accounts for the fact that supervising judges are steeped in the intricacies of the CCAA proceedings they oversee. In this respect, the comments of Tysoe J.A. in Canadian Metropolitan Properties Corp. v. Libin Holdings Ltd., 2009 BCCA 40, 308 D.L.R. (4th) 339 (“Re Edgewater Casino Inc.”), at para. 20, are apt:

... one of the principal functions of the judge supervising the CCAA proceeding is to attempt to balance the interests of the various stakeholders during the reorganization process, and it will often be inappropriate to consider an exercise of discretion by the supervising judge in isolation of other exercises of discretion by the judge in endeavoring to balance the various interests. ... CCAA proceedings are dynamic in nature and the supervising judge has intimate knowledge of the reorganization process. The nature of the proceedings often requires the supervising judge to make quick decisions in complicated circumstances.

[55] With the foregoing in mind, we turn to the issues on appeal.

(3) Le contrôle en appel de l'exercice du pouvoir discrétionnaire du juge surveillant

[53] Les décisions discrétionnaires des juges chargés de la supervision des procédures intentées sous le régime de la LACC commandent un degré élevé de déférence. Ainsi, les cours d'appel ne seront justifiées d'intervenir que si le juge surveillant a commis une erreur de principe ou exercé son pouvoir discrétionnaire de manière déraisonnable (voir Grant Forest Products Inc. c. Toronto-Dominion Bank, 2015 ONCA 570, 387 D.L.R. (4th) 426, par. 98; Bridging Finance Inc. c. Béton Brunet 2001 inc., 2017 QCCA 138, 44 C.B.R. (6th) 175, par. 23). Elles doivent prendre garde de ne pas substituer leur propre pouvoir discrétionnaire à celui du juge surveillant (New Skeena Forest Products Inc., Re, 2005 BCCA 192, 39 B.C.L.R. (4th) 338, par. 20).

[55] En gardant ce qui précède à l'esprit, nous passons maintenant aux questions soulevées par le présent pourvoi.

B. Callidus Should Not Be Permitted to Vote on Its New Plan

[56] A creditor can generally vote on a plan of arrangement or compromise that affects its rights, subject to any specific provisions of the CCAA that may restrict its voting rights (e.g., s. 22(3)), or a proper exercise of discretion by the supervising judge to constrain or bar the creditor's right to vote. We conclude that one such constraint arises from s. 11 of the CCAA, which provides supervising judges with the discretion to bar a creditor from voting where the creditor is acting for an improper purpose. Supervising judges are best-placed to determine whether this discretion should be exercised in a particular case. In our view, the supervising judge here made no error in exercising his discretion to bar Callidus from voting on the New Plan.

(1) Parameters of Creditors' Right to Vote on Plans of Arrangement

[57] Creditor approval of any plan of arrangement or compromise is a key feature of the CCAA, as is the supervising judge's oversight of that process. Where a plan is proposed, an application may be made to the supervising judge to order a creditors' meeting to vote on the proposed plan (CCAA, ss. 4 and 5). The supervising judge has the discretion to determine whether to order the meeting. For the purposes of voting at a creditors' meeting, the debtor company may divide the creditors into classes, subject to court approval (CCAA, s. 22(1)). Creditors may be included in the same class if "their interests or rights are sufficiently similar to give them a commonality of interest" (CCAA, s. 22(2); see also L. W. Houlden, G. B. Morawetz and J. P. Sarra, Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law of Canada (4th ed. (loose-leaf)), vol. 4, at §149). If the requisite "double majority" in each class of creditors — again, a majority in number of class members, which also represents two-thirds in value of the class members' claims — vote in favour of the plan, the supervising judge may sanction the plan (Metcalf & Mansfield Alternative Investments II Corp. (Re), 2008 ONCA 587, 296 D.L.R. (4th) 135, at para. 34; see CCAA, s. 6). The supervising judge will conduct what is

B. Callidus ne devrait pas être autorisée à voter sur son nouveau plan

[56] En général, un créancier peut voter sur un plan d'arrangement ou une transaction qui a une incidence sur ses droits, sous réserve des dispositions de la LACC qui peuvent limiter son droit de voter (p. ex., par. 22(3)), ou de l'exercice justifié par le juge surveillant de son pouvoir discrétionnaire de limiter ou de supprimer ce droit. Nous concluons qu'une telle limite découle de l'art. 11 de la LACC, qui confère au juge surveillant le pouvoir discrétionnaire d'empêcher le créancier de voter lorsqu'il agit dans un but illégitime. Le juge surveillant est mieux placé que quiconque pour déterminer s'il doit exercer ce pouvoir dans un cas donné. À notre avis, le juge surveillant n'a, en l'espèce, commis aucune erreur en exerçant son pouvoir discrétionnaire pour empêcher Callidus de voter sur le nouveau plan.

(1) Les paramètres du droit d'un créancier de voter sur un plan d'arrangement

[57] L'approbation par les créanciers d'un plan d'arrangement ou d'une transaction est l'une des principales caractéristiques de la LACC, tout comme la supervision du processus assurée par le juge surveillant. Lorsqu'un plan est proposé, le juge surveillant peut, sur demande, ordonner que soit convoquée une assemblée des créanciers pour que ceux-ci puissent voter sur le plan proposé (LACC, art. 4 et 5). Le juge surveillant a le pouvoir discrétionnaire de décider ou non d'ordonner qu'une assemblée soit convoquée. Pour les besoins du vote à l'assemblée des créanciers, la compagnie débitrice peut établir des catégories de créanciers, sous réserve de l'approbation du tribunal (LACC, par. 22(1)). Peuvent faire partie de la même catégorie les créanciers « ayant des droits ou intérêts à ce point semblables [. . .] qu'on peut en conclure qu'ils ont un intérêt commun » (LACC, par. 22(2); voir aussi L. W. Houlden, G. B. Morawetz, et J. P. Sarra, Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law of Canada (4^e éd. (feuilles mobiles)), vol. 4, §149). Si la « double majorité » requise dans chaque catégorie de créanciers — rappelons qu'il s'agit de la majorité en nombre d'une catégorie, qui représente aussi les deux-tiers en valeur des réclamations de cette catégorie — vote commonly referred to as a “fairness hearing” to determine, among other things, whether the plan is fair and reasonable (Wood, at pp. 490-92; see also Sarra, Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, at p. 529; Houlden, Morawetz and Sarra at §45). Once sanctioned by the supervising judge, the plan is binding on each class of creditors that participated in the vote (CCAA, s. 6(1)).

[58] Creditors with a provable claim against the debtor whose interests are affected by a proposed plan are usually entitled to vote on plans of arrangement (Wood, at p. 470). Indeed, there is no express provision in the CCAA barring such a creditor from voting on a plan of arrangement, including a plan it sponsors.

[59] Notwithstanding the foregoing, the appellants submit that a purposive interpretation of s. 22(3) of the CCAA reveals that, as a general matter, a creditor should be precluded from voting on its own plan. Section 22(3) provides:

Related creditors

(3) A creditor who is related to the company may vote against, but not for, a compromise or arrangement relating to the company.

The appellants note that s. 22(3) was meant to harmonize the CCAA scheme with s. 54(3) of the BIA, which provides that “[a] creditor who is related to the debtor may vote against but not for the acceptance of the proposal.” The appellants point out that, under s. 50(1) of the BIA, only debtors can sponsor plans; as a result, the reference to “debtor” in s. 54(3) captures all plan sponsors. They submit that if s. 54(3) captures all plan sponsors, s. 22(3) of the CCAA must do the same. On this basis, the appellants ask us to extend the voting restriction in s. 22(3) to apply not only to creditors who are “related to the company”, as the provision states, but to any en faveur du plan, le juge surveillant peut homologuer celui-ci (Metcalfe & Mansfield Alternative Investments II Corp. (Re), 2008 ONCA 587, 296 D.L.R. (4th) 135, par. 34; voir la LACC, art. 6). Le juge surveillant tiendra ce qu’on appelle communément une [TRADUCTION] « audience d’équité » pour décider, entre autres choses, si le plan est juste et raisonnable (Wood, p. 490-492; Sarra, Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, p. 529; Houlden, Morawetz et Sarra, §45). Une fois homologué par le juge surveillant, le plan lie chaque catégorie de créanciers qui a participé au vote (LACC, par. 6(1)).

[58] Les créanciers qui ont une réclamation prouvable contre le débiteur et dont les intérêts sont touchés par un plan d’arrangement proposé ont habituellement le droit de voter sur un tel plan (Wood, p. 470). En fait, aucune disposition expresse de la LACC n’interdit à un créancier de voter sur un plan d’arrangement, y compris sur un plan dont il fait la promotion.

[59] Nonobstant ce qui précède, les appelantes soutiennent qu’une interprétation téléologique du par. 22(3) de la LACC révèle que, de façon générale, un créancier ne devrait pas pouvoir voter sur son propre plan. Le paragraphe 22(3) prévoit :

(3) Le créancier lié à la compagnie peut voter contre, mais non pour, l’acceptation de la transaction ou de l’arrangement.

Les appelantes font remarquer que le par. 22(3) devait permettre d’harmoniser le régime de la LACC avec le par. 54(3) de la LFI, qui dispose que « [u]n créancier qui est lié au débiteur peut voter contre, mais non pour, l’acceptation de la proposition. » Elles soulignent que, en vertu du par. 50(1) de la LFI, seuls les débiteurs peuvent faire la promotion d’un plan; ainsi, le « débiteur » auquel renvoie le par. 54(3) s’entend de tous les promoteurs de plan. Elles soutiennent que, si le par. 54(3) vise tous les promoteurs de plan, le par. 22(3) de la LACC doit également les viser. Pour cette raison, les appelantes nous demandent d’étendre la restriction au droit de creditor who sponsors a plan. They submit that this interpretation gives effect to the underlying intention of both provisions, which they say is to ensure that a creditor who has a conflict of interest cannot “dilute” or overtake the votes of other creditors.

[60] We would not accept this strained interpretation of s. 22(3). Section 22(3) makes no mention of conflicts of interest between creditors and plan sponsors generally. The wording of s. 22(3) only places voting restrictions on creditors who are “related to the [debtor] company”. These words are “precise and unequivocal” and, as such, must “play a dominant role in the interpretive process” (Canada Trustco Mortgage Co. v. Canada, 2005 SCC 54, [2005] 2 S.C.R. 601, at para. 10). In our view, the appellants’ analogy to the BIA is not sufficient to overcome the plain wording of this provision.

[61] While the appellants are correct that s. 22(3) was enacted to harmonize the treatment of related parties in the CCAA and BIA, its history demonstrates that it is not a general conflict of interest provision. Prior to the amendments incorporating s. 22(3) into the CCAA, the CCAA clearly allowed creditors to put forward a plan of arrangement (see Houlden, Morawetz and Sarra, at §33, Red Cross; Re 1078385 Ontario Inc. (2004), 206 O.A.C. 17). In contrast, under the BIA, only debtors could make proposals. Parliament is presumed to have been aware of this obvious difference between the two statutes (see ATCO Gas and Pipelines Ltd. v. Alberta (Energy and Utilities Board), 2006 SCC 4, [2006] 1 S.C.R. 140, at para. 59; see also Third Eye, at para. 57). Despite this difference, Parliament imported, with necessary modification, the wording of the BIA related creditor provision into the CCAA. Going beyond this language entails accepting that Parliament failed to choose the right words to give effect to its intention, which we do not.

voter imposée par le par. 22(3) de manière à ce qu’elle s’applique non seulement aux créanciers « lié[s] à la compagnie », comme le prévoit la disposition, mais aussi à tous les créanciers qui font la promotion d’un plan. Elles soutiennent que cette interprétation donne effet à l’intention sous-jacente aux deux dispositions, intention qui, de dire les appelantes, est de faire en sorte qu’un créancier qui est en conflit d’intérêts ne puisse pas « diluer » ou supplanter le vote des autres créanciers.

[60] Nous n’acceptons pas cette interprétation forcée du par. 22(3). Il n’est nullement question dans cette disposition de conflit d’intérêts entre les créanciers et les promoteurs d’un plan en général. Les restrictions au droit de voter imposées par le par. 22(3) ne s’appliquent qu’aux créanciers qui sont « lié[s] à la compagnie [débitrice] ». Ce libellé est « précis et non équivoque », et il doit ainsi « jouer un rôle primordial dans le processus d’interprétation » (Hypothèques Trustco Canada c. Canada, 2005 CSC 54, [2005] 2 R.C.S. 601, par. 10). À notre avis, l’analogie que les appelantes font avec la LFI ne suffit pas à écarter le libellé clair de cette disposition.

[61] Bien que les appelantes aient raison de dire que l’adoption du par. 22(3) visait à harmoniser le traitement réservé aux parties liées par la LACC et la LFI, son historique montre qu’il ne s’agit pas d’une disposition générale relative aux conflits d’intérêts. Avant qu’elle soit modifiée et qu’on y incorpore le par. 22(3), la LACC permettait clairement aux créanciers de présenter un plan d’arrangement (voir Houlden, Morawetz et Sarra, §33, Red Cross; Re 1078385 Ontario Inc. (2004), 206 O.A.C. 17). À l’opposé, en vertu de la LFI, seuls les débiteurs pouvaient déposer une proposition. Il faut présumer que le législateur était au fait de cette différence évidente entre les deux lois (voir ATCO Gas and Pipelines Ltd. c. Alberta (Energy and Utilities Board), 2006 CSC 4, [2006] 1 R.C.S. 140, par. 59; voir aussi Third Eye, par. 57). Le législateur a malgré tout importé dans la LACC, avec les adaptations nécessaires, le texte de la disposition de la LFI portant sur les créanciers liés. Aller au-delà de ce libellé suppose d’accepter que le législateur n’a pas choisi les bons mots pour donner effet à son intention, ce que nous ne ferons pas.

[62] Indeed, Parliament did not mindlessly reproduce s. 54(3) of the BIA in s. 22(3) of the CCAA. Rather, it made two modifications to the language of s. 54(3) to bring it into conformity with the language of the CCAA. First, it changed “proposal” (a defined term in the BIA) to “compromise or arrangement” (a term used throughout the CCAA). Second, it changed “debtor” to “company”, recognizing that companies are the only kind of debtor that exists in the CCAA context.

[63] Our view is further supported by Industry Canada’s explanation of the rationale for s. 22(3) as being to “reduce the ability of debtor companies to organize a restructuring plan that confers additional benefits to related parties” (Office of the Superintendent of Bankruptcy Canada, Bill C-12: Clause by Clause Analysis (online), cl. 71, s. 22 (emphasis added); see also Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce, at p. 151).

[64] Finally, we note that the CCAA contains other mechanisms that attenuate the concern that a creditor with conflicting legal interests with respect to a plan it proposes may distort the creditors’ vote. Although we reject the appellants’ interpretation of s. 22(3), that section still bars creditors who are related to the debtor company from voting in favour of any plan. Additionally, creditors who do not share a sufficient commonality of interest may be forced to vote in separate classes (s. 22(1) and (2)), and, as we will explain, a supervising judge may bar a creditor from voting where the creditor is acting for an improper purpose.

(2) Discretion to Bar a Creditor From Voting in Furtherance of an Improper Purpose

[65] There is no dispute that the CCAA is silent on when a creditor who is otherwise entitled to vote on a plan can be barred from voting. However, CCAA supervising judges are often called upon “to sanction measures for which there is no explicit authority in the CCAA” (Century Services, at para. 61; see also para. 62). In Century Services, this Court endorsed [62] En fait, le législateur n’a pas reproduit de façon irréfléchie, au par. 22(3) de la LACC, le texte du par. 54(3) de la LFI. Au contraire, il a apporté deux modifications au libellé du par. 54(3) pour l’adapter à celui employé dans la LACC. Premièrement, il a remplacé le terme « proposition » (défini dans la LFI) par les mots « transaction ou arrangement » (employés tout au long dans la LACC). Deuxièmement, il a remplacé « débiteur » par « compagnie », reconnaissant ainsi que les compagnies sont les seuls débiteurs qui existent dans le contexte de la LACC.

[63] Notre opinion est en outre appuyée par Industrie Canada, selon qui l’adoption du par. 22(3) se justifie par la volonté de « réduire la capacité des compagnies débitrices d’établir un plan de restructuration apportant des avantages supplémentaires à des personnes qui leur sont liées » (Bureau du surintendant des faillites Canada, Projet de loi C-12 : analyse article par article (en ligne), cl. 71, art. 22 (nous soulignons); voir aussi Comité sénatorial permanent des banques et du commerce, p. 166).

[64] Enfin, nous soulignons que la LACC prévoit d’autres mécanismes qui réduisent le risque qu’un créancier en situation de conflit d’intérêts par rapport au plan qu’il propose puisse biaiser le vote des créanciers. Bien que nous rejetions l’interprétation donnée par les appelantes au par. 22(3), ce paragraphe interdit tout de même aux créanciers liés à la compagnie débitrice de voter en faveur de tout plan. De plus, les créanciers qui n’ont pas suffisamment d’intérêts en commun pourraient être contraints de voter dans des catégories distinctes (par. 22(1) et (2)); et, comme nous l’expliquerons, le juge surveillant peut empêcher un créancier de voter si ce dernier agit dans un but illégitime.

(2) Le pouvoir discrétionnaire d’interdire à un créancier de voter dans un but illégitime

[65] Il est acquis aux débats que la LACC ne contient aucune disposition énonçant les circonstances dans lesquelles un créancier, autrement admissible à voter sur un plan, peut être empêché de le faire. Toutefois, les juges chargés d’appliquer la LACC sont souvent appelés à « sanctionner des mesures non expressément prévues par la LACC »

a “hierarchical” approach to determining whether jurisdiction exists to sanction a proposed measure: “. . . courts [must] rely first on an interpretation of the provisions of the CCAA text before turning to inherent or equitable jurisdiction to anchor measures taken in a CCAA proceeding” (para. 65). In most circumstances, a purposive and liberal interpretation of the provisions of the CCAA will be sufficient “to ground measures necessary to achieve its objectives” (para. 65).

[66] Applying this approach, we conclude that jurisdiction exists under s. 11 of the CCAA to bar a creditor from voting on a plan of arrangement or compromise where the creditor is acting for an improper purpose.

[67] Courts have long recognized that s. 11 of the CCAA signals legislative endorsement of the “broad reading of CCAA authority developed by the jurisprudence” (Century Services, at para. 68). Section 11 states:

General power of court

11 Despite anything in the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act or the Winding-up and Restructuring Act, if an application is made under this Act in respect of a debtor company, the court, on the application of any person interested in the matter, may, subject to the restrictions set out in this Act, on notice to any other person or without notice as it may see fit, make any order that it considers appropriate in the circumstances.

On the plain wording of the provision, the jurisdiction granted by s. 11 is constrained only by restrictions set out in the CCAA itself, and the requirement that the order made be “appropriate in the circumstances”.

[68] Where a party seeks an order relating to a matter that falls within the supervising judge’s purview, and for which there is no CCAA provision conferring more specific jurisdiction, s. 11 necessarily is the (Century Services, par. 61; voir aussi par. 62). Dans l’arrêt Century Services, notre Cour a souscrit à l’approche « hiérarchisée » qui vise à déterminer si le tribunal a compétence pour sanctionner une mesure proposée : « . . . les tribunaux procédèrent d’abord à une interprétation des dispositions de la LACC avant d’invoquer leur compétence inhérente ou leur compétence en equity pour justifier des mesures prises dans le cadre d’une procédure fondée sur la LACC » (par. 65). Dans la plupart des cas, une interprétation téléologique et large des dispositions de la LACC suffira à « justifier les mesures nécessaires à la réalisation de ses objectifs » (par. 65).

[66] Après avoir appliqué cette approche, nous concluons que l’art. 11 de la LACC confère au tribunal le pouvoir d’interdire à un créancier de voter sur un plan d’arrangement ou une transaction s’il agit dans un but illégitime.

[67] Les tribunaux reconnaissent depuis longtemps que le libellé de l’art. 11 de la LACC indique que le législateur a sanctionné « l’interprétation large du pouvoir conféré par la LACC qui a été élaborée par la jurisprudence » (Century Services, par. 68). L’article 11 est ainsi libellé :

Pouvoir général du tribunal

11 Malgré toute disposition de la Loi sur la faillite et l’insolvabilité ou de la Loi sur les liquidations et les restructurations, le tribunal peut, dans le cas de toute demande sous le régime de la présente loi à l’égard d’une compagnie débitrice, rendre, sur demande d’un intéressé, mais sous réserve des restrictions prévues par la présente loi et avec ou sans avis, toute ordonnance qu’il estime indiquée.

Selon le libellé clair de la disposition, le pouvoir conféré par l’art. 11 n’est limité que par les restrictions imposées par la LACC elle-même, ainsi que par l’exigence que l’ordonnance soit « indiquée » dans les circonstances.

[68] Lorsqu’une partie sollicite une ordonnance relativement à une question qui entre dans le champ de compétence du juge surveillant, mais pour laquelle aucune disposition de la LACC ne confère plus provision of first resort in anchoring jurisdiction. As Blair J.A. put it in Stelco, s. 11 “for the most part supplants the need to resort to inherent jurisdiction” in the CCAA context (para. 36).

[69] Oversight of the plan negotiation, voting, and approval process falls squarely within the supervising judge’s purview. As indicated, there are no specific provisions in the CCAA which govern when a creditor who is otherwise eligible to vote on a plan may nonetheless be barred from voting. Nor is there any provision in the CCAA which suggests that a creditor has an absolute right to vote on a plan that cannot be displaced by a proper exercise of judicial discretion. However, given that the CCAA regime contemplates creditor participation in decision-making as an integral facet of the workout regime, creditors should only be barred from voting where the circumstances demand such an outcome. In other words, it is necessarily a discretionary, circumstance-specific inquiry.

[70] Thus, it is apparent that s. 11 serves as the source of the supervising judge’s jurisdiction to issue a discretionary order barring a creditor from voting on a plan of arrangement. The exercise of this discretion must further the remedial objectives of the CCAA and be guided by the baseline considerations of appropriateness, good faith, and due diligence. This means that, where a creditor is seeking to exercise its voting rights in a manner that frustrates, undermines, or runs counter to those objectives — that is, acting for an “improper purpose” — the supervising judge has the discretion to bar that creditor from voting.

[71] The discretion to bar a creditor from voting in furtherance of an improper purpose under the CCAA parallels the similar discretion that exists under the BIA, which was recognized in Laserworks Computer Services Inc. (Bankruptcy), Re, 1998 NSCA 42, 165 N.S.R. (2d) 296. In Laserworks, the Nova Scotia précisément compétence, l’art. 11 est nécessairement la disposition à laquelle on peut recourir d’emblée pour fonder la compétence du tribunal. Comme l’a dit le juge Blair dans l’arrêt Stelco, l’art. 11 [TRANSDUCTION] « fait en sorte que la plupart du temps, il est inutile de recourir à la compétence inhérente » dans le contexte de la LACC (par. 36).

[70] L’article 11 constitue donc manifestement la source de la compétence du juge surveillant pour rendre une ordonnance discrétionnaire empêchant un créancier de voter sur un plan d’arrangement. L’exercice du pouvoir discrétionnaire doit favoriser la réalisation des objets réparateurs de la LACC et être fondé sur les considérations de base que sont l’opportunité, la bonne foi et la diligence. Cela signifie que, lorsqu’un créancier cherche à exercer ses droits de vote de manière à contrecarrer, à miner ces objectifs ou à aller à l’encontre de ceux-ci — c’est-à-dire à agir dans un « but illégitime » — le juge surveillant a le pouvoir discrétionnaire d’empêcher le créancier de voter.

[71] Le pouvoir discrétionnaire d’empêcher un créancier de voter dans un but illégitime au sens de la LACC s’apparente au pouvoir discrétionnaire semblable qui existe en vertu de la LFI, lequel a été reconnu dans l’arrêt Laserworks Computer Services Inc. (Bankruptcy), Re, 1998 NSCA 42, 165 N.S.R.

Court of Appeal concluded that the discretion to bar a creditor from voting in this way stemmed from the court's power, inherent in the scheme of the BIA, to supervise “[e]ach step in the bankruptcy process” (at para. 41), as reflected in ss. 43(7), 108(3), and 187(9) of the Act. The court explained that s. 187(9) specifically grants the power to remedy a “substantial injustice”, which arises “when the BIA is used for an improper purpose” (para. 54). The court held that “[a]n improper purpose is any purpose collateral to the purpose for which the bankruptcy and insolvency legislation was enacted by Parliament” (para. 54).

[72] While not determinative, the existence of this discretion under the BIA lends support to the existence of similar discretion under the CCAA for two reasons.

[73] First, this conclusion would be consistent with this Court's recognition that the CCAA “offers a more flexible mechanism with greater judicial discretion” than the BIA (Century Services, at para. 14 (emphasis added)).

[74] Second, this Court has recognized the benefits of harmonizing the two statutes to the extent possible. For example, in Indalex, the Court observed that “in order to avoid a race to liquidation under the BIA, courts will favour an interpretation of the CCAA that affords creditors analogous entitlements” to those received under the BIA (para. 51; see also Century Services, at para. 24; Nortel Networks Corp., Re, 2015 ONCA 681, 391 D.L.R. (4th) 283, at paras. 34-46). Thus, where the statutes are capable of bearing a harmonious interpretation, that interpretation ought to be preferred “to avoid the ills that can arise from [insolvency] ‘statute-shopping’” (Kitchener Frame Ltd., 2012 ONSC 234, 86 C.B.R. (5th) 274, at para. 78; see also para. 73). In our view, the articulation of “improper purpose” set out in Laserworks — that is, any purpose collateral to the purpose of insolvency legislation — is entirely harmonious with the nature and scope of judicial discretion afforded by the CCAA. Indeed, as we have explained, this

[74] Ensuite, la Cour a reconnu les bienfaits de l'harmonisation, dans la mesure du possible, des deux lois. À titre d'exemple, dans l'arrêt Indalex, la Cour a souligné que « pour éviter de précipiter une liquidation sous le régime de la LFI, les tribunaux privilégieront une interprétation de la LACC qui confère [. . .] aux créanciers [des droits analogues] » à ceux dont ils jouissent en vertu de la LFI (par. 51; voir également Century Services, par. 24; Nortel Networks Corp., Re, 2015 ONCA 681, 391 D.L.R. (4th) 283, par. 34-46). Ainsi, lorsque les lois permettent une interprétation harmonieuse, il y a lieu de retenir cette interprétation [TRADUCTION] « afin d'écartier les embûches pouvant découler du choix des créanciers de “recourir à la loi la plus favorable” [en matière d'insolvabilité] » (Kitchener Frame Ltd., 2012 ONSC 234, 86 C.B.R. (5th) 274, par. 78; voir aussi par. 73). À notre avis, la manière dont a été formulé le « but illégitime » dans l'arrêt Laserworks — c'est-à-dire un but accessoire à l'objet de la loi en

[75] We also observe that the recognition of this discretion under the CCAA advances the basic fairness that “permeates Canadian insolvency law and practice” (Sarra, “The Oscillating Pendulum: Canada’s Sesquicentennial and Finding the Equilibrium for Insolvency Law”, at p. 27; see also Century Services, at paras. 70 and 77). As Professor Sarra observes, fairness demands that supervising judges be in a position to recognize and meaningfully address circumstances in which parties are working against the goals of the statute:

The Canadian insolvency regime is based on the assumption that creditors and the debtor share a common goal of maximizing recoveries. The substantive aspect of fairness in the insolvency regime is based on the assumption that all involved parties face real economic risks. Unfairness resides where only some face these risks, while others actually benefit from the situation . . . If the CCAA is to be interpreted in a purposive way, the courts must be able to recognize when people have conflicting interests and are working actively against the goals of the statute. [Emphasis added.]

(“The Oscillating Pendulum: Canada’s Sesquicentennial and Finding the Equilibrium for Insolvency Law”, at p. 30)

In this vein, the supervising judge’s oversight of the CCAA voting regime must not only ensure strict compliance with the Act, but should further its goals as well. We are of the view that the policy objectives of the CCAA necessitate the recognition of the discretion to bar a creditor from voting where the creditor is acting for an improper purpose.

matière d’insolvabilité — s’harmonise parfaitement avec la nature et la portée du pouvoir discrétionnaire judiciaire que confère la LACC. En effet, comme nous l’avons expliqué, ce pouvoir discrétionnaire doit être exercé conformément aux objets de la LACC en tant que loi en matière d’insolvabilité.

[75] Nous soulignons également que la reconnaissance de l’existence de ce pouvoir discrétionnaire sous le régime de la LACC favorise l’équité fondamentale qui [TRADUCTION] « imprègne le droit et la pratique en matière d’insolvabilité au Canada » (Sarra, « The Oscillating Pendulum : Canada’s Sesquicentennial and Finding the Equilibrium for Insolvency Law », p. 27; voir également Century Services, par. 70 et 77). Comme le fait observer la professeure Sarra, l’équité commande que les juges surveillants soient en mesure de reconnaître les situations où les parties empêchent la réalisation des objectifs de la loi et de prendre des mesures utiles à leur égard :

Dans le même ordre d’idées, la surveillance du régime de droit de vote prévu par la LACC qu’exerce le juge surveillant ne doit pas seulement assurer une application stricte de la Loi, mais doit aussi favoriser la réalisation de ses objectifs. Nous estimons que la réalisation des objectifs de politique de la LACC nécessite la reconnaissance du pouvoir discrétionnaire d’empêcher un créancier de voter s’il agit dans un but illégitime.

[76] Whether this discretion ought to be exercised in a particular case is a circumstance-specific inquiry that must balance the various objectives of the CCAA. As this case demonstrates, the supervising judge is best-positioned to undertake this inquiry.

(3) The Supervising Judge Did Not Err in Prohibiting Callidus From Voting

[77] In our view, the supervising judge's decision to bar Callidus from voting on the New Plan discloses no error justifying appellate intervention. As we have explained, discretionary decisions like this one must be approached from the appropriate posture of deference. It bears mentioning that, when he made this decision, the supervising judge was intimately familiar with Bluberi's CCAA proceedings. He had presided over them for over 2 years, received 15 reports from the Monitor, and issued approximately 25 orders.

[78] The supervising judge considered the whole of the circumstances and concluded that Callidus's vote would serve an improper purpose (paras. 45 and 48). We agree with his determination. He was aware that, prior to the vote on the First Plan, Callidus had chosen not to value any of its claim as unsecured and later declined to vote at all — despite the Monitor explicitly inviting it to do so.⁴ The supervising judge was also aware that Callidus's First Plan had failed to receive the other creditors' approval at the creditors' meeting of December 15, 2017, and that Callidus had chosen not to take the opportunity to amend or increase the value of its plan at that time, which it was entitled to do (see CCAA, ss. 6 and 7; Monitor, I.F., at para. 17). Between the failure of the First Plan and the proposal of the New Plan — which was identical to the First Plan, save for a modest increase of $250,000 — none of the factual circumstances relating to Bluberi's financial or business

(3) Le juge surveillant n'a pas commis d'erreur en interdisant à Callidus de voter

[77] À notre avis, la décision du juge surveillant d'empêcher Callidus de voter sur le nouveau plan ne révèle aucune erreur justifiant l'intervention d'une cour d'appel. Comme nous l'avons expliqué, il faut adopter l'attitude de déférence appropriée à l'égard des décisions discrétionnaires de ce genre. Il convient de mentionner que, lorsqu'il a rendu sa décision, le juge surveillant connaissait très bien les procédures fondées sur la LACC relatives à Bluberi. Il les avait présidées pendant plus de 2 ans, avait reçu 15 rapports du contrôleur et avait délivré environ 25 ordonnances.

[78] Le juge surveillant a tenu compte de l'ensemble des circonstances et a conclu que le vote de Callidus viserait un but illégitime (par. 45 et 48). Nous sommes d'accord avec cette conclusion. Il savait qu'avant le vote sur le premier plan, Callidus avait choisi de n'évaluer aucune partie de sa réclamation à titre de créancier non garanti et s'était par la suite abstenue de voter — bien que le contrôleur l'ait expressément invité à le faire⁴. Le juge surveillant savait aussi que le premier plan de Callidus n'avait pas reçu l'aval des autres créanciers à l'assemblée des créanciers tenue le 15 décembre 2017, et que Callidus avait choisi de ne pas profiter de l'occasion pour modifier ou augmenter la valeur de son plan à ce moment-là, ce qu'elle était en droit de faire (voir LACC, art. 6 et 7; contrôleur, m.i., par. 17). Entre l'insuccès du premier plan et la proposition du nouveau plan — qui était identique au premier plan, hormis la modeste augmentation de 250 000 $ — les affairs had materially changed. However, Callidus sought to value the entirety of its security at nil and, on that basis, sought leave to vote on the New Plan as an unsecured creditor. If Callidus were permitted to vote in this way, the New Plan would certainly have met the s. 6(1) threshold for approval. In these circumstances, the inescapable inference was that Callidus was attempting to strategically value its security to acquire control over the outcome of the vote and thereby circumvent the creditor democracy the CCAA protects. Put simply, Callidus was seeking to take a “second kick at the can” and manipulate the vote on the New Plan. The supervising judge made no error in exercising his discretion to prevent Callidus from doing so.

[79] Indeed, as the Monitor observes, “[o]nce a plan of arrangement or proposal has been submitted to the creditors of a debtor for voting purposes, to order a second creditors’ meeting to vote on a substantially similar plan would not advance the policy objectives of the CCAA, nor would it serve and enhance the public’s confidence in the process or otherwise serve the ends of justice” (I.F., at para. 18). This is particularly the case given that the cost of having another meeting to vote on the New Plan would have been upwards of $200,000 (see supervising judge’s reasons, at para. 72).

[80] We add that Callidus’s course of action was plainly contrary to the expectation that parties act with due diligence in an insolvency proceeding — which, in our view, includes acting with due diligence in valuing their claims and security. At all material times, Bluberi’s Retained Claims have been the sole asset securing Callidus’s claim. Callidus has pointed to nothing in the record that indicates that the value of the Retained Claims has changed. Had Callidus been of the view that the Retained Claims had no value, one would have expected Callidus to have valued its security accordingly prior to the vote on the First Plan, if not earlier. Parenthetically, we note that, irrespective of the timing, an attempt at circonstances factuelles se rapportant aux affaires financières ou commerciales de Bluberi n’avaient pas réellement changé. Pourtant, Callidus a tenté d’évaluer la totalité de sa sûreté à zéro et, sur cette base, a demandé l’autorisation de voter sur le nouveau plan à titre de créancier non garanti. Si Callidus avait été autorisée à voter de cette façon, le nouveau plan aurait certainement satisfait au critère d’approbation prévu par le par. 6(1). Dans ces circonstances, la seule conclusion possible était que Callidus tentait d’évaluer stratégiquement la valeur de sa sûreté afin de prendre le contrôle du vote et ainsi contourner la démocratie entre les créanciers que défend la LACC. En termes simples, Callidus cherchait à « se donner une seconde chance » et à manipuler le vote sur le nouveau plan. Le juge surveillant n’a pas commis d’erreur en exerçant son pouvoir discrétionnaire pour empêcher Callidus de le faire.

[79] En effet, comme le fait observer le contrôleur, [TRADUCTION] « [u]ne fois que le plan d’arrangement ou la proposition ont été présentés aux créanciers du débiteur aux fins d’un vote, le fait d’ordonner la tenue d’une seconde assemblée des créanciers pour voter sur un plan à peu près semblable ne favoriserait pas la réalisation des objectifs de politique de la LACC, pas plus qu’il ne servirait ou n’accroîtrait la confiance du public dans le processus ou ne servirait par ailleurs les fins de la justice » (m.i., par. 18). C’est particulièrement le cas en l’espèce étant donné que la tenue d’une autre assemblée pour voter sur le nouveau plan aurait coûté plus de 200 000 $ (voir les motifs du juge surveillant, par. 72).

[80] Ajoutons que la façon d’agir de Callidus était manifestement contraire à l’attente selon laquelle les parties agissent avec diligence dans les procédures d’insolvabilité — ce qui, à notre avis, comprend le fait de faire preuve de diligence raisonnable dans l’évaluation de leurs réclamations et sûretés. Pendant toute la période pertinente, les réclamations retenues de Bluberi ont constitué les seuls éléments d’actif garantissant la réclamation de Callidus. Cette dernière n’a rien relevé dans le dossier qui indique que la valeur des réclamations retenues a changé. Si Callidus estimait que les réclamations retenues n’avaient aucune valeur, on se serait attendu à ce qu’elle ait évalué sa sûreté en conséquence avant such a valuation may well have failed. This would have prevented Callidus from voting as an unsecured creditor, even in the absence of Callidus's improper purpose.

[81] As we have indicated, discretionary decisions attract a highly deferential standard of review. Deference demands that review of a discretionary decision begin with a proper characterization of the basis for the decision. Respectfully, the Court of Appeal failed in this regard. The Court of Appeal seized on the supervising judge's somewhat critical comments relating to Callidus's goal of being released from the Retained Claims and its conduct throughout the proceedings as being incapable of grounding a finding of improper purpose. However, as we have explained, these considerations did not drive the supervising judge's conclusion. His conclusion was squarely based on Callidus' attempt to manipulate the creditors' vote to ensure that its New Plan would succeed where its First Plan had failed (see supervising judge's reasons, at paras. 45-48). We see nothing in the Court of Appeal's reasons that grapples with this decisive impropriety, which goes far beyond a creditor merely acting in its own self-interest.

[82] In sum, we see nothing in the supervising judge's reasons on this point that would justify appellate intervention. Callidus was properly barred from voting on the New Plan.

[83] Before moving on, we note that the Court of Appeal addressed two further issues: whether Callidus is "related" to Bluberi within the meaning of s. 22(3) of the CCAA; and whether, if permitted to vote, Callidus should be ordered to vote in a separate class from Bluberi's other creditors (see CCAA, s. 22(1) and (2)). Given our conclusion that the supervising judge did not err in barring Callidus from voting on the New Plan on the basis that Callidus was acting for an improper purpose, it is unnecessary to le vote sur le premier plan, voire même plus tôt. Nous ouvrons une parenthèse pour souligner que, peu importe le moment, la tentative d'évaluer ainsi la sûreté aurait pu fort bien échouer. Cela aurait empêché Callidus de voter à titre de créancier non garanti même si elle ne poursuivait pas de but illégitime.

[81] Comme nous l'avons indiqué, les décisions discrétionnaires appellent une norme de contrôle empreinte d'une grande déférence. La déférence commande que l'examen d'une décision discrétionnaire commence par la qualification appropriée du fondement de la décision. Soit dit en tout respect, la Cour d'appel a échoué à cet égard. La Cour d'appel s'est saisie des commentaires quelque peu critiques formulés par le juge surveillant à l'égard de l'objectif de Callidus d'être libérée des réclamations retenues et de la conduite de celle-ci tout au long des procédures pour affirmer qu'il ne s'agissait pas de considérations pouvant donner lieu à une conclusion de but illégitime. Toutefois, comme nous l'avons expliqué, ce ne sont pas ces considérations qui ont amené le juge surveillant à tirer sa conclusion. Sa conclusion reposait nettement sur la tentative de Callidus de manipuler le vote des créanciers pour faire en sorte que son nouveau plan soit retenu alors que son premier plan ne l'avait pas été (voir les motifs du juge surveillant, par. 45-48). Nous ne voyons rien dans les motifs de la Cour d'appel qui s'attaque à cette irrégularité déterminante, qui va beaucoup plus loin que le simple fait pour un créancier d'agir dans son propre intérêt.

[83] Avant de passer au prochain point, soulignons que la Cour d'appel a abordé deux questions supplémentaires : Callidus est-elle « liée » à Bluberi au sens du par. 22(3) de la LACC? Si Callidus est autorisée à voter, convient-il de lui ordonner de voter dans une catégorie distincte des autres créanciers de Bluberi (voir la LACC, par. 22(1) et (2))? Vu notre conclusion que le juge surveillant n'a pas commis d'erreur en interdisant à Callidus de voter sur le nouveau plan au motif qu'elle avait agi dans un but illégitime, il n'est address either of these issues. However, nothing in our reasons should be read as endorsing the Court of Appeal’s analysis of them.

C. Bluberi’s LFA Should Be Approved as Interim Financing

[84] In our view, the supervising judge made no error in approving the LFA as interim financing pursuant to s. 11.2 of the CCAA. Interim financing is a flexible tool that may take on a range of forms. As we will explain, third party litigation funding may be one such form. Whether third party litigation funding should be approved as interim financing is a case-specific inquiry that should have regard to the text of s. 11.2 and the remedial objectives of the CCAA more generally.

(1) Interim Financing and Section 11.2 of the CCAA

[85] Interim financing, despite being expressly provided for in s. 11.2 of the CCAA, is not defined in the Act. Professor Sarra has described it as “refer[ring] primarily to the working capital that the debtor corporation requires in order to keep operating during restructuring proceedings, as well as to the financing to pay the costs of the workout process” (Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, at p. 197). Interim financing used in this way — sometimes referred to as “debtor-in-possession” financing — protects the going-concern value of the debtor company while it develops a workable solution to its insolvency issues (p. 197; Royal Oak Mines Inc., Re (1999), 6 C.B.R. (4th) 314 (Ont. C.J. (Gen. Div.)), at paras. 7, 9 and 24; Boutiques San Francisco Inc. v. Richter & Associés Inc., 2003 CanLII 36955 (Que. Sup. Ct.), at para. 32). That said, interim financing is not limited to providing debtor companies with immediate operating capital. Consistent with the remedial objectives of the CCAA, interim financing pas nécessaire de se prononcer sur l’une ou l’autre de ces questions. Cependant, rien dans les présents motifs ne doit être interprété comme souscrivant à l’analyse que la Cour d’appel a faite de ces questions.

C. L’AFL de Bluberi devrait être approuvé à titre de financement temporaire

(1) Le financement temporaire et l’art. 11.2 de la LACC

[85] Bien qu’il soit expressément prévu par l’art. 11.2 de la LACC, le financement temporaire n’est pas défini dans la Loi. La professeure Sarra l’a décrit comme [TRADUCTION] « vis[ant] principalement le fonds de roulement dont a besoin la société débitrice pour continuer de fonctionner pendant la restructuration ainsi que les fonds nécessaires pour payer les frais liés au processus de sauvetage » (Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, p. 197). Utilisé de cette façon, le financement temporaire — parfois appelé financement de [TRADUCTION] « débiteur-exploitant » — protège la valeur d’exploitation de la compagnie débitrice pendant qu’elle met au point une solution viable à ses problèmes d’insolvabilité (p. 197; Royal Oak Mines Inc., Re (1999), 6 C.B.R. (4th) 314 (C.J. Ont. (Div. gén.)), par. 7, 9 et 24; Boutiques San Francisco Inc. c. Richter & Associés Inc., 2003 CanLII 36955 (C.S. Qc), par. 32). Cela dit, le financement temporaire ne se limite pas à fournir un fonds de roulement at its core enables the preservation and realization of the value of a debtor's assets.

[86] Since 2009, s. 11.2(1) of the CCAA has codified a supervising judge's discretion to approve interim financing, and to grant a corresponding security or charge in favour of the lender in the amount the judge considers appropriate:

Interim financing

11.2 (1) On application by a debtor company and on notice to the secured creditors who are likely to be affected by the security or charge, a court may make an order declaring that all or part of the company's property is subject to a security or charge — in an amount that the court considers appropriate — in favour of a person specified in the order who agrees to lend to the company an amount approved by the court as being required by the company, having regard to its cash-flow statement. The security or charge may not secure an obligation that exists before the order is made.

[87] The breadth of a supervising judge's discretion to approve interim financing is apparent from the wording of s. 11.2(1). Aside from the protections regarding notice and pre-filing security, s. 11.2(1) does not mandate any standard form or terms.⁵ It simply provides that the financing must be in an amount that is "appropriate" and "required by the company, having regard to its cash-flow statement".

immédiat aux compagnies débitrices. Conformément aux objectifs réparateurs de la LACC, le financement temporaire permet essentiellement de préserver et de réaliser la valeur des éléments d'actif du débiteur.

[86] Depuis 2009, le par. 11.2(1) de la LACC a codifié le pouvoir discrétionnaire du juge surveillant d'approuver le financement temporaire et d'accorder une charge ou une sûreté correspondante, d'un montant qu'il estime indiqué, en faveur du prêteur :

Financement temporaire

11.2 (1) Sur demande de la compagnie débitrice, le tribunal peut par ordonnance, sur préavis de la demande aux créanciers garantis qui seront vraisemblablement touchés par la charge ou sûreté, déclarer que tout ou partie des biens de la compagnie sont grevés d'une charge ou sûreté — d'un montant qu'il estime indiqué — en faveur de la personne nommée dans l'ordonnance qui accepte de prêter à la compagnie la somme qu'il approuve compte tenu de l'état de l'évolution de l'encaisse et des besoins de celle-ci. La charge ou sûreté ne peut garantir qu'une obligation postérieure au prononcé de l'ordonnance.

[87] L'étendue du pouvoir discrétionnaire du juge surveillant d'approuver le financement temporaire ressort du libellé du par. 11.2(1). Abstraction faite des protections concernant le préavis et les sûretés constituées avant le dépôt des procédures, le par. 11.2(1) ne prescrit aucune forme ou condition type⁵. Il prévoit simplement que le financement doit être d'un montant qui est « indiqué » et qui tient compte de « l'état de l'évolution de l'encaisse et des besoins de [la compagnie] ».

[88] The supervising judge may also grant the lender a “super-priority charge” that will rank in priority over the claims of any secured creditors, pursuant to s. 11.2(2):

Priority — secured creditors

(2) The court may order that the security or charge rank in priority over the claim of any secured creditor of the company.

[89] Such charges, also known as “priming liens”, reduce lenders’ risks, thereby incentivizing them to assist insolvent companies (Innovation, Science and Economic Development Canada, Archived — Bill C-55: clause by clause analysis, last updated December 29, 2016 (online), cl. 128, s. 11.2; Wood, at p. 387). As a practical matter, these charges are often the only way to encourage this lending. Normally, a lender protects itself against lending risk by taking a security interest in the borrower’s assets. However, debtor companies under CCAA protection will often have pledged all or substantially all of their assets to other creditors. Accordingly, without the benefit of a super-priority charge, an interim financing lender would rank behind those other creditors (McElcheran, at pp. 298-99). Although super-priority charges do subordinate secured creditors’ security positions to the interim financing lender’s — a result that was controversial at common law — Parliament has indicated its general acceptance of the trade-offs associated with these charges by enacting s. 11.2(2) (see M. B. Rotsztain and A. Dostal, “Debtor-In-Possession Financing”, in S. Ben-Ishai and A. Duggan, eds., Canadian Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law: Bill C-55, Statute c. 47 and Beyond (2007), 227, at pp. 228-29 and 240-50). Indeed, this balance was expressly considered by the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce that recommended codifying interim financing in the CCAA (pp. 100-104).

[90] Ultimately, whether proposed interim financing should be approved is a question that the supervising judge is best-placed to answer. The CCAA

Priorité — créanciers garantis

[89] Ces charges, également appelées « superprivilèges », réduisent les risques des prêteurs, les incitant ainsi à aider les compagnies insolubles (Innovation, Sciences et Développement économique Canada, Archivé — Projet de loi C-55 : analyse article par article, dernière mise à jour le 29 décembre 2016 (en ligne), cl. 128, art. 11.2; Wood, p. 387). Sur le plan pratique, ces charges constituent souvent le seul moyen d’encourager ce type de prêt. Généralement, le prêteur se protège contre le risque de crédit en prenant une sûreté sur les éléments d’actifs de l’emprunteur. Or, les compagnies débitrices qui sont sous la protection de la LACC ont souvent donné en gage la totalité ou la presque totalité de leurs actifs à d’autres créanciers. En l’absence d’une charge super prioritaire, le prêteur qui accepte d’apporter un financement temporaire prendrait rang derrière les autres créanciers (McElcheran, p. 298-299). Bien que la charge super prioritaire subordonne les sûretés des créanciers garantis à celle du prêteur qui apporte un financement temporaire — un résultat qui a suscité la controverse en common law — le législateur a signifié son acceptation générale des transactions allant de pair avec ces charges en adoptant le par. 11.2(2) (voir M. B. Rotsztain et A. Dostal, « Debtor-In-Possession Financing », dans S. Ben-Ishai et A. Duggan, dir., Canadian Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law : Bill C-55, Statute c. 47 and Beyond (2007), 227, p. 228-229 et 240-250). En effet, cet équilibre a été expressément pris en considération par le Comité sénatorial permanent des banques et du commerce, qui a recommandé la codification du financement temporaire dans la LACC (p. 111-115).

[90] Au bout du compte, la question de savoir s’il y a lieu d’approuver le financement temporaire projeté est une question à laquelle le juge surveillant est le sets out a number of factors that help guide the exercise of this discretion. The inclusion of these factors in s. 11.2 was informed by the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce’s view that they would help meet the “fundamental principles” that have guided the development of Canadian insolvency law, including “fairness, predictability and efficiency” (p. 103; see also Innovation, Science and Economic Development Canada, cl. 128, s. 11.2). In deciding whether to grant interim financing, the supervising judge is to consider the following non-exhaustive list of factors:

Factors to be considered

(4) In deciding whether to make an order, the court is to consider, among other things,

- (a) the period during which the company is expected to be subject to proceedings under this Act;
- (b) how the company’s business and financial affairs are to be managed during the proceedings;
- (c) whether the company’s management has the confidence of its major creditors;
- (d) whether the loan would enhance the prospects of a viable compromise or arrangement being made in respect of the company;
- (e) the nature and value of the company’s property;
- (f) whether any creditor would be materially prejudiced as a result of the security or charge; and
- (g) the monitor’s report referred to in paragraph 23(1)(b), if any.

(CCAA, s. 11.2(4))

[91] Prior to the coming into force of the above provisions in 2009, courts had been using the general discretion conferred by s. 11 to authorize interim financing and associated super-priority charges mieux placé pour répondre. La LACC énonce un certain nombre de facteurs qui encadrent l’exercice de ce pouvoir discrétionnaire. L’inclusion de ces facteurs dans le par. 11.2 reposait sur le point de vue du Comité sénatorial permanent des banques et du commerce selon lequel ils permettraient de respecter les « principes fondamentaux » ayant guidé la conception des lois en matière d’insolvabilité au Canada, notamment « l’équité, la prévisibilité et l’efficience » (p. 115; voir également Innovation, Sciences et Développement économique Canada, cl. 128, art. 11.2). Pour décider s’il y a lieu d’accorder le financement temporaire, le juge surveillant doit prendre en considération les facteurs non exhaustifs suivants :

(4) Pour décider s’il rend l’ordonnance, le tribunal prend en considération, entre autres, les facteurs suivants :

- a) la durée prévue des procédures intentées à l’égard de la compagnie sous le régime de la présente loi;
- b) la façon dont les affaires financières et autres de la compagnie seront gérées au cours de ces procédures;
- c) la question de savoir si ses dirigeants ont la confiance de ses créanciers les plus importants;
- d) la question de savoir si le prêt favorisera la conclusion d’une transaction ou d’un arrangement viable à l’égard de la compagnie;
- e) la nature et la valeur des biens de la compagnie;
- f) la question de savoir si la charge ou sûreté causera un préjudice sérieux à l’un ou l’autre des créanciers de la compagnie;
- g) le rapport du contrôleur visé à l’alinéa 23(1)b).

(LACC, par. 11.2(4))

[91] Avant l’entrée en vigueur en 2009 des dispositions susmentionnées, les tribunaux utilisaient le pouvoir discrétionnaire général que confère l’art. 11 pour autoriser le financement temporaire

(Century Services, at para. 62). Section 11.2 largely codifies the approaches those courts have taken (Wood, at p. 388; McElcheran, at p. 301). As a result, where appropriate, guidance may be drawn from the pre-codification interim financing jurisprudence.

[92] As with other measures available under the CCAA, interim financing is a flexible tool that may take different forms or attract different considerations in each case. Below, we explain that third party litigation funding may, in appropriate cases, be one such form.

(2) Supervising Judges May Approve Third Party Litigation Funding as Interim Financing

[93] Third party litigation funding generally involves “a third party, otherwise unconnected to the litigation, agree[ing] to pay some or all of a party’s litigation costs, in exchange for a portion of that party’s recovery in damages or costs” (R. K. Agarwal and D. Fenton, “Beyond Access to Justice: Litigation Funding Agreements Outside the Class Actions Context” (2017), 59 Can. Bus. L.J. 65, at p. 65). Third party litigation funding can take various forms. A common model involves the litigation funder agreeing to pay a plaintiff’s disbursements and indemnify the plaintiff in the event of an adverse cost award in exchange for a share of the proceeds of any successful litigation or settlement (see Dugal v. Manulife Financial Corp., 2011 ONSC 1785, 105 O.R. (3d) 364; Bayens).

[94] Outside of the CCAA context, the approval of third party litigation funding agreements has been somewhat controversial. Part of that controversy arises from the potential of these agreements to offend the common law doctrines of champerty and et la constitution des charges super prioritaires s’y rattachant (Century Services, par. 62). L’article 11.2 codifie en grande partie les approches adoptées par ces tribunaux (Wood, p. 388; McElcheran, p. 301). En conséquence, il est possible, le cas échéant, de s’inspirer de la jurisprudence relative au financement temporaire antérieure à la codification.

(2) Les juges surveillants peuvent approuver le financement d’un litige par un tiers à titre de financement temporaire

[93] Le financement d’un litige par un tiers met généralement en cause [TRADUCTION] « un tiers, n’ayant par ailleurs aucun lien avec le litige, [qui] accepte de payer une partie ou la totalité des frais de litige d’une partie, en échange d’une portion de la somme recouvrée par cette partie au titre des dommages-intérêts ou des dépens » (R. K. Agarwal et D. Fenton, « Beyond Access to Justice : Litigation Funding Agreements Outside the Class Actions Context » (2017), 59 Rev. can. dr. comm. 65, p. 65). Le financement d’un litige par un tiers peut revêtir diverses formes. Un modèle courant met en cause un bailleur de fonds de litiges qui s’engage à payer les débours du demandeur et à indemniser ce dernier dans l’éventualité d’une adjudication des dépens défavorable, en échange d’une partie de la somme obtenue dans le cadre d’un procès ou d’un règlement couronné de succès (voir Dugal c. Manulife Financial Corp., 2011 ONSC 1785, 105 O.R. (3d) 364; Bayens).

maintenance.⁶ The tort of maintenance prohibits “officious intermeddling with a lawsuit which in no way belongs to one” (L. N. Klar et al., Remedies in Tort (loose-leaf), vol. 1, by L. Berry, ed., at p. 14-11, citing Langtry v. Dumoulin (1884), 7 O.R. 644 (Ch. Div.), at p. 661). Champerty is a species of maintenance that involves an agreement to share in the proceeds or otherwise profit from a successful suit (McIntyre Estate v. Ontario (Attorney General) (2002), 218 D.L.R. (4th) 193 (Ont. C.A.), at para. 26).

[95] Building on jurisprudence holding that contingency fee arrangements are not champertous where they are not motivated by an improper purpose (e.g., McIntyre Estate), lower courts have increasingly come to recognize that litigation funding agreements are also not per se champertous. This development has been focussed within class action proceedings, where it arose as a response to barriers like adverse cost awards, which were stymieing litigants’ access to justice (see Dugal, at para. 33; Marcotte v. Banque de Montréal, 2015 QCCS 1915, at paras. 43-44 (CanLII); Houle v. St. Jude Medical Inc., 2017 ONSC 5129, 9 C.P.C. (8th) 321, at para. 52, aff’d 2018 ONSC 6352, 429 D.L.R. (4th) 739 (Div. Ct.); see also Stanway v. Wyeth, 2013 BCSC 1585, 56 B.C.L.R. (5th) 192, at para. 13). The jurisprudence on the approval of third party litigation funding agreements in the class action context — and indeed, the parameters of their legality generally — is still evolving, and no party before this Court has invited us to evaluate it.

law concernant la champartie (champerty) et le soutien abusif (maintenance)⁶. Le délit de soutien abusif interdit [TRADUCTION] « l’immixtion trop empressée dans une action avec laquelle on n’a rien à voir » (L. N. Klar et autres, Remedies in Tort (feuilles mobiles), vol. 1, par L. Berry, dir., p. 14-11, citant Langtry c. Dumoulin (1884), 7 O.R. 644 (Ch. Div.), p. 661). La champartie est une sorte de soutien abusif qui comporte un accord prévoyant le partage de la somme obtenue ou de tout autre profit réalisé dans le cadre d’une action réussie (McIntyre Estate c. Ontario (Attorney General) (2002), 218 D.L.R. (4th) 193 (C.A. Ont.), par. 26).

[95] S’appuyant sur la jurisprudence voulant que les conventions d’honoraires conditionnels ne constituent pas de la champartie lorsqu’elles ne sont pas motivées par un but illégitime (p. ex., McIntyre Estate), les tribunaux d’instance inférieure en sont venus progressivement à reconnaître que les accords de financement d’un litige ne constituent pas non plus de la champartie en soi. Cette évolution s’est opérée surtout dans le contexte des recours collectifs, en réaction aux obstacles, comme les adjudications de dépens défavorables, qui entravaient l’accès des parties à la justice (voir Dugal, par. 33; Marcotte c. Banque de Montréal, 2015 QCCS 1915, par. 43-44 (CanLII); Houle c. St. Jude Medical Inc., 2017 ONSC 5129, 9 C.P.C. (8th) 321, par. 52, conf. par 2018 ONSC 6352, 429 D.L.R. (4th) 739 (C. div.); voir également Stanway c. Wyeth, 2013 BCSC 1585, 56 B.C.L.R. (5th) 192, par. 13). La jurisprudence relative à l’approbation des accords de financement de litige par un tiers dans le contexte des recours collectifs — et même les paramètres de leur légalité en général — continue d’évoluer, et aucune des parties au présent pourvoi ne nous a invités à l’analyser.

⁶ L’ampleur de la controverse varie selon les provinces. En Ontario, les accords de champartie sont interdits par la loi (voir An Act respecting Champerty, R.S.O. 1897, c. 327). Au Québec, les questions relatives à la champartie et au soutien abusif ne se posent pas de façon aussi aiguë parce que la champartie et le soutien abusif ne font pas partie du droit comme tel (voir Montgrain c. Banque nationale du Canada, 2006 QCCA 557, [2006] R.J.Q. 1009; G. Michaud, « New Frontier : The Emergence of Litigation Funding in the Canadian Insolvabilité Landscape » dans J. P. Sarra et autres, dir., Annual Review of Insolvency Law 2018 (2019), 221, p. 231).

[96] That said, insofar as third party litigation funding agreements are not per se illegal, there is no principled basis upon which to restrict supervising judges from approving such agreements as interim financing in appropriate cases. We acknowledge that this funding differs from more common forms of interim financing that are simply designed to help the debtor “keep the lights on” (see Royal Oak, at paras. 7 and 24). However, in circumstances like the case at bar, where there is a single litigation asset that could be monetized for the benefit of creditors, the objective of maximizing creditor recovery has taken centre stage. In those circumstances, litigation funding furthers the basic purpose of interim financing: allowing the debtor to realize on the value of its assets.

[97] We conclude that third party litigation funding agreements may be approved as interim financing in CCAA proceedings when the supervising judge determines that doing so would be fair and appropriate, having regard to all the circumstances and the objectives of the Act. This requires consideration of the specific factors set out in s. 11.2(4) of the CCAA. That said, these factors need not be mechanically applied or individually reviewed by the supervising judge. Indeed, not all of them will be significant in every case, nor are they exhaustive. Further guidance may be drawn from other areas in which third party litigation funding agreements have been approved.

[98] The foregoing is consistent with the practice that is already occurring in lower courts. Most notably, in Crystallex, the Ontario Court of Appeal approved a third party litigation funding agreement in circumstances substantially similar to the case at bar. Crystallex involved a mining company that had the right to develop a large gold deposit in Venezuela. Crystallex eventually became insolvent and (similar to Bluberi) was left with only a single significant asset: a US$3.4 billion arbitration claim against Venezuela. After entering CCAA protection,

[97] Nous concluons que les accords de financement de litige par un tiers peuvent être approuvés à titre de financement temporaire dans le cadre des procédures fondées sur la LACC lorsque le juge surveillant estime qu’il serait juste et approprié de le faire, compte tenu de l’ensemble des circonstances et des objectifs de la Loi. Cela implique la prise en considération des facteurs précis énoncés au par. 11.2(4) de la LACC. Cela dit, ces facteurs ne doivent pas être appliqués machinalement ou examinés individuellement par le juge surveillant. En effet, ils ne seront pas tous importants dans tous les cas, et ils ne sont pas non plus exhaustifs. Des enseignements supplémentaires peuvent être tirés d’autres domaines où des accords de financement de litige par un tiers ont été approuvés.

[98] Ce qui précède est compatible avec la pratique qui a déjà cours devant les tribunaux d’instance inférieure. Plus particulièrement, dans Crystallex, la Cour d’appel de l’Ontario a approuvé un accord de financement de litige par un tiers dans des circonstances très semblables à celles en l’espèce. Cette affaire mettait en cause une société minière ayant le droit d’exploiter un grand gisement d’or au Venezuela. Crystallex est finalement devenue insolvable, et (comme Bluberi) il ne lui restait plus qu’un seul élément d’actif important : une réclamation

Crystallex sought the approval of a third party litigation funding agreement. The agreement contemplated that the lender would advance substantial funds to finance the arbitration in exchange for, among other things, a percentage of the net proceeds of any award or settlement. The supervising judge approved the agreement as interim financing pursuant to s. 11.2. The Court of Appeal unanimously found no error in the supervising judge's exercise of discretion. It concluded that s. 11.2 "does not restrict the ability of the supervising judge, where appropriate, to approve the grant of a charge securing financing before a plan is approved that may continue after the company emerges from CCAA protection" (para. 68).

[99] A key argument raised by the creditors in Crystallex — and one that Callidus and the Creditors' Group have put before us now — was that the litigation funding agreement at issue was a plan of arrangement and not interim financing. This was significant because, if the agreement was in fact a plan, it would have had to be put to a creditors' vote pursuant to ss. 4 and 5 of the CCAA prior to receiving court approval. The court in Crystallex rejected this argument, as do we.

[100] There is no definition of plan of arrangement in the CCAA. In fact, the CCAA does not refer to plans at all — it only refers to an "arrangement" or "compromise" (see ss. 4 and 5). The authors of Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law of Canada offer the following general definition of these terms, relying on early English case law:

A "compromise" presupposes some dispute about the rights compromised and a settling of that dispute on terms that are satisfactory to the debtor and the creditor. An agreement to accept less than 100¢ on the dollar would be a compromise where the debtor disputes the debt or lacks the means to pay it. "Arrangement" is a broader word d'arbitrage de 3,4 milliards de dollars américains contre le Venezuela. Après s'être placée sous la protection de la LACC, Crystallex a demandé l'approbation d'un accord de financement de litige par un tiers. L'accord prévoyait que le prêteur avancerait des fonds importants pour financer l'arbitrage en échange, notamment, d'un pourcentage de la somme nette obtenue à la suite d'une sentence ou d'un règlement. Le juge surveillant a approuvé l'accord à titre de financement temporaire en vertu de l'art. 11.2. La Cour d'appel a conclu à l'unanimité que le juge surveillant n'avait commis aucune erreur dans l'exercice de son pouvoir discrétionnaire. Elle a conclu que l'art. 11.2 [TRADUCTION] « n'empêche pas le juge surveillant d'approuver, s'il y a lieu, avant qu'un plan soit approuvé, l'octroi d'une charge garantissant un financement qui pourra continuer après que la compagnie aura émergé de la protection de la LACC » (par. 68).

[99] Dans Crystallex, l'un des principaux arguments soulevés par les créanciers — et l'un de ceux qu'ont soulevés Callidus et le groupe de créanciers dans le présent pourvoi — était que l'accord de financement de litige en cause était un plan d'arrangement et non pas un financement temporaire. Il s'agissait d'un argument important car, si l'accord était en fait un plan, il aurait dû être soumis à un vote des créanciers conformément aux art. 4 et 5 de la LACC avant de recevoir l'aval du tribunal. La cour, dans Crystallex, a rejeté cet argument, et nous en faisons autant.

[100] La LACC ne définit pas le plan d'arrangement. En fait, la LACC ne fait aucunement allusion aux plans — elle fait uniquement état d'un « arrangement » ou d'une « transaction » (voir art. 4 et 5). S'appuyant sur l'ancienne jurisprudence anglaise, les auteurs de Bankruptcy and Insolvency Law of Canada proposent la définition générale suivante de ces termes :

[TRADUCTION] La « transaction » suppose d'emblée l'existence d'un différend au sujet des droits visés par la transaction et d'un règlement de ce différend selon des conditions jugées satisfaisantes par le débiteur et le créancier. L'accord visant à accepter une somme inférieure à 100 ¢ par dollar constituerait une transaction lorsque than “compromise” and is not limited to something analogous to a compromise. It would include any scheme for reorganizing the affairs of the debtor: Re Guardian Assur. Co., [1917] 1 Ch. 431, 61 Sol. Jo 232, [1917] H.B.R. 113 (C.A.); Re Refund of Dues under Timber Regulations, [1935] A.C. 185 (P.C.).

(Houlden, Morawetz and Sarra, at §33)

[101] The apparent breadth of these terms notwithstanding, they do have some limits. More recent jurisprudence suggests that they require, at minimum, some compromise of creditors’ rights. For example, in Crystallex the litigation funding agreement at issue (known as the Tenor DIP facility) was held not to be a plan of arrangement because it did not “compromise the terms of [the creditors’] indebtedness or take away . . . their legal rights” (para. 93). The Court of Appeal adopted the following reasoning from the lower court’s decision, with which we substantially agree:

A “plan of arrangement” or a “compromise” is not defined in the CCAA. It is, however, to be an arrangement or compromise between a debtor and its creditors. The Tenor DIP facility is not on its face such an arrangement or compromise between Crystallex and its creditors. Importantly the rights of the noteholders are not taken away from them by the Tenor DIP facility. The noteholders are unsecured creditors. Their rights are to sue to judgment and enforce the judgment. If not paid, they have a right to apply for a bankruptcy order under the BIA. Under the CCAA, they have the right to vote on a plan of arrangement or compromise. None of these rights are taken away by the Tenor DIP.

(Re Crystallex International Corporation, 2012 ONSC 2125, 91 C.B.R. (5th) 169, at para. 50)

[102] Setting out an exhaustive definition of plan of arrangement or compromise is unnecessary to resolve these appeals. For our purposes, it is sufficient to conclude that plans of arrangement require at least le débiteur conteste la dette ou n’a pas les moyens de la payer. Le mot « arrangement » a un sens plus large que le mot « transaction » et ne se limite pas à quelque chose qui ressemble à une transaction. Il viserait tout plan de réorganisation des affaires du débiteur : Re Guardian Assur. Co., [1917] 1 Ch. 431, 61 Sol. Jo 232, [1917] H.B.R. 113 (C.A.); Re Refund of Dues under Timber Regulations, [1935] A.C. 185 (C.P.).

(Houlden, Morawetz et Sarra, §33)

[TRADUCTION] Le « plan d’arrangement » et la « transaction » ne sont pas définis dans la LACC. Il doit toutefois s’agir d’un arrangement ou d’une transaction entre un débiteur et ses créanciers. La facilité de DE Tenor ne constitue pas, à première vue, un arrangement ou une transaction entre Crystallex et ses créanciers. Fait important, les détenteurs de billets ne sont pas privés de leurs droits par la facilité de DE Tenor. Les détenteurs de billets sont des créanciers non garantis. Leurs droits se résument à poursuivre en vue d’obtenir un jugement et à faire exécuter ce jugement. S’ils ne sont pas payés, ils ont le droit de demander une ordonnance de faillite en vertu de la LFI. Sous le régime de la LACC, ils ont le droit de voter sur un plan d’arrangement ou une transaction. La facilité de DE Tenor ne les prive d’aucun de ces droits.

(Re Crystallex International Corporation, 2012 ONSC 2125, 91 C.B.R. (5th) 169, par. 50)

some compromise of creditors' rights. It follows that a third party litigation funding agreement aimed at extending financing to a debtor company to realize on the value of a litigation asset does not necessarily constitute a plan of arrangement. We would leave it to supervising judges to determine whether, in the particular circumstances of the case before them, a particular third party litigation funding agreement contains terms that effectively convert it into a plan of arrangement. So long as the agreement does not contain such terms, it may be approved as interim financing pursuant to s. 11.2 of the CCAA.

[103] We add that there may be circumstances in which a third party litigation funding agreement may contain or incorporate a plan of arrangement (e.g., if it contemplates a plan for distribution of litigation proceeds among creditors). Alternatively, a supervising judge may determine that, despite an agreement itself not being a plan of arrangement, it should be packaged with a plan and submitted to a creditors' vote. That said, we repeat that third party litigation funding agreements are not necessarily, or even generally, plans of arrangement.

[104] None of the foregoing is seriously contested before us. The parties essentially agree that third party litigation funding agreements can be approved as interim financing. The dispute between them focusses on whether the supervising judge erred in exercising his discretion to approve the LFA in the absence of a vote of the creditors, either because it was a plan of arrangement or because it should have been accompanied by a plan of arrangement. We turn to these issues now.

(3) The Supervising Judge Did Not Err in Approving the LFA

[105] In our view, there is no basis upon which to interfere with the supervising judge's exercise of his discretion to approve the LFA as interim financing.

moins comporter une certaine transaction à l'égard des droits des créanciers. Il s'ensuit que l'accord de financement de litige par un tiers visant à apporter un financement à la compagnie débitrice pour réaliser la valeur d'un élément d'actif ne constitue pas nécessairement un plan d'arrangement. Nous sommes d'avis de laisser aux juges surveillants le soin de déterminer si, compte tenu des circonstances particulières de l'affaire dont ils sont saisis, l'accord de financement de litige par un tiers comporte des conditions qui le convertissent effectivement en plan d'arrangement. Si l'accord ne comporte pas de telles conditions, il peut être approuvé à titre de financement temporaire en vertu de l'art. 11.2 de la LACC.

[103] Ajoutons que, dans certaines circonstances, l'accord de financement de litige par un tiers peut contenir ou incorporer un plan d'arrangement (p. ex., s'il contient un plan prévoyant la distribution aux créanciers des sommes obtenues dans le cadre du litige). Subsidiairement, le juge surveillant peut décider que, bien que l'accord lui-même ne constitue pas un plan d'arrangement, il y a lieu de l'accompagner d'un plan et de le soumettre à un vote des créanciers. Cela dit, nous le répétons, les accords de financement de litige par un tiers ne constituent pas nécessairement, ni même généralement, des plans d'arrangement.

(3) Le juge surveillant n'a pas commis d'erreur en approuvant l'AFL

[105] À notre avis, il n'y a aucune raison d'intervenir dans l'exercice par le juge surveillant de son pouvoir discrétionnaire d'approuver l'AFL à titre de

The supervising judge considered the LFA to be fair and reasonable, drawing guidance from the principles relevant to approving similar agreements in the class action context (para. 74, citing Bayens, at para. 41; Hayes, at para. 4). In particular, he canvassed the terms upon which Bentham and Bluberi's lawyers would be paid in the event the litigation was successful, the risks they were taking by investing in the litigation, and the extent of Bentham's control over the litigation going forward (paras. 79 and 81). The supervising judge also considered the unique objectives of CCAA proceedings in distinguishing the LFA from ostensibly similar agreements that had not received approval in the class action context (paras. 81-82, distinguishing Houle). His consideration of those objectives is also apparent from his reliance on Crystallex, which, as we have explained, involved the approval of interim financing in circumstances substantially similar to the case at bar (see paras. 67 and 71). We see no error in principle or unreasonableness to this approach.

[106] While the supervising judge did not canvass each of the factors set out in s. 11.2(4) of the CCAA individually before reaching his conclusion, this was not itself an error. A review of the supervising judge's reasons as a whole, combined with a recognition of his manifest experience with Bluberi's CCAA proceedings, leads us to conclude that the factors listed in s. 11.2(4) concern matters that could not have escaped his attention and due consideration. It bears repeating that, at the time of his decision, the supervising judge had been seized of these proceedings for well over two years and had the benefit of the Monitor's assistance. With respect to each of the s. 11.2(4) factors, we note that:

- the judge's supervisory role would have made him aware of the potential length of Bluberi's CCAA proceedings and the extent of creditor support for Bluberi's management (s. 11.2(4)(a) and (c)), though we observe that these factors financement temporaire. Se fondant sur les principes applicables à l'approbation d'accords semblables dans le contexte des recours collectifs (par. 74, citant Bayens, par. 41; Hayes, par. 4), le juge surveillant a estimé que l'AFL était juste et raisonnable. Plus particulièrement, il a examiné soigneusement les conditions selon lesquelles les avocats de Bentham et de Bluberi seraient payés si le litige était couronné de succès, les risques qu'ils prenaient en investissant dans le litige et l'étendue du contrôle qu'exercerait désormais Bentham sur le litige (par. 79 et 81). Le juge surveillant a également pris en compte les objectifs uniques des procédures fondées sur la LACC en établissant une distinction entre l'AFL et des accords apparemment semblables qui n'avaient pas été approuvés dans le contexte des recours collectifs (par. 81-82, établissant une distinction avec l'affaire Houle). Sa prise en compte de ces objectifs ressort également du fait qu'il s'est fondé sur Crystallex, qui, comme nous l'avons expliqué, portait sur l'approbation d'un financement temporaire dans des circonstances très semblables à celles en l'espèce (voir par. 67 et 71). Nous ne voyons aucune erreur de principe ni rien de déraisonnable dans cette approche.

[106] Certes, le juge surveillant n'a pas examiné à fond chacun des facteurs énoncés au par. 11.2(4) de la LACC de façon individuelle avant de tirer sa conclusion, mais cela ne constituait pas une erreur en soi. L'examen des motifs du juge surveillant dans leur ensemble, conjugué à la reconnaissance de son expérience évidente des procédures intentées par Bluberi sous le régime de la LACC, nous mène à conclure que les facteurs énumérés au par. 11.2(4) concernent des questions qui n'auraient pu échapper à son attention et à son examen adéquat. Il convient de rappeler qu'au moment où il a rendu sa décision, le juge surveillant était saisi des procédures en question depuis plus de deux ans et avait pu bénéficier de l'aide du contrôleur. En ce qui a trait à chacun des facteurs énoncés au par. 11.2(4), nous soulignons ce qui suit :

- le rôle de surveillance du juge lui aurait permis de connaître la durée prévue des procédures intentées par Bluberi sous le régime de la LACC ainsi que la mesure dans laquelle les dirigeants de Bluberi bénéficiaient du soutien des créanciers appear to be less significant than the others in the context of this particular case (see para. 96);

- the LFA itself explains “how the company’s business and financial affairs are to be managed during the proceedings” (s. 11.2(4)(b));
- the supervising judge was of the view that the LFA would enhance the prospect of a viable plan, as he accepted (1) that Bluberi intended to submit a plan and (2) Bluberi’s submission that approval of the LFA would assist it in finalizing a plan “with a view towards achieving maximum realization” of its assets (para. 68, citing 9354-9186 Québec inc. and 9354-9178 Québec inc.’s application, at para. 99; s. 11.2(4)(d));
- the supervising judge was apprised of the “nature and value” of Bluberi’s property, which was clearly limited to the Retained Claims (s. 11.2(4)(e));
- the supervising judge implicitly concluded that the creditors would not be materially prejudiced by the Litigation Financing Charge, as he stated that “[c]onsidering the results of the vote [on the First Plan], and given the particular circumstances of this matter, the only potential recovery lies with the lawsuit that the Debtors will launch” (para. 91 (emphasis added); s. 11.2(4)(f)); and
- the supervising judge was also well aware of the Monitor’s reports, and drew from the most recent report at various points in his reasons (see, e.g., paras. 64-65 and fn. 1; s. 11.2(4)(g)). It is worth noting that the Monitor supported approving the LFA as interim financing.

[107] In our view, it is apparent that the supervising judge was focussed on the fairness at stake to all parties, the specific objectives of the CCAA, and the particular circumstances of this case when he approved the LFA as interim financing. We cannot say that he erred in the exercise of his discretion.

(al. 11.2(4)a et c)), mais nous constatons que ces facteurs semblent revêtir beaucoup moins d’importance que les autres dans le contexte de la présente affaire (voir par. 96);

- l’AFL lui-même indique « la façon dont les affaires financières et autres de la compagnie seront gérées au cours de ces procédures » (al. 11.2(4)b));
- le juge surveillant était d’avis que l’AFL favoriserait la conclusion d’un plan viable, car il a accepté (1) le fait que Bluberi avait l’intention de présenter un plan et (2) l’argument de Bluberi selon lequel l’approbation de l’AFL l’aiderait à conclure un plan [TRADUCTION] « visant à atteindre une réalisation maximale » de ses éléments d’actif (par. 68, citant la demande de 9354-9186 Québec inc. et de 9354-9178 Québec inc., par. 99; al. 11.2(4)d));
- le juge surveillant était au courant de la « nature et [de] la valeur » des biens de Bluberi, qui se limitaient clairement aux réclamations retenues (al. 11.2(4)e));
- le juge surveillant a conclu implicitement que la charge relative au financement de litige ne causerait pas un préjudice sérieux aux créanciers, car il a affirmé que [TRADUCTION] « [c]ompte tenu du résultat du vote [sur le premier plan] et des circonstances particulières de la présente affaire, la seule possibilité de recouvrement réside dans l’action que vont tenter les débiteurs » (par. 91 (nous soulignons); al. 11.2(4)f));
- le juge surveillant était aussi bien au fait des rapports du contrôleur, et s’est appuyé sur le plus récent d’entre eux à divers endroits dans ses motifs (voir, p. ex., par. 64-65 et note 1; al. 11.2(4)g)). Il convient de souligner que le contrôleur appuyait l’approbation de l’AFL à titre de financement temporaire.

[107] À notre avis, il est manifeste que le juge surveillant a mis l’accent sur l’équité envers toutes les parties, les objectifs précis de la LACC et les circonstances particulières de la présente affaire lorsqu’il a approuvé l’AFL à titre de financement temporaire. Nous ne pouvons affirmer qu’il a commis une erreur

Although we are unsure whether the LFA was as favourable to Bluberi’s creditors as it might have been — to some extent, it does prioritize Bentham’s recovery over theirs — we nonetheless defer to the supervising judge’s exercise of discretion.

[108] To the extent the Court of Appeal held otherwise, we respectfully do not agree. Generally speaking, our view is that the Court of Appeal again failed to afford the supervising judge the necessary deference. More specifically, we wish to comment on three of the purported errors in the supervising judge’s decision that the Court of Appeal identified.

[109] First, it follows from our conclusion that LFAs can constitute interim financing that the Court of Appeal was incorrect to hold that approving the LFA as interim financing “transcended the nature of such financing” (para. 78).

[110] Second, in our view, the Court of Appeal was wrong to conclude that the LFA was a plan of arrangement, and that Crystallex was distinguishable on its facts. The Court of Appeal held that the LFA and associated super-priority Litigation Financing Charge formed a plan because they subordinated the rights of Bluberi’s creditors to those of Bentham.

[111] We agree with the supervising judge that the LFA is not a plan of arrangement because it does not propose any compromise of the creditors’ rights. To borrow from the Court of Appeal in Crystallex, Bluberi’s litigation claim is akin to a “pot of gold” (para. 4). Plans of arrangement determine how to distribute that pot. They do not generally determine what a debtor company should do to fill it. The fact that the creditors may walk away with more or less money at the end of the day does not change the nature or existence of their rights to access the pot once it is filled, nor can it be said to “compromise” those rights. When the “pot of gold” is secure — that dans l’exercice de son pouvoir discrétionnaire. Nous ne savons pas avec certitude si l’AFL était aussi favorable aux créanciers de Bluberi qu’il aurait pu l’être — dans une certaine mesure, il donne priorité au recouvrement de Bentham sur le leur — mais nous nous en remettons néanmoins à l’exercice par le juge surveillant de son pouvoir discrétionnaire.

[109] Premièrement, il découle de notre conclusion selon laquelle les AFL peuvent constituer un financement temporaire que la Cour d’appel a eu tort de conclure que l’approbation de l’AFL à titre de financement temporaire [TRADUCTION] « transcendait la nature de ce type de financement » (par. 78).

[111] Nous souscrivons à l’opinion du juge surveillant selon laquelle l’AFL ne constitue pas un plan d’arrangement parce qu’il ne propose aucune transaction visant les droits des créanciers. Pour reprendre la formule qu’a employée la Cour d’appel dans Crystallex, la réclamation de Bluberi s’apparente à une [TRADUCTION] « marmite d’or » (par. 4). Les plans d’arrangement établissent la façon dont le contenu de cette marmite sera distribué. Ils n’indiquent généralement pas ce que la compagnie débitrice devra faire pour la remplir. Le fait que les créanciers puissent en fin de compte remporter plus ou moins d’argent ne modifie en rien la nature ou is, in the event of any litigation or settlement — the net funds will be distributed to the creditors. Here, if the Retained Claims generate funds in excess of Bluberi’s total liabilities, the creditors will be paid in full; if there is a shortfall, a plan of arrangement or compromise will determine how the funds are distributed. Bluberi has committed to proposing such a plan (see supervising judge’s reasons, at para. 68, distinguishing Cliffs Over Maple Bay Investments Ltd. v. Fisgard Capital Corp., 2008 BCCA 327, 296 D.L.R. (4th) 577).

[112] This is the very same conclusion that was reached in Crystallex in similar circumstances:

The facts of this case are unusual: there is a single “pot of gold” asset which, if realized, will provide significantly more than required to repay the creditors. The supervising judge was in the best position to balance the interests of all stakeholders. I am of the view that the supervising judge’s exercise of discretion in approving the Tenor DIP Loan was reasonable and appropriate, despite having the effect of constraining the negotiating position of the creditors.

... While the approval of the Tenor DIP Loan affected the Noteholders’ leverage in negotiating a plan, and has made the negotiation of a plan more complex, it did not compromise the terms of their indebtedness or take away any of their legal rights. It is accordingly not an arrangement, and a creditor vote was not required. [paras. 82 and 93]

[113] We disagree with the Court of Appeal that Crystallex should be distinguished on the basis that it involved a single option for creditor recovery (i.e., the arbitration) while this case involves two (i.e., litigation of the Retained Claims and Callidus’s New l’existence de leurs droits d’avoir accès à la marmite une fois qu’elle est remplie, pas plus qu’on ne saurait dire qu’il s’agit d’une « transaction » à l’égard de leurs droits. Lorsque la « marmite d’or » aura été obtenue — c’est-à-dire dans l’éventualité d’une action ou d’un règlement — les sommes nettes seront distribuées aux créanciers. En l’espèce, si les réclamations retenues permettent de recouvrer des sommes qui dépassent le total des dettes de Bluberi, les créanciers seront payés en entier; si les sommes sont insuffisantes, un plan d’arrangement ou une transaction établira la façon dont les sommes seront distribuées. Bluberi s’est engagée à proposer un tel plan (voir les motifs du juge surveillant, par. 68, établissant une distinction avec Cliffs Over Maple Bay Investments Ltd. v. Fisgard Capital Corp., 2008 BCCA 327, 296 D.L.R. (4th) 577).

[112] C’est exactement la même conclusion qui a été tirée dans Crystallex dans des circonstances semblables :

[TRADUCTION] Les faits de l’espèce sont inhabituels : la « marmite d’or » ne contient qu’un seul élément d’actif qui, s’il est réalisé, rapportera beaucoup plus que ce qui est nécessaire pour rembourser les créanciers. Le juge surveillant était le mieux placé pour établir un équilibre entre les intérêts de toutes les parties intéressées. J’estime que l’exercice par le juge surveillant de son pouvoir discrétionnaire d’approuver le prêt de DE Tenor était raisonnable et approprié, bien qu’il ait eu pour effet de limiter la position de négociation des créanciers.

... L’approbation du prêt de DE Tenor a certes amoindri l’influence que pouvaient exercer les détenteurs de billets lors de la négociation d’un plan, et rendu plus complexe la négociation d’un plan, mais ce prêt ne constituait pas une transaction visant les conditions de leurs dettes ni ne les privait de l’un de leurs droits reconnus par la loi. Il ne s’agit donc pas d’un arrangement, et un vote des créanciers n’était pas nécessaire. [par. 82 et 93]

[113] Nous ne souscrivons pas à l’opinion de la Cour d’appel selon laquelle il y a lieu d’établir une distinction avec Crystallex parce que, dans cette affaire, les créanciers disposaient d’un seul moyen de recouvrement (c.-à-d. l’arbitrage) tandis que, dans la

Plan). Given the supervising judge's conclusion that Callidus could not vote on the New Plan, that plan was not a viable alternative to the LFA. This left the LFA and litigation of the Retained Claims as the "only potential recovery" for Bluberi's creditors (supervising judge's reasons, at para. 91). Perhaps more significantly, even if there were multiple options for creditor recovery in either Crystallex or this case, the mere presence of those options would not necessarily have changed the character of the third party litigation funding agreements at issue or converted them into plans of arrangement. The question for the supervising judge in each case is whether the agreement before them ought to be approved as interim financing. While other options for creditor recovery may be relevant to that discretionary decision, they are not determinative.

[114] We add that the Litigation Financing Charge does not convert the LFA into a plan of arrangement by "subordinat[ing]" creditors' rights (C.A. reasons, at para. 90). We accept that this charge would have the effect of placing secured creditors like Callidus behind in priority to Bentham. However, this result is expressly provided for in s. 11.2 of the CCAA. This "subordination" does not convert statutorily authorized interim financing into a plan of arrangement. Accepting this interpretation would effectively extinguish the supervising judge's authority to approve these charges without a creditors' vote pursuant to s. 11.2(2).

[115] Third, we are of the view that the Court of Appeal was wrong to decide that the supervising judge should have submitted the LFA together with a plan to the creditors for their approval (para. 89). As we have indicated, whether to insist that a debtor package their third party litigation funding agreement présente affaire, il y en a deux (c.-à-d. l'introduction d'une action à l'égard des réclamations retenues et le nouveau plan de Callidus). Étant donné que le juge surveillant avait conclu que Callidus ne pouvait pas voter sur le nouveau plan, ce plan ne constituait pas une solution de rechange viable à l'AFL. La [TRADUCTION] « seule possibilité de recouvrement » qui s'offrait aux créanciers de Bluberi résidait donc dans l'AFL et l'introduction d'une action à l'égard des réclamations retenues (motifs du juge surveillant, par. 91). Fait peut-être plus important, même si les créanciers avaient disposé de plusieurs moyens de recouvrement, tant dans l'affaire Crystallex que dans la présente affaire, la simple existence de ces moyens n'aurait pas nécessairement modifié la nature des accords de financement de litige par un tiers en cause ni n'aurait eu pour effet de les convertir en plans d'arrangement. La question que doit se poser le juge surveillant dans chaque affaire est de savoir si l'accord qui lui est soumis doit être approuvé à titre de financement temporaire. Certes, les autres moyens de recouvrement dont disposent les créanciers peuvent entrer en ligne de compte dans la prise de cette décision discrétionnaire, mais ils ne sont pas déterminants.

[114] Ajoutons que la charge relative au financement de litige ne convertit pas l'AFL en plan d'arrangement en [TRADUCTION] « subordonn[ant] » les droits des créanciers (motifs de la Cour d'appel, par. 90). Nous reconnaissons que cette charge aurait pour effet de placer les créanciers garantis comme Callidus derrière Bentham dans l'ordre de priorité, mais ce résultat est expressément prévu par l'art. 11.2 de la LACC. Cette « subordination » ne convertit pas le financement temporaire autorisé par la loi en plan d'arrangement. Retenir cette interprétation aurait pour effet d'annihiler le pouvoir du juge surveillant d'approuver ces charges sans un vote des créanciers en vertu du par. 11.2(2).

[115] Troisièmement, nous estimons que la Cour d'appel a eu tort de conclure que le juge surveillant aurait dû soumettre l'AFL accompagné d'un plan à l'approbation des créanciers (par. 89). Comme nous l'avons indiqué, la décision d'exiger que le débiteur accompagne d'un plan son accord de financement

[116] Finally, at the appellants' insistence, we point out that the Court of Appeal's suggestion that the LFA is somehow "akin to an equity investment" was unhelpful and potentially confusing (para. 90). That said, this characterization was clearly obiter dictum. To the extent that the Court of Appeal relied on it as support for the conclusion that the LFA was a plan of arrangement, we have already explained why we believe the Court of Appeal was mistaken on this point.

VI. Conclusion

[117] For these reasons, at the conclusion of the hearing we allowed these appeals and reinstated the supervising judge's order. Costs were awarded to the appellants in this Court and the Court of Appeal.

Appeals allowed with costs in the Court and in the Court of Appeal.

de litige par un tiers est une décision discrétionnaire qui appartient au juge surveillant.

[116] Enfin, sur les instances des appelantes, nous soulignons que l'affirmation de la Cour d'appel selon laquelle l'AFL [TRADUCTION] « s'apparente [en quelque sorte] à un placement à échéance non déterminée » était inutile et pouvait prêter à confusion (par. 90). Cela dit, il s'agissait manifestement d'une remarque incidente. Dans la mesure où la Cour d'appel s'est fondée sur cette qualification pour conclure que l'AFL constituait un plan d'arrangement, nous avons déjà expliqué pourquoi nous croyons que la Cour d'appel a fait erreur sur ce point.

VI. Conclusion

ENDORSEMENT
(CBCA Initial Order)

[1] On June 3, 2024 a Preliminary Interim Order was made under s. 192(4) of the Canada Business Corporations Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-44 (“CBCA”). see Xplore Inc. (Re), 2024 ONSC 3251, reasons released June 6, 2024 (“Preliminary Order Reasons”). The Preliminary Interim Order was sought and granted on an ex parte basis.¹

[2] The Preliminary Interim Order included a stay of rights and remedies against the Xplore Entities (defined in the Preliminary Interim Order as collectively, Stonepeak Falcon Guarantor Inc., Xplore Inc., and any direct or indirect affiliate or subsidiary of Xplore Inc.) arising by reason or as a result of this Application having been made, their involvement in these proceedings, or any resulting default or cross-default under any of the Credit Agreements, Satellite Agreements or Surety Indemnity Agreements to which the Xplore Entities are party (the "Stay"). Full come back rights were provided in the Preliminary Interim Order for all interested parties.

[3] This hearing was scheduled for the purposes of allowing certain stakeholders to avail themselves of their comeback rights (the "Comeback Motions"). At the same time, the court scheduled the Applicants' motion for an Interim Order under s. 192(4) of the CBCA for advice and directions to "set the wheels in motion" for a vote and eventual approval hearing for the court to consider a proposed arrangement under s. 192(3) of the CBCA (the "Arrangement"). The Arrangement is in furtherance of a proposed recapitalization transaction (the "Transaction") to be implemented pursuant to a CBCA plan of arrangement.

[4] The Interim Order was signed on Friday August 16, 2024 to facilitate logistics for the Meeting that is to be called to vote on the Arrangement Resolution. At that time, a brief endorsement was provided that indicated the reasons for granting the Interim Order and reasons in respect of the disposition of the Comeback Motions would follow. These are the reasons.

[5] Capitalized terms not otherwise defined in this endorsement shall have the meanings ascribed to them in the affidavit of William E. Aziz sworn July 24, 2024 that provides the evidentiary support for the Applicants' position on these motions, together with the exhibits attached thereto, including the Plan of Arrangement (the "Plan" or "CBCA Plan") attached as Appendix "C" to the draft Disclosure Statement (Exhibit B to the Aziz Affidavit).

Background to these Motions

[6] The following is a recap of the background to this application and some of the terms of the Preliminary Interim Order and Stay that were detailed in the Preliminary Order Reasons.

[7] Xplore Inc. ("Xplore") is the intermediate parent of a group of affiliated privately-held telecommunications companies (collectively, the "Company" or the "Xplore Group"). The Xplore

However, the Applicants were concerned that unsecured creditors, specifically certain Satellite Providers, might take unilateral steps with potential negative consequences for some Xplore Entities and their customers between the time they received notice of the preliminary interim motion and the time it took the Applicants to get to court and ask for the Stay, so not all interested stakeholders were given notice.

Group is dedicated to providing fast and reliable broadband internet access and related services to residences and businesses in rural communities across Canada (the “Business”).

[8] Founded in 1998, the Xplore Group employs 1,085 employees and provides internet access to more than 300,000 subscribers across Canada over three technology platforms: (a) fixed wireless (the “Fixed Wireless Business”); (b) satellite (the “Satellite Business”); and (c) fibre to premises (the “Fibre Business”).

[9] The Company is in need of both liquidity and capital to support and grow its Business. It has been reviewing its strategic options with the assistance of an independent committee of the board of directors formed in August 2023. Xplore’s current EBITDA is insufficient to satisfy the debt servicing costs associated with its $1.7 billion in secured debt. This constrains the Company’s ability to access the liquidity needed to operate its Business and capitalize on growth opportunities.

[10] The immediate liquidity issues prevented the Company from making $44 million in interest payments under its First Lien Term Loan and Second Lien Term Loan (together, the “Secured Debt”) when they came due on (and after) March 28, 2024. There are standstill arrangements in place with these lenders (the “Secured Lenders”).

[11] The Company has engaged in extensive negotiations with a committee representing a majority of its Secured Lenders (the “Lender Committee”) and with its primary equity holder, Stonepeak Falcon Holdco LP (“Stonepeak”), with a view to creating a more sustainable long-term capital structure for the Company. The proposed Transaction has been designed to substantially deleverage Xplore’s capital structure and reduce its annual interest expenses. It is expected to provide the Company with the liquidity and financial flexibility it requires to operate its Business and pursue its long-term growth objectives, while ensuring that it has the committed funding needed to complete government-sponsored internet projects.

[12] At the time of the Preliminary Interim Order, the framework of the Transaction had been agreed to in principle between the Company, the Lender Committee and Stonepeak Falcon Fibre Inc. (“Stonepeak Fibre”), an affiliate of Stonepeak, Xplore’s controlling shareholder.

[13] The Secured Debt ranks in priority to Xplore’s unsecured obligations under its Satellite Agreements. The Transaction contemplates the conversion of more than 80% of the Secured Debt to equity and also involves the addition of new debt and equity financing. The Secured Lenders represented by the Lending Committee that have agreed to the Transaction (the “Consenting Lenders”) are not prepared to convert the majority of their Secured Debt to equity, and the Consenting Lenders and Stonepeak are not prepared to advance new debt and equity financing to the Xplore Group, without addressing the uneconomic and unsustainable Satellite Agreements.

[14] Xplore has determined that the Satellite Business is no longer economical given the decline in subscribership (estimated to be down 57% since 2022 with an associated estimated 50% decline in revenues) and given the substantial fixed costs under its agreements with the satellite providers (the "Satellite Agreements"). The continuation of the Satellite Agreements on their current terms would result in Xplore operating the Satellite Business for a prolonged period at significant, continuing losses. These losses would drain the Company's liquidity and deprive it of the funding it needs to service its customers and invest in its Fixed Wireless and Fibre Businesses, which are critical to the long-term value of the Xplore Group. However, there is significant government engagement and concern about maintaining internet services to rural areas in Canada so any transition away from the Company's Satellite Business would have to happen in an orderly manner.

[15] Xplore has been reviewing strategic options to address challenges in its Satellite Business. Xplore recognizes that the Satellite Agreements, the unsecured obligations and the indebtedness thereunder need to be addressed, if not on a consensual basis then as part of the Transaction and Arrangement or by some other process. Completion of the Transaction is conditional on the Satellite Agreements being consensually modified or addressed in the manner proposed under the Arrangement or another court process. The Company has been engaged in discussions with certain satellite providers with a view to achieving consensual modifications to the Satellite Agreements that reflect the current circumstances of the Satellite Business.

[16] During this period of negotiation, the Company was not able to pay its unsecured obligations under the Satellite Agreements. The Stay granted under the Preliminary Interim Order restrains satellite providers from terminating, suspending or pursuing default rights under the Satellite Agreements until further order of the Court. In the short term, the Company's rural customers of its Satellite Business depend on the continued supply of the satellite services under the Satellite Agreements.

[17] In conjunction with the Preliminary Interim Order, the Company indicated that it would pay all of its satellite service providers the net profit (revenue less direct and allocated costs) earned by Xplore from subscribers whose internet services are provided by each applicable satellite service provider, respectively (the "Net Profit Payments") for the anticipated short term continued and ongoing provision of satellite services during the period of the Stay. These Net Profit Payments represent what Xplore is able to pay for these satellite services but they are significantly less than the amounts due under the Satellite Agreements (the "Contractual Payments"). The Contractual Payments and other obligations of Xplore under the Satellite Agreements are referred to as the "Satellite Obligations".

[18] Discussions with one of the three satellite service providers have advanced sufficiently that it did not object to the Interim Order and did not appear or take any position on these motions. The other two satellite service providers, Hughes Network Systems, LLC ("Hughes") and Telesat (IOM) Limited ("Telesat") (Hughes and Telesat together, the "Satellite Providers"), objected to the Interim Order and sought relief by their own Comeback Motions.

The Proposed Transaction and Arrangement

[19] Under the proposed Transaction, the Secured Debtholders will exchange the Secured Debt, in the aggregate principal amount of approximately $1.7 billion, for consideration that includes: (a) Substantially all of the common equity of Stonepeak Holdings; (b) Term loans issued by Xplore in the aggregate principal amount of approximately $330 million; and (c) Contingent value rights (the "CVR") entitling holders thereof to certain proceeds that may arise from the Fixed Wireless Business of the Xplore Group.

[20] Implementation of the Transaction will reduce the principal amount of the Company's secured indebtedness by more than $1.2 billion and reduce the Company's annual cash interest costs by approximately $120 million at current interest rates. Completion of the Transaction will also enable Xplore to access up to $600 million of new debt and equity financing from and after implementation, through: (a) the $100 million New Money Term Loans; (b) the New Preferred Equity Issuance for proceeds of up to $350 million; and (c) the New Common Equity Issuance for proceeds of up to $150 million. Once fully funded, the New Common Shares issued pursuant to the New Common Equity Issuance will constitute 51.75% of the issued and outstanding New Common Shares of Stonepeak Holdings (inclusive of the New Common Shares issued to Secured Debtholders in exchange for the Secured Debt).

[21] The Arrangement involves, among other things: (a) the exchange of the First Lien Debt for Takeback Term Loans, 96.373% of the New Class A Common Shares, the CVR, Backstop Consideration and Consenting First Lien Debtholder Consideration; and (b) the exchange of the Second Lien Debt for 3.627% of the New Class A Common Shares and Consenting Second Lien Debtholder Consideration.

[22] On the Effective Date of the CBCA Plan: (a) the Existing Class A Shares of Stonepeak Holdings will be exchanged for one New Class B Common Share of Stonepeak Holdings; (b) the Existing Class B Shares of Stonepeak Holdings shall be redeemed by Stonepeak Holdings for no consideration; and (c) the Affected Equity shall be cancelled without any payment or compensation.

[23] If a consensual contractual resolution with the applicable Satellite Provider has not been reached, the CBCA Plan provides that the applicable Satellite Agreements and Satellite Obligations shall be transferred and assigned to, and shall vest absolutely without recourse in, "ResidualCo". ResidualCo is an entity to be incorporated or designated by the Xplore affiliates participating in the Transaction (the "Xplore Parties"). ResidualCo will not be incorporated under the CBCA. It is expected that ResidualCo will not have any material assets or business operations.

[24] Pursuant to the CBCA Plan, each Satellite Provider shall receive the Satellite Provider Implementation Payment, which is a cash payment of $250,000 to be made by Xplore to each of the three Satellite Providers on the Effective Date. The Satellite Provider Implementation Payment is therefore conditional on the implementation of the CBCA Plan.

[25] The valuations of Xplore and of the overall Company make it clear that there is no residual value for the unsecured obligations of Xplore, including any Satellite Obligations under the Satellite Agreements. Despite these valuations and the priority of the Secured Debt of the First Lien Debtholders and Second Lien Debtholders (collectively, the "Secured Debtholders"), 80% of which will be equitized under the Transaction, the Company, with the support of the Consenting Lenders and Stonepeak, is prepared to retain and assume substantially all of the unsecured obligations of Xplore other than the Satellite Obligations, as part of the Arrangement.

[26] The parties participating in the Arrangement believe that implementation of the Transaction through the Arrangement is a value-maximizing approach that is in the best interests of the Xplore Group and its general body of stakeholders.

The Motions and Objections

[27] The Applicants' motion is for an Interim Order pursuant to s. 192(4) of the CBCA for the approval of certain procedural matters with respect to the calling, holding and conducting of a meeting of Xplore's Secured Debtholders (the "Meeting") to vote on the proposed Arrangement to be implemented pursuant to the CBCA Plan. The Satellite Providers' primary objection to the terms of the proposed Interim Order and the mechanics for the Meeting is that they want there to be a separate class vote on the CBCA Plan for unsecured creditors, including themselves. They have also raised other principled objections to the Meeting taking place at all.

[28] The Satellite Providers are not directly participating in the Arrangement but object to how it is proposed that they will eventually be treated, relative to other unsecured creditors (who are also not participating in the Arrangement). The Satellite Providers also object to not being paid their full Contractual Payments for the satellite services they are providing during the period of the Stay.

[29] In addition to their objection to the Initial Order, each of Hughes and Telesat have brought their Comeback Motions for an order requiring Xplore to make the Contractual Payments in respect of their supply of goods and services from and after June 3, 2024 and for an order requiring Xplore to post security in respect of those Contractual Payments. Hughes also seeks leave of the court to issue an Application for a Bankruptcy Order against Xplore.

[30] These Satellite Providers maintain that Xplore would not be permitted to "short pay" them if the stay had been granted in an insolvency proceeding under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 ("CCAA") or under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-3 ("BIA") and that the court should afford them those same protections in the context of the CBCA Stay under the Preliminary Interim Order.

[31] The Satellite Providers also assert that, at the time the ex parte Preliminary Interim Order was granted, the court was denied the benefit of full, fair and frank evidence detailing (i) the circumstances and extent of the debts owed to the Satellite Providers, (ii) how the "Net Profit Payments" proposed compared to Xplore's monthly contractual obligations, or (iii) that Telesat had in fact exercised its termination rights prior to the swearing of the evidence adduced to obtain the Preliminary Interim Order. In the latter regard, they contend that a stay or no-default order under the CBCA is not appropriate where it is being used to extinguish third party claims that have already been asserted.

Preliminary Issue Re: Confidential Records

[32] Telesat sought leave to file a Confidential Brief containing certain limited information (the "Information") provided by Xplore to Telesat in respect of the calculation of the Net Profit Payments. The Information had been requested by Telesat from Xplore following the Preliminary Interim Order and was provided by Xplore to Telesat on a confidential and without-prejudice basis because Xplore maintains that the Information is commercially and competitively sensitive. Telesat's proposal was for the court to receive this information under seal and that no other parties or the public have access to it. Xplore was prepared to allow the Confidential Brief to be filed on that basis.

[33] After reviewing the Confidential Brief and the Information contained in it, and hearing submissions from counsel for Telesat and Xplore, it was established that the key information contained in the Confidential Brief that Telesat wished for the court to consider was contained in a July 8, 2024 letter that was included in the Confidential Brief but had not been designated to be confidential or privileged. Accordingly, rather than sealing the Confidential Brief, it was returned to counsel and the July 8, 2024 letter was filed on its own. This letter contains the explanation that Telesat wished for the court to consider regarding the method/formula used to calculate the Net Profit Payments that Xplore has been making to Telesat under the terms of the Preliminary Interim Order and the amounts that had been paid in June and July, 2024.

Issues to be Decided

[34] The following issues have been distilled from the factums filed and submissions made:

- a. Should the Preliminary Interim Order be varied or amended or supplemented by a further order to require all Contractual Payments to be made to the Satellite Providers during the Stay period, and to require security to be posted for those payments:

1. Because of a failure by the Applicants to make full, true and plain disclosure of all material facts at the time that ex parte order was made?

And/or

2. Because the Satellite Providers are continuing to supply services for Xplore's rural customers of its Satellite Business, and as such they should be receiving the Contractual Payments for any services they provide post-filing?

b. Should the Interim Order be granted?

1. Have the Applicants' complied with the statutory requirements of the CBCA?
2. Have the Applicants acted in good faith in putting forward the Arrangement?
3. Is there no chance that the court will find the Arrangement to be fair and reasonable at the fairness hearing?
4. Are the proposed procedures and voting mechanics under the Interim Order appropriate - should the Satellite Providers be entitled to vote on the Plan ?
5. Is it appropriate to grant the requested alternative relief that the Interim Order provides for with respect to the option to "pivot" to a CCAA Plan?

c. Should the Stay be lifted to enable Hughes to issue an Application for a Bankruptcy Order against Xplore?

Analysis

[35] I will first address the requests of the Satellite Providers for the Preliminary Interim Order to be varied or amended or supplemented. I will then address the Applicants' request for the Interim Order. Lastly, I will address Hughes' request that the Stay be lifted to enable it to issue a bankruptcy application.

Should the Preliminary Interim Order be Varied or Amended or Supplemented?

The Alleged Undisclosed Facts

[36] The law with respect to full and fair disclosure is well established. On an interlocutory motion made without notice, Rule 39.01(6) of the Rules of Civil Procedure, R.R.O. 1990, Reg. 194 requires that there be full and fair disclosure of all material facts including the reasons for moving without notice.

[37] The moving party must state his case fairly and must make a balanced presentation of the facts and law including any points of fact or law that favour the opposing party. The moving party is under a heavy onus of candour and disclosure on a motion without notice and a failure to make full disclosure is fatal. On an ex parte motion, the test as to whether full and fair disclosure is made turns on whether the omitted disclosure "might" have impacted the original granting of the order. See also Wang v. Feng, 2023 ONSC 2315, at para. 130 and Hogg v. Wealthsimple Inc. et al., 2023 ONSC 6291, at para. 46, citing Horrocks v. McConville, 2021 ONSC 522, at para. 12.

[38] Hughes alleges that the disclosure by Xplore when it sought the Preliminary Interim Order, was not sufficient because the following facts were not fully or properly disclosed:

- a. In May 2023, at Xplore's request, Hughes agreed to amendments that would defer certain of Xplore's monthly lease payments until April 2025. Specifically, it would defer payments in respect of the J1 and J2 Satellites that were otherwise payable during 2023 and 2024, in order to mitigate Xplore's financial concerns (the "J1 Deferral" and "J2 Deferral"). The total "Deferred Amount" is $40 million, plus interest of $4.69 million USD.
- b. Despite the J1 Deferral and J2 Deferral, since January 13, 2024, Xplore has been in default of its obligations to pay Hughes in respect of certain invoices issued in accordance with the Satellite Agreements. As of June 4, 2024, Hughes had invoiced Xplore for approximately $28.8 million USD.
- c. As of June 4, 2024, Xplore's monthly payment obligation to Hughes pursuant to the Satellite Agreements was approximately $2,561,000.
- d. Between March 5, 2024, and May 20, 2024, Hughes delivered several default notices to Xplore, advising that Xplore was in default of its obligations (in total, the outstanding amounts were approximately $8.7 million), and notifying Xplore that Hughes was prepared to suspend services to Xplore and/or terminate one or more of the Satellite Agreements.

[39] Xplore failed to pay Telesat for three consecutive months between February and April 2024. As a result, Telesat issued a Notice of Breach dated May 14, 2024, demanding payment of all outstanding amounts ($3,276,111.96) together with interest (the monthly payment obligation being approximately $1,091,000). This notice of breach was disclosed. However, Telesat is critical that Xplore failed to disclose that on May 29, 2024 it issued a termination notice in respect of its Satellite Capacity and Gateway Service Agreement. Concurrently, Telesat issued a Notice of Suspension in respect of its Smart Hands Support Service Agreement that was also not disclosed to the court prior to the Preliminary Interim Order hearing.

[40] The May 29, 2024 termination notice advised Xplore that Telesat was terminating their contract effective June 19, 2024 (i.e., 20 days following prior written notice), and all associated Satellite Capacity would be discontinued at that time. Thus, Telesat argues that the court was not made aware that the ex parte order sought by Xplore would enjoin the implementation of a termination notice that had already been delivered.

[41] The Satellite Providers are also critical of the disclosure made by Xplore about the Net Profit Payments it was agreeing to make to ameliorate the prejudicial effect of the Stay under the Preliminary Interim Order. The court took that disclosure into account in the Preliminary Order Endorsement, noting that while the proposed payments were "less than the contractual rate", the Stay was warranted. The Satellite Providers argue that this left the court without any frame of reference to evaluate the fairness or proportionality of the Net Profit Payments, relative to the contractually agreed compensation, and its impact on the Satellite Providers.

[42] In summary, the Satellite Providers focused their submissions on Xplore's failure to disclose the existence and particulars of the following:

- a. The Hughes Deferred Amount and additional pre-filing arrears (over and above the $8.7 million in immediately preceding monthly defaults that were disclosed) – in other words, the amount and full extent of past arrears and accommodations.
- b. That Telesat had not just demanded payment of arrears on May 14, 2024 but had also delivered a notice on May 29, 2024 that it was terminating its Satellite Agreement and would no longer be providing its satellite services effective June 19, 2024 after the requisite notice period had expired (and had given notice of suspension under another related agreement).
- c. The amount and full extent of the deficiency between the Net Profit Payments to be made in lieu of the Contractual Payments during the Stay period (the gap between the Net Profit Payments and the Contractual Payments).

The Satellite Providers argue that Xplore's non-disclosure constitutes grounds for the Preliminary Interim Order to be amended or varied or supplemented to require that Xplore make the Contractual Payments plus post security for those payments retroactively and for the duration of the Stay.

[43] These concerns must be considered in context. The Applicants emphasize that the matters now complained about were disclosed in the Affidavit of Geoff Lowe sworn May 31, 2024 in support of the motion for the Preliminary Interim Order, just not with the level of specificity (particularly with respect to the precise amounts) that the Satellite Providers are now pointing to. There was disclosure in the Applicants' materials about the following matters:

- a. The contractual relationships with the Satellite Providers.
- b. That Xplore was in arrears in its payment obligations to the Satellite Providers, and that it was concerned, based on notices it had received from them, that they may immediately stop providing access to satellite capacity before a Stay could be sought if they received notice of the motion for the Preliminary Interim Order.
- c. That the Applicants were seeking a Stay in relation to all defaults under the Satellite Agreements, which included significant payment defaults.
- d. That the Satellite Providers had not agreed to concessions, and had not accepted the Net Profit Payments, which were disclosed to be less than what would be payable under the Satellite Agreements.

[44] This disclosure was all before the court when the determination was made that it was appropriate to grant the Stay at the time of the Preliminary Interim Order. Typically, a stay pending a vote on a proposed CBCA arrangement is for a short term, to allow time for a CBCA Plan to be put forward, considered and voted upon. In this case, it was sought shortly before the Interim Order to ensure that there was no precipitous cessation of internet service to Canadians in rural communities pending the vote on the CBCA Plan and the final approval hearing.

[45] It was disclosed that the effect of the Stay would be to prevent the satellite service providers from terminating the Satellite Agreements or ceasing to supply their goods and services during this interim Stay period. It was disclosed that Xplore had not been paying for these services in the immediately preceding months and was in default and that Xplore would continue to be unable to pay for those services at the prescribed rates under the Satellite Agreements; Xplore, thus, proposed to make the Net Profit Payments, which were more than the Satellite Providers had been receiving in recent months.

[46] The premise of the Net Profit Payments is that the Company does not benefit or "profit" from the continued provisions of services by the Satellite Providers during this Stay period. The calculated profits (revenues less allocated expenses associated with the services to be provided by the Satellite Providers) would be paid to the Satellite Providers to ameliorate the acknowledged deficiency in what would otherwise be payable under their Satellite Agreements. From the court's perspective, this was not about the Satellite Providers paying for the cost of getting their services to end-customers, it was about ensuring that Xplore would not be profiting from the short-term involuntary arrangement under which the Satellite Providers would be continuing to supply their services at below the agreed Contractual Payments.

[47] The bottom line is that the court was made aware that: Xplore was in default of its obligations under the Satellite Agreements, there were significant and continuing payment defaults and pre-filing arrears, the Satellite Providers were in a position to stop providing their satellite services and there was a concern that they might do so imminently. In this latter respect, Xplore explains that the failure to disclose the May 29, 2024 termination letter from Telesat was an oversight (the May 14 default letter having been disclosed); but Xplore also maintains that this oversight was not material when considered in the context of everything else that was disclosed.

[48] Telesat seeks to draw a distinction between a contract having been terminated (that the court cannot reinstate) and an anticipated termination of a contract, noting that some courts have cautioned against using third party stays or no-default orders in the former instance in CBCA debt restructuring arrangements to maintain a status quo in circumstances where the status quo entails an alleged existing default that has triggered remedial action. (see 9171665 Canada Ltd. (Re), 2015 ABQB 633, at para. 27(4)).

[49] The circumstances of the 9171665 Canada case may not have warranted a stay, but stays are often granted after contractual defaults, and even after claims or other contractual remedies have been asserted. In my view, the situation with the Telesat's Satellite Agreement falls short of the cautionary scenario, insofar as the status quo that the Stay sought to maintain here was a contract (the Telesat Satellite Agreement) that had not yet terminated when the Preliminary Initial Order was sought and made. Following the logic of Telesat's argument, the situation might have been different if the termination notice was not disclosed and the Preliminary Initial Order had been sought after June 19, 2024 termination date; but it was not, and the Stay intervened to delay the effective date of Telesat's termination. As of the date of the Preliminary Interim Order when the Stay came into effect, Telesat was providing its satellite services. That is the status quo that the Stay maintained.

[50] In the circumstances of this case, I do not find there to have been any omitted disclosure (of particulars and details of facts that were disclosed in general terms) that "might" have impacted the original granting of the Preliminary Interim Order in this case. There was no fatal non-disclosure that is fatal to the continuation of the Preliminary Interim Order.

[51] I would add that, although some of the older authorities were not cited by the parties, it has long been recognized that some latitude may be given to the moving party when a matter decided on an ex parte basis comes back before the court with additional disclosure. See United States v. Friedland, [1996] 30 O.R. (3d) 568, at p. 573.

[52] Ex parte motions and applications are, of necessity, brought on an urgent basis, often with little time to prepare supporting materials. In that context, if the judge who granted the original order (or the court of appeal) is satisfied, on a totality of the evidence, that the orders ought to have been made and were supported by the evidence, they need not necessarily be set aside just because there were additional facts that could have been disclosed. see Ontario Realty Corp. v. P. Gabriele & Sons Ltd. (2000), 50 C.P.C. (4th) 300 at 321 to 325 (Ont. S.C.J. - Com. List); Two-Tyme Recycling Inc. v. Woods, 2009 CanLII 64803 (ON SC), at para. 21; Pardhan v. Coca-Cola Ltd., 2003 FCA 11 (CanLII), at para. 26, referring to Robert J. Sharpe, Injunctions and Specific Performance, Looseleaf Edition (Toronto: Canada Law Book, 2001), para. 2.45).

[53] I am not in any way diminishing the importance of full, plain and frank disclosure when ex parte orders are sought. However, in the circumstances of this case, I am also satisfied that the same decision would have been made to grant the Preliminary Interim Order if the additional particulars and details now complained of had been disclosed.

Revisiting the Requirement that the Satellite Providers Continue to Provide Services for Less than the Contractual Payments

[54] Notably, the Satellite Providers are not asking that the Preliminary Interim Order be set aside or that the Stay be lifted so that they can terminate their Satellite Agreements. What they want is to be paid their Contractual Payments during the Stay period.

[55] Independent of the alleged non-disclosures, the Satellite Providers argue that the terms of the Stay effectively and improperly require them to continue to supply services for Xplore's rural customers of its Satellite Business post-filing, without being paid the Contractual Payments to which they are entitled for those services. They say it is unprecedented in insolvency proceedings for service providers to be required to continue to supply services without being paid what their contracts provide for.

[56] I have considered the additional authorities and submissions made by the Satellite Providers and the Applicants on this point. Nothing new has been raised that causes me to revisit or change the determination made at first instance that the court has the jurisdiction within its broad discretion under s. 194(2) of the CBCA to grant a Stay that prevents a critical supplier from ceasing to provide services even if they are not being paid in accordance with their contractual terms, when the circumstances warrant it. This is not re-writing their Supply Agreements. The contractual obligations remain intact; rather, it is a means of addressing a short term need for the continued supply of a critical service (and eventual transition, if need be) to protect other stakeholders in the highly regulated industry in which Xplore operates.

[57] The authority to grant or continue a stay of proceedings on appropriate terms is squarely within the jurisdiction and discretion of the court. This authority was canvassed in the Preliminary Order Reasons and will not be repeated in these reasons. The breadth and scope of stays varies from case to case, as is demonstrated by the summary of stay provisions appended at Schedule C to the Satellite Providers' joint factum. Xplore points out that some are broader and some are narrower than the Stay in this case.

[58] The Satellite Providers direct the court to the CCAA and the BIA by analogy to support their assertion that a supplier that continues to provide services is entitled to be paid. They point to Concordia (Re), 2017 ONSC 6357 at paras. 48 and 49 to say that, where the CBCA is silent, CCAA structures or processes can and should be incorporated by analogy in dealing with affected parties.

[59] However, the analogy, if apt, must be considered fully, including for example that s. 11.01 of the CCAA does not specify that suppliers must be paid at their contractual rates post CCAA filing; only that they should not be required to supply goods or services without receiving "due payment" for such goods or services going forward. Further, s. 11.4(2) of the CCAA provides that critical suppliers (which the Satellite Providers are) can be required to continue to supply on "any terms or conditions that the court considers appropriate" (e.g. not necessarily in accordance with their strict contractual terms). See Soccer Express Trading Corp. (Re), 2020 BCSC 749, at paras. 62 and 70.

[60] The Net Profit Payments that Xplore has determined it can pay to the Satellite Providers for their continued provision of Satellite services during the short Stay period anticipated while this CBCA Plan is under consideration are consistent with these other CCAA provisions. The CCAA analogy to critical suppliers is more apt in this case than to other cases relied upon by the Satellite Providers that did not involve or consider the critical supplier provisions. See, for example, Quest University Canada (Re), 2020 BCSC 921, at paras. 94 and 101-102 and Allarco Entertainment Inc. (Re), 2009 ABQB 503 (at paras. 46 and 61).

[61] The Satellite Providers argue that there is no precedent for the court exercising its discretion to pay a service provider less than its contractual entitlement during the period of a stay, even under the sections of the CCAA that allow for that. The Applicants argue that a precedent is not needed, but point to Essar Steel Algoma Inc. et al (Re), 2017 ONSC 2585 as a precedent for the court requiring a contractual counterparty to continue performing its contractual obligations under a Cargo Handling Agreement during the stay period, even though it was not being paid.

[62] The court's discretion and authority under s. 192(4) is broad and flexible, as it is under s. 11 of the CCAA. The limits that the courts impose on this discretion are fact driven. For example, the Satellite Providers point to examples of cases where the court declined to exercise its discretion under the Business Corporations Act (British Columbia) ("BCBCA") to grant third party releases in the context of an arrangement under that statute, even though they are sometimes granted under the broad discretion of s. 11 of the CCAA (see iAnthus Capital Holdings, Inc., 2020 BCSC 1442, at paras. 67-70). Notably, the discretion under s. 192(4) of the CBCA is broader than the discretion under the BCBCA.

[63] The fact that an order precisely of this nature (temporarily staying the contractual recourse of a trade creditor said not to be affected by the CBCA Plan and proposed Arrangement, knowing that the Company is not able to pay them their full Contractual Payments) has never been made before does not mean that the court did not have the authority to make the Preliminary Interim Order. There is always a first time for orders to be made in the appropriate circumstances within the framework and spirit of the applicable legislation. See Canadian Red Cross (Re), [1998] O.J. No. 3306, at para. 45.

[64] The Satellite Providers do not assert otherwise, but they maintain that this was not an appropriate case in which to make such an order. I found that it was at the time of the Preliminary Interim Order and remain of that view.

[65] The Satellite Business of Xplore is uniquely situated for the Net Profit Payments that have been provided for. This business line has a discrete revenue stream and expenses that can be identified and allocated based on the customers and associated satellite service provider. The Satellite Providers acknowledge that the Information and other disclosures provided by Xplore confirm that Xplore has done what it said it would do with respect to the Net Profit Payments (revenue minus direct costs minus allocated costs). Further, Xplore has left the door open for continuing dialogue about the calculations to ensure that the Satellite Providers are satisfied that this is, in fact, what they are being paid.

[66] I remain satisfied that I had the jurisdiction to grant the Stay to prevent that the Satellite Providers from precipitously ceasing to provide their critical satellite services to rural Canadians who depend on them. I am not persuaded that the court can or should require Xplore to pay the full Contractual Payments to the Satellite Providers from and after June 3, 2024 (and provide security for those payments) in the immediate short term. According to its unchallenged evidence, Xplore does not have the ability to do so.

[67] That said, Xplore confirmed during the hearing of these motions that if the Satellite Providers are concerned about the continuation of the Stay beyond the Final Approval Hearing (which will take place on September 19, 2024) then notwithstanding the Stay, Xplore will not object or oppose the Satellite Providers giving written notice on or after August 16, 2024 that the termination of the Satellite Agreements will be effective 60 days from the date of such notice, to allow rural customers reasonable time to make alternative arrangements for internet services.

[68] This is a reasonable compromise, and the terms of the Stay contained in the Preliminary Initial Order shall be amended to allow for this. Since these reasons are being released on August 19, 2024, the Satellite Providers shall have the ability to provide this notice on or after August 20, 2024.

Should the Interim Order be Granted?

[69] On an application for approval of the Arrangement under s. 192 of the CBCA, the Applicants must satisfy the Court that (a) the statutory requirements under the CBCA have been fulfilled; (b) the Arrangement is put forward in good faith; and (c) the Arrangement is fair and reasonable.

[70] On an interim motion the court generally limits its analysis to:

- a. the Applicants' compliance with the statutory requirements of the CBCA; and
- b. the Applicants' good faith in putting forward the Arrangement.

See Concordia, at para. 24, citing Re 8440522 Canada Inc., 2013 ONSC 2509, at para. 41 [Mobilicity] and 45133541 Canada Inc., Re, 2009 QCCS 6444, at para. 53.

[71] These are the first two of the five issues that have been raised for the court to determine in deciding whether to grant the requested Interim Order (as outlined above):

- i. Have the Applicants' complied with the statutory requirements of the CBCA?
- ii. Have the Applicants acted in good faith in putting forward the Arrangement?
- iii. Is there no chance that the court will find the Arrangement to be fair and reasonable at the fairness hearing?
- iv. Is the proposed process and voting under the Interim Order appropriate?
- v. Is it appropriate to grant the requested alternative relief with respect to a CCAA Plan?

Have the Applicants Complied with the CBCA Statutory Requirements?

[72] The Satellite Providers appear in parts of their written submissions to concede that the first branch of the test is met, and that the statutory requirements under the CBCA have been satisfied. However, some of the arguments they made suggest that they continue to challenge this. The Satellite Providers are entitled to ask the court to re-examine the statutory requirements since they were not present at the time the Preliminary Interim Order was granted.

[73] The statutory requirements of the CBCA for the approval of an arrangement require the Applicants to establish that:

- a. the Arrangement constitutes an "arrangement" within the meaning of s. 192(1) of the CBCA;
- b. the Applicants are not "insolvent" within the meaning of s. 192(2) of the CBCA;

- c. it is not practicable for the Applicant to effect a fundamental change in the nature of the Arrangement under any other provision of the CBCA; and
- d. the Applicants have given the Director appointed under s. 260 of the CBCA (the “CBCA Director”) notice of this Application.

[74] I remain satisfied that the Applicants have fulfilled the statutory requirements of the CBCA. The reasons for this remain as outlined in the Preliminary Order Reasons (as further elaborated upon in the Applicant's factum on this motion). The only substantive change since the Preliminary Interim Order was granted that is relevant to the satisfaction of the statutory requirements is that there is now a specific Arrangement to be considered.

[75] Having regard to the Arrangement, the statutory requirements are satisfied in the following respects:

- a. The proposed Arrangement falls within the broad definition of an "arrangement" under s. 192. This is because the Arrangement involves, among other things, (a) the exchange of securities of a corporation (the Secured Debt of Xplore) for securities of the corporation (the Takeback Term Loans) and securities of another body corporate (the New Class A Common Shares to be issued by Stonepeak Holdings), (b) an amalgamation of two corporations (Xplore and 16029167 Canada Inc. (“ArrangeCo”)); and (c) the division of the Satellite Business and the Fixed Wireless Business. Canadian courts have previously approved CBCA arrangements involving non-CBCA entities, including where such non-CBCA entities (a) were guarantors of debt obligations being affected under the arrangement; or (b) issued securities in connection with the arrangement. See Concordia; Ayr Wellness et al. CV-23-00709606-00CL, Endorsement of Kimmel J. dated December 19, 2023; RGL Reservoir Management Inc. (Re), 2017 ONSC 7302, at paras. 42 and 43; Essar Steel Canada Inc. (Re), 2014 ONSC 4285, at paras. 30-32.
- b. In terms of the solvency requirement, nothing has changed in respect of the entities that are part of the Arrangement. As noted in the Preliminary Order Reasons, ArrangeCo does not have any liabilities and is solvent. That is sufficient to satisfy the solvency requirement under s. 192(3) of the CBCA for purposes of this Preliminary Interim Order. ResidualCo is an entity to be incorporated or designated by the Xplore Parties. ResidualCo will not be a corporation subject to the CBCA, it will not form part of the Applicants' future business and is not part of the Arrangement. Accordingly, ResidualCo is not subject to the solvency requirement under s. 192(3) of the CBCA. Furthermore, as was noted in the Preliminary Order Reasons (with respect to the potential insolvency of Xplore), Canadian courts have determined that use of the arrangement provisions of the CBCA is not limited to cases where all the corporations involved are solvent. See Concordia, at para. 30, citing Savage v. Amoco Acquisition Co. 1988 ABCA 148, 87 A.R. 321 (C.A.), at para. 5, and paras. 33-35; Re Essar Steel, at paras. 36–39; Mobilicity, at para. 53.

- c. The purpose of the Arrangement is to effect the Transaction, which will involve the numerous steps set out in Article 4 of the CBCA Plan. The exchange of the Secured Debt pursuant to the Transaction, which forms a critical part of the overall Transaction, could not be completed without the consent of 100% of the First Lien Debtholders and 100% of the Second Lien Debtholders outside of a CBCA arrangement. As a result, any alternative structure to that which is contemplated by the Arrangement would increase the risk of non-completion in light of the impracticality of obtaining 100% consent and it is, thus, impracticable for the Applicants to pursue the Arrangement under any other provision of the CBCA.
- d. The CBCA Director was given notice of the Interim Order sought in respect of the Arrangement and did not consider it necessary to appear, according to the July 31, 2024 letter filed.

Are the Applicants Putting Forward the Arrangement in Good Faith?

[76] The Preliminary Order Reasons concluded that the Transaction now contemplated by the Arrangement was in furtherance of the following valid business purposes:

- a. Reducing the Company's outstanding indebtedness and its annual interest costs;
- b. Improving The Company's capital structure; and
- c. Putting the Company on a strong financial footing in order to execute on its business plan moving forward.

An application is considered to have been brought in good faith when there is a valid purpose for the arrangement, such as this: see Concordia, at para. 40.

[77] The Satellite Providers believe that the CBCA Plan and the Arrangement are being used to unfairly prejudice their commercial and contractual rights rather than for the stated business purposes. That is a myopic view of this otherwise complex and multi-faceted Arrangement. Unquestionably, one of the consequences or effects of the Arrangement, if it is approved and if it proceeds, will be to bring an end to the Satellite Agreements prematurely and with limited recourse for the Satellite Providers. But the suggestion that prematurely ending and leaving behind Xplore's obligations under the Satellite Agreements is the purpose, or even one of the primary purposes, of the Arrangement is speculative and ignores the commercial realities and complexities of the circumstances of the Xplore Group.

[78] The uncontested commercial realities of this case are that (a) the Secured Debt exceeds the enterprise value of Xplore by $1 billion or more; (b) there is no value for the unsecured obligations under the Satellite Agreements; (c) the Satellite Agreements are unsustainable and must be addressed consensually or terminated; and (d) Xplore does not have the liquidity to pay the aggregate Contractual Payments to the Satellite Providers.

[79] The Satellite Providers argued that the CBCA structure is being used to avoid the "guardrails" or protections available to creditors under a CCAA restructuring in what is, in reality, an insolvency situation that the CBCA is not intended to be used for. The Applicants provided a detailed schedule appended to their factum of 34 cases involving debt restructurings under CBCA arrangements, including some of a similar magnitude to Xplore. While every case is different, it is clear that CBCA plans and arrangements have been used to restructure the debt of companies in financial distress in appropriate circumstances.

[80] The analysis and conclusions in the Preliminary Order Reasons regarding the Applicants' good faith in putting forward the Arrangement continue to apply.

Is there no Chance that the Court will Find the Arrangement to be Fair and Reasonable?

[81] The fairness and reasonableness of the Arrangement are generally not considered when an Initial Order is sought. The critical question as to whether the proposed Plan of Arrangement is procedurally and substantively "fair and reasonable" is determined at the return of the application, at the fairness hearing. At the interim order stage, the court need only be satisfied that "there is sufficient indication of fairness to warrant the matter proceeding to a vote and fairness hearing". see Manitou Gold Inc. and Alamos Gold Inc., 2023 ONSC 2485, at para. 16.

[82] The Satellite Providers contend that they are being unfairly singled out for different and unfair treatment. They argue that they are the only unsecured creditors whose debts will not be paid and whose contracts will be left behind under the proposed Transaction, as the Arrangement structure contemplates a reverse vesting order ("RVO") with the obligations to them being left in ResidualCo.

[83] The Satellite Providers say that RVOs are the exception rather than the norm in CCAA arrangements and are unprecedented in CBCA arrangements. That is true.

[84] The primary argument advanced at this stage for the court to block the Arrangement and the Plan from proceeding to a vote at the Meeting of Secured Debtholders and to be thereafter considered by the court is that an RVO structure has never been used in a CBCA plan and, they say, it has no chance of being approved in this case because it is manifestly unfair to them, so the court might as well put a stop to this now rather than awaiting the fairness hearing.

[85] The parties presented extensive written and oral arguments on the RVO fairness point. I am not prepared to pre-determine the fairness of the Arrangement at this stage. The arguments made at this hearing, and any others raised, will be considered at the Final Approval Hearing. I am satisfied based on the written and oral submissions made on these motions that the novelty of the RVO structure in the CBCA context does not foreclose the possibility of a finding that the proposed Arrangement is fair and reasonable. The issues are sufficiently nuanced and complex that a full blown fairness hearing is warranted in this case.

[86] The Satellite Providers also argue that the proposed Transaction and Arrangement structure offends the pari passu principle that requires ratable and equal treatment of creditors within the same class when it comes to the distribution of assets of an insolvent debtor. However, there is no proposed or contemplated distribution under the Arrangement. Further, they appear to be operating under the misapprehension that equityholders and the Secured Debtholders are somehow benefitting at the expense of the Satellite Providers. That misapprehension ignores the significant compromises that those other stakeholders are making in order to support the Arrangement that cannot succeed under the continuing burden of uneconomic Satellite Agreements. These arguments do not change my view that there is sufficient indication of fairness with respect to the CBCA Plan and Arrangement to warrant the matter proceeding to a vote and fairness hearing.

[87] To be clear, the appropriateness of the RVO and other terms and conditions of the CBCA Plan and/or the Transaction all remain subject to the court's further review and consideration at the Final Approval Hearing. The Applicants have said that they will satisfy the court that the Arrangement to be implemented by the CBCA Plan is fair and reasonable and that any other terms that they seek the court's approval of in the Final Order (for example, third party releases) are appropriate. All of that is still to be determined.

Who Should be Allowed to Vote on the Arrangement?

[88] The Satellite Providers challenge the voting provisions of the Interim Order because it only proposes to have the class of Secured Debtholders vote on it. They say this is unfair to them. They say that they are securityholders (unsecured creditors) whose legal contractual rights stand to be affected by the Transaction and the Arrangement, so they should be permitted to vote. see BCE Inc. v. 1976 Debentureholders, 2008 SCC 69, at para. 131 [BCE (Re)].

[89] Xplore argues that the legal rights of the Satellite Providers are not being arranged so there is nothing for them to vote on within the framework of the CBCA. A vote is one way for a stakeholder to make its views about something known and taken into consideration.

[90] Voting is a convenient way of ascertaining the views of a large and dispersed class of stakeholders and binding the minority to the majority vote, as the Applicants propose to do in this case in relation to the Secured Debtholders. However, not all plans are voted on. As the Supreme Court of Canada observed in BCE (Re) (at para. 151): "Where there has been no vote, courts may consider whether an intelligent and honest business person, as a member of the class concerned and acting in his or her own interest, might reasonably approve of the plan: Citing Re Alabama, New Orleans, Texas and Pacific Junction Railway Co., [1891] 1 Ch. 213 (C.A.); and Trizec Corp., Re (1994), 1994 CanLII 9001 (AB KB), 21 Alta. L.R. (3d) 435 (Q.B.).

[91] The two Satellite Providers do not need the court to create a special voting class for unsecured creditors in order for them to make their views known regarding the CBCA Plan and the Arrangement. They will be given the opportunity to make their views known to the court by submissions they make at the Final Approval Hearing. They do not need a vote to express their opposition to the Arrangement and the CBCA Plan if that remains their position at the Final Approval Hearing.

[92] In contrast, the voting for the Secured Debtholders serves an entirely different and practical purpose, which is to ensure there is a requisite majority vote in favour of the Arrangement under the CBCA Plan before binding what is otherwise a disparate group of similarly situated creditors whose rights are very clearly being arranged through the various exchanges of securities (described above in the "arrangement" section of this endorsement).

[93] Nor is the outcome of any vote on the CBCA Plan determinative of whether it will be approved in any event. It is one among many fact-specific factors that will be considered at the fairness hearing. See BCE (Re) at paras. 127, 150-154.

[94] I am satisfied that the voting provisions of the Interim Order are appropriate in the circumstances and that they need not be changed to allow the Satellite Providers to vote on the Arrangement. They will have the opportunity to make their views known at the Final Approval Hearing. The Interim Order makes it clear who will have standing to participate.

Should the Interim Order Allow for a Pivot to a CCAA Plan?

[95] The Interim Order, like the Preliminary Interim Order, preserves the ability of the Xplore Entities to pivot to a CCAA proceeding if a transaction cannot be effectuated under the CBCA, although the CBCA is the preferred route at this time.

[96] Counsel for the Applicants advised the court that this type of alternative CCAA provision has been approved in other cases to enable an applicant to pivot to a CCAA proceeding if necessary to complete a recapitalization transaction, giving as examples: Mobilicity, at para. 30 and Concordia, at para. 47; see also Concordia International Corp. (Re), 2018 ONSC 4165 at para. 26.

[97] The Applicants explain that a CCAA pivot would only arise if the CBCA Plan is not approved at the Final Approval Hearing. While implementing the Transaction through a CCAA process is not the preferred path as it would result in greater risk and disruption to the Business and worse outcomes for many stakeholders (including, according to the Applicants, the Satellite Providers), the Applicants believe the relief is nevertheless important to enable them to efficiently implement the Transaction through a CCAA proceeding if that becomes necessary.

[98] In that event, the Applicants want the ability to rely on the vote of the Secured Debtholders for the CBCA Plan for purposes of the same plan that they would put forward under the CCAA. That is a reasonable, efficient, cost effective and proportionate way to proceed, assuming the material terms of the plan are not changed in this pivot to an alternative CCAA plan. It does not make sense to require that same class of securityholders to vote again on the same plan within a short timeframe.

[99] I do not read the proposed Interim Order as pre-determining that, if there is a CCAA pivot, stakeholders (including the Satellite Providers) who did not vote on the CBCA Plan will not be afforded the opportunity to vote on a CCAA Plan. As I read the Interim Order (at paragraph 33), it only deals with the votes cast by the Secured Debtholders in respect of the Arrangement Resolution, deeming them to be votes cast in respect of the Alternative CCAA Plan without requiring the Applicants to conduct a meeting of the Secured Debtholders in such CCAA proceeding for purposes of voting on the Alternative CCAA Plan.

[100] The Satellite Providers were not granted a class vote on the CBCA Plan because it was determined not to be necessary, having regard to the nature of these proceedings under the CBCA and that their views can be considered even if they do not vote (the vote simply being indicative of the views of the voting securityholders and not determinative of the court's approval of the CBCA Plan and the Arrangement).

[101] CCAA voting may entail different considerations for them, starting with whether they would be entitled to vote on a CCAA plan at all. The CCAA has its own provisions dealing with classification of creditors for voting purposes. The Applicants indicated that they do not intend to do a plan for unsecured creditors if they pivot to an Alternative CCAA Plan. Some submissions were made about the weight that the Satellite Providers' votes would carry in any class of unsecured creditors voting on a CCAA Plan, if that were to be prescribed. The court is not addressing the voting rights and mechanics under a CCAA plan at this time and I make no findings or determinations about that now.

Other Terms of the Interim Order

[102] Concerns were raised about paragraph 37 of the draft Interim Order, that allowed for the Applicants to file materials up to one day before the Final Order Hearing. It was agreed that this paragraph would be removed from the initial Order.

[103] The Satellite Providers indicated at the conclusion of the full day hearing on August 1, 2024 that they might have other comments or concerns about the proposed terms of the Interim Order. They suggested that they would provide them in a further round of written submissions, which the court was not able to accommodate. The interested parties were expected to have addressed all comments and concerns about the Initial Order at the hearing of the motion for its approval. Those comments and concerns have been addressed.

Should the Stay be lifted to enable Hughes to issue an Application for a Bankruptcy Order against Xplore?

[104] In November 2023, Xplore entered into the "Intercompany Transfer Transaction" pursuant to which Xplore "transferred certain assets" related to its Fixed Wireless and Fibre Business to Xplore Fibre L.P. ("Xplore Fibre"), a subsidiary of Xplore. The Satellite Providers wish to preserve their ability to challenge this as a preference or transaction at undervalue in the event of bankruptcy, but are concerned that the look back period may expire while these proceedings are ongoing.

[105] Hughes seeks an Order lifting the Stay to permit it to issue the Application for Bankruptcy so it can crystalize the look back date for any potential challenges to this Intercompany Transfer Transaction within a year of when the transaction was concluded.

[106] Xplore is concerned that a premature bankruptcy petition will undermine the "business as usual" premise of the CBCA Arrangement that it is pursuing and will interfere with Xplore's customers and suppliers in the continuing lines of business that will be essential to its future success under the CBCA Plan, if approved.

[107] As a compromise, it was suggested that this request at least be delayed until the Final Approval Hearing and the court's determination regarding the proposed CBCA Plan and Arrangement. That makes good sense and will not prejudice Hughes as long as it can bring this back before the court in advance of the one year anniversary of the Intercompany Transfer Transaction. Accordingly, this aspect of Hughes' motion is adjourned to the fairness hearing on September 19, 2024.

[108] In the meantime, Xplore is encouraged to provide what it can to satisfy Hughes that this was not a preference or transaction at undervalue (as it has said it can do). If Hughes is persuaded, then its motion can be withdrawn. If not, then the interested parties should update the court regarding their positions on this issue at the Final Approval Hearing on September 19, 2024 and further directions may be provided by the court at that time.

Summary of Orders and Directions

[109] The following orders and directions are made:

- a. The Applicants' motion for an Interim Order is granted. The Interim Order was signed on August 16, 2024, in advance of the release of these reasons. The form of order signed removed what was paragraph 37 of the draft, to address the concern raised that it allowed for service of materials by the Applicants for the Final Approval Hearing on one day's notice, which all agreed would not be reasonable given the anticipated opposition to the final approval order.

- b. The Final Approval Hearing is scheduled for a full day on September 19, 2024, before me if my schedule permits. The participating parties shall agree upon a timetable for the pre-hearing steps such that all materials shall have been served, filed and uploaded into Case Center (formerly known as CaseLines) by no later than September 18, 2024 at 12:30 p.m., together with a proposed schedule for the time that each participating party will be allocated at the hearing. If the parties cannot agree on a timetable for these steps a case conference may be arranged before me through the Commercial List scheduling office.
- c. The terms of the Stay in the Preliminary Interim Order shall be revised to allow for the termination of the Satellite Agreements (and related contracts) by the Satellite Providers on or after August 20, 2024, upon 60 days written notice to the Company.
- d. Hughes' request for the Stay to be lifted so it can issue the Application for Bankruptcy is adjourned to September 19, 2024 to be spoken to at that time.

Date: August 19, 2024
